To examine this concept further, the space agency has asked the space industry to submit feasibility studies.

The manned spacecraft centre asked what change would have to be made to increase the LEM's stay on the moon to at least 14 days. It is now designed to stay 24 hours.

Another point raised by the space agency was to determine the capability of the EM to stay 14 days on the lunar surface and to be supplied by LEM truck flights from earth.

While the U.S. has not said what it will do after landing men on the moon—hopefully before 1970—space scientists are preparing many alternatives so they won't be in a rut in the program when the time comes.

New Weather Satellite Will Be Launched

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A new weather-forecast satellite patterned after top-secret spacespies that photograph the earth day and night is scheduled for launching Aug. 16 or later from Vanderberg air force base.

Called Nimbus, the 830-pound orbiting weather station is designed to photograph clouds from an altitude of 575 miles and relay pictures which will help forecasters spot storm formations in advance.

Like air force Samos reconnaissance and Midas missile-spotting satellites the U.S. Space Agency's Nimbus will be aimed southward into an orbit around the earth's poles which will permit it to photograph every square mile of the revolving earth at least once every 24 hours.

The satellite's useful life is estimated as at least six months.

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson announced Saturday the air force will proceed immediately with a program to orbit 24 satellites for a world-wide satellite communications system.

This system will provide reliable, world - wide circuits, highly resistant to jamming and physical attack, for carrying essential military communications in times of crisis, the president told a press conference.

In Washington, the pentagon said the first launching of the military communication satellite is scheduled for early April, 1966.

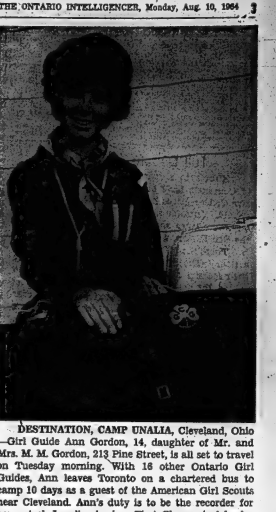
Socred Leader Refers to Split In Party

WINNIPEG (CP) — National Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson says there is an apparent and growing trend in Canada toward small-c conservative thinking.

The greatest strength of conservatism in Canada today lies "with the growing numbers of politically uncommitted," he said.

"In fact, one can find small-c conservatives in the most unexpected places today, as the drift to the left in both major parties causes distress and confusions."

The Social Credit leader made the comments Saturday at a banquet ending a two-day convention of the National Young Social Credit Association.



He said this "returning to better ways . . . will prove that conservatism is still a living force and that all essential reforms will be brought about through the realism of the conservative approach."

Some "frustrated individuals" have attached themselves to today's conservatism, he said.

"This is where we have had trouble in our own movement," Mr. Thompson said in an apparent reference to the split of the Creditistes in Quebec.

BUSMEN STRIKE

GLASGOW (AP) — Scottish bus crews went on strike Saturday claiming too many nonwhite emmigrants are being recruited to the transport system. The trouble started in the nationalized Central Scottish Motor Traction Company. Other nationalized companies have not joined the strike.

DESTINATION, CAMP UNALIA, Cleveland, Ohio —Girl Guide Ann Gordon, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Gordon, 213 Pine Street, is all set to travel on Tuesday morning. Full Debate Advisable

Efforts to speed proceedings in the House of Commons have broken down. The Progressive Conservatives have refused to agree to limit debate. Consofar as this refusal refers to debate on whether we should fly a new flag, or retain the Red Ensign, we think this refusal is justified.

There are many people who feel deeply about a flag. Those who do cannot understand why their feelings are not shared by all. Those who regard the design of a flag as a matter of little consequence cannot understand why others consider it important. All those who consider the flag important will want to express their views, to do their best to obtain endorsation for the design they prefer. Even some of those who consider the flag question unimportant will desire to support one or other design, because they know others regard the choice as important.

It is highly desirable the flag issue be settled once and for all. This is an objective which we shall not achieve. But we shall come closest to achieving it, and we shall be spared as much as can be hoped of post-election debate, if in making the choice a full hearing is given all viewpoints.

Therefore, let the Commons debate the flag at length, as long as even one member has anything new to contribute to the discussion.

That way it is just possible some of the debaters will shut up after the vote and turn their attention to other problems. There are lots of them.

Let's Get Rid of Cyprus

The other day the United Nations' effort to keep the peace in Cyprus cost the first Canadian life.

There will be many who feel this is one life too many.

This is not to suggest the aim of the UN emergency force is not admirable and one for which sacrifice is justified. We do contend, though, that the conditions under which this force is compelled to operate are absurd.

It is not receiving co-operation from either side in the civil war on this Mediterranean island.

One point seems to be frequently overlooked. This is that Cyprus is a member of the British Commonwealth. Membership ought to entail responsibilities, as well as some privileges. The government of Cyprus is showing no signs of any sense of responsibility.

Is it not about time that we read the island out of the Commonwealth as a condemned nuisance? If Makarios and his followers have their way, the island will withdraw in any event. About the only satisfaction we are likely to get is what little can be gained from kicking it out before it quits. Then, if the Canadians and the British decide they want to pack up and go home, nobody will be able to suggest we are deserting a Commonwealth member in time of need.

Justice-Southern Style

The south of the United States is supposedly known for its hospitality. One thing that the south will not be remembered for is impartial justice.

The bodies of three civil rights workers were recovered this past week from a shallow grave near a dam site in Philadelphia, Mississippi. The FBI denies reports it knows who is responsible for the triple slaying. But if the killers or parties are arrested, from there the southern branch of justice will take over, "The only thing wrong with shooting a coon is getting caught."

Last year Medgar Evers, a southern integrationist, was slain just outside his home. His suspected killer was brought to trial after being arrested like a king in full. It may be remembered that he was even allowed to have his private collection of guns with him in his cell! After two lengthy trials the accused man was given freedom because the southern jury could not reach a verdict. In other words they just couldn't convict a white man for killing a "coon."

Presuming there is a trial, another sham masquerading under the guise of justice will take place in the south. Once again it will appal all civilized men, and end there.

Justice . . . southern style!

There's some connection between detective stories and navigation. You have got clues, and very often the most indefinite clues. You get inaccurate information at times, or dubious or very scanty information. And you get from this you have got to deduce the right results. It's very like a sort of detective story.—Francis Chichester, international yachtsman.

Diefenbaker and Pearson Both Reds to Birchite

From "American Option" a magazine edited by Robert Welch, leader of the John Birch Society.

Canada's plight is in many national incident out of the death in Cairo of a Canadian diplomat and international intelligence-man Herbert Norman.

Mr. Pearson, it is true, was personally involved in the case. had had in his possession since 1940 information supplied by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police showing that Norman was a Communist agent and had there after appointed him to the diplomatic post in Washington, Tokyo, New Zealand and elsewhere in which Norman served as a Soviet spy, and had been instrumental in procuring Norman's appointment as the representative of Canadian Intelligence (at General MacArthur's headquarters).

But Pearson's impudent claim that dear Herbert was just an "idealist," who, although as innocent as Mary's little lamb, had committed espionage because his nerves were upset by the investigations conducted by wicked witch-hunters in the United States Senate and his even more impudent attempt to use that preposterous claim to whip up hatred of the United States in Canada, were efforts the would not have been used if it were not even moderately good judgment.

An acute observer, who once had personal experience in such matters, raises the interesting question whether Mr. Pearson is still subject to the discipline to which he is known to have been subject in 1957.

In Canada, as in the United States, more and more patriotic and loyal citizens are becoming aware of the nature and purposes of the International Communist Conspiracy, and are exerting themselves to defend the Christian civilization and human decency.

It is difficult to estimate the actual strength of the truly conservative movement in Canada today, but it appears to be proportionally less than that of the similar movement in the United States. It has, however, alarmed the enemies of mankind, as was shown by their recent attempts to halt the recent tour of Canada by Mr. Eric Butler, the eminent Australian authority on Communism, and Mr. Patrick Walsh, a former undercover agent of the Canadian Mounted Police and Canada's most experienced investigator of subversion and espionage.

It is against this background that we must view the very recent immediate danger to Canada represented by the "separatist" movement in Quebec, and the very little news reaches the United States.

Communist agents, with, of course, their usual train of "liberal intellectuals" and their ally wits, have had an extraordinary success in persuading the French population of Quebec that they are "discriminated against" because they speak French.

That, of course, is almost entirely fiction. As a matter of fact, the federal government of Canada is officially oilingual, and French, although the language of a minority, is on a par with English.

In Quebec the French majority, of course, has complete control, and although all the provinces have complained of encroachments by the federal government, the province enjoys a very high degree of self-government (e.g. has the power to take over privately owned power companies, if it wishes, and is entirely subject to either the wishes of the federal government or the decisions of Canada's Supreme Court).

Propaganda in Quebec, therefore, has been entirely directed largely on (1) supposed "discrimination" against French-speaking communities in other provinces, (2) the claim that if there were no "discrimination," French speaking citizens of Quebec would obtain more lucrative jobs throughout Canada, and (3) the argument that, in the interest of "equal rights," every body in all of Canada must be compelled to speak French.

This propaganda is re-enforced by a powerful drive to create that await Quebec when she becomes an independent nation, with her own diplomatic corps and consulates all over the world, and, of course, her own seat in the United Nations. It is that she can appeal to that vaudeville shows of protest against "British imperialism."

That demand, of course, is only reasonable. If 10,000 socialist savages just down from the trees can have a seat in the United Nations, it is obvious that if, as "liberals" claim, all featherless bipeds are equal, the civilized people of Quebec are entitled to at least 52 seats in that august assembly.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

August 30th, 1934

Following recommendation from city council, engineers from Federal and Provincial departments are in the city today conducting a thorough inspection of the Belleville harbor and the lower reaches of the Moira River with the view of making a recommendation for alleviation of the very unsanitary condition of river and harbor water.

Grass fires on the Coleman farm and the local waterfront dumping ground, kept the Belleville Fire Department busy this past few days. Fires in these areas are an all-too-frequent headache of members of the Fire Department.

Surface treatment of macadam pavement in the city is progressing satisfactorily. The west side of the city now completed workmen are at present engaged on the east side of the river.

Mangold and womanpower will be largely employed in this district for the harvesting and canning of tomatoes. It was revealed a 40 percent increase in acreage is Ontario, plus excellent prospects for a good yield will combine to indicate a labor.

Mr Harry McKay and Mr Shirley Lennox left today for Tanlan's Island, where they will spend their vacation.

The propaganda for Separatism has been amazingly effective.

At the end of 1962, the Quebec Republican Party was formed for the express purpose of making Quebec an independent "Republic" and thus splitting Canada into a "Republican" Latin, consisting of two parts separated by the U.S. as a foreign territory of a foreign nation.

In May of 1963, the newly organized FLQ, modelled after the Communist FLN of Algeria, began to agitate for "liberation" by throwing or planting bombs in Montreal and other cities.

These terrorists appear to have been increasingly harassed under control by the police, but Communist plans probably call for renewed and increasing violence late this year.

When Is Gift Really Bribe?

Advertising Age

In the new Journal of Marketing Research, published quarterly by the American Marketing Assn., A. B. Blankenship, director of market research for Center Products Inc., raises a number of questions about ethics in marketing your best wares.

There are a number of serious and important problems of ethics in this special field which need airing, and Mr. Blankenship and others are performing a useful service here. But in his discussion of "entertaining and gifting the potential buyer," he pushes the case with a fair degree to all business dealing, and not merely to the buying and selling of research services.

"A potential or actual research buyer is a boor if he refuses a supplier's luncheon invitation," Mr. Blankenship says. There is nothing wrong with this The difficulty comes in defining the acceptable amount and level of such entertainment. It is not unethical for the buyer to let the seller pick up his luncheon tab every business day for a year. But where is the dividing line?

"There is nothing wrong with supplier occasionally taking a buyer to a night club, or to a play. But to do this weekly might be going too far.

"The White House sets the top acceptable value of a gift at $15, apparently as a reasonable gift level. It would be nice if we could set up entertainment levels and gift standards. The line is crossed when the entertainment or gift becomes important enough to the recipient so that he no longer can make a perfectly free and unbiased decision with regard to the gift giver's wares or services.

Arthritis in Back May Be Relieved by Using Cushion

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has arthritis in the lumbar region (lower back and hip) and has been told to keep active and take aspirin if the pain becomes severe.

For six years he worked and the pain left him almost completely. A year ago he accepted a supervisor's job which included driving a pick-up truck all day.

Within two months his trouble returned and worsened by the day the week's work ended his back because it hurts too much. I enclose the required 10 cents in coin and an unstamped, self-addressed envelope for a copy of your leaflet, "Don't Quit Because of Arthritis." — Mrs. C. B. C.

I wonde. If his problem is entirely arthritis or only partly. You'll notice in the leaflet I say warning that diagnosis is extremely important. Not every pain is arthritis. Furthermore, there are different kinds of arthritis.

Your mention of pain in his back and hip raises the question at least. Could sciatica be involved? Could some of the pain be in the muscles, perhaps? Other than the aspirin. Not every is some pain preventing him from moving? As a result of immobility stiffness? Then the arthritis will increase and in turn this will be more painful when he moves the joints.

Read the leaflet carefully, or rather, see that your husband does.

A pad, cushion or backrest, when he sits in the truck may give him more support for the back and change his posture enough to make him much more comfortable.

Dear Dr. Molner: In your booklet, "How to Control Emphysema," you say that "exercises have been developed to strengthen respiratory breathing) muscles." What are these exercises? — Mrs. E. L.

A very simple, but effective one is to breathe deeply, raising your arms and your chest, drawing your shoulders back. Then lower your arms and throw the shoulders forward as you exhale. (This is also a good exercise for people who don't have emphysema.)

Dear Dr. Molner: My threeyear-old son started stuttering six months ago. The condition is getting worse. Is this hereditary? What advice can you offer?

— Mrs. I. H.

No, it's not hereditary. It is generally the result of too much tension, trying too hard, being worried about speech, etc.

First, don't put pressure on some professional advice on how to handle the problem. If there is continual stuttering in the family, or if the child is being pushed too hard to learn to do this, that and the other thing—suspect emotional tension.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a very embarrassing problem. Every morning when I get up I have to split up yellow stuff, and my breath is terrible. I'm embarrassed to go to a doctor about it, so could you suggest a mouth wash or medicine for me? — Miss J. A. C.

This "yellow stuff" doesn't originate in the mouth, so a wash won't help. It could be infection in the nasal passages; it could

Strictly Personal

Words We Use Often Mean Various Things

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the reasons we do not communicate, when we think we are, is that the very words we use mean different things to different persons. Even the simplest words have many facets: they denote, and they connote.

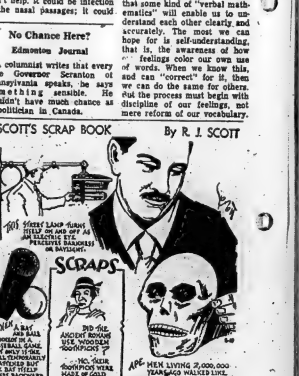
"Rain" denotes precipitation, water falling out of the sky. "Rain" is all it means to a meteorologist: it is an accurate, objective, precise, mathematical word or a natural phenomenon.

But, as human beings, "rain" means very different things to us — it denotes water from the sky but it connotes a wide variety of feelings and attitudes. It is loaded with meanings far beyond the dictionary sense.

To the farmer, rain means release from the drought, and is an economic blessing. To the vacationer, it means several days in the cottage with screaming and restless children. To the man who works, it is a disaster. To the lifeguard, a vacation from drummered brats. To the gift shop owner, good and profitable day, crowded with customers who would otherwise be loosting or bathing.

Nobody reacts to the word in its connotative sense alone. Even within the family, the father, the mother, and the children view the rain from quite different angles. They are not really talking about the same thing when they discuss "a rainy day."

Now then, if so much is true for a concept as tangible and unequivocal as rain, how much truer is it for those concepts that are much more intimate, complex, personal and subjective?



What about "love" and "loyalty" and "freedom" and "discipline" and "peace" and "fairness" and "responsibility and the hundreds of other abstract words we use in conversations with those most dear and dearest to us? If we can't (and we often can't) break through the meaning barrier at home, how much can we engage in a meaningful dialog with the world at large?

This is why I make the serious suggestion that our problems cannot largely of words; our conflicts are not of words. But the only way we can begin to solve them is by understanding what the words connote to us and what they connote to those we are speaking to. The more emotional we really different, the more we talk the less we communicate; this is why we cannot debate with a Russian about "democracy."

Semanticists are wrong in thinking that problems can be stripped away from words, and that some kind of "verbal mathematics" will enable us to understand each other clearly and accurately. The most we can hope for is self-understanding, that is, the awareness of how our feelings color our own use of words. When we know this, and can "correct" for it, then we can do the same for others. But the process must begin with discipline of our feelings, not mere reform of our vocabulary.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP)—Small gains in light dealings were dominant on the stock market today.

Few issues made wide swings as investors were reluctant to make a move without definite leadership from the New York market which marked time in the morning part of the session.

In the industrial list here, Walker Gooderham and Distillers Seagram were ahead ¼ each to 36¼ and 63¼. International Nickel and Cominco, both huge mining companies which are used in compiling the industrial index, gained ⅛ to ¼ respectively to 84¼ and 37.

There was a long list of losers. Included were Toronto-Dominion Bank and Consolidated Paper which gave up ⅛ each to 68½ and 42½.

Speculative mining issues were quiet and easier. Raglan, a company with a nickel-copper property in the Ungava district of Quebec, was down 18 cents to $2.67 while Canadian Dyno, which holds 2,800,000 Raglan shares, lost seven cents to $1.83. Timmins-area issues were led lower by Windfall which eased six cents to 72 cents. Genex was down 2½ cents to 46 with National Exploration and Gleun off two cents each to 24½ and 13 cents.

Western oils were the only rising section. Home A eased ⅛ to 17⅜ and Dome ⅛ to 18⅜. Canadian Delhi lost 25 cents to $8.50.

On index, industrials were up .01 to 158.53, golds .38 to 133.80, base metals .20 to 65.13 and the Exchange index .05 to 147.86.

Three Fires Started Says Metro Police

TORONTO (CP) — Police said here Sunday three separate fires started in different parts of the mansion home of Murray Atkins of suburban North York caused a blaze Saturday that destroyed the home and its contents.

Firemen estimated the loss at $500,000.

Police also reported $55,700 in jewels and $1,100 in cash missing from Mr. Atkin's safe. A window to the servants' quarters was found smashed and a door opened when firemen arrived at the home.

The safe, left locked by Mr. Atkin, a construction company owner, before he and his family left for a trip to Paterson, N.J., was found open by detectives after the fire.

FOR TWENTY-FIVE MINUTES Saturday city firemen, Provincial Police and LaSalle ambulance attendants worked to free Kenneth Gardner of Belleville from the wreckage of this truck on Wallbridge Road. Gardner is now in satisfactory condition in Belleville General Hospital.

Man Trapped In Truck Wreck Is Doing Well

Trapped for twenty five minutes Saturday morning in the wreckage of a truck, Kenneth Gardner of Belleville was in satisfactory condition this morning at Belleville General Hospital. Fates rumors circulated through Belleville Saturday evening and Sunday that he died after the accident on the Wallbridge Road, just south of Highway 401.

Gardner had been driving north in the loaded gravel truck when it left the road, rolled on its side, struck a hydro pole and spun around. The cab of the truck was completely crushed and Gardner himself was trapped under the dashboard. Reports indicate the truck was moving slowly when the accident occurred.

City firemen and LaSalle ambulance attendants had to cut away the truck's gas pedal to free one of Gardner's feet, and cut his shoe off to free the other foot. The truck's dashboard was also sawn in half during the rescue.

While they worked Provincial Police constables controlled traffic and restrained spectators. Other constables and firemen stood by with fire extinguishers in case of fire. A ruptured gasoline tank in the truck dripped gas inside and outside the truck, and most of the rescue workers were wet with gas.

Gardner's right leg and knee were broken, and his scalp was badly cut. The truck, owned by Albert Titterson of Belleville, is considered a total loss.

Pats Celebrate 50th Anniversary

SOEST, West Germany (Reuters) — The pipes and drums and military band of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, beat retreat Saturday night at the opening of the regiment's 50th anniversary celebrations.

Princess, Patricia, 78, who as daughter of the Duke of Connaught, then governor general of Canada, gave her name to the regiment when it was raised in the opening days of the First World War, watched the ceremony on Fort MacLeod parade square here.

With the princess, who is colonel-in-chief of the regiment, was Major-General Cameron B. Ware.

The actual anniversary of the raising of the regiment Aug. 10, 1914, was marked today by a trooping the color ceremony. Princess Patricia presented to the battalion a replica of the wreath of laurel which she presented to the original colors.

The Patricias was the last regiment to be privately raised in the Commonwealth. Its formation was proposed by Brig. A. Hamilton Gault, who later became its colonel, and the regiment was recruited within nine days.

It moved into the trenches by Christmas eve, 1914.

Canada Takes Active Part in Cyprus Crisis

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin said Sunday night he hopes "positive steps" will be taken to arrange a permanent peace on the troubled Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

Mr. Martin said "no stone must be left unturned" to enable the United Nations force on the island to do what it can to ease the situation.

Mr. Martin made a statement following appeals he made to Greece, Turkey and other countries to impress upon the conflicting parties the urgency of avoiding all-out war.

Prime Minister Pearson earlier in the day spoke with President Johnson at the president's Texas ranch and appealed to Archbishop Makarios.

Canada strove throughout Saturdy and Sunday to bring other representative countries, not previously been directly involved, to strong condemnation of the Greek and Turkish rivalries in Cyprus.

Working by telephone from his apartment here, Mr Martin conferred with the many-sided interests in the crisis and went beyond the confines of the dispute to elicit support from the uncommitted nations.

He spoke with the ambassadors here, or with the foreign ministries in their own countries, of: Britain, the United States, Greece, Turkey and Cyprus, and Mexico and the United Arab Republic.

Late Sunday Mr. Martin issued a statement saying Canada has been engaged "in every possible endeavor" to bring about a cease-fire in Cyprus.

attacks on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The U.S. charged that the PT boats unlawfully attacked the destroyers in international waters.

North Viet Nam assailed the UN's role in the dispute

"HAS NO RIGHT"

"The UN Security Council has no right to examine" the clash, a statement by the North Vietnamese foreign ministry declared. It said the council "must respect the 1954 Geneva agreements, and the role of the two co-chairmen and the responsibility of the participating countries."

This was a reference to the agreements that ended the long French Indochina war and divided Viet Nam into North and South. Co - chairmen of the agreement are the Soviet Union and Britain.

Meanwhile, North Viet Nam's army command charged that two U.S. reconnaissance planes flew over Red soil Sunday. It protested to the International Control Commission which is responsible for supervising the Geneva agreement. Canada, Poland and India are the three powers comprising the commission.

U.S. sources say North Vietnamese troops have apparently not moved toward the border area.

Communist guerrillas Sunday kidnapped a 45 man mission official 230 miles northeast of Saigon. Officials said Joseph W. Granger, 39, was stopped by the Viet Cong while riding in a jeep with a Filipino technician and a Vietnamese sugar plantation director.

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Estimates ranged up to $500,000 Monday in a jewel robbery at the fashionable estate here of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel P. Hill of New York City. Hill is heir to western mining interests. His wife is the former Elinor Dorrance, a principal stockholder in the Campbell Soup Company.

Composing Room Of Alger Press Is Closed Down

OSHAWA (CP) — An official of the International Typographical Union (C.C.) said Sunday Alger Press Limited, which told its 13 composing room employees in a letter Friday that it was shutting down the department, did so in retaliation for union demands for a closed shop.

The company told its employees it was no longer economically feasible to continue operation of the department. The workers were promised assistance and co-operation in obtaining other employment.

Adrian Lugtenburg, chapel chairman of ITU Local 969, said most of his members feel the closing of the composing room was in retaliation for attempts to get a closed shop.

He said a conciliation board hearing on the demand for a closed shop was scheduled for next Saturday.

Ann Landers

Late Father and Mother Should Be Side by Side

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are probably receiving more comments than you care to read on the question of whether a man should be buried beside his second wife or buried beside the mother of his five children — the woman to whom he had been married for 40 years.

This is what happened in our family. I hope you will print it in toto. To use your expression, it may clear some sinuses around the country.

ANN LANDERS

Our beloved mother passed away in 1954. Dad married again in 1960. His second wife started in with that double plot business immediately after they were married. In exchange for peace and quiet, Dad agreed to a double plot for himself and his second wife.

Dad passed away last year. His wife remarried four months ago.

Yesterday I heard from a reliable source that the woman is now nagging her new husband for a double plot.

So this is the way it stands: Our beloved mother is lying alone in her half of a double plot and Dad is alone in his half of a double plot. They are on opposite sides of the cemetery. For us children it's the longest walk in the world. What do you have to say about this?—UNHAPPY CHILDREN.

DEAR CHILDREN: Plenty, but I won't. Move your father so that he and your mother are side by side.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please, please help me out by telling my square parents that going steady does not mean I am getting married next month.

All it means is that I happen to like Gregg better than any other boy right now. It also means I am sure of a date and I don't have to sit around waiting for the telephone to ring.

There has been so much talk about how wrong it is to go steady that my folks have been pestering the life out of me to bust up with Gregg. Please be a friend to all teen-agers and say something in favor of going steady for a change. Thank you.—GINGER.

DEAR GINGER: Sorry, but I can't say anything in favor of going steady because I believe going steady is a foolish and hazardous practice.

Your opening sentence is interesting because I have heard from dozens of other teen-agers who didn't plan on getting married "next month" either — but that's exactly what happened.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our six-year-old son is allergic to cats. When he is within six feet of a cat his eyes itch and his face swells up with hives. It took us four months and $400 to find out what the trouble was.

My husband's mother lives in a small apartment on the other side of town. For years we've been going there for Sunday supper. Three weeks ago my mother-in-law's sister was widowed. She moved in with my mother-in-law and brought her two cats.

We told mother we cannot come to her place with the boy unless the cats are removed. She says the cats are like children to Aunt Bessie and that she would not insult her by asking her to leave the apartment and take the cats with her when we come to visit.

I resent mother putting Aunt Bessie's cats before our son's health. Will you offer a suggested course of action. — CAT-ASTROPHE.

DEAR CAT-ASTROPHE: Tell your mother-in-law you will be happy to have her at YOUR place for Sunday supper but you can't go there on account of the cats. Tell her, too, Aunt Bessie is welcome, but the cats are not.

Gooseberries In Summer Pie

by Mary Moore

Sentimentality should be excused on some occasions and this is one. I can remember my father describing gooseberries as "little globes of jade" and less poetically as "grossegers". I do not believe these memories are what give gooseberry pie its irresistible heart flavor. I think it stands alone. Remember though, that the gooseberries should still be jade green. If they have ripened and become a murky pink the seeds are too large and dark and berries are mushy.

To expose their beauty to the eyes of the beholders I made a

LATTICE GOOSEBERRY PIE:

Pastry: (for deep 9" pie plate), 2¼ cups stirred but not sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup shortening, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons cold water.

Cut shortening and butter into flour and salt until size of peas. Drizzle in water slowly, tossing with a fork until flour is just dampened. Press into ball. Cut in half and roll out half on floured board to fit deep 9" pie plate and line pie plate with it. Chill it and remainder of dough while you prepare Gooseberry Filling: 1 qt. gooseberries, 1 (or 1¼ cups — see note below) sugar, 2 tablespoons minute tapioca, ¼ teaspoon salt, sprinkling of nutmeg, 1 tablespoon butter.

Top and tail the gooseberries. This is a boring job so I watched the Saturday afternoon baseball game on TV. I "topped and tailed" for 3 whole innings. My prepared gooseberries measured 4½ cups. Mix together sugar, tapioca and salt. Remove 1-3 cup of the dry mixture and sprinkle evenly over bottom of pastry-lined pie plate. Add 3 cups gooseberries. Sprinkle with half of remaining sugar mixture. Add remaining gooseberries and sprinkle with remaining sugar mixture. Sprinkle with nutmeg, dot with butter.

Roll out remaining half of pastry and cut into ½" strips and apply in lattice pattern to top of pie, pressing ends of strips to edge of undercrust. Brush lattice with mixture of 1 tablespoon sugar and 1 tablespoon milk. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. fo 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. and bake 40 minutes longer. This may seem like a long baking time but it was what my pie required before it began to bubble and brown.

Quinte Ladies' Annual Field Day Won by Cataraqui's C. Cartwright

A near-record field of 120 women golfers from district clubs ran into a weather hazard at the Bay of Quinte Country Club's annual women's field day Saturday.

High winds swept the course reducing any possibility of tracturing records.

At that, club games captain Phyl Dyble said, the scores were highly creditable although some golfers play was affected by the fickle wind.

Well-known Kingston golfer "Cookie" Cartwright of the Cataraqui Golf Club won the championship and the Mead-Johnson Trophy with a low gross score of 78.

Low net for the field was won by Fran. Wright of the Whitevale Golf club who carded a 64.

Quinte's Betty Ingram still having "woods troubles" won First Flight low gross with an 83. Pat Culhane of Picton was second with an 84 and Helen Smith, Colborne, third with 85 strokes behind.

Low net for the flight went to Marge Thompson, Cobourg with a 67. Next was Kay Coatsup, Napanee with 73, and Phyl Dyble, Quinte with a 77.

Low putts award 31, won by Caroline Mitchell, Cataraqui with Joy Wonnacott, Quinte winning the hidden hole prize.

Low gross winners in the second flight were Benny Ross, Whitevale, 96; Betty Cuthbertson, ROAC, 97 and Doris Hogle, Quinte, 97. Low nets awards were won by Helen Smith, Quinte, 74; Betty Walmsley, Quinte, 76 and Gerry Carscallen, Quinte, 77.

Audrey Brown, CAF won low putts with a 30, Mary Bigelow, Fort Hope taking home the hidden hole award.

Third flight low gross winners were Ellen Brain, RCAF, 103; Betty Waterman, Whitevale, 103 and Lil Mcfarlane, Quinte, 104. Low net awards went to Gwen Stockdale, RCAF 74; Betty Gregory, Quinte, 76 and Pat Taylor, Picton, 77.

Lib Gladney, Quinte took the low putts prize with 33 while Mrs. D. B. Kenshole, Cobourg, won the hidden hole award.

May Conway, Whitby, 108; Edna Henderson, Quinte, 112 and Laura Bell, Quinte, 114 were fourth flight low gross winners. Low net tops were Esther Finkleistig, Whitevale, 78; Gail Fayette, Quinte, 79 and Gay Corcoran, Cobourg 79.

Gayle Carpenter, Whitevale won the closest to pin award with the consolation prize going to Evelyn Campbell of Quinte. Beth Dunfield, Trenton won low putts with 37 while Lorne Benwilbur, Quinte took the hidden hole prize.

According to club officials the Field Day was one of the best held by the women's division despite the "breeze" hazard of the course.

Game captain Phyllis Dyble did an excellent job arranging and handling the event with the assistance of Ann Acton and Helen Binning.

The committee presented the prizes and awards to the various winners at the post-tournament dinner.

Women in Business Take Little Care of Their Health

MONTREAL (CP) — Women in business take less care of their health than men, says Mrs. Flore Jutras of Montreal, Canadian president of the Femmes Chefs d'Entreprise, a world association of women executives.

Conclusions of the organization's international congress on the Diseases of the Executive which she attended in Munich show that men are becoming increasingly aware of the need for an annual medical check-up.

Although this is largely because of the concern of their wives, many businessmen are not following suit, Mrs. Jutras says.

"Many women executives live alone as the result of being single, widowed or separated and have no one to urge them into having a check-up."

It was even more important for a woman with a double role as breadwinner and housewife.

"She may have children to bring up and no husband to fall back on if ill."

Also brought to light at the conference was the fact that men are likely to suffer from heart attacks from overwork and stress while women suffer from nervous disorders.

President of her own chartered insurance company and former medical social worker with the department of veteran's affairs, Mrs. Jutras said executives need annual health checkups "just as their insurance company books need a yearly audit."

Mrs. Jutras, a widow with three grown children and eight grandchildren who took over her father's business after his death in 1944, received the silver medal of the City of Paris for her work as founding president of the Canadian Femmes Chefs d'Entreprise.

Reader Wants to Become A Marriage Counsellor

DEAR DORIS — Since you have had extensive experience in the field of social work in Canada, I decided to write to you.

I have just completed one year of Social Welfare studies and have become very interested in this type of work. Marriage counselling has been of interest to me, but would a job exist as this be possible with only a B.A. in Social Welfare? — FOND OF PEOPLE.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR FOND — Dear me no. You'd be pawing the air! In an arts course you may study human behavior but you don't learn treatment techniques for use with people whose emotions are upset. That takes post graduate study, in a school of social work: two years of it, if you want a master's degree.

Even then it's a long road up to becoming a skilled marriage counsellor, though a fascinating climb.

• • • •

DEAR DORIS — I'm 18 and have been going steady with a guy of 25 for over 10 months. He asked me to marry him the second time I was with him and still does, but I don't know what to do.

For the past four months we've been Involved in sex. We've almost broken up about 25 times but each time he breaks down and bawls and says he'll commit suicide if I leave him. So I go back again. Maybe if I knew he wouldn't I'd break up. What should I do? I can't go on with sex. — BREAKING HEART.

• • • •

DEAR BREAKING HEART—A threat to commit suicide is no proof of love, except self love. (And the people who promise to, don't do it). As your respective ages, your outlook and his are hardly mutual. Break it off.

• • • •

DEAR DORIS — Two years ago I met and fell in love with a married man. His wife has never been a faithful to him, and he has now been able to get the evidence he needs for divorce.

The hearing will be in the fall, and then there will be a six-month wait until the final decree. I have no doubts about marrying this man as he has proved himself a fine and understanding person.

He has asked me to accept an engagement ring at Christmas. Now my question is this. Is it proper to become engaged before the waiting period is over or does it matter? — HOPEFUL

• • • •

DEAR HOPEFUL — Not proper. He is still married until the decree is absolute. He gets a "decree nisi" first, the "nisi" being Latin for "unless"; "unless" something comes to light which might modify the judgment, such as collusion, or uncircumspect behavior, like offering a ring to another woman!

WEDDING

Rolfe — Edwards

Rev. J. W. Flatt officiated at the wedding ceremony in Eastminster United Church on July 25th, 1964, when Mrs. Reah Edwards, Bellerille, was united in marriage to Mr. H. Ernest Rolfe of Kingston, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hutt attended the bridal couple.

A reception was held in the banquet room of the Belmont Restaurant immediately following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolfe have taken up residence at 162 Kingscourt Street, Kingston, Ont.

Family Feels Story True Cow and All

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Laura Secord's descendants don't share the skepticism of some Yanks about the heroine's famous trek through enemy lines in the War of 1812.

"The family feels the story is true, cow and all," says Mrs. Clayton L. Jackson of Edmonton, Laura Secord's great-granddaughter.

Legend is that the heroine walked 20 miles through American-held territory in the Niagara Valley to warn the British of a planned surprise attack. It is said she took a cow along so that the Americans wouldn't be suspicious.

Some question has been raised about how far she walked and historians record that the British had already been warned of the attack.

But Mrs. Jackson says the family is satisfied that the details, as it knows them, are accurate, largely because her father, the late A. M. Carthew of Hamilton, had often talked to Laura Secord and had gathered historic information about her.

The Jacksons celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Aug. 4 during a visit to a niece, Mrs. Kenneth Braithwaite of this town northwest of Toronto.

Mrs. Jackson — formerly Laura Secord Carthew — remarked in an interview that her eldest daughter is Laura Secord Giles, wife of Dr. C. B. Giles of Rosetown, Sask., and their eldest daughter is another Laura Secord.

"We are expecting our first great - grandchild and we are hoping for another Laura Secord."

Fired Batons Used in Act By Sisters

CALGARY (CP) — A baton twirler who has performed across Canada and the United States is a "butterfingers" offstage, she says.

"I can't hold a cup of coffee without spilling it," says Barbara Lounsbury.

"And she burns holes in everything," adds Joan Lounsbury, her sister and partner.

Flaming batons are twirled in a pool of fire as part of the act developed by the sisters from St. Catharines, Ont. New mink eyelashes were singed once during a performance of the fire act, Barbara says.

The girls, who have appeared at the Calgary Stampede the last four years, agree, however, that slippery floors are more hazardous than the fire act.

"We've taken some pretty hard falls but we've never been badly hurt."

TRAVEL FAR

Travel is one of the dividends of the girls' skill. They have performed in Europe, the Far East, Middle East and even the Arctic.

In fact it was travel that prompted the Lounsbury sisters to turn professional. They already have bookings for 1965 but insist that "next year is our last for sure."

To keep in shape the girls ski whenever possible during the winter. And their diets are watched carefully.

"We can't put on a pound," says Joan. "Our costumes are skin tight."

The beaded and spangled costumes are made in Japan, with all the beadwork done by hand. "If we had to make them it would take two months just for one costume," says Barbara.

MAIL CALL

Question: When going through the receiving line at a wedding reception, is it customary for everyone to kiss the bride and groom? My husband and I went to the wedding of the daughter of a business acquaintance. Since all the men made a point of kissing the bride, my husband did also, although he barely knew the girl. She bore up smilingly under the deluge of kisses, but her veil was almost knocked off several times and her cheeks were smeared from multi-colored lipsticks of over-jyed female friends and relatives. I don't think it's in good taste to kiss any member of the wedding party unless guests are especially close kin. Don't you agree? — Mrs. C. H., Baltimore, Md.

Answer: Being kissed and hear-hugged by everyone who goes through the receiving line can be rather hard on the bride and groom. A close relative or an especially good friend might give the newly married couple an affectionate greeting, but it's not customary — and, I agree, it's not in good taste — for guests who are only friends of the family to claim this privilege. Correctly, guests congratulate the groom, wish the bride happiness and say admiring things about the ceremony and wedding costumes to both mothers. A gracious handshake usually accompanies the greetings.

'Chick-Sant' Doing Well After a Year

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — South Dakota's "Mongolian chick-sant," a cross between a pheasant and a chicken, now is out a year and a half old.

The bird and its condition were made known in response to a recent story from Placerville, Calif., about a rancher developing a chicken - pheasant hybrid. But a state game, fish and parks department employee said South Dakota can lay first claim to such a bird.

Last summer, Victor Jeppe, a Roswell, S.D., farmer, found a stranded pheasant chick and put it with a "broody" hen chicken.

When the pheasant matured, Jeppe mated it with a hen chicken, and of 41 eggs laid, one hatched.

The resulting "chick - sant," after a year and a half, combines some characteristics of both species. It is colored white with brown markings. Its head and feet are pheasant like, but its chicken's broad tail is long like a pheasants.

and the last and longest on the dialogue between the church and the world.

In the prologue the Pope offered to help in the solution of international disputes, without specifically saying what form such aid might take.

He said that in the field of world peace he had "it specifically incumbent upon us . . . to entertain a more assiduous and efficacious concern."

SETS LIMITS

"This will be, of course, within the limits of our ministry and so utterly divorced from purely temporal interests and strictly political forms, but it will be eager to make its contribution to educating mankind . . . and in fostering rational and civilized agreements for peaceful relations between nations."

In the chapter on awareness, Pope Paul said "It is a duty today for the church to deepen its awareness that she must have of herself, of the treasure of truth of which she is heir and custodian and of her mission in the world."

The church must "reflect on herself . . . in terms of its scientific, technical, social, philosophical and currents in the world.

The chapter on reform noted that it was up to the ecumenical council to "make changes in canon law, to render the church "spotless and youthful."

Pope Paul said the term reform should not be used only "in the sense of change, but of a stronger determination to preserve the characteristic features which Christ has impressed on the church."

But he added: "Let us not deceive ourselves into thinking that the edifice of the church . . . should be reduced to its early and primordial state as if they alone were true and good."

It was in the third chapter, on dialogue, that the Pope discussed communism, atheism, Christian charity and the possibility of a joint defence of common ideals with non-Christians.

RESPECTS OTHER VIEWS

He spoke of the Jews, the Moslems and "the followers of the great Afro - Asiatic religions." and added:

"We . . . recognize and respect their moral and spiritual values of the various non-Christian religions, and we desire to join with them in promoting and defending common ideals of religious liberty, human brotherhood, good culture, social welfare and civil order.

"For our part, we are ready to enter into discussion on these common ideals, and will not fail to take the initiative where our offer of discussion in genuine, mutual respect would be well received."

He did not say what form the discussion might take, but he emphasized that "honesty compels" him to say Christianity is the "one true religion."

Referring to atheism, the Pope said the denial of God is "utterly erroneous" and "we shall therefore resist with all our strength the assaults of this denial. . ."

The Pope's words on Christian unity did not represent a change of Roman Catholic attitude. He has always maintained that basic church doctrine cannot be compromised.

Discussing the papacy, Paul said some non-Catholic Christians felt church reunion would be possible "if it were not for the primacy of the Pope."

He added: "We beg the separated brethren to consider the inconsistency of this position.

Without the Pope the Catholic Church would no longer be Catholic. . . . Without the supreme, efficacious and decisive pastoral office of Peter the unity of the church of Christ would utterly collapse."

lation to the government's desire for a rapid decision.

The Progressive Conservative opposition has resisted pressure for a quick decision, including a proposal for a time limit on the resumed debate. Opposition sources have indicated a considerable number of Conservative MPs plan to speak and further amendments may be proposed.

In the first round of the flag debate, 26 Conservatives, 16 Liberals, four New Democrats, four Social Credit and three Creditiste members have spoken. Unofficial tallies of MPs' intentions indicate that the government's design can win a healthy majority on a vote in the House.

The Commons first must dispose of the opposition plebiscite amendment. It is possible that will come early this week and be followed by one or more additional amendments.

The New Democrats have discussed plans to amend the government's design to substitute a single red maple leaf for the three leaves proposed in the government resolution.

A number of Conservative MPs who strongly favor the Canadian Red Ensign as the national flag have indicated they hope to keep the flag debate going for many weeks. Although each speaker is limited to 30 minutes, he may speak every time a new amendment is placed before the Commons.

Once the Commons winds up the debate on the maple leaf flag, it is scheduled to turn to the second part of the government's flag proposal—a resolution designating the Union Jack as the mark of Canada's Commonwealth connection.

Opinion among the five parties in the Commons appears to be much more evenly divided on this issue.

Prime Minister Pearson said last week that the Commons is also evenly divided on this issue. David appears to be much more

Catholicism and Contemporary Problems

Vatican Faces Showdown On Modern Social Issues

By GERALD MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP)—In an age of change and crisis, the Roman Catholic Church is moving toward a showdown on some of the major issues of modern times.

The stirrings within the church encompass such questions as its position on artificial birth control, the population explosion, relations with communism, race relations and its role in an age of space exploration, atomic weapons and emerging nations.

What directions the church will take will become clearer during month with the resumption Sept. 14 of the Vatican ecumenical council—the third session.

Before the council will be a draft schema or, "the church in the modern world."

Such change has already taken place.

"It can be said that the Catholic Church is retreating all that in the past was categorically prohibited," said one church source recently.

Church historians say that not since the first century has the Catholic Church been so aware of its public image. This has accounted, at least in part, for some of the church's external changes.

For example, the change in dress apparel by many orders, from long robes and cloth headpieces to simple black dresses and kerchiefs.

CHANGES WITHIN

But there have been significant changes within the church. In recent years there has been less emphasis on proclamation of dogma for Catholics and more emphasis on explaining and clarifying the things that all Christians have in common.

The church has also been trying to exert stronger moral influence on the problems of the day: Racism, anti-semitism and other social disorders. At the same time, some older manifestations of Catholicism have been declining in importance. The index of forbidden books has become a static list and there is a talk of scrapping it altogether.

Catholic social agencies have mushroomed and are turning their attention more from the masses of Western Europe to the indigent of Latin America and Africa. Under the pressure of bishops serving those areas, there is an effort to change the image of the church from a rich and mysterious presence into a strong and sympathetic agency for aid to the needy.

Much of the new movement in the church today is due directly to the late Pope John XXIII. Much of the outcome will rest with Pope Paul VI.

Within the church are conservatives who feel that traditionalism is strength, that sudden change could mean disruption, doubts and danger to the faith.

Other prelates—largely pastoral bishops who live and work away from Rome—say that if the church is to survive in an age of scepticism, doubt and materialistic philosophy, it must change.

The great crucible for the bubbling renewal is the ecumenical council started by Pope John. It got under way in October, 1962. Pope John gave tendencies toward change great impetus. The council provided the platform.

Pope John said he wanted to open the windows of the church and let in fresh air. Pope Paul has pledged himself to carry on John's program.

It is true that after two sessions the bulk of the council's work still lies ahead. But the changes already undertaken have had profound meaning for the modernization movement.

The council's liturgy reform makes it possible for the first time for Roman Catholics to celebrate most of the mass and sacraments in their own language instead of Latin. The new approved use of modern styles in ecclesiastical art and the use of native instruments such as tom-toms in place of pipe organs in primitive countries.

The broken years of official Vatican silence to say en that the church is studying the controversial issue of birth control in the light of new developments

DIVIDE ON ISSUE

Some theologians say that pills that control ovulation periods and thus help make the rhythm method more exact may not constitute contraception. Others theologians maintain that they do.

In announcing the study June 23, Pope Paul reaffirmed the traditional church ban on artificial birth control.

A knowledgeable Vatican source said:

"The new attitude of the Catholic Church with regard to birth control demonstrates the tendency of the church of today to give a realistic direction to its mission. The church is doing this to make itself more acceptable and understandable in a world that technical progress has rendered more intolerant, more proud and less inclined to accept sufferings it considers pointless."

It is in the same spirit that other recent changes have come about.

The church, for example, has passed the traditional ban against cremation, no longer condemning it for Catholics in areas where local custom or shortage of cemetery space make burial difficult.

Saturday masses now are permitted for worshippers who for special reason cannot attend mass on Sunday.

The next council session will bring up other provocative issues—declarations on religious liberty and the Catholic attitude toward Jews and other non-Christians.

These proposed declarations already have stirred deep controversy between the progressive and conservative elements in the council.

Pope Paul, who has the ultimate power to decide the issues, so far has taken few major, clear-cut administrative actions to speed up the process of modernization. But he has left no doubt that his outlook is modern.

In his first year as Pope he has told the Roman Curia—the mainly conservative central administration—that it must reform. He made a pilgrimage to the Holy Land and there had first ecumenical meeting between the heads of the Catholic and Orthodox churches in five centuries.

Although he has taken a harder stand against communism than Pope John, he is maintaining contacts with iron curtain countries in an effort to establish better relations.

There are those who say that for all this, Pope Paul is moving more slowly than John. Pope John was a man in a hurry. He was 77 when he became Pope. He often said he hadn't much time.

But Pope Paul was 65 when elected. He has every reason to expect more time to bring about what he desires for the church.

doubts as to his ambition to make politics his professional career.

In a 1960 cabinet shuffle, Mr. Balcer was given the heavy portfolio of minister of transport, apparently on a sink-or-swim basis. A quiet, unassuming man by nature, he blossomed in the department given up by the more dynamic George Hees, who went from transport to the trade and commerce department.

In the 1963 general election Mr. Balcer was the senior Quebec Conservative MP to retain his seat. After pressures involving some party bitterness he was officially designated this year as Mr. Diefenbaker's Quebec lieutenant.

His was then asked whether he thought a French - Canadian should or could ever be leader of the Conservative party in Canada, nationally, and replied affirmatively. His candidacy for the leadership against Mr. Diefenbaker retires was assumed.

SUPPORTED REBELS

In the recent protracted debate on interim spending authority, Quebec Conservatives generally grew restive and, it was reported, were prepared to disassociate themselves with the party tactic of extending debate. Mr. Balcer was regarded largely as sympathetic with these sentiments, but not their instigator.

The party source has described Mr. Balcer as above all loyal to the party. He is a politician of considerable personal charm, and an effective speaker in both French or English audiences. In Quebec nationalism he is counted as definitely a moderate.

But the question now confronting him is whether, after 15 years in the Commons, he should give up his political prospects and make a career in business for himself or make a career of politics.

49 Traffic Mishaps in 67 Fatalities

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 67 persons died in accidents across Canada during the weekend. Traffic accid ts accounted for 30 of the deaths.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday local times shows that the other 37 deaths included 12 drownings, one death by fire and four deaths in other unclassified accidents.

Quebec led the provinces in the number of fatalities with a total of 26 d aths. Eighteen occurred on the highways, seven in drowning accidents, and one boy died after he was bitten by a dog.

In Ontario, where there were 19 death, fourteen were in traffic mishaps. There were two drownings, a youth and a girl were asphyxiated in a parked car, and a man was killed when his single-seater gyro-copter crashed in a small airport near Toronto.

Alberta had six traffic fatalities and the five deaths reported in British Columbia included three in traffic and two drownings.

Nova Scotia had four deaths, including three on the roads and one in a farm, and New Brunswick had three traffic fatalities.

Manitoba had two traffic deaths and Saskatchewan had two—one on the roads and one drowning.

Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island reported no fatal accidents.

The survey does not include known suicides, slayings, natural or industrial deaths.

Orioles Drop Yankees To 3rd Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles wound up a key four - game series Sunday in what was the first of several August sets in which the Yankees usually chop down their American League pennant rivals.

When Sunday's doubleheader ended, however, Baltimore was flying high while New York was running at a tired third in the stretch race.

The Orioles' 4-2 victory kept them two games in front of the Yankees. Chicago White Sox are second, 1½ games out.

The Yanks needed a clutch pitching effort by Al Downing in their 2-1 first game decision to avert a Baltimore series sweep. The Orioles won 2-0 Friday night and 6-5 Saturday.

The defending champions are in their worst position at this stage of the race since 1959, when Chicago took the flag.

MEET CHICAGO

The Yankees have four games with Chicago coming up while the Orioles play host to Boston Red Sox with a good opportunity to increase their lead.

The White Sox divided a doubleheader with the Red Sox, losing 6-3 and winning 4-1 Detroit Tigers ran their longest winning streak of the campaign to seven with a 4-2, 5-2 sweep of Kansas City Athletics but Cleveland Indians' winning string ended at five when Minnesota Twins won 3-1 after a 7-0 first-game loss.

Washington Senators rallied for five runs in the ninth inning and California Angels 6-5 in the league's only single game.

In Saturday games, the White Sox lost 9-2 to the Red Sox, the Indians hammered the Twins 16-0, Kansas City lost 4-3 to Detroit in 13 innings and the Angels blanked the Senators 2-0.

Boog Powell's 29th home run, a two-run wallop, provided the Orioles' second - game margin Sunday. He also doubled in the second inning and scored the first run on Sam Bowens' single. Luis Aparicio singled with two out in the third, stole his 43rd base and scored on Powell's single by Norm Siebern before Powell unloaded.

The New York runs came on homers by John Blanchard and Roger Maris off Robin Roberts, who worked the first six innings.

Gary Peters fired a six-hitter, boosting his record to 14-6 as the White Sox' second-game victory and Pete Ward drove in two runs with a single and sacrifice fly.

Ed Bressoud's solo homer and Dick Stuart's two - run single backed Bill Monboquette in the opener as Boston beat the White Sox at Comiskey Park for the first time in eight tries.

Norm Cash homered in each game for the Tigers, Al Kaline and Bill Freehan connected in the nightcap.

Cleveland's Sony Siebert and two firemen shut out Minnesota in the opener and Dick Stowers hit a three-run homer. All seven Indians' runs were unearned. Jim Kaat climbed a hole-ridden for the Twins in the nightcap and Frank Kostro drove in all the runs with a single and two-run homer.

Washington's Claude Osteen and Phil Ortega combined on a four-hitter.

Dominion Rifle Shoot

Widow, Flyer Steal Show

By PETER McNAUGHTON

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP) — An RCAF flying instructor and a widow from Calgary shared the spotlight Saturday, as the week-long Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches concluded at the army's rifle range near Ottawa.

Flt. Lt. Bob Pitcairn, a native of Charlottetown serving at Moose Jaw, won the Governor General's Match, while Mrs. Jean McKeever, who supports her four children by working as a bookkeeper, became the first woman ever to lead the Bisley aggregate — the total which decides the makeup of Canada's team at the Commonwealth champions hips at Bisley, England, next summer.

The 28 - year - old Pitcairn scored 288 of a possible 300 points in the three-stage Governor-General's Match, final stage of which was fired Saturday against a stiff wind that whipped across the mile - wide range periodically throughout the week, keeping scores low.

Doug Worman of Calgary was second in the event, considered the blue ribbon of the week with 282 points.

It was Pitcairn's second triumph in the Governor General's in three years. In 1963 he became the youngest winner in the history of the match and the first representative of the RCAF to turn the trick.

Mrs. McKeever, who is 34, is now wolo ma shm deey ecrvof only the second woman ever to earn a position on a Canadian Bisley team, and the first in more than 10 years.

She scored 827 of a possible 880 points in the nine events which make up the aggregate, three more than Pitcairn who was second.

Beats Gayle Hitchens One-Up

Australian Wins Women's Open

CALGARY (CP)—Mary Masters, a former Australian who now lives in Ottawa, conquered a three-hole deficit and strength-sapping heat Saturday to capture the 1964 Canadian women's golf championship one-up over Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver.

Miss Masters, 29, runk a three-foot putt on the 36th hole for her victory over 21-year-old Miss Hitchens, who won the women's open title at Winnipeg in 1962.

The new champion generated immense power off the tee, particularly after a slow start in the morning round. She was troubled by a balky putter all day on the testing par-74 Calgary Country Club course.

A gallery that swelled to more than 1,200 watched the final under clear skies and humid 80-degree temperatures.

To reach the final, Miss Masters tripped Mary Homeniuk of Winnipeg, Harriet Glanville of Long Beach, Calif., Ruth Wilson of Vancouver and Gail Harvey of Toronto.

Miss Masters is a former holder of Australian, New Zealand and South African golf championships.

Miss Hitchens qualified for the final round with victories over Joanne Goulet of Regina, Carolyn McClure of Saskatoon, Sue Hilton of London, Ont., and defending champion Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto.

Miss Masters came from behind and evened the match on the first hole of the afternoon round and led for the first time after the 24th hole when Miss Hitchens hit a trap.

The margin stretched to two holes when Miss Hitchens was wide with a four-foot putt on the 26th, but was rebounded with a line par on the 27th after Miss Masters found a fairway trap with her second shot, and the match was tied again on the 30th.

The rivals scrambled through three even holes in succession before Miss Masters won the 34th.

Miss Hitchens squared the match for the last time with a three-foot putt for a par on the 35th, but the end came when she pushed her second shot far to the right on the 36th hole. She made a valiant attempt to make her par four on a 20-foot putt that missed the hole by an inch. Miss Masters connected with her three-footer to wrap it up.

Arnprior Man Wins Barefoot Ski Contest

John Robertson of Arnprior won the Barefoot Water Ski competition at Kirk Kove on Sunday.

It was Robertson's second win in Kirk Kove. He won the board rodeo there on July 12.

He was presented with the Kirk Kove Trophy by Miss Margo MacKenzie, Miss Kirk Kove of 1964 and second runner-up to the Miss Land O' Lakes contest.

He won the contest in the elapsed time of 26 seconds over John Ross Hudgins of Tweed with 18 seconds. Harold Townsend, Colling Bay was third with 13 seconds.

Six contestants from Tweed, Arnprior, Colling Bay, Sound Falls, Havelock and Kirk Kove took part.

Stampeders Meet Lions Tonight

VANCOUVER (CP) — In that new Calgary pass defense ready for British Columbia Lions.

"I hope so," said coach Bobby Dobbs Sunday night. "I certainly hope so."

The five-man umbrella, a new system for the pass - plagued Stampeders defence, gave up for a major test tonight as Calgary and B.C. meet for the first time in the young Western Football Conference season.

Bad coverage against the Edmonton Eskimos quarterback Joe Kapp was the big reason for Stamps' three straight losses to the West Coast team last year.

In the new alignment the club is sacrificing one linebacker to give a fifth man more support to pass protection, creating a 4-3-5 defensive set.

Stampeders with a 1-1 record, can nudge into a tie with Saskatchewan Roughriders by winning tonight. Lions fought themselves to a 10-10 draw in their only previous outing.

Halfback Joe Woods and defensive tackle Pat Holmes were left in Calgary with ankle injuries. Holmes is doubtful healthy, including Willie Fleming, who has nursed an ankle sprain back to health.

Wins First Sedan Race

ORONO, Ont. (CP) — Paul Cook of Oshawa, driving a Comstock racing team's Ford Falcon Sprint, topped 21 other drivers to capture the Saturday to win the first endurance race for sedans ever held in Canada.

The Falcon Sprint, largest car in the race, covered the 221 miles in two hours, 59 minutes, 20 seconds for an average speed of 74 miles per hour.

Al Pease of Toronto, driving a Mini-Cooper, took second over-all. Pease was 13.4 seconds behind Cooke.

Werner Gumbrecht of Toronto, in a Volvo, took third over - all, 19.2 seconds behind Pease. Gumbrecht only had to go to the full distance without refuelling.

Walt MacKay of Richmond Hill, Ont., in a Lotus Formula Junior won the 25-lap William Grant Memorial Trophy race. Ian McCauley in an Astor was second and John Cordis of North Bay in an Elva Courier was third.

Australian Tennis Stars

'Played Like Bush Leaguers'

MONTREAL (CP)—Even the world's best tennis players sometimes perform like bush leaguers, and they're the first to admit it.

"I say that and it was windy but that's no excuse," Roy Emerson said Sunday after winning the men's singles crown at the Canadian Open tennis championships in a lacklustre match against fellow Australian Fred Stolle.

"I think it would be better to say that both of us played terribly and let it go at that," he added.

Stolle also was self-critical but he was a double-best winner taking the third and seventh heats with Georgina winning the second and sixth heats.

Top price of the night was paid by Smithfield Lass who won the opening mile heat from Irene Wann and Irish Lane Lassie and sending her backers home with $25.50.

The quibella in the eighth race paid eight and seven for $19.50 in the fifth heat. The daily double in the third race was good for $12.00.

Little Joe Grattan finishing second to Double Star in the fourth heat came back to win in the eighth in front of Red Gun and Atomic Hanover.

Bernard Hunt's Hals Penne won the featured fifth heat dash beating out Direct Dillard and Sunday May Gratton but the latter took the mile dash over Penne and Lassie Hanover in 2.14 4-5 the best time of the night.

Betty Chief finished in the place spot in both the second and sixth heats behind Georgina. The winner in the first was Baltimore, winning opener of doubleheader 2-1 with four-hit pitching and stout stick work as Baltimore, winning opener of doubleheader 2-1 with four-hitting Jerry Adair with a two-run single by Boog Powell.

Amazing Larks Clobber Tiger-Cats

Score Was 33-5

HAMILTON (CP) — The tempestuous Tabbies from Hamilton had their claws clipped Saturday night, much to the chagrin of their supporters and the amazement of Montreal Alouettes' followers in the Eastern Football Conference.

The Tiger-Cats were humiliated 33-5 before an estimated 25,000 hometown fans and the convincing fashion in which the Als drubbed the defending Grey Cup champions probably sent many football experts back to rehashing their 1966 forecasts.

The game was the first for both clubs this season and the win moved the Alouettes into first place in the four-team EFC, an unfamiliar position they share with Toronto Argonauts.

The Als completed the rout by beating the Ticats at their own game — a smarting defence sparked by Billy Ray Locklin, ex - Ticat Bob Minihane and Chuck Walton who were consistently in the Hamilton backfield snuffing out Ticat attacks before they got started.

Quarterback Kerwin Cole led Hamilton defenders a merry chase all—night, scoring two touchdowns on keeper plays of three and four yards and contributing two more majors on long pass-and-run plays.

WENT 81 YARDS

He teamed with Marv Luster for an 81-yard scoring play and hit George Dixon with a 5-yard pass that set the halfback up on a 49-yard touchdown jaunt.

Fullback Dave Hoppmann also got into the passing picture, hitting end Al Irwin with a touchdown strike.

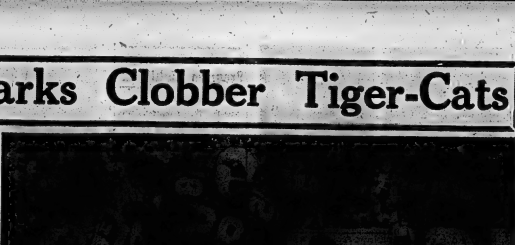
Gino Bertolli converted three Ticats miscues for a

Hamilton's scoring came on a 36-yard field goal by Don Sutherin and a 44-yard single by Joe Zuger in the second quarter and another 44-yard kick by Zuger late in the game.

Montreal led 13-0 at the end of the first quarter, 26-4 at half time and 33-4 going into the final quarter.

Hamilton lost more than just the game. Fullback Willie Rogers suffered a pinched nerve in the ground attack, dislocated an elbow as he attempted to stop Reynolds late in the game. Reynolds had just intercepted his second pass off Bernie Faloney's offerings.

It was one of four passes intercepted by Montreal's deep backs. Clary Eashley and Billy Wayte were the other Montreal-ers who added to Faloney's frustrations.



Faloney's passing was good for 158 yards as he connected on 10 of 23 attempts, including three to Hal Patterson for 83 yards.

Cole completed five of eight attempts for 158 yards while George Dork, who alternated at quarterback, completed six of eight for 41 yards. Hoppmann was successful on one of his two attempts.

Cole also moved the ball 33 yards in four carries.

Montreal's defensive club jumped on two of Hamilton's three fumbles. The only department in which Hamilton did manage to show superiority was in the number of first downs— 18 to Montreal's 16.

But in the offensive yardage, the Als collected 326 along the ground and in the air while the Ticats were hard - pressed to amass 219.

Homer, Double Two Singles, Steals Twice

Willie Mays Stages Fantastic Hit Spree

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Last Wednesday, Willie Mays fought off a desperate cold to go to bat both for manager Alvin Dark and the San Francisco Giants.

Ever since he's been pounding out a batting tattoo.

Saturday a screaming triple gave the Giants a 1-0 victory over Cincinnati Reds and Sunday he lashed out with four hits as the Giants whipped the Reds 7-2.

Not since Mays when he was hitting above the .400 mark has the $100,000-a-year outfielder put on such an explosive one-man show as he did Sunday, slamming his 32nd homer, a double and two singles, driving in three runs, scoring two and stealing two bases.

Mays was not scheduled to play against the Mets Wednesday, but with Dark's job reportedly threatened, Mays asked to be inserted in the lineup.

In his last four games, he's hit three homers, driven in six runs and collected eight hits in 17 at-bats.

Mays' latest efforts kept the Giants 2½ games behind the National League-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who whipped New York Mets 6-0 behind Jim Bunning's five-hit pitching and a two-run homer by former Met Frank Thomas.

In other games, Jim Pagliaroni's two-run homer gave Pittsburgh a 2-0 victory over Chicago Cubs; Denny Lemaster pitched a four-hitter as Milwaukee defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2 and Ray Sadecki posted his 13th victory in 14 decisions as Houston Colts whipped Cardinals' 8-2 triumph over Houston Colts.

PHILLIES SWAMP METS

In other games Saturday, the Phillies blasted the Mets 12-5 while the Pirates won 5-2 over the Cubs, Houston beat St. Louis 4-3 and Los Angeles edged Milwaukee 3-4.

Despite Mays' one-man show, the Giants still needed some brilliant relief work by Billy Pierce who came on in the fourth and allowed only two hits over the final 5 1-3 innings.

Things also continued to break right for the Phillies as Thomas hit a two-run homer in the fifth and rookie Alex Johnson hit his first homer in the eighth, a two-run, pinch-hit shot.

Pagliaroni's homer and the combined four-hit pitching of Don Schwall and Al McBean got the job done for the Pirates. Schwall allowed only three hits before leaving in the ninth.

Lemaster breezed along after the Braves jumped on Don Drysdale for four runs in the fourth inning. The key hit in the uprising was a two-run double by Joe Torre, who later scored on an error by Nate Oliver.

Sadecki checked the Colts on seven hits while the Cardinals hit 15, including three each by Dick Groat and Tom McCarver. The Cardinals clinched it with three unearned runs in he fourth after an error by Walt Bond opened the gates.

'Chi-Chi' Never Had So Much

CHICAGO (AP) — Chi Chi Rodriguez, the long - driving, 125-pound Puerto Rican, has an answer for everything.

After winning top prize of $11,000 in the Western Open, he cracked:

"When I was a kid fertilizing sugar cane, I never thought I could have this much in my whole life.

"I remember when first started playing on the golf tour, I went around in Pete Cooper's car. When we stopped for gas, I would pretend I was asleep in the back seat. When the check came in a restaurant, I would sneak away to the man's room.

"Pete did a lot for me. He changed my grip and it changed my whole golf game.

"Also, I have tremendous respect for Ed Dudley. He hired me as assistant pro at Dorado Beach (in Puerto Rico).

"With some of my golf winnings, I am going to start an Ed Dudley Memorial Caddie Scholarship Foundation in Puerto Rico."

Minor Baseball Results

The Lion's Club won the West Hill tyke championship on Saturday morning with a decisive 11-8 victory over the CNR Firemen. As a result of their win, the Lions Club now advance into the City finals.

Rick McTaggart pitched the win. He gave up 5 hits, struck out 13 and issued 11 free passes. Gary Edwards took the loss.

Danny Lupenette was the loser. He gave up 2 hits but walked 17 to make the win an easy one for the Lions. He struck out 6. John Hellam was the catcher.

Gary Edwards led the Lion's Club hits. Terry Ray and John Noble each had a pair of hits for the Firemen while Peter Ackerman also hit safely.

Tykes Defeat Kingston 12-0 In Opener

Moe Hunter's Belleville Fee Wee Marchels All-Stars walloped the Kingston Fee Wee All-Stars 12-0 in the first game of the Ontario Baseball Association first-round playoffs at the Parkdale diamond on Sunday afternoon.

The second game will be played in Kingston on Wednesday evening at 6.00 p.m. with the third game if necessary back here in Belleville, probably on Saturday or Sunday.

Sunday's contest, played before a good crowd, proved to be no contest as the Belleville boys batted and hustled from the first inning. They jumped into a first-inning 5-0 lead and never looked back. They added one in the second, four more in the fourth and two in the third with two in the sixth.

In the meantime, Belleville pitcher, Jim Wood was handcuffing the, usually hard-hitting Kingston batters. He gave up only three hits and his mates backed him up with near perfect fielding. He did not allow a base runner until two were out in the fourth. He struck out nine and gave up only one walk. Ron Jury was his receiver.

Jim MacInnora and Don Higgins shared the pitching chore for Kingston. They gave up eight hits — four of which were for extra bases.

Paul Hall led the Belleville batters with a home run and single. Craig Adams had a home-lun and a single while Jim Blatchford banged out a triple and Ron Jury doubled. Terry Meaghan, Brian Higgins and Darryl Demers also hit safely.

Mike Hutchinson, Don Higgins and Bob Harvey collected the Kingston hits.

Foxboro Defeats Cannifton

In the first game of the South Hastings League finals Foxboro whipped Cannifton 8 to 3 yesterday afternoon at Cannifton.

Butch Clapp opposed with the loss for Cannifton, with Don Dafoe relieving him in the 8th. Between them they allowed 14 hits, seven walks and whiffed five. Len Harvey caught.

Harry Little led the Foxboro attack with a homer and a double, while Keith Dickey and Basil Tweed each had a double and single each. Keith Young with three safeties and Howard Skelly had two. With one baggers were Brian Skinner, Gerry Mann and Len Reynolds.

Cannifton hitters were Butch Clapp with a double and single, Ron Orch with three singles and Len Harvey with a double. Ken Forsyth, Don Forsyth each had a single.

Will Pick Successor To Frick

CHICAGO (AP)—The baseball brass will begin the long process of picking a commissioner to succeed Ford Frick when the baseball owners meet today and Tuesday for their annual summer meetings.

The executive council, including Frick, the two league presidents and one owner from each league, is due to set up the procedure to be followed in screening candidates. Frick, 69, has notified the owners he will retire at the end of his term, Sept. 30, 1965.

There is little possibility a new commissioner will be named at this time. Each league president will name a committee to discuss the matter, with orders to report back to the December meeting.

Among those mentioned in speculation about the job are Joe Cronin, president of the American League, Republican Senator Kenneth Keating of New York, and Judge Robert Cannon of Milwaukee.

Warren Giles, president of the National League and a leading candidate when Frick was elected in 1951, is 66 and too old to start a seven-year term.

Paul Newman Takes Role At Low Pay as Gesture of Loyalty to Actors Studio

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Newman, who can earn up to $1,000,000 in a single movie, got a $7,50-a-week raise on Broadway the other day.

"It brought my take - home pay to $103.50," said Paul, celebrating over a can of beer in his dressing room.

He and his wife, Joanne Woodward, are appearing in a limited engagement in a new comedy by James Costigan, Baby Want a Kiss.

The play was produced by the Actors Studio Theatre, and Newman and Miss Woodward took their roles as a gesture of loyalty to the Actors Studio and the part it played in furthering their careers.

"We were fortunate we could take six months out of our lives to do this," said Paul.

The handsome, curly-haired actor, who spent three years riding U.S. Navy torpedo planes as a radioman in the Second World War, seems to have taken the advice of Clark Gable as a symbol of masculine virility to millions of feminine film-goers.

And Paul has found that the price of being a Broadway matinee idol is that on matinee days the throng of fans waiting at the stage entrance keeps him a virtual prisoner in the theatre until after the evening performance. He doesn't like mob scenes, or being gawked.

CREATIVE EXPERIENCE

Opening his second can of beer, his first refresher between shows, Newman remarked:

"An actor feeds to the satisfaction that he has given people a creative experience.

"But he doesn't get any pleasure out of the type of fan who comes up to him and says: 'take off your sun glasses—I want to see your blue eyes.' I tell them I can't—that I left my blue ones home at home."

Paul, who is built as trimly as a college quarterback, feels that the public unconsciously tends to think his screen roles reflect his own personality.

"Many got the idea I'm humorless, just because I play such bitter hard-driving physical characters. But I'm no Rock of Gibraltar.

"To me life is full of terrors. Life is terrifying to anyone who has a conscience.

"There are so many things that can literally scare the pants off you. Such moments that require you to stick your neck out. An actor is always committing himself every time he steps on the stage or before a camera—he's always beginning anew.

"But the only way to live is to try to overcome your own fears, by doing what you're afraid of, anything that frightens you ought to challenge you.

"I suppose what I hate most is non-action, or passivity. I swing by the moment. I like to feel I am part of the times.

"The biggest mistake most people make is trying to go through life without making any enemies. A person who has no enemies has no character."

AT THE BELLE — Barbara Rush, Dean Martin, Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby, Sammy Davis and Edward G. Robinson, are co-starred in a wacky Technicolor-Panavision musical movie "Robin and the 7 Hoods", opening today, Monday, for one solid week, at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Leafs Win One Out Of Three

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Syracuse Chiefs and Jacksonville Suns continued their battle for the International League lead over the weekend splitting a pair of single games by shutout scores.

The Chiefs leaped into the lead Saturday on a 3-0 shutout fashioned by the 10-strike out pitching of Fyfe Bailey. They dropped two percentage points of the pace set by the Chiefs Sunday, losing a 1-0 one-hitter to Syracuse righthander Bruce Brubaker.

Third - place Buffalo Bisons moved to within 3½ games of first place with a 4-3, 4-2 sweep of a Sunday doubleheader with Richmond Virginians. The same teams played to a 7-1 tie Saturday night in a game that was called because of rain after 10 innings.

Toronto Maple Leafs, in fifth place, gained a game on the fourth place Rochester Red Wings over the weekend although the Leafs won only one of three games.

Toronto edged Columbus Jets 8-7 in the second of two Sunday games after losing the opener 3-2, and dropping a 4-2 verdict Saturday.

But Rochester lost three straight to Atlanta Crackers, 4-3 Saturday, and 6-3 and 7-0 Sunday. The three victories extended the last-place Crackers winning streak to four games, their longest of the season.

Jack Klugman Signs to Do Series Before Getting Emmy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Interviews with Jack Klugman usually start with one question:

"What on earth is the actor who won an Emmy for last season's finest dramatic performance doing playing father in one of three half-hour situation comedies?"

Klugman's response:

"I signed to do the show before I got the Emmy. Of course I'd never have done it if the Emmy had come first.

Klugman gave an impressive performance on CBS' "The Defenders as an actor whose leftwing political beliefs destroyed his career. In October he will turn up as a regular in a piece of NBC fluff called Harris Against the World. It's part of a comedy trilogy.

"They offered me a firm commitment for 26 weeks and I decided to take the show because it was important for me to get stabilized for awhile," Klugman said. "I found I was spending at least half my life out here in Hollywood and at a time when it was important for my boy, who is five, to have his father around more."

He sold his home outside New York and the family is here.

DOESN'T LIKE IT

"I really don't like it here," he said. "Sure, I know about the weather. I mean the technical of movie - making. I know a lot of really bad actors who do very well because they know the techniques and tricks. I think the actors should be able to perform and this camera should take pictures of them acting. I do not think that the camera should be the robot for the camera which is the trap you can get into.

"But this comedy is all right, I think. Anyway, I'll give it everything I've got."

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For August 11

"The wise man controls his destiny — Astrology points the way."

Aries (Mar. 21 - Apr. 19): Stress is on patient approach to details. Could affect security, welfare of family members. Key is utilization of common sense. Take nothing for granted. Be thorough, aware. .

Taurus (Apr. 20 - May 20): If you give your best . . . problems can be eliminated. Serve well — and you will be served in return. Don't be afraid of changes. Welcome new ways, methods and challenges.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20): If you entertain in lavish manner . . . you will pay for it. Be practical. Realize there is power in simplicity. Refuse to put on airs. Be sincere, natural. Be yourself!

Cancer (June 21 - July 22): Tendency is to be impatient. This is caused by uncertainty . . . recognize this fact. Realize you will gain more through cautious approach. Events later in day will emphasize this.

Leo (July 23 - Aug. 22): Take care in dealing with relatives, in-laws. Be specific. Make sure there are no misunderstandings. Certain resentments have been "building up". Get them off your chest. But be diplomatic!

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Aid forthcoming from friends—both emotional and material. Give others benefit of doubt. You need allies. You don't get them by being stubborn. Loosen up!

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Time for new contacts, ideas, original approach. Key is exuding confidence. You can make circumstances work for you. Cycle is high . . . take advantage of it!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): What you require is at a distance. Today your intuitives intellect imparts that message. But it is up to your "practical side" to do something about it. Stress logical approach.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Being versatile will create gain. Hold this as your subconscious . . . then when question arises, bring it to forefront. There are many routes to your goal.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): You are strictly on your own today. Don't depend on partners, agreements or promises. Be confident. Display talents, abilities. Superiors are watching—and on your side.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Good lunar aspect coincides with gaining of valuable information. Be perceptive. Recognize opportunity when it stares you in the face. Analyze bits of knowledge.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - Mar. 20): Look behind the scenes. Don't form conclusions based on superficial indications. Dig deep. Be analytical. Obtain hint from today's Aquarius message.

If today is your birthday . . . you would make fine teacher, student of law. You are progressive in outlook, capable of perceiving future trends.

General tendencies: Legal decision concerning property holds spotlight. Changes due.

Fontaine Fox, Cartoonist, Dies in Conn.

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — Cartoonist Fontaine Fox, 80, the Toonerville Trolley conductor, died Sunday.

The Toonerville Trolley cartoons delighted newspaper readers for 33 years.

It is said that Fox earned more than $2,000,000 from his drawings of Toonerville's tricky, trolley and rollicking folks. They appeared from 1920 to 1953. It, as many as 300 newspapers. One of his characters, Mickey (Himself) McGuire, was so famous that a child actor, Joe Yule Jr., adopted the name.

When Fox proved in court that he owned a copyright on the character, young Yule took another name—Mickey Rooney.

The fabled Toonerville trolley was a combination of Louisville, Ky., Fox's hometown and Fulham Park, N.Y., where he once visited a friend.

Fox had lampooned a rickety Cinderella trolley in early cartoons for the Louisville Herald.

'I'S RIGHT THERE'

When he visited Fulham Manor, a suburb of New York City, he told a trolley motorman in the name of the friend he was going to. The man misheard and stopped the trolley, walked back to Fox and asked out the friend's house to Fox.

Thus the cartoonist hit upon the idea of a Toonerville Trolley—ramshackle and late, but folksy.

It became the symbol of broken-down transportation everywhere.

Fox put peopled Toonerville mostly with caricatures of his family and boyhood friends. The Terrible Tempered Mr. Bang was his father; Powerful Kalrinka, a mixture of two family cooks, the Little Scorpions his boyhood gang.

When there was Aunt Eppie Hogg and Aunt Jemima in the three counties; Whisky Bill Swift, Suitcase Simpson, the Powerful Mr. Bang and the trolley's skipper.

Shortly before he drew his last panel in February, 1953, Fox had the trolley shattered in an accident, transformed into a contraption with the cab in half trolley and the lower half bus.

SEEKS ASYLUM

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—An East German doctor whose name is being withheld by authorities is reported to ask British aim for asylum when a British freighter reaches her home port of Grimsby, England. The doctor made his bid for freedom when he left the East German trawler Johannes R. Becher on the Grand Banks and boarded the British trawler Northern Fighter, now in port here, to treat two injured fishermen. He refused to go back to his own ship.

Brief

that Turkey was withdrawing some of her air force from the alliance "for use in her national interest."

The announcement from Supreme Allied Headquarters for Europe said Turkey's action is permissible and provided for under the NATO treaty." The United States, British and other NATO members have been pressing for a settlement of the Cyprus strife to avoid a split in NATO between Turkey and Greece, regardless of NATO's eastern flank.

COUNCIL MEETS

The alliance's permanent council was summoned into session today to take up the Cyprus crisis for the third time in six days.

A U.S. Air Force C-130 cargo plane evacuated 35 American dependents and members of the U.S. embassy staff in Beirut. Among them were Ambassador Taylor Belcher's wife and two boys, age 8 and 10. Belcher said the state department ordered the air evacuation.

In Athens, Greek Foreign Minister Stavros Costopoulos told the Turkish ambassador Greece could not defend the Cyprus government from "necessary defensive measures" if Turkey repeated its warlike activities.

The Greek diplomats charged that Turkish troops slipped ashore before dawn to aid the beleaguered Turkish Cypriot fishing village of Kokkina, 20 miles west of Polis.

Turkey and the UN command on Cyprus denied there had been any landing. But the Cyprus government demanded an other urgent meeting of the Security Council to consider what it called "perhaps a limited invasion."

CLAIMS TURKS FIRED

Costopoulos said the Turkish garrison at Kokkina fired on Turkish-Cypriot coastal strongbold, opened mortar fire on Kokkina and began landing troops the morning. But other sources said the situation there was quiet.

Turkey began the attacks last Friday to halt the Greek-Cypriot advance on Kokkina.

Archbishop Makarios, Greek-Cypriot president, said his government will "fully cooperate" with the Security Council appeal. He issued the statement after the latest Turkish raid and his government's report of the troop landing at Kokkina.

In Ankara, Turkey's Deputy Premier Kemal Satir insisted that Turkey "cannot remain indifferent" (invasion) claims are without any foundation."

The Security Council meanwhile improved all sides to observe an immediate cease-fire. The Soviet Union's Nikolai Fedorenkoviakis abstained in the 8-to-0 vote by which the council adopted the British resolution calling for cessation of hostilities.

The Greek - Cypriots announced the landing of Turkish men and materiel after the Turkish air force and Turkish jet fighters on the northwest coast. Turkish warships are patrolling the area.

FIGHTING HEAVY

Sixty - four Turkish jets pounded Greek - Cypriot positions with bombs including napalm (jellied gasoline), rockets and machine-gun fire, as heavy fighting broke out on the ground around the village of Kokkina, stronghold on the Cyprus coast.

The Greek-Cypriot radio said they suffered about 300 casualties, including more than 12 dead, in the Turkish attack. It key said its planes fired only on military targets.

A Greek - Cypriot statement said the Turkish soldiers were landed from two destroyers.

It called the alleged landings "continued incitement and encouragement of the Turkish (Cypriot) rebellion" and evidence of Turkey's disregard of the Security Council's peace appeals.

The UN police force said its observation post at Kokkina had spotted one small unidentified vessel off Kokkina. The Turkish command in Nicosia contingent, Col. Jonas Waern, said he saw "some activity" near the fishing village but couldn't learn the details.

WORLD CAPITALS BUSY

The latest crisis in the civil war caused Turkish activity in several capitals. President Johnson hurried back to Washington from a weekend at his Texas ranch and sent personal appeals to the heads of the Turkish, Greek and Cypriot governments.

The United States pressed for withdrawal of an estimated 5,000 to 7,000 Greek and Turkish troops who have quietly entered Cyprus since the dispute flared up last December. Makarios' attempts to end the legislative veto of the Turkish-Cypriot minority.

British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home broke off a vacation in Scotland to assume command of his government's diplomatic activities on the crisis. On arriving in London today, Douglas-Home said he was pressing efforts to reach a solution.

Canadian Prime Minister Pearson conferred by telephone with President Johnson today.

Greece sent a squadron of air force planes over Cyprus in a show of support for the Greek-Cypriots. Costopoulos said the planes did not fire on the Greek Cypriots, but warned of Greek reprisals if the Turks continue their sorties.

Gunfire between Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots broke out in Nicosia Sunday night along the capital's so-called "green line" separating the two sides. Two Greek-Cypriots were killed and at least three Turkish-Cypriots were wounded.

Two American newspaper men were wounded near Kokkina Sunday.

Alvin Rosenfeld and Jay Miller, both of the National Broadcasting Company, were shot in Turkish-Cypriot fire while approaching the village in a jeep. Greek-Cypriot police told the UN command.

They were reported in satisfactory condition at hospital near Xeros.

FIRST FLIGHT

The first regular air passenger service from the U.S. to Europe was inaugurated June 28, 1939.

Garden Notes

Soil Key to Hydrangea Color

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Pink hydrangeas are grown in alkaline soil, while the blue ones are grown in acid soil.

If you wish to keep your deep or delicate pink blooms true to their original color you must supply a light dusting of hydrated lime (or agricultural use) early in the spring and again once a month during the summer. If the season is very wet the lime may be leached away. Do not allow any to fall on the leaves and do not give too much. Leaves turn yellow when too much lime is used.

To keep the blue flowers blue or to prevent them from becoming a mixture of lavender and pink shades you must keep the soil acid. Start the plants off with a good mixture of peat moss well mixed in with the soil and provide a wide space as the roots travel well away from the plant. For new and established plants regular applications of "blooming powder" in powdered sulphur (aluminum sulphate) is not sufficient by itself. A combination of equal parts of powdered sulphate and ferrous sulphate is much more satisfactory

For large garden plants one tablespoon per month mixed in to the top layer of soil and watered in after a rain or thorough soaking is the best, is recommended. Pot plants need one scant teaspoonful every two weeks while the plants are in bloom.

The naturally white hydrangeas cannot be turned into colored kinds.

These colored plants are a handy form of florist's plants, and are not the tree type. The blue is sometimes listed as Nikon Blue, and sometimes as French Blue.

SHRUB HYDRANGEAS

Hills of Snow is a shrub three to 4 feet high with heart-shaped leaves that grow almost anywhere. It does well in sun or shade and will tolerate damp conditions. The heads are large and handsome starting to bloom in June. They remain in good condition for a long time, with the blooms turning a pale, then deeper, green in late summer.

The famous Pee Gee hydrangea will reach seven feet high with large cone-shaped heads in August. The white blooms turn to rosy pink then to brown, remaining ornamental until hard frost.

White Lace or Lacecap is a vine type with large heads of sterile and fertile blooms. The large outer blooms, which are the sterile ones, form a border for the smaller globe shaped blooms in the centre, the whole head forming a lacy cap. The plant does not cling, but leans against a tall support and makes a striking cover for an arbor, trellis or arch.

Harold J. Gibbons, Picked By Hoffa to Run Teamsters' Union, Hardly Ever Smiles

By JERRY CURRY

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Few smiles crack the face of Harold J. Gibbons, a rangy, 54-year-old Irish American who runs the Teamsters' Union while its president, James R. Hoffa, fights to stay out of jail.

Hoffa personally picked Gibbons to mind business matters of the world's largest labor union while the stocky leader answers government charges in court. Gibbons has Hoffa's toughness, but not his flamboyance.

"I'm a union man because I came up the hard way," says Gibbons, one of 13 Teamster vice-presidents.

The six-foot-one, 185-pound Gibbons has an amazing background. He has been a cook, teacher, college man, Socialist, anti-Communist, union organizer—and father of three children. He also has been jailed "for a few broken heads on the picket line."

WAS 'LIEUTENANT'

Until last December Gibbons was executive assistant to Hoffa, who was convicted in Chicago July 26 of conspiring to defraud a union pension fund. Hoffa is expected to appeal the conviction, which could lead to a 20-year prison term and fines totalling $13,000.

He is also appealing an eight-year prison sentence given him in Nashville, Chattanooga, Tenn., following his conviction on a charge of tampering with a jury in Nashville.

Gibbons resigned as Hoffa's lieutenant to return to Local 688 in St. Louis, the 16,000-member local he organized.

Whatever the reason, their friends know a vold exists between the two men. Hoffa apparently selected Gibbons for his present job, that of acting president, because of his talent alone.

SALARY SLASHED

But Gibbons' union salary has been slashed to $12,000 from $35,000, and now is the same as those of the other 12 vice-presidents. He is paid an additional $250 a week by Local 688 for his work as secretary - treasurer there, and he has an expense account.

Gibbons sees little of his family. When he is in St. Louis, only about one or two days a week, he spends most of his time working from a hotel suite on union business. The rest of the week is spent in Washington or travelling.

"It was a tough road up the union ladder," says the grey-haired Gibbons. "I've got a police record, but no convictions. The arrests were for a few broken heads on a picket line. I was arrested because I believed I was trying to help someone."

IN JAIL ONCE

Gibbons also spent 48 hours in jail once because he refused to turn over union records to a federal grand jury. He said it was a matter of principle. But the indictment, charging Gibbons with violating the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, was dismissed.

During the depression years of the 1930s, Gibbons taught school and wrote textbooks for the U.S. works project administration.

He attended a summer labor course at the University of Wisconsin, and that set him firmly on the labor trail. Gibbons became an organizer and first president of Local 346 of the American Federation of Teachers in Chicago.

He cooked his way through night school classes at the University of Chicago and went back to school at Wisconsin while organizing unions. In 1936, Gibbons became a vice-president of the Federation of Teachers.

His first contact with the Teamsters Union came in 1937 when he led a Chicago taxicab-drivers' strike. The drivers became Teamsters.

BECAME SOCIALIST

Gibbons came to St. Louis 22 years ago as director of Local 688, of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employees' Union, CIO. About that time, he became a Socialist.

"I felt their (the Socialists) program was the best for the working man. Some of the things we worked for then as Socialists are realities today."

But Gibbons left Local 688 away from the parent body in 1948, charging that the CIO "Was leaning too far to the left." A year later, he merged his local with the Teamsters.

"The bosses stopped beating us with goon squads and started trying to beat us with laws," Gibbons says. "We went into politics because it was our only answer."

STRONG POLITICIAN

Gibbons became a strong politician. A self-styled independent, he was a delegate to the national Democratic convention in 1960 and will be again this year at Atlantic City.

Gibbons was elected an international Teamsters Union vice-president in 1957.

Today, when Gibbons goes over proposals for a new labor contract, he has an icy demeanor. He listens, motionless and unsmiling, and then makes a decision. He's a human version of a digital computer, who deals with man instead of figures.

Gibbons tells management what he wants and management leaders consider Gibbons a man who can be trusted.

communal problems only served to heighten tension and increase the threat of war.

"Attempts to impose by force of arms a decision which does not meet the interests of the people can only exacerbate the situation even more, extend the conflict and intensify the threat of war, to which the Soviet government has already drawn the attention of the Turkish government," the Russian leader wrote.

Pravda, however, described the Turkish attacks as "acts of aggression, which are a crime against humanity and represent a danger to peace."

'BELONGED TO NATO'

It printed a report from London that a Turkish plane shot down over Cyprus belonged to a NATO fighter squadron, heading the report: "NATO planes drop bombs."

Khrushchev also called for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Cyprus. He did not say whether he meant Greek and Turkish infiltrators as well as the UN peace force.

The Turkish air force launched the jet attacks in an effort to halt a Greek-Cypriot advance on the remaining Turkish-Cypriot coastal stronghold in northwest Cyprus.

In the note to U Thant, Khrushchev said:

"At this moment, the UN must do its best to stop the bloodshed in Cyprus and thus avert the development of events dangerous to the cause of peace."

The Soviet Union and its Communist ally, Czechoslovakia, abstained in the Security Council's 9-to-0 vote in favor of a U.S.-British resolution calling for an end to hostilities on Cyprus.

Italian Pres., Antonio Segni, Gravely Ill

ROME (AP)—President Antonio Segni lay gravely ill today, partly paralysed and unable to speak. Leaders of the Italian government met to decide whether a temporary president should take over the duties of chief of state.

A medical bulletin issued by three attendant physicians said:

"The condition of the president of the republic remains grave. After a relatively tranquil night he has fallen into a state of drowsiness. His fever continues. Breathing is regular. There continues the disturbances to movement and to speech caused by the cerebral vascular lesion."

It was the first official announcement that the 73-year-old Italian president had been left partly paralysed and unable to talk by the cerebral stroke he suffered three days ago.

railway police and members of the army's provost corps. They carried automatic rifles, shotguns and pistols.

Michael Smith was walking home about 6.30 p.m. Saturday when he turned to see a bicycle coming toward him. He was about two blocks from his home.

"I saw a bicycle coming so I moved and it went on up," he told from his hospital bed. "Then the gunman turned around and rode back and shot.

"I blacked out for a minute and then I woke up and got to my feet. I fell down."

HAD OPERATION

He was found by a boy and taken to hospital for an emergency operation. The bullet entered one side of his face near the cheek bone and came out the other side.

About 6.40 p.m. the killer rode by a drug store where Gordon Harding was standing waiting for his sister.

A shot rang out and the boy crumpled to the sidewalk, a bullet hole in his head.

It was about 7 p.m. when James Squires died. He was berrypicking with his mother at the south edge of the city near the railway tracks.

"He came through the railway fence and heard me talking to Gordon," his mother said, as she described how she first saw the red-haired youth. "Then he went back and down the tracks.

"He came back up a few steps and let Jimmy walk about three steps ahead of him. There was a terrible bang and just then Jimmy fell in a heap on the ground with a wound bleeding from his head."

Death Toll From Typhoon Totals Thirty

HONG KONG (AP) — An avalanche of earth and mud rolled over a camp for Communist Chinese refugees Sunday, burying four of them. Police said there was no chance any survived.

The deaths raised the toll from Typhoon Kit to 30—14 in The Philippines, nine here and seven in Korea.

The landslide, caused by heavy rains, buried a shanty-town area in a sea of mud more than 25 feet deep. Three shacks were squashed. More than 5,000 refugees were left homeless, and more than 100 were injured.

Two boys were drowned in Hong Kong harbor. Three other persons were killed by flying debris.

The typhoon passed 40 miles south of Hong Kong, with gusts of wind up to 140 miles an hour. Three ships were blown aground.

Child Drowns

GANANOQUE Ont. (CP)—2½ month old girl wandered away from her family Sunday night and was found drowned in Red Horse Lake 50 feet from her house.

The body of Caroline Marie Haskin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Haskin of the Black Rapids area, was found by the child's grandmother at the end of a wharf.

SHAKY PEACE SETTLES OVER CYPRUS

13 Road Surfacing Companies Named

Said Parties To Collusive Tender System

Firms Given Virtual Monopoly on Contracts

OTTAWA (CP) — The restrictive trade practices commission said today that 13 road surfacing contractors in south-central Ontario were parties in 1959, 1960 and 1961 to a "collusive tendering system" contrary to the public interest.

A commission report to the federal government said the companies acted under an agreement to submit fictitious bids to Ontario department of highways and municipalities in the area.

It said the arrangement constituted "undue lessening of competition in the sale, transportation or supply of road surfacing materials" and gave the companies a virtual monopoly in the south-central section of Ontario centred on Toronto.

The report signed by commission Chairman Robert S. MacLellan and Commissioner Donald Eldon, and the agreement was contrary to the Combines Investigation Act.

Justice Minister Favreau making the report public, said the usual consideration will be given to the question of what further steps will be taken by his department.

COMPANIES NAMED

The companies named in the report are Bray Construction Company Limited, Etobicoke; Bruell Paving Limited, Toronto; Canadian Construction Company Limited, Brantford; Grey-Wellington Paving Company Limited, Durham; R. J. McFarland Construction Company Limited, Etobicoke; Reamish Construction Company Limited, Markham; Miller Paving Limited, Toronto; Municipal Supply and Oiling Company Limited, Rexdale; Riverside Construction Company Limited, Leaside; Roads Resurfacing Company Limited, Chesterville; W. A. Paving Limited, Port Credit; Warnica, W. S. Fullerton Construction Company Limited, Windsor, and Woodbine Paving Limited, Windsor.

The report followed an investigation into the Ontario road surfacing industry by D. H. W. Henry, director of investigation and research under the Combines Investigation Act.

The commission found the contractors had agreed on arrangements which included establishment of assigned territories and collusive tendering schemes. Six of the companies had entered into a revenue sharing agreement.

Plan 500 Air Raid Shelters

SAIGON (AP) — Communist Viet Cong guerrillas have been ordered to fire only on South Vietnamese units accompanied by Americans, said Communist leaflets handed out in hamlets just northwest of Saigon today.

Government officials scoffed at the handbills and said they appeared designed to create dissension between South Vietnamese soldiers and their U.S advisers.

The price of gold—an indicator of public confidence in the government—dropped today after skyrocketing the last week. Hoarders kept gold off the market in anticipation of a further crisis. Rumors also circulated about the possibility of another government coup.

Saigon returned to a measure of normal after the recent increase in tension because of incidents in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The capital seemed generally unperturbed despite continuation of a night curfew imposed last week and the government's announcement that air raid shelters would be built.

The new civil defence measures are partly intended to get the generally indifferent Saigonese more interested in the government's war efforts.

Brig.-Gen. Duong Ngoc Lam, prefect of the capital, said the projected public shelters will accommodate 400,000 of Saigon's nearly 1,500,000 people.

Lam asked landowners to donate property, called for volunteers to help construct the shelters and urged private persons to dig their own.

The shelter building will give residents a "real atmosphere of emergency," he said.

At this point, actual chances of bombardment appear slight, especially in view of the weakness of North Viet Nam's and Communist China's air force and the strength of U.S. Air Force combat units in this area.

But emergency measures here are intended partly for their psychological effect as an attempt to involve the normally indiffer-

Pope Sets Papal Precedent Flies to Orvieto by Copter

CASTEL GANDOLFO (AP)— Pope Paul sets a papal precedent today when he flies by helicopter from his summer residence to a religious commemoration at the Umbrian hill town of Orvieto.

Today's Chuckle

A bachelor is a cowardly, cruel, selfish male who is cheating some deserving woman out of her rightful alimony.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A storm centred near Kenora will bring rain to the remainder of the province today and tonight. Despite generally cloudy skies and rain today's temperatures will average from five to eight degrees warmer than Monday's in most regions. A return to unseasonable cold weather is in prospect for Wednesday.

The 75-mile trip northward to the anniversary of the island town will be the first flight a pontiff has ever made by helicopter. It also will be the longest trip the pope Paul has taken since he went to the Holy Land by jet plane last February.

The papal schedule in Orvieto includes mass marking the 25th anniversary of the island town's the annual Corpus Christi feast day and a speech by the Pope before he returns by copter to Castel Gandolfo.

The Italian Air Force supplied the big helicopter for today's flight. It comes one day after a meeting of Communist and non-Roman Catholicism will try for dialogue with all aspects of the modern world.

In his encyclical Ecclesiam Suam (His Church) Pope Paul said Monday the paths of church consciousness of itself, church reform and church openness to the world lay before contemporary Catholicism.

Halifax Youth Charged

HALIFAX (CP) — Edward Thomas Boutilier, 18, of Halifax was charged in police court today with the capital murder of two young boys who died in separate shootings a mile apart here Saturday night.

Registrar E. D. Murray ordered Boutilier sent to the Nova Scotia mental institution for 30 days to determine whether he is fit to stand trial.

Boutilier was arrested late Monday near Halifax Airport, about 20 miles north of the city.

The arrest came after an airport employee reported receiving a note from a young man who asked that police be notified.

Boutilier is reported to have visited the scenes of the Saturday night shootings with police after his arrest. He spent the night in police cells separated from other prisoners.

The arrest brought relief after the town's worst wave of violence hunted a bicycle-riding gunman who had terrorized their children off the streets.

Gordon Hartling, 11, was shot and killed by a shotgun blast Saturday evening when a gunman on a bicycle rode up and fired. Thomas Squires, 12, was shot point-blank by a person who walked up behind him as he was playing berrios with his mother. Both boys were shot in the head.

Michael Smith, 12, was walking home when the gunman rode by him, turned and fired as he went past. The Smith boy is recovering in hospital from a wound in his face.

Pension Bill Critics Answered

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — The government today answered the sharpest critics of the proposed Canada Pension Plan by conceding that it has been very well afford the multi - billion-dollar scheme.

A pension plan white paper tabled in the Commons said the effect of the plan on savings, the capital market and business costs will be "not very great" and that the plan "will within the capacity of our economy."

It noted that a $4,000,000,000 reserve will be built up by the federal pension fund in the first 10 years — the difference between the anticipated terrible tributions, and payment of retirement pensions.

The reserve could borrow from this fund in amounts proportionate to the amount their residents contribute to it. Since only Quebec has so far indicated it will have its own pension plan—and funds—the federal pool would be split nine ways.

Ottawa's plan would start collecting contributions from employers, employees and the self-employed on Jan. 1, 1966. Pension benefits would begin in 1976 but those who have not reach their full level until 1976.

The federal white paper said little that was new about the federal contributory plan itself; these details were outlined by Prime Minister Pearson in his letter to the provincial premiers last June 4 .

ANSWERS CRITICISM

Rather, it was mainly significant as the first government rebuttal of criticism, largely on economic grounds, from business leaders and especially the insurance and trust companies that operate private pension plans.

Without referring directly to these critics, the white paper said "fears sometimes expressed" that the public pension plan will raise business costs, ...

Thant Says Cease-Fire Provides Chance to Definitely End Strife

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary - General U. Thant said Monday night Turkey and Cyprus have accepted the United Nations appeal for a cease - fire without conditions. He pledged that the UN would exert every effort to keep the peace on Cyprus.

Thant's statement was made in a report to UN Security Council members, circulated shortly after the governments of Turkey and Cyprus announced they would enforce a cease-fire. The Turks declared, however, that they would sanction reconnaissance flights over Cyprus until Greek Cypriot forces withdraw to positions they occupied Aug. 5.

In his statement, Thant said: "It is gratifying and encouraging that both governments have responded positively and without conditions. These decisions of the two governments now afford an opportunity for definitely ending the fighting and relaxing tension in Cyprus. ...

The UN force on Cyprus numbers almost 7,000 officers and men including 1,100 Canadians. But it couldn't prevent Greek-Cypriots from attacking Turkish - Cypriot villages on the northwest coast last week. Turkey says these attacks prompted its air raids.

The UN role has been complicated by patrols between the hostile Turkish and Greek communities.

Although Thant said he would exert every effort toward "constructive peace - keeping arrangements," he gave no indication whether any new measures were planned by the UN.

He said he has asked the special UN representative on Cyprus, former Ecuadorian president Galo Plaza Lasso, to fly back to Cyprus at once. Galo Plaza has been at his home in Ecuador.

The Cypriot government has asked for another Security Council meeting, but there was no immediate indication when this might take place.

Thant said he had no plans at present for submitting a report to the Security Council about the military situation on Cyprus. He said he did not believe any useful purpose would be served.

Discuss Cyprus Issue

By RUSSELL ELMAN

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government Monday expressed its hope that agreement can be found which will lead to strengthening the UN peacekeeping force in Cyprus.

For six hours the Commons set aside its regular business and took up the Cyprus problem in an emergency debate amid opposition demands that the UN force should have wider powers and more mea..

The debate, asked for by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and agreed to by all parties, coincided with announcement of a formal 'cease-fire on the strife-torn Mediterranean island.

Prime Minister Pearson said events in Cyprus if gone unchecked might have spelled the end of NATO and precipitated a global nuclear war. He told the Commons late Monday night the situation had eased but the problem was not solved.

He said there may have to be changes in connection with the UN activities in Cyprus and that the weekend crisis might make the necessity for such changes more obvious to certain people than has been the case hitherto.

MAY BE STR...GTHENED

"Some t i m s you can do things under the impetus of fear that you cannot do under the stimulus of reason. So perhaps in the crisis of the weekend . . . we may be able to strengthen the position of the United Nations force in Cyprus."

Mr. Diefenbaker and the o'her opposition spokesmen were critical of the effectiveness of the 7,000-man UN force, in which Canada has a 1,100-member contingent. UN peacekeepers, they contended, are hamstrung because the Cyprus government had not permitted them adequate powers.

Defence Minister Hellyer said the force's powers may be too limited but it was the best that

Housecleaning Leadership Of SIU Promised by Group

MONTREAL (CP) — Challengers have come forward promising a house - cleaning leadership of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.).

Their first announced objective is to unseat present members of the SIU executive who have been closely associated with the rough-and-ready regime of deposed president Hal C. Banks.

The next aim is to persuade the federal government to call off the watchdog board of maritime trustees appointed last year to ensure that the SIU and four other unions involved in labor strife on the Great Lakes behaved themselves.

The challenge for the top SIU offices to be decided at union elections this fall was announced Monday by a slate of eight men headed by Stan Devine, Halifax-based SIU port agent for the Atlantic provinces.

Announcement of the collective bandwagon was made at a press conference here at which equal emphasis was given to the demand for withdrawal of the trusteeship overseers.

Mr. Devine will be running for the presidency against Leonard (Red) McLaughlin, present executive vice - president who is making a bid for SIU control.

The contenders for the top spot are seeking to fill the vacancy left March 15 when Banks was ousted by the government-appointed trustees in an atmosphere of mounting public criticism of Banks's activities.

The vice-presidency being vacated by Mr. McLaughlin is being sought by fellow Montrealer Rene Turcotte, main spokesman at Monday's press conference.

"The majority of the membership is behind us," Mr. Turcotte said.

He said the group wants to unite the SIU with other Canadian labor bodies.

Mr. Devine said in Halifax that if he wins the presidency, he will "take all positive steps" to end the trusteeship. He promised a "progressive drive to promote the growth of the SIU and keep the union within the law, to avoid legislative like the trustee act."

Banks, 56, is being sought by court authorities who hold an order committing him to jail for a month for contempt of court.

Besides Mr. Devine and Mr. Turcotte, others who will try for the office are:

Jim Hoffen of Montreal, running for secretary - treasurer against Roman Gralewicz; Gilbert Johnson of Montreal, candidate for the office of vice-president in charge of organization; Fred Southern, for vice-

Turkish Planes Still Patrol Coastal Region

Greek Cypriots Cling To Captured Villages

From AP-Reuters

NICOSIA (CP) — A shaky peace returned to Cyprus today as Turkey and the Greek-Cypriot government accepted a United Nations cease-fire after several days of bloodshed and Turkish air intervention.

Cyprus remained jittery, however, when Turkish Air Force jets this morning continued reconnaissance flights over northwest Cyprus, where the Turkish-Cypriots are struggling to hold their last beachhead in the face of Greek-Cypriot assaults. UN headquarters said Turkish planes flew over an area south of the village of Alevga, near the scene of the recent fighting, for 25 minutes this morning but did not open fire.

Only a few isolated gunshots were heard during the night as both Greek and Turkish-Cypriots observed the truce, the UN said.

At the order of Secretary-General U Thant, the UN police force mobilized its limited manpower to prevent another outbreak of fighting along Cyprus's northwest coast.

WANT WITHDRAWAL

Turkey said it would send its jets on scouting missions until the UN troops can enforce the truce and Greek-Cypriots withdraw from positions they captured in the last six days.

But today Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou said on his arrival in Athens for talks with Greek Foreign Minister Stavros Kostopoulos that the Greek - Cypriots would "never withdraw" from present positions as demanded by Turkey.

Kyprianou told reporters the continuing flights of warlike jets over Cyprus violated the cease-fire resolution and "we are going to discuss this immediately to the UN Security Council."

A brief UN announcement from Geneva said that Sakari Tuomioja, the UN mediator in Cyprus, was flying to Athens for talks with government leaders in Greece, Turkey and Cyprus.

The announcement added that Finnish mediator plans to hold discussions with them "as to a long-term solution to the problems of Cyprus."

The mediator has spent one month in Geneva meeting separately with representatives of Greece, Turkey, Cyprus, Britain and the United States.

A statement issued by the Cyprus government said that during operations carried out in the Mansoura — Kokkina area

PEACE TERMS

Government sources said the message warned that any further Greek raids against Turkish-Cypriot positions on the island would be regarded as an attack against Turkey itself.

Greek-Cypriot troops fired a few shots in the Kokkina region early today, a government spokesman said.

But he added that the outburst was brief and that Turkey did not appear to consider it a violation of the cease-fire.

Western sources said Turkey and Greek-Cypriots which have been working frantically since the Cyprus question exploded anew last week appeared relaxed.

Diplomatic activity was centred in Cyprus itself.

There western powers were pressing President Makarios to agree to withdraw Greek-Cypriot troops from their attack positions around Kokkina and to surrender three captured Turkish villages in the area.

2,000-Year-Old Tree Holds Own Against Fire 150 Feet up Trunk

PORTERVILLE, Calif. (AP) — A 2,000-year-old redwood tree was reported holding its own today against a lightning - set fire burning 150 feet up its spreading trunk in Sequoia National Forest.

The tree was hit by lightning twice, once last Tuesday and again Thursday. Ranger Gene Arnold describes it as "a double seed tree and parent of most of the redwood: in the area."

The tree stands in the Sierra foothills about 150 miles north of Los Angeles.

As many as 50 men have worked on the fire to contain the blaze. Because the fire burns 150 feet above the ground, a pumper truck was unable to put it out, and the prop wash of a helicopter did no better. A bulldozer has cleared firebreaks to protect other trees.

The fire smolders within the trunk of the tree at a crotch about 50 feet from the top. Flames are seen infrequently.

Because foliage above the fire sheds liquid—like water off a duck's back—firefighters were unable to combat it from the air. The helicopter dropped loads of sand-bombs on it to no effect.

Three rangers keep vigil, using only small fires as burning branches fall from the smouldering treetop.

"We've done just about all we can do," said Ranger Gene Sadler.

"The tree seems to be holding its own. The weather has been kind to it, winds. Now it's up to the tree."

He referred to the redwood's persistence in fire. Crowning redwood will burn, but because of a low pitch content it seldom is consumed unless in the midst of a general conflagration. Most mature redwoods have survived many where they have been hit by lightning or started by fire during small forest fires at some time during their long life.

Home Economics Teachers Preparing to Take Course

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 150 Ontario home economics teachers are taking a two-week crash course in family development designed to prepare them to teach the province's new home economics course this fall.

The updated home economics course, which goes into effect in the new school year starting September, leans heavily on the psychology of family development. In grade 11 will devote about half their economics course to the study of the history of home life in Ontario, functions of the family, family customs in other countries, and food customs of families around the world.

The teachers are to hear Dr. Glenn R. Hawtes, noted American expert on family development, in a series of 10 lectures at Carleton University. The training course started Monday and continues until Aug. 31.

Dr. Hawkes, head of the child development department at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa, will speak on such topics as the nature of the family, the role of family development, families and adolescents, and the aging family.

The U.S. psychologist is a member of the American council on family relations and has conducted major research projects on family influences on personality development. He is the co-author with Dr. Dame ris Pease, of Behaviour and Development From 5 to 12, published in 1960.

As part of a seminar on foreign cookery, they'll sit down to Italian, Chinese, Ukrainian, French and Jewish meals, courtesy of various Ottawa ethnic groups.

Home Economist Margrit Ironstone of Ottawa will speak to the teachers on foreign cookery and they will also hear a talk on "how geography influences customs and foods" from Ottawa high school teacher Charles McAffrey.

Other highlights of the training courses include a report on the governor - general's conference on the family, lectures on the use of films as teaching aids, and a report on the experimental teaching program of the new home economics course.

Today the teachers are to make a field trip to Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg, Ont., where they'll study the life and food customs of Ontario's early pioneer families.

Judge Refuses To Block New Civil Rights Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice Hugo L. Black of the U.S. Supreme Court refused Monday to block enforcement of the public accommodations section of the new Civil Rights Act.

The jurist turned down a request that the enforcement of a restaurant there for an order staying enforcement of a decision that the section is constitutional.

The two firms said in petitions that they would be irreparably injured if they were not granted a stay pending final action by the Supreme Court of Appeals to be filed later.

The decision upholding validity of the section was by a special three-judge federal tribunal in Atlanta. The cases represented the first tests under the new law.

Black, in a three-page memorandum, issued in connection with his refusal, said "a judicial restraint of the enforcement of one of the most important sections of the Civil Rights Act would, in my judgment, be unjustifiable."

Black said that he agreed, however, with the motel and restaurant, and also with the Supreme Court, "that the wisdom of having the specific constitutional issues here involved decided at an early date as orderly procedure will permit."

In Atlanta, lawyer Moreton Rolleston, who heads the Heart of Atlanta Motel Corporation, reiterated his earlier statements that motel officials would not comply with court orders.

In its July 22 decision, the Atlanta court said the section was valid within the federal government's constitutional right to regulate inter-state commerce. The motel and restaurant to admit Negroes, but delayed effective date of the decision until Aug. 15 to permit the firms to make Supreme Court moves.

Sheriff Asks FBI Agents To Get Warrant

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) Sheriff Lawrence Rainey told FBI agents Monday to get a warrant if they want to question him any further about the slaying of three civil rights workers.

The sheriff refused to talk to agents at his office after questioning them, Art Murtaugh, approached and asked "May we have five minutes with you?"

Rainey, who had just emerged from his own office with a reporter, asked "You got a warrant?"

Told they did not, Rainey told the two to "come see me when you got one and I'll be glad to talk to you."

When Murtaugh asked if he was going to refuse co-operation with the FBI, Rainey replied that he could co - operate with the FBI "as much as it co-operates with me."

Businessmen Attend Meeting At Hotel Quinte

Twenty-one local business men attended a 7.00 a.m. breakfast at the Hotel Quinte this morning at which time they met with representatives of the Christian Business Men's Committee International from Toronto and Port Hope.

Purpose of the meeting was to try and establish a CBMC in Belleville for Hastings and Prince Edward County. Ambassador at Large of CBMC, Elliott Stedelbauer, said Toronto seemed to be considerable interest shown at this morning's meeting and that he felt confident that the organization would be taken into deep consideration.

A similar club operated in the city about ten years ago.

The primary purpose of the CBMC is to reach business men for Christ through a personal evangelism conducted by non-denominational leadership for the purpose of reaching men with the gospel message.

In CBMC International there are approximately 900 committees in 35 different countries around the world with approximately 15,000 members.

Obituaries

CHARLES ROSS HOLMES
Campbellford

A life-long resident of Campbellford district, Charles Ross Holmes passed away suddenly in Campbellford Memorial Hospital on Friday. Born at Warkworth, he was the son of the late George Holmes and Ellen Potts, whose families had been prominent in the life of Seymour township.

Mr. Holmes passed his entire life in Campbellford and was prominently identified with sports, being himself an accomplished athlete. He had been a member of the town lacrosse team in the early days of that sport's popularity in the district. He was equally interested in baseball and softball, both as player and, later, as umpire. He encouraged the participation of the younger generation in the development of the sport and rarely missed attending a ball game. In recognition of his interest, the Kinsmen Club set up a special memorial trophy in the name of Charles Ross Holmes, for softball competition.

In hockey he was a player in the old "Intermediate" days for many years. Later, it was of particular satisfaction to him to see his grandsons play lacrosse and hockey in which his children and grandchildren participated.

WAR VETERAN

A veteran of both World Wars, Mr. Holmes in 1915 enlisted at the early age of 17 in Midland Regiment and served overseas with his battalion, being discharged in August, 1919. He was a representative of Campbellford Branch 103 of the Royal Canadian Legion at the unveiling of the Memorial to Canadian Soldiers at Vimy Ridge in 1937. In World War II he re-enlisted in the Midland Regiment and served in Petawawa and Belleville, being discharged in 1941 with the rank of company sergeant major.

Mr. Holmes was a charter member of the local Branch of the Canadian Legion and had held the offices of president and of treasurer, being actively supportive in the Legion sports program.

Of a very cheery and hospitable disposition, "Charlie," as he was known to hosts of friends, will be sorely missed throughout the district where he was associated with many community enterprises, particularly the Senior Citizens' Club. He was very interested in plans for the new Community Centre and in all matters contributing to the development of sports in the youth of the area.

RETIRED IN 1957

Mr. Holmes was employed at the Campbellford Cloth Company for many years and upon his discharge from the army in 1941 he was with the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, being stationed at Rollton and Niagara Falls. He retired in 1957.

Although he had not enjoyed good health in recent years, his death came as a shock to the community. Mr. Holmes' first wife was the former Isabella Mott, who predeceased him in 1920. He is survived by his widow, former Margaret Gallagher of Belleville; six sons and six daughters, Lionel, Don and Tom of Campbellford, George of Farry Sound, Jack of Windsor and Bob of St. Thomas; Mrs. Bruce Twigg (Jean), Mrs. George Paterson (Anne), and Miss Carol Holmes of Campbellford, Mrs. Milton Phillips (Isobel) of Belleville, Mrs. Bernard Heffernan (Frances) of Norwood and Mrs. Ross Sills (Helen) of Newmarket; thirty-three grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren. Two sons, Charles and Ross, predeceased him. He is also survived by his brother, Mr. George Alewill of Campbellford.

Memorial service was conducted at the Dunnett Funeral Home on Sunday evening by thirty-five Comrades of Campbellford Branch 103 of the Royal Canadian Legion, with Comrade Alex MacDonald in charge. Funeral services took place on Monday afternoon in the chapel of the funeral home, with Rev. Dr. Mansell Smith of Campbellford United Church, officiating. Dr. Smith also conducted services at the graveside, interment taking place in St. Mary's cemetery, Campbellford.

The bearers were George and Alec Stephens, Frank Potts, Robert Anderson and Wm. McMullen of Campbellford, and Arthur Abernethy of Sodbury. Ten grandsons acted as flower bearers.

A member of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill (Anglican) Church, she was a leading figure in its work and was a past president of its Afternoon Guild.

The department was then called to a grass fire on Palmer Road. However, this fire was being attended when the department arrived.

cent Saigonese in the war—for three years a domestic war pilot. U.S.-trained government forces against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Premier Nguyen Khanh charged Monday that Communist China has troops stationed in North Viet Nam in addition to about 15 Chinese jet fighters in the capital of Hanoi.

He said about 13 Soviet-built MiG-17 jets arrived in Hanoi from China last Friday. Asked if the Chinese troops were attributed a large force, Khanh replied: "In my view, yes. Large is a relative word."

There were developments in related areas:

1. Australia sent three Caribou transport planes and 34 officers and men of its air force to complement a team of 30 Australian Army advisers who have served in Viet Nam for two years.

2. Khanh's government broke off diplomatic relations with Indonesia because President Sukarno's island government and North Viet Nam's regime agreed to raise their respective missions from consulates-general to embassies.

The New China news agency said in a broadcast dispatch from Hanoi that North Vietnamese militiamen are undergoing rigorous military training to prepare for any possible enemy attack.

North Viet Nam's official Communist party newspaper, Nhan Dan, declared editorially the United States suffered "a great political and military setback" through its action against North Vietnamese patrol torpedo boats and U.S. aircraft Wednesday. It reiterated that the United States has lost eight jet planes in the retaliation raid. Washington has announced two were downed.

Two Chinese Communist newspapers in Hong Kong, declared that Khanh is far from over. The newspapers, Ta Kung Pao and Wen Wei Po, reiterated China will not stand idly by if North Viet Nam is attacked.

The newspaper play was reminiscent of that just before the Chinese Communists entered the Korean War.

Girl of 12 In Business As Shoeshiner

NEW YORK (AP)—At the age of 12, Lillian Reyes has a thriving business in Times Square, but already she's looking for a better territory.

"When I get $1,000 pretty soon," says Lillian, a shoeshine girl, "I want to open a regular shoeshine parlor and have only girls working for me. So I'll charge everybody 20 cents a shine. I don't know where it will be yet, but it will be in a rich neighborhood."

Right now, she charges only 25 cents. Lillian's corner is Broadway and 46th Street, near a subway stop, and she knows what the traffic will bear. She says she cleans up to $103 a week.

Brother Mike works the same corner. But he doesn't get the business Lillian does. His files are smaller, too.

Lillian wants it understood that the bootblack business is not a stop-gap enterprise. When she graduates from high school she wants to be a doctor or a lawyer "or something like that." Mike wants to become a psychiatrist "to see what's wrong with the world and make people happy."

Mike and Lillian live on Manhattan's lower east side. Their father works in a yarn company and their mother sometimes works as a nurse.

Salvation Army Camp Visited By Rotarians

The Rotary Club of Belleville held its regular noon meeting in the Salvation Army Camp at Robin Lake last night. This has been an annual event for several years and the largest attendance was reported this year.

President Stan Reston and his fellow Rotarians were guests of Brigadier Al. Simester. The club was extended a special welcome by Mrs. Simester.

During his remarks to the club, Brigadier Simester said that there would be approximately 900 children visiting the camp this year. Weekly classes are held at the Robin Lake camp, with from 50 to 110 children attending.

The camp personnel sponsors a very active program. These attending can participate in games, swimming, sports and handicraft activities.

Club members were taken on a tour of the camp by Brigadier Simester. They saw new buildings as the more than 80-year-old main house on the Robin Lake estate, now owned by George Symes Wallbridge.

The members saw at first hand the new arrangements at the newly developed beach area.

Brigadier Simester then took his guests through Fraser Hall and here pointed out that this structure, housing the main dining hoom, had to be treated against the ravages of condensation.

Accused Must Answer Counts On Sept. 2nd

A Belleville man appeared in magistrate's court without counsel today because, he said, he had no money to pay his lawyer.

Thomas Edward Deline, 25, was charged on two separate charges — attempted break-in and assault. He was charged as a surgiary suspect in a police chase hours after being released July 10th on $100 bail on the assault count. He was later released on property bail on the second charge.

Scheduled to stand trial for the alleged break-in attempt today, Deline said his lawyer would not represent him without fee.

The issue was resolved when crown attorney John Pringle arranged to have the $100 assault bail-bond returned to the accused.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills then ordered Deline to answer to both charges September 2nd.

NES Taken Under Wing of Labor Dept.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The National Employment Service is to be taken from the wing of the Unemployment Insurance Commission and become a part of the labor department, Labor Minister MacEachen said Monday night.

Mr. MacEachen told the International Association of Government Labor Officials that the employment service had been working under a cloud "because of its association with the negative aspect of unemployment insurance."

"This has certainly affected it public image and has to some extent limited its effectiveness," the minister said.

The basic aims of the employment service would remain the same after its transfer.

"But in arranging this move we will be able to make it easier for the employment service to provide the kind of service that is needed today, and to play its part more effectively in the organization of the labor market and the implementation of an active manpower policy."

The minister said the biggest problem for his department was automation and technological change. Canada must take advantage of new techniques but while reaping benefits it was determined not to do so at the expense of the workers involved.

His department's new manpower consultative service was set up to reduce hardship and unemployment caused by automation. The service would help employers and unions to develop manpower adjustment programs in anticipation of technical change.

"We will also enter into agreements with employers or jointly with employers and unions under which we will pay one-half the costs of research into the effects on manpower of industrial change."

Drives Car While Licence Is Suspended

A Belleville man, his licence suspended for the past four years under the provincial's satisfied judgment regulations, will serve seven days for driving under suspension.

Robert A. Day, 13 Gilbert street, also was told by Magistrate T. Y. Wills he could make an effort to have his driver's licence re-instated.

The court was told Mr. Day had two traffic accident judgments against him one involving a fatal accident claim. They total about $40,000.

Magistrate Wills also advised him if he could make arrangements with provincial authorities to make some "reasonable effort" to pay on the claims he might have his licence returned.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

MONDAY, Aug. 10, 1964

The Commons, by unanimous agreement, held an emergency out-day debate on the situation in Cyprus where 1,100 Canadian troops serve in the UN peacekeeping force.

Prime Minister Pearson said he hopes weekend events will lead to a strengthening of the role of the UN force in Cyprus.

Defence Minister Hellyer said it is well understood by the UN that Canada would withdraw her troops from Cyprus if they were ordered into a militarily indefensible position.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, who sought the debate, asked greater powers for the UN force and enlargement of it.

External Affairs Minister Martin, expressing confidence there would be a formal cease-fire, defended the government's role in the situation.

Stanley Knowles (NDP — Winnipeg North Centre) agreed the force's powers are not broad enough but said the House should not castigate the UN for this.

Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste—Lapointe) said the means should be taken to solve the Cyprus problem or the Canadian troops should be withdrawn.

Social Credit Leader Thompson said the only hope for a peaceful settlement is through the UN which must have Canada's support.

TUESDAY, Aug. 11

The Commons meets at 2 p.m. to resume consideration of the new tax-sharing agreement with the provincs. The Senate sits at 8 p.m.

No Headway Made in Averting Strike

BRANTFORD (CP)—A three-hour meeting of the labor department conciliation board with management and unions Monday made no headway toward averting a strike of United Auto Workers' Union (CLC) employees at the Massey-Ferguson plant here.

Members of the UAW Local 458 voted unanimously Sunday to take strike action if the company does not grant them the same benefits and working conditions enjoyed by other company employees across Canada. No date was set for the strike. Negotiations have been continuing since the workers were certified in April. There are about 900 employees.

A meeting between union and management is scheduled for today.

Children Died Accidentally Says Jury

CHICAGO (AP)—Last winter, Leamond J. Fuwell, 29, bought a new refrigerator and put the old one on the back porch of his apartment.

Because he has three children, aged 5, 3 and 2, he tied the door with rope for safekeeping.

Last Friday, three small children of George Hartman, 30, who lives in the apartment beneath the Fuwells, climbed into the old box. The door closed. The children died.

An epilogue to the short lives of Cynthia Hartman, 4, and her brothers, Joseph, 5, and Marvin, 6, was written Monday. An inquest jury voted that they died accidentally.

The inquiry established no evidence as to what happened to the rope which Fuwell tied around the old refrigerator.

Hartman is a clerk in a downtown food market. He and his wife, Eileen, moved into the basement flat after their house burned last year and their possessions were destroyed.

The Hartmans have one child left to them, Eileen, five weeks old.

The deaths point up a safety problem which affects children everywhere. It has not been solved despite U.S. legislation which has required push - out doors on refrigerators made since 1958, and state laws requiring that doors be removed from discarded refrigerators.

Each year a dozen or more children die in the United States of suffocation in idle refrigerators. In 1962, the toll reached a high of 32.

Brighton Man To Aid African Delegations

OTTAWA — James McAuley, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McAuley of Brighton, Ont., has been named liaison officer for the delegation from Kenya and Uganda to the Third Commonwealth Education Conference.

A former Trenton high school pupil and fourth year honors student in Political Science of Carleton University, Mr. McAuley was selected as one of 17 liaison officers in a competition involving 1,200 candidates for about 60 summer jobs in the federal civil service.

The Commonwealth Education Conference, a ministerial level forum, will take place in Ottawa August 21 to September 4. The 16 delegations from Commonwealth countries and territories will review present schemes and study possible extension of cooperation in a variety of educational fields.

Prior to the Conference, Mr. McAuley is assisting in preparations for the arrival of the delegations from Kenya and Uganda. He is also participating in research on conference subjects, which will include training of teachers, technical teachers, the Commonwealth Scholarship and Fellowship Plan, mass media in education, and technical education.

At the Conference itself, he will work with the delegates among whom will be Hon. D. Arap Moi, Minister of Education for Kenya and Hon. Dr. J. S. I. Zake, Minister of Education for Uganda. He will help facilitate arrangements, and accompany delegates on Conference tours to Quebec City, Stratford and Niagara Falls.

Mr. McAuley, who worked in Kenya last summer with Operation Crossroads Africa, requested the African delegations. He intends to work on his thesis this fall at Carleton. Negotiations in the media would include the educational possibilities. This is one of the subjects with which the conference will be dealing.

The first two Commonwealth Education Conferences were held in Oxford, 1959 and New Delhi, 1962.

Former Governor - General, the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey was President of the Ottawa Conference.

Autopsies Show Two Civil Workers Shot

NEW YORK (AP)—A Brooklyn medical examiner performed autopsies on the bodies of two of the three civil rights workers killed in Mississippi, said Monday that both were shot, but only one — the Negro — was beaten.

Dr. David M. Spain was ordered to perform the autopsies by the parents of the slain youths. He did not examine the third body because the family did not request it.

Results of the official autopsy performed in Mississippi have not been released. One Mississippi official was quoted as saying most of the bodies showed any signs of a beating.

Spain, a professor of clinical pathology and member of the medical committee for human rights, said James Chaney, 21, the Negro, had suffered a severe beating with either a blunt instrument or a chain and was shot three times.

To speculation that the injuries might have been caused by the bulldozer or drag line used to unearth the bodies from the dam where they were buried, Spain said there "could be no other explanation except a severe beating."

On the other hand, he said the body of Michael Schwerner, 24, showed no bone or skin injuries, or other evidence of a beating.

Injunction Is Continued Against Printers

TORONTO (CP) — An interim injunction, restraining printers from calling their dispute with the three Toronto daily newspapers a lockout and limiting the number of pickets at newspaper plants, was continued indefinitely Monday by an Ontario Supreme Court judge.

Mr. Justice Edson Haines continued the injunction he granted the newspapers Thursday.

It will continue pending trial of a damage action launched by the papers — The Globe and Mail, a morning paper; and The Star and The Telegram, evening papers — against members of Local 91 of the International Typographical Union (CLC) and two of the union's international representatives.

About 680 union members walked off their jobs July 9, declaring the publishers' attempt to institute new work rules constituted a lockout. The newspapers have continued to publish, using supervisory and non-union personnel in their composing rooms.

In a written decision, Mr. Justice Haines ruled that the dispute was not a lockout as described in the Ontario Labor Relations Act. He said the applicant easily established a "balance of strong prima facie case that the argument would succeed at trial to win the continued injunction.

"Given my opinion it has done so," he wrote, stating that the continued use of the term was "defensive picketing."

The injunction limits pickets to 13 at The Globe and Mail, to 15 at The Star and to 23 at The Telegram and three at each entrance of garages and plants owned by the newspapers elsewhere in the city.

Said

ing system to reinforce the tendency to agreement.

In addition, a system of "policing the bidding" was used to discourage attempts by outsiders to compete in the territories allocated to each other by the growers.

The commission said the highway department and the municipal authorities agreed to award surfacing contracts at prices higher than they would have in competitive bidding and accept petition among the spray companies."

ILLUSION CREATED

It said an "illusion of competition" was created to lull the customer into believing he had the benefit of careful bidding in an open market where sufficient competition in the trade would keep prices to a fair minimum.

"Arrangements among the contractors to lessen the risk of competition were necessarily broader in geographical scope than for the municipal," the report said.

Solving problems arising from the latter could generally be solved by agreements among local contractors, but there were many more firms whose co-operation was necessary in a division of the distribution areas in both cases, the system of overcoming competition among the contractors was the same.

"It was agreed that one company would be the low bidder on tenders called in a certain highway division or in a certain municipality, as to which it ought be, and the others would by prearrangement file higher bids to create the illusion of the award of the contract."

The assigning of departmental work was generally the subject of a meeting of contractors held once or twice a year. Such meetings decided the geographical division which would be recognized as the territory of each contractor.

The establishment of these areas did not guarantee there would be no competition from contractors outside the group but "it was generally accepted an assurance" of provincial and municipal contracts in the assigned areas," the report said. Some witnesses, termed conservative by the commission, indicated a 60-to 70-per-cent degree of success in the companies obtaining contracts.

The report said that "where an outsider seemed likely to get the work who had the consent of his fellow contractors that a contract was to be his would see to it that the outsider did not get the contract unless the newcomer were prepared to bid at cost or less."

Evidence that a civilization of superior knowledge existed north of Trenton 2,000 years ago has been unearthed north of the town by two young local boys. Rev. Paul Finlan, 12, of Trenton and his friend turned their findings over to him after they decided they had uncovered something important.

Paving Crews Are Showing Good Progress

TRENTON — Paving crews have started work in earnest on Dundas St. East, and are proceeding at an almost unbelievable rate.

One local taxi driver reports his fares astounded at the fact that paving has actually started. He told a reporter yesterday he had taken a number of persons several blocks out of their way (at their request) to "see it with their own eyes," and that they were not deterred, even when he pointed out the extra blocks would cost them ten cents more.

Prepare Gardens For Convention

TRENTON — Armed with mops, brooms and pails, 40 volunteer workers, Jehovah's Witnesses from Trenton, Belleville and nearby congregations, moved into the Trenton's Community Gardens Arena Tuesday morning for a clean-up blitz, preliminary to the opening on Thursday of their four-day Watch Tower District assembly.

Laurier Saumur, convention manager, has been in Trenton for several weeks organizing the operations which have been submitted to the Department of Highways for approval. The road itself will not be completed until the spring of 1965, but when completed, will provide drivers and motorists an easy access from Highway 401 to Highway 33 and so on to Prince Edward County, and vice versa.

MEMBERS ATTEND

Last Saturday, Master Percy Downs led a contingent of 47 members of the Trenton Royal Black Preceptory No. 19 over to the Grand March. Preceptory members from Frankford, Picton, Belleville, Madoc, Tweed, Norwood and Havelock also travelled by bus to the annual event.

In the evening, a second march was held, and 80 bands from all over Ontario provided marching music.

KNOCKED TO GROUND

Miss Ida Cole, 77, of 33 Leonard St., Trenton, was treated by Dr. M. A. Bishop yesterday afternoon after she had been knocked to the ground by a car at the rear of a grocery store on Bridge street in Trenton. Miss Cole suffered slight bruises. The car was being driven by Muriel Grace McKnaghten of 36 Elizabeth St., Trenton, and was backing out of the store parking lot at the time of the accident.

Residents Now Pleased With New Landfill

TRENTON — Even the Stanley Heights residents admit that the town is doing a splendid job on the sanitary landfill job in the former gravel pit, and some of them go so far as to say the pit is beginning to look downright attractive since the sides are sloped in with fill pushed down from the sides.

Arie Hoornweerd at the town office said yesterday the southwest corner of the pit needs filling now, but work will be slowed since the bulldozer borrowed from the Rayner Construction Company is being used on Sidney street. Mr. Hoornweerd wouldn't commit himself as to when the pit job would be completed, but said, "possibly a few months".

Once the pit has been filled to the required height and the sides sloped down, the town is expected to turn it over to the Trenton Parks Board.

WILL OPEN TENDERS

At a meeting in Cobourg on Aug. 17, the members of the Trenton and Suburban Road Commission will open tenders for paving the new development road in Hoornweerd Park. Tenders were called in July.

Meanwhile, Northumberland County engineer, Gordon Hall, has prepared three sketch drawings of the proposed bridge on Percy street. These have been submitted to the Department of Highways for approval. The road itself will not be completed until the spring of 1965, but when completed, will provide drivers and motorists an easy access from Highway 401 to Highway 33 and so on to Prince Edward County, and vice versa.

The remains of a skull buried before the birth of Christ is compared with another some 350 years old (right) dug up at Carrying Place several years ago. Among the articles found in the same grave with the latest significant archaeological find were half a woman's jaw bone (bottom row left); three femi.cs (thigh bones); a tibia (lower leg bone); two conch gourgels; several handsful of lead-silver (galena) ore; enough beads to make a belt of three and a solid copper adze used for hollowing out logs. The remains were covered with customary red ochre, relative to the era.

Skulls, Parts of Skeletons, Found on Wooler Road Farm

TRENTON — Two skulls, parts of skeletons and Indian artifacts, thought to be at least 2,000 years old, have been found on a farm on the Wooler Road. The find was made Saturday by a bulldozer operator, engaged in clearing off surface sand from a sand pit on the farm. The owner of the sand pit has asked that his name be withheld for fear curious persons descend on the farm and damage the site before experts can rule on whether or not the graves found are the nucleus of an Indian burying ground.

The skulls, bones, artifacts, etc., have been removed to the Courthouse here, and treated by Mr. Squiers, an Indian affairs expert. Mr. Squiers has written to Dr. Emerson of the Ontario Department of Anthropology, describing the find and is awaiting direction from him as to further action.

Mr. Squiers says the remains smack of the Point Peninsula Indian era, or even earlier, but refuses to hazard a guess as to their actual age. The skeletons found were buried in shallow graves in red ochre, an iron ore product.

"This is a unique find," said Mr. Squiers today, "this type of burial is not common to the Trent Valley."

In the graves were found chunks of nickel, cobalt and galena, the site being possibly alive. An almost perfect breastplate, formed of conch shell, and fragments of other breastplates were also found. Conch (fish) shells are found along the Atlantic coast and in the southern states, mostly Florida. Beads also fashioned of conch shell were also found.

Previous finds of graves where the red ochre covered the bodies, have been made further north in the Madoc area.

Unpromising Venture

Of all the unpromising, and unnecessary, government projects, surely none outranks a venture into the field of entertainment films.

Yet that is what the Pearson Government proposes to do. State Secretary Lamontagne says it is proposed to underwrite the costs of producing feature-length films of high quality in Canada.

The National Film Board has frequently been criticized. But the Film Board operates in an entirely different field. It makes documentary films of the highest quality, many of them dealing with subjects which are of deep interest only to Canadians and which would, therefore, be ignored did the Film Board not deal with them.

There is all the difference in the world between a government-operated organization covering this field and the government helping to finance private companies competing in the field of entertainment.

There is no business in which salaries to a few people are so exorbitant as in movie making. The home market for Canadian films would be restricted by small and since many movie-making companies have tie-ups with theatre operators it might be doubly difficult to penetrate the export market. Even if success crowned their efforts The benefits to the nation would be small compared with what might be achieved in other, more utilitarian fields.

If any group of Canadians has the courage to enter this field on its own initiative, without governmental assistance, we say more power to it, and we wish it well.

But let us have no government subsidies—which is what a federal loan fund for the film industry would amount to.

Unkind Cut

Naldo Bracci is chairman of the White River Improvement District.

Earlier this year a judicial inquiry was held into charges that he had used his position to gain virtual economic control of the region, which lies on the northwest shore of Lake Superior.

The inquiry cleared him.

Now Mr. Bracci says it is too bad that the law does not permit the cost of the inquiry, between $7,000 and $8,000, to be shared only by those who signed the petition requesting it.

Actually this would not make a great deal of difference if the cost were shared equally, for there were 122 petitioners and there are only 169 ratepayers.

What may be nagging Mr. Bracci, understandably, is that he is one of the 47 ratepayers who did not sign the petition and that he will not only have to pay a share of the costs of the inquiry, but the share is likely to be much larger than most, because he is a large property holder.

This does seem a bit unfair. But Mr. Bracci hardly qualifies as a judge of fairness, since his proposal to limit the cost of the inquiry to the petitioners is obviously not practical. If this policy were followed, it would be a brave taxpayer, indeed, who would demand an inquiry when he thought that municipal affairs were not being conducted properly. Such a policy would almost amount to an invitation to wrong doers.

If even one taxpayer can produce enough evidence to convince provincial government officials that an inquiry should be held, then all taxpayers should share in the costs.

Except, possibly, a man like Mr. Bracci who, as the accused, must have incurred costs of his own, and as a man found guiltless might reasonably be spared the unkindest cut of all, the burden of a share of the cost of the investigation of his own faultless conduct.

Why the Beef?

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker told a Progressive Conservative barbeque at Petrolia that he has never seen a government place less legislation before Parliament than the Pearson Government.

We don't know why he is complaining. There is no evidence that he and his colleagues are experiencing any difficulty in talking more and more about what he describes as less and less.

I believe that moderation is a far higher virtue than abstention. It involves a much higher degree of self-control and the effort lasts much longer.—Claud Mullins, a former London, England, magistrate.

Ottawa Offbeat

$55,000 Chandeliers Light Way in Rebuilt West Block

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Seems like only yesterday that Howard Green, for 27 good and faithful years a Vancouver Conservative MP, discovered that the External Affairs Department had paid $2,000 each for a pair of hall mirrors in the Canadian Embassy at Rio.

And all of a sudden, in the Commons, the apparent enormity of it even impressing the Government of that day.

Standards must be changing, or maybe it is just the rising cost of living—but the administration's as well as everybody else's—for the Government of THIS day has just finished spending $55,000 for six chandeliers in the West Block of Parliament Hill.

And nobody has so much as raised an eyebrow, let alone his voice.

It was back maybe 11 or 12 years ago that Howard Green, who was always a fine old scold on the Government's Estimates, by dint of prying, prodding and poking, dragged from reluctant External Affairs Department executives the first $4000 story of the two mirrors, and the House of Commons Oh'd and Ah'd and Gee Whizzed about it for days.

Then, everybody was embarrassed.

SO WHAT

This time, though, there was nothing secret about the six chandeliers at a cost of $9,166.50.

Nobody had to prod, poke or pry loose the information from a red-faced Government.

Just ask the questions and you get the answers.

They all say that sura, it sounds like quite a price to pay — but what the heck

Each a great cluster of glittering cut glass, 10 feet deep and six feet across, the chandeliers, salvaged from the wrecking of an old Government House in Liverpool, came at $9,000 the copy. Packing, freight, insurance, customs duties, sales tax and installation bumped the bill to the $55,000.

They swing now from the ceiling of the new and spectacular VIP reception, dining (and dance) hall where the Government and Parliament entertain the visiting great and near-great.

It is quite a sight to see 350,000 light up every time somebody presses the wall switch button.

This $55,000 beacon is almost like an advertising sign, flashing word of the latest in lopsided changes that have come to Parliament Hill with the $8,000,000 rebuilding of the 100-year-old West Block.

It used to be that MPs were doubled up, two to a small room in the Centre Block, each with a desk jammed in opposite corners of the limited space allotted, often sharing the services of one over-worked stenographer.

Now every man has his own office — giant-sized if located in the Wood Block — and works in wall-to-wall carpeted comfort, often with the place tastefully draped, and has his own secretary.

PROFESSIONAL STUFF

A few of the more artistic MPs have called in the interior decorators in to give the office the professionally chic touch.

And in the process have spent much more than 20 years ago that former Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who was then a war mounting, appointed a special "Controller of Economy," as his office was called, and it was discovered that some Civil Servants and even a few MPs had somehow wangled rugs for their offices.

The rugs had been requisitioned from the Dept. of Public Works Department; and Mr. King's sense of the economic fitness of things was outraged when he learned that a couple of those carpets were even monogrammed. Mr. King, we happ two, of the Big Brass at National Defence Headquarters had had the luxury of their services woven into the pattern of their carpets.)

The prime minister's emergency-appointed Economy Controller set up shop in a small back office. For a couple, he threw planks over two sawhorses and covered them with blank newsprint, thumbtacked down. And he hired one stenographer to bat out his bulletins, to Junior Civil Servants and Cabinet Ministers alike, on how to save money.

Everybody got into the act, from rugs, and Cabinet Ministers even dispensed with their expensive embossed official letterhead. There were savings all over the place.

Mr. King and his Economy Controller, a crusty old character, Colonel John Thompson, would probably keel over in horror, shocked to the very roots of their thrifty beings, if they could see that $55,000 light up today like some Broadway white neon spectacular.

Reporters Vs. Politicians

London Free Press

Relations between politicians and newspapermen sometimes get so sticky that only the fact that dueling is unfashionable, as well as illegal, precludes the shedding of blood. Most men in public life have a simple, black-and-white motto concerning the Fourth Estate: If you're not for me, you're against me.

Charges that some members of the Diefenbaker Press Gallery gave inaccurate and unfair coverage of proceeding there were aired at the Couchiching Conference in a debate all too familiar to the reporters present.

A one-time cabinet minister, E. Davie Fulton, felt that the Press Gallery often pilloried an M.P. "to show how incompetent he is." Well, quite a few members are incompetent. Are the reporters expected to conceal what is self-evident?

It seems impossible for some politicians to believe that gallery correspondents are not the paid slaves of one of the parties in the House. Laudatory reports are welcome, critical ones are taken to be proof positive that the scribe is part of a conspiracy to defame the member concerned.

In truth, most Press Gallery writers are so over-exposed to politics and politicians that they are forced into neutrality after a few months in the House. They soon learn to separate the phonies from the statesmen, of whom all parties have their share.

Charles Lynch, head of Southam News Services, summed up the correspondents' side of the case by saying, "Reporting is not a popularity contest." It is the job of to observe that he always felt he must be losing his objectivity when a politician or learned writing the quality of his stories.

To be sure, there are incompetent Press Gallery men at work in politics, but life is usually much harder on the former. No reporter ever got in the job of scapegoatery, and few can hold their positions by the practice of dishonesty or slanted writing.

Much of the art of politics is carried on behind closed doors, but reporting is there for everyone to see.

Bureaucracy Multiplies

Hamilton Spectator

Opposition leader John Diefenbaker had a good point when he charged Mr. Pearson's government with sponsoring a "multiplication of bureaucracy" in the administration of the country.

The basis for Mr. Diefenbaker's charge was the fact that the federal civil service has increased its strength by some eighteen thousand members since May, 1964.

This is especially surprising since many permanent civil servants in Hamilton are being placed on what is known as an "official retrench list" a year as a result of the cut - back in defence, yet among the 19,201 employees added to the government payroll, 2,181 of them were added to the national defence department.

In this regard Mr. Diefenbaker was dead right on his record. According to Canada's Year Book, between 1920 and 1961 the number of civil servants in the country increased by 1,060 and between 1961 and 1962 by 750. Such a growth seems modest enough.

However, the increase in the number of civil servants during Mr. Fearson's sixteen months in office, stacked up against the much restricted reduction in the defence department, doesn't seem to make sense.

New Car, Yes New Idea, No

Windsor Star

People are odd. They will readily accept a new car, a new machine or a new dress even though these may differ radically from those to which they are accustomed. Indeed, they want these, and many other products, just because they are new.

The same people, however, may reject a new idea or a new policy just because it is strange and different. They will hesitate and argue, positively even for years, before accepting some change which is in their own interests. Yet, who, in finally comes, they will wonder why it was so long delayed.

We came upon a neat phrase the other day. It was: "We condemn as wrong what is merely alien." The advice was that every new idea is worthy of consideration before it is condemned. It should not be denounced only because it is strange.

Bleaching Is Painless Way Of Fading Facial Hair

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have this problem of facial hair.

I have heard that a mixture of half peroxide and hair household ammonia, adding soap flakes to form a paste, and applying to the face for 30 minutes will bleach the hairs.

Would this be safe to try? — R. B.

I'm against it on the grounds that there is too much chance of irritating the skin, not to mention having to smell that ammonia at such short range.

I think you will get just as good a bleaching effect by using "20 volume" peroxide which you can get at the drug store, without the fuss and fumes of the other mixture. Try it and see.

Bleaching, in my observation, is a very successful answer to facial hair.

An alternative to use a depilatory, which dissolves the hair at the skin line. The process has to be repeated when the hair grows out again. For some, this is a satisfactory method. Others, however, find that depilatories irritate the skin.

Finally, permanent removal of the hair by electrolysis is possible, but since each hair root has to be destroyed individually, it is a time-consuming process.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is St. Vitus Dance? What causes it? Is it curable? Does it affect the heart? — Mrs. H. T.

St. Vitus Dance, or a jerky sort of movement, is a symptom which sometimes occurs with rheumatic fever. Although rheumatic fever can be treated successfully with penicillin, sometimes with other antibiotics.

The rheumatic fever (a streptococcus infection) is extremely dangerous to the heart, since it tends to scar the valves. Early diagnosis and treatment can keep that problem a minimum.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are urinary, kidney and bladder infections the same? If different, which could be the most serious? — E. A.

The urinary tract in the broadest sense includes kidney, bladder and connecting ducts (ureters, etc.).

The kidneys are first in the whole tract because, your urine, the blood stream flows through the kidneys and they filter out waste matter which then is disposed of through the urine.

The urine (including waste matter) goes to the bladder, where it is held until it is expelled.

If infection occurs in the kidneys, it is to be expected that the infection will also be carried along to the bladder. On the other hand, it is possible for some harmful infection to be present in the bladder, and not work its way upward to the kidneys. If you "might suspect" one of the doctor's pals, if bladder infection is present, is to suspect it may be moving backward and upward to the kidneys.

So a kidney infection, generally speaking, must be regarded as more serious than a bladder infection, but both may be present at the same time, and both or either would be a "urinary infection."

Dear Dr: Is epilepsy hereditary? — D. L.

There are different types of epilepsy, and different causes. There can be a hereditary factor at times, but in general there is no reason why most people with epilepsy should not have children. (There are some exceptions.)

Our Education Usually Begins With Childhood

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

If a muscle isn't used, it atrophies. If a child were kept in bed for the first six years of his life, he would most likely be a paralytic for the rest of his life, which the same is true for the brain. I am convinced that by the time formal education begins, at the age of 6, quite a experience has already determined how much and how well the child will learn. I am equally convinced that six years of age is three years too late.

If the child is not intellectually and imaginatively stimulated from the time he is able to walk and talk, then the "cultural imprint" will most likely be lasting for a lifetime, except for the very brightest. We cannot expect school to provide what the home environment has failed to give — this is the great, and fatal, fallacy of our whole educational system.

No doubt, there are inherent differences in intelligence and ability. But I think that these differences are as great as they seem to be. We know for instance, that the I.Q. score is not an absolute — it rises if the child is transferred to a more stimulating environment. Much of what we consider "innate" intelligence is culturally conditioned.

But, as the child gets older, the "imprint" becomes harder to change. In adults, it is almost impossible. On the physiological level, which I am not "reducing" in its ways, the neurological circuits become set, and no new paths can be created.

(Experiments with young cats and baby monkeys, for example have shown that investigation of the motor cortex can be compromised for: but in mature cats and adult monkeys, the damage is irreversible. Beyond a certain age, apparently, the brain organism becomes rigid.

Children have a much faster learning capacity than we realize. They have more creative, imaginative, and even conceptual powers than we like to give them credit for. If these powers are not utilized and, worse, if they are inhibited in any way, a child may lose most of his interest in, or curiosity, exploration, and problem-solving.

By the time he enters first grade, if these tendencies have been curbed or ignored, the learning process becomes extremely difficult for him it is an emotional as well as an intellectual problem. Some "circuits" have already been closed off, and the child will have to work twice as hard to accomplish half as much. That the "education" of children begins nearly at birth is the reason we must still learn, if we want to produce humans who can keep pace with our accelerated demands.

Analogous Situations

Montreal Le Devoir

The Canadian - American Assembly met recently at Mont Gabriel, Que., in an atmosphere of friendship.

Between Canada and the United States there exists a profound community of interests and aspirations. No friction can erase that fact.

But friendship evolves in the measure that it is living in this case it is being affected by a phenomenon more striking than it ever was — English-Canadian nationalism.

English Canada in its relations with the United States is going through an experience not unlike that of French Canada towards its English - Canadian partner.

Faced with his American neighbor, the English-Canadia knows he is in a minority. Having studied geography he knows that a brutal rupture would be unthinkable. At the same time he wants to be different from the American. . . . The American reacts towards the English - Canadian somewhat as the English - Canadian does towards his French-Canadian fellow citizen. He listens readily. He can help him spell out his complaints and fears. At the end he is hardly moved or affected.

The new English-Canadian nationalism has expressed itself during the few years mainly in the field of Canadian-American economic relations and in foreign policy. This nationalism is intelligent, positive, energetic. It has led to serious blunders, like those contained in the first Gordon budget. But it comes from sources rooted deeply in Canadian history. It rests on the strong conviction that Canada, have also its history and its own social characteristics, has a unique vocation. . . .

Faced with the American giant, English-Canadian nationalism seems like a complex-ridden dwarf. Associated more intimately with French-Canadian nationalism it could be a more effective reflection of a political ideal which the ever-present United States would have greater difficulty in ignoring. — Claude Ryan. July 2 8

Equality Indivisible

Equality, like peace, is indivisible. It is a truth too often ignored. Tom Mboya, minister for justice and constitutional affairs in Kenya, recently joined in a legislative debate on a new citizenship bill. One of the legislators wanted to limit citizenship to black men. Mboya took bad leave to say, Take note of Kenya, and ed over the world:

"We cannot be one hand say, Take not of Kenya, and on the other say To hell with everything else the world believes in.

"We cannot say that South Africa is wrong in principle, when at some it is right for you to discriminate."

On index, golds were down .46 to 132.96 and the exchange index .06 to 89.39. Base metals were up .46 to 65.39 and western oils .36 to 97.47.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP)—Led by base metals, the stock market made an impressive gain in moderate trading today.

Steep Rock climbed 55 cents to a 1964 high of $6.25 in the surging base metals group. Hudson Bay and Falconbridge were ahead ¾ each to 66¼ and 73¼. Opemiska tacked on 15 cents to 80 and Quemont rose ½ to 36¾.

Gains in the industrial list were mainly fractional, but they were widespread. Chrysler rose ⅛ to 55¾ and Dofasco ⅝ to 24⅜. B-A Oil and Bell Telephone were up to 39¾ and 56⅛ while ¼ gains went to Alberta Gas at 35¼ and Canadian Breweries at 11¼.

Prices moved irregularly Monday as the market lacked leadership from New York.

Volume of 2,713,000 shares, the lowest since March 9 when 2,186,000 shares changed hands, reflected the uncertainty of investors.

Industrials fell .15 on index to 158.34. Losers were generally small and outnumbered gains by 108 to 86. Steels and heavy industry led the main list lower with Dofasco off ⅝ to 24¼, Stelco eased ¼ to 26, Aluminium ⅜ to 31¼ and Massey-Ferguson ⅛ to 27. Dominion Stores was off ⅜ to 22 and Bell Telephone ½ to 56.

Skin Divers Find No Damage To Freighter

MONTREAL (CP) — Skin divers examined the bow of the Cuban freighter Marfa Teresa Monday but were unable to determine whether any damage had been caused by an explosion at the ship's berth in Montreal Harbor Sunday.

A port official, however, said the ship had not suffered "even a paint scratch" and the freighter's captain, Maximino Chacon, said it would sail to Cuba today on schedule with a cargo of baby food and powdered milk.

The RCMP said no progress had been made in their investigation of the explosion, which injured no one, but placed a heavy guard near the 1,000-ton vessel.

Responsibility for the blast was claimed by the Cuban Nationalist Association in New York City, opponents of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's regime.

Felipe Rivero, head of the group, said members of the association had planted a bomb, boarded the ship and "seized official important documents" of which they would make public "if that will help the cause of Cuban liberation."

Another group, which group "Accion Cuba," also claimed credit for the explosion.

Premier Castro attributed responsibility to a third group. He blamed the Central Intelligence Agency of the United States for the incident and demanded the Canadian government make a full investigation.

Captain Chacon denied that anyone had boarded the ship.

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Martin told the Commons Monday night the explosion of a protest to the United States over the bombing is being considered.

Mr. Martin said in reply to Gerald Baldwin (PC — Halifax) that investigation is proceeding into the explosion.

Mr. Baldwin suggested that a protest might be necessary since Cuban exiles in New York claimed credit for the bombing. He said the matter involves the safety of Canadian stevedores who might be working on Cuban vessels in loading ammunition.

Tom Barnett (NDP — Burnaby-Coquitlam) asked whether Cuban ships are in fact loading ammunition in Canadian ports.

Mr. Martin replied he did not anything to what he said in reply to Mr. Baldwin.

Earlier, Transport Minister Pickersgill said two RCMP officers have been on the wing when the explosion occurred as a result of warnings of a possible bombing. A diver in Cuban ish was found in a nearby pier shed.

Pension

reduce business savings, and impair the competitive position of Canadian industry.

In reply, the government said total contributions to the federal plan by employees and employers, would mean in 1966 an additional only about two pe. cent to total labor costs in Canada. It added:

"Over the next decade, average wages and salaries in Canada have risen by three to four per cent a year. These additional costs have been largely absorbed by rising productivity and Canadian prices have remained among the most stable, and the country's competitive position has strengthened."

But in practice the impact of contributions would not fall equally on business costs.

In some cases, the cost would be offset by reduced contributions to corporate pension plans. There would be some drop in tax receipts, because the contributions are deductible.

MAY RAISE PRICES

"Some part of the cost may be passed on by companies, because business may raise prices to offset the pension contributions.

As for "fears" about the impact of the plan on private savings, the government said the maximum effect would occur if everyone paid his contributions out of his own otherwise would be saved. If that happened, the Canada Pension Plan in 1966 would absorb about five per cent of all personal and corporate saving in Canada.

"That will not happen, because in fact all the contributions will not be made out of savings."

The document said that the most important predictable effect of the plan will be that in the first 10 years of operations, with an average of $400,000,000 year would becomes available to the British provincial governments. With the pension fund money available to them, the provinces would have less need to borrow from private investors.

since Thursday Cypriot security force casualties totalled 21 dead and 56 wounded.

Cypriot security forces had fully complied with the Security Council's cease-fire resolution, the statement added.

It warned the press against publication of "false and exaggerated" reports of operations and efficiency of forces to sustained during battles and air raids.

In Paris Turkish Chief of Staff Gen. Cevdet Sunay today met Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, Supreme Commander Allied Forces Europe, for talks on the Cyprus crisis.

The Turkish Air Force began its retaliation raids after the Greek-Cypriots opened a drive Aug. 5 on the only remaining Turkish - Cypriot coastal strip. The Cyprus government charged that Turkish troops and arms were being landed at the Turkish-Cypriot fishing village of Kokkina.

A Cyprus government spokesman said the air attacks failed to drive Greek-Cypriot troops from their newly - acquired territory. He said government forces had entered the villages of Mansoura and Alevga in the fast few days.

Cypriot President Makarios was welcomed by villagers Monday as he toured a hospital in Kitms, where more than 100 Greek - Cypriots were being treated for wounds suffered in the air attacks.

The crisis left the government and Cypriot economy reeling, impairing the political strength of Archbishop Makarios. Rightists and leftists have bashed and exchanged angry words over whether to count on Greece or the United Nation for help, informants said.

BOTH DISAPPOINTED

Both factions were disappointed by the less than wholehearted support they received from Greece and the Soviet Union.

In Athens, Greek Premier George Papadreou indicated he does not look favorably on a takeover Cyprus with Turkey.

Papadreou and Undersecretary partner in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Welcoming the cease-fire, Papadreou said Monday night:

"The Greek government repeats the assurance that it will support peace and will contribute to achieving a peaceful and just solution of the Cyprus problem."

The Cypriot government admitted it turned to Russia for military aid as soon as the Turkish air attacks started. But as government sources denied Egypt and Syria also were asked for military help.

Russia did not acknowledge it was asked for military aid, but Soviet Premier Khrushchev made it plain in a message to Makarios that his government was on the side of the Greek-Cypriots.

BLAME MAKARIOS

In Ankara, a Turkish government spokesman accused Makarios of trying to push Greece into a war with Turkey, but he added:

"As far as we know the Greek government wants to avoid any conflict with Turkey. We do not want it. But if there is a war, Makarios will bear the sole responsibility."

Greece took the view that Monday's attack by two F-104 jets on the town of Polis may have been the result of a delay in transmission of orders to some Turkish air bases. The Greek-Cypriots claimed 19 persons were wounded when the jets strafed the village square.

A Turkish government spokesman denied the planes had opened fire. He said they flew over Cyprus because the Greek-Cypriots broke an official truce by resuming their attack on Kokkina, about 10 miles away. The pilots also said Greek planes bombed the village. Greece denied this.

A Greek-Cypriot spokesman also said Turkish planes Monday bombed a hospital in Pomos, killing all the wounded who were being treated there.

3 White Men Held as Killers Of Negro Woman

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)— Three white men were jailed on murder charges today while police sought a fourth in the fatal shooting of a Negro woman during race riots last March.

The arrests late Monday came on the heels of clues uncovered by Secretary Sgt. Ronald Cunningham and Lee Coty while investigating an unrelated crime.

Held without bond were Jerry Rich, 21, Wayne M. Chessman, 21, and Charles Esto, 24, of Jacksonville. They are charged with the March 25 death of 35-year-old Mrs. Ann Lee Chappell. She was fatally shot in the stomach while searching for her children during the riots. Several blocks away, police were then trying to quell rioters.

Coleman and Coty said Rich signed a statement saying he fired the fatal shot from a passing car. Chessman and Esto, Chessman signed a statement saying he was in the car at the time. Rich, Chessman and Esto are believed to be the death weapon, has been found, police said.

could be agreed on at the time. The Canadian troops had been "little short of magnificent" and had acted many times to save lives and avert bloodshed.

Mr. Bridger said there is no intention of withdrawing the Canadian contingent from the island. However, he said it could be absold an emergency arise, he is satisfied provision had been made to cope with that situation. He also said that Canada has committed the forces on the basis of confidence in the UN commander, but if there was a conflict, it would have been the end of the NATO alliance, and probably also of UN peacekeeping activities.

COULD MEAN WAR

Events in a small island such as Cyprus could escalate into a global nuclear war, he said.

The holding of the emergency debate was at the suggestment of the scheduled continuation of discussion of a federal-provincial tax-sharing measure. Its disposal precedes resumption of the controversial flag debate.

The tax-sharing measure was listed to be discussed first today.

External Affairs Minister Martin, who spoke for about 15 minutes in a preliminary statement and later for an hour in a more detailed review, noted that Canada's troops in Gaza, UNEF President Archbishop Makarios Sunday that UN forces be used to supervise a cease-fire.

He said Mr. Hilborn had also taken all possible steps to ensure that Canadian troops would be prepared for any contingency, including provision that regard rested with the UN.

FRAISES COUNCIL

Mr. Martin said that without the action of the Security Council events might not have taken a more favorable turn. Mr. Martin said Canada agreed to contribute initially to the UN peace force, there might have been war.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested that some other UN nations make troops available to strengthen the UN force. He also suggested the government assurances that the Canadian troops shall have the necessary power to do the job they were sent to do.

After Mr. Hellyer informed the House that duties of Canadian troops had included helping in bringing in the harvest in Cyprus, Marcel Lambert (PC — Edmonton West) said he wondered whether the right unit had been sent to the island.

Canada's regular unit is the 1st Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson said the only hope for a peaceful settlement is through the UN. Canadian political parties should show a cooperative, non - partisan front over the Cyprus issue.

Factors Bound to Complicate Efforts to Find Solutions

By DOUG MARSHALL

At least two factors, neither encouraging, have been demonstrated in the Cyprus crisis flare-up.

One is the almost total ineffectiveness of the United Nations peace force on the island under its present terms of reference.

The other, revealed by the Cyprus high command's startling statement in London at the height of the crisis, is the Cyprus government's passionate determination to defend its "territorial" integrity even at the risk of starting a third World war.

Even if both parties abide by the cease-fire demanded by the UN Security Council, and some sort of diplomatic machinery is cranked into action, these factors are bound to complicate efforts to find a solution.

TALK OF TERRITORIAL

Before the weekend attacks most of the countries contributing men to the UN force were talking seriously of withdrawing their troops next month.

The Canadians, Irish, Swedes and British making up the 8,000-man force have been frankly harassed, frustrated and frustrated in their efforts to prevent sporadic outbreaks of fighting between Greek and Turkish-Cypriots.

Obliged to obey the legally-constituted government of Cyprus, the UN observers have been forced to stand by helplessly while the Greek-Cypriot community built up its arms and prepared to crush the embattled Turkish minority.

President Makarios' persistent flouting of UN authority his recent appeal to Egypt and Russia for aid and his refusal to let UN forces enter the fighting area, indicate an obsession with victory at any cost.

The general fear in Ottawa is that Makarios took a reckless and irresponsible gamble when he could not be sure that the Turkish minority by force and present the UN, Turkey and the world with a fait accompli.

GAMBLE FAILED

The gamble appears to have failed but the elements of recklessness, the threat to establish an all-Greek state on the whole Middle East ablaze, remains to be reckoned with in any future dealings with the Cyprus government.

Whatever happens, it is clear that the role of the United Nations' presence in Cyprus will have to be re-examined and the forces there given a clearer mandate for their efforts if they are ever to succeed in their allotted task of maintaining order.

COPTER CRASHES

BLACKSTONE, Va. (AP) — A U.S. Army helicopter with four men aboard, and reported to have been carrying explosives, crashed and caught fire Monday night on a farm about eight miles north of here. The four men escaped from the wreckage. Five families were evacuated from homes near the crash scene.

C. Merzagore Takes Over as Italy's President

ROME (Reuters) — Cesare Merzagore began his first day as president of Italy today after taking provisional charge of the post due to the illness of 72-year - old President Antonio Segni.

Segni, president since May, 1962, was in "grave" condition following a stroke four days ago. Hospital officials said he suffered "disturbances of movement and speech."

Senate Leader Merzagore took over Segni's duties under a constitutional provision which provides for the appointment of the Senate president in acting president of the country if the president is incapacitated.

Merzagore, 65, was named a senator for life by Segni last year. He entered the assembly in 1948 as an Independent Christians Democrat and was foreign trade minister from 1947 to 1949 and a former president of the Senate for 11 years.

Italy has no line of succession beyond the president. If he is permanently incapacitated, Merzagore's tenure as provisional president ends when a new president is elected by a joint session of the two houses of parliament.

Turkish

crisis, and reliable sources said it was also ordered to withdraw units from army divisions committed to NATO to form a new division outside Cyprus to combat possible Cyprus operations.

Militarily, the country was reported to be in a state of preparedness than during the weekend when a Turkish invasion had appeared possible.

In a message to the UN Security Council in accepting the UN cease-fire on Cyprus, Prime Minister Inonu said Turkey had halted its air attacks but that this decision as the government can only make sense if the Greek-Cypriot attacks are stopped forthwith ...

Until the UN peace force on Cyprus can effectively control the cease-fire and pacify the island, Inonu said, "the Turkish government will be in constant vigilance."

A government spokesman put Inonu's message in stronger words today, and said aerial reconnaissance flights over the island would be carried on if conditions that existed before Aug. 5, when the latest fighting erupted and Greek-Cypriots advanced into Turkish villages.

Summer Cottage Blues Result of Constant Company

DEAR DORIS — Tell me how to entertain people coming to our cottage fagted and unlivetty.

Should I always be the one to do the work as far as food goes, dishes and so on? I love my cottage but I only get one day a week there as I am working — FRUDENCE.

DEAR PRUDENCE — It's the same old refrain: we call it the Summer Cottage Blues! Yet most guests like to help if somebody organizes them. It should be part of the fun.

At the first get-together (probably sitting around the table with second cups of coffee), discuss it. Say you know everybody wants something, to do and get them agreeing that many hands make light work.

From there it's a short step to getting volunteers for dishwashing, fire tending, sweeping, cooking. Don't be so all-fired eager for perfection that you insist on one hundred percent performance. Praise all efforts, and whistle while you work!

DEAR DORIS — You were a great help before when you sent me information on modelling as a career. I do hope you can help me again.

Is there a Miss Canada just as there is a Miss America? Can you tell me where to write to find out about it? — RUTHIE.

DEAR RUTHIE — There's a Miss Canada chosen every year from an assortment of Canadian beauties; at the Miss Canada pageant, which is held at the O'Keefe Centre, Toronto. For details write to Miss Canada Pageant Headquarters, Royal York Hotel, Toronto, Canada.

DEAR DORIS — Usually when a girl marries, she gradually sees less and less of her former girl friends who have chosen to remain single.

But not always. My particular friend, five years and three pre-school kids later, is still inviting me to her home "for supper" — actually to watch her keep house and listen to her yell at the kids and bicker with her husband.

She is impervious to my numerous excuses of pervious engagements, and instead just tries again in a week or so.

Do you know of any method of conveying a definite NO without giving offence? — BACHELOR GIRL.

DEAR BACHELOR GIRL — I'd hate to think marriage meant cutting off all single contacts. This mother-of-three is offering you hospitality and trying to keep a friendship mended.

Rather than cutting her off, invite her out for dinner. This way she gets a change from her eternal round of child and husband care; and you get the person-to-person chit chat you used to prize.

DEAR DORIS — I am 11 and in Grade five. There are two boys in my class that like me, but I like someone else. One boy keeps writing love letters.

What should I do about going steady with one boy and another loves me? — WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED — Enjoy all your ardent suitors. The temporary-type excitement you are calling love will keep changing. I'll send you the names of some helpful books on dating if you'll send me your name on a stamped envelope and ask for them.

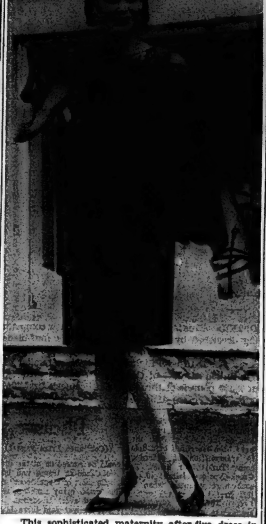
Marriage of Figaro Proves Happy Choice at Stratford

By ROBERT TANNER



Perhaps in celebration of its tenth season of music, the Stratford Festival took a step forward last week with the introduction into its repertory of a second light opera, which will alternate with The Yeomen of the Guard until August 22nd. The choice of The Marriage of Figaro by Mozart is a very happy one because it serves in a most entertaining way as an introduction to the more classic style of opera, at the same time conveying quite a serious message, as indeed do many of the works of Gilbert and Sullivan. It is perhaps of interest that the comedy on which this opera was based was immediately banned in Paris, on its first presentation, for its revolutionary content.

Making his debut as an operatic director, Jean Gascon has given the work a simple suggestion of a sumptuous setting, cleverly executed by Mark Negrin, whose costumes were also a delight to the eye. We were glad to welcome back to Stratford Jan Rubes and Ilona Kombrink, two Canadian singers who seem to have acquired increased stature in stage presence and acting since they were last there in 1959 and 1963 respectively. Mr. Rubes takes the title role as the valet whom we find on the eve of his marriage to Susanna, the lady's maid. Unfortunately, his master, Count Almaviva, also has designs on Susanna; meanwhile Figaro is being pursued by Marcellina, who (as we find out later) is quite literally old enough to be his mother. Dr. Bartolo, a lawyer, and Don Basilio, a disreputable rogue, are what must surely be the most solidly static dancing ever witnessed. The choreography, incidentally, was by the young English dancer, Patrick Hurde, who for some years toured with the National Ballet Company and is now on his way back to England to further his career. The English text, which usually manages to escape the banality which so often is a feature of operatic translations, is by Ruth and Thomas Martin, while the musical direction is by Richard Bonynge.

'FEOMEN' IMPROVED

A return visit to The Yeomen of the Guard showed that this production has settled down and is being well received by enthusiastic audiences. Phoebe's spinning song, which normally opens the opera, has been smoothly deferred until later and the acting of Robert Peters, as Colonel Fairfax, shows considerable improvement over the opening performances. Barry MacGregor's Jack Point is still the poignant high spot of the production.

Together, the two operas make a very pleasant contribution to Canada's musical scene. It is a pity that The Marriage of Figaro is restricted to only nine performances: perhaps it will be repeated next year.

This sophisticated maternity after-five dress in viscose rayon crepe, styled by Jack Margolese, was the winner of the Union Label fashion award as the most outstanding fashion, as well as the best cocktail dress, at the recent judgings of the Fall and Winter collection sponsored by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. The dress features a wrap-around closing with scalloped edge from neckline to hem on one side.

HILLIER W.I.

The Women's Institute members and friends, 37 in all, left early on Wednesday morning for their annual bus trip, going to London for the night and up the Lake Shore drive of Lake Huron, crossing over to Meaford, along Georgian Bay and to Owen Sound and Collingwood. Stops were made along the way to see the many interesting sights. The airport at Toronto was visited also the Pioneers Village near Toronto, the gardens at London and a band concert at night.

The Blue Mountain pottery was visited at Collingwood, many came home with lovely things from this place.

Discover Cookies By Mistake

by Mary Moore

Remember that some man have been raised gentlemen because they have made discoveries by mistake.

The subject of our baking in this instance was to make pinwheel cookies by layering some white cookie dough with some chocolate cookie dough. It was a flop as far as pinwheels were concerned but it did result in some dandy crisp marbled cookies which I am glad we discovered.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked Pork Sausages; Sauteed Fresh Corn with Green Peppers; Vegetable Marrow; Tossed Greens; Lattice Gooseberry Pie (see Monday) with White Cream Cheese; Tea.

MARBLE REFRIGERATOR COOKIES:

½ cup soft butter or margarine, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg yolk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 level tablespoons milk, 1 sq. unsweetened chocolate, melted.

Cream butter; add sugar, egg yolk, vanilla; cream well. Light. (We used the electric beater.) Add sifted dry ingredients and milk and mix well. Divide dough evenly and add chocolate to one-half, working it in until blended. Shape both colors of dough into a mass and place chocolate dough on top of white dough and partially work them together with your buttered hands into one mass of dough, but only enough to give it a marbled effect.

Place on front edge of large rectangle of wax paper. Now press it into a roll about 2" in diameter and roll it up in the wax paper. The wax paper helps you shape the roll. Chill until hard. (This dough is soft so must rest on a level surface.) Or wrap adequately and put in freezer to freeze the unbaked dough for future use. When dough is hard unwrap and with sharp knife cut into ¼" (or thinner) slices, working quickly. Bake on lightly buttered cookie sheet at 375 deg. Fahr. for 8 to 10 minutes. This makes 4 dozen.

NOTES:

1) If you want to make a bigger batch go ahead and freeze the surplus rolls, wrapped in wax paper then slip into plastic freezer bags and seal. 2) If desired you need not combine the doughs but make 2 kinds of refrigerator cookies — one plain, one chocolate. 3) If desired you could add ½ cup finely chopped candied cherries to white dough and bake as is and 4) add ½ cup finely chopped walnuts to chocolate dough and bake as is.

MR. AND MRS. REGINALD FRANCIS IRVINE

Irvine – Dean

Baskets of mixed summer flowers graced the altar of Knox Presbyterian Church at Tuller for the wedding of Muriel Edna Dean of Toronto, daughter of Mrs. Harris Dean of Thomasburg, and the late Mr. Dean to Reginald Francis Irvine, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Irvine, Ivanhoe, Ontario.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Norman Hutchinson of Belleville assisted by Mr. Manthorpe of Roslin, Ontario. Mrs. Howard Wannamaker rendered organ music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Herbert Grills of Peterborough who sang during the signing of the registry.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Clayton Dean of Roslin, and entered the church wearing a white bridal gown of silk organza over taffeta, with floor-length skirt ending in a short train. The fitted bodice had a sabrina neckline, and seed pearls were etched on the front and back of the bodice. She wore a chapel length veil of illusion tulle studded with seed pearls held by an iridescent tiara and pearl crown headdress, and she carried a cascade bouquet of American beauty roses.

Mrs. Evelyn Williams of Bellevile, sister of the bride was matron of honor wearing a fiesta pink street-length gown of organza over taffeta featuring a partial overskirt. Her headdress was a rose with short matching veil, white accessories, and she carried a nosegay of American beauty roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Marion Dean, sister of the bride and Miss Shirley Cooney of Thomasburg. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the matron of honor.

Mr. Douglas Irvine of Halloway was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Vernon Maloy, Oshawa and Mr. Les Williams of Belleville.

The reception was held at the church hall with the Ladies' Aid catering assisted by friends of the bride Misses Linda Ketcheson, Bonnie Smith, Gail Bay, Donna Morton, Eleanor Hart, and Ruth Green. Pink and white streamers with a pendant wedding bell were above the bride's table which was centred with a three tier wedding cake, flanked by tall pink and white candles in silver holders, and the bouquets of the bridal party.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a pink linen sheath with lace over taffeta bodice, white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

The bridegroom's mother assisted in the receiving line wearing a sea shell turquoise linen dress with lace over satin bodice, white accessories, and a pink carnation corsage.

The young couple left on a trip to Evansville, Indiana, and Nashville, Tennessee with the bride wearing a three-piece pink linen suit, white accessories and corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

Out of town guests attended from Indiana, Oshawa, Peterborough, Belleville, Halloway, Stirling, Roslin, Tweed, Thomasburg, Ivanhoe and Marmora.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvine will reside at 40 Tyndall Ave., Apt. 1506, Toronto.

The department of Quality Control presented the with a try pan and toaster. A miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Eva Bradley at the home of Mrs. Roy Mitts, Ivanhoe. MR. AND MRS. ROY M. LESSARD

Lessard – Livingstone

Mauve and purple delphiniums decorated Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses when June Margaret Mary Livingstone, R.R. 2, Frankford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Livingstone became the bride of Roy M. Lessard of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lessard, Madoc.

Mr. Robert A. Joy performed the ceremony and the wedding music was played by Mrs. John Rollins.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and entered the hall in a floor-length gown of white satapeau over taffeta. The gown had a round neck-line, elbow length sleeves and a sheath skirt, accented by a chapel train attached by a cummerbund of Chantilly lace. Her headdress was a crown shaped with lace and sequins and she wore a shoulder-length veil. Her flowers were yellow roses and chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Martin Le Poidevin of Belleville, sister of the bride was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Marion Cowley of Toronto, cousin of the bride, and Miss Sandra Joy of Belleville. All were dressed alike in yellow organza over taffeta with round necklines and short sleeves. The bell shaped skirts had panels of shirred organza. Their head-pieces were yellow organza roses with short bouffant veils and they carried crescent shaped bouquets of white shasta daisies with yellow centres.

A reception was held at Parkdale community centre where bridal bouquets at the bride's table surrounded a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom under an arch of pink flowers.

The bride's mother received wearing a blue and white figured dress with white accessories and corsage of pink sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted in a pale blue dress with matching lace appliques, white accessories and corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The young couple were given a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Joy, Belleville.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

BETTER LATE THAN TOO EARLY

Early or late, you just can't win. The guest who shows up too early for a party is frowned upon just as much as the one who arrives horribly late.

As a matter of fact, being a wee bit late actually endears a guest to a hostess. Most count on people walking in five or ten minutes after they're supposed to, and then come to dithering on having this breather to give a final pat to both hairdo and the flowers at the cocktail table.

In many respects, the latecomer is easier to cope with than the early bird, and the hostess has several alternatives. She can either wait a decent interval for him to show up or she can go ahead, keep to her serving schedule and let him catch up as best he can when he finally puffs in.

But when someone pops in a good half-hour early — or even 15 minutes sooner than expected — her carefully planned timetable is permanently sabotaged. She has to start entertaining immediately, and there's not even a minute left to fluff up either her coif or that lopsided bowl of carnations.

LIMITS FOR LATENESS

There are some agreed-upon limits for lateness, arrived at through trial, error and custom. For instance, without appearing rude or thoughtless, a guest may arrive up to 15 or 20 minutes late for a dinner party; up to an hour late for a large evening party; and anywhere up to half-hour before the end of a cocktail or tea party.

But no such limits have ever been worked out for arriving early. For instance, a guest is not considered less rude or thoughtless if he arrives only 10 minutes early instead of an hour in advance. The hostess just gets more rattled the earlier the guest arrives.

If by chance, and not by design, a guest should arrive way too early, he can make it easier for his hostess by trying to arrive as late as is scarce as possible. Offering to help with last-minute details only adds to the confusion. The best solution to the problem is just to stay out of the hostess' way while she checks over her preparations.

Also, he should make a mental note to double - check invitations in the future, to make sure exactly what time he's expected — then resolve to wait an extra five minutes and ring the bell politely late.

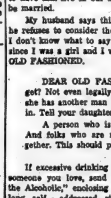
Mothers Will Continue to Work – Expert

OTTAWA (CP) — It is time society faced up to the fact that working mothers are here to stay, says a noted American psychologist in Ottawa to consult with Ottawa's new family development for a group of 150 home economics teachers.

Dr. Glenn R. Hawkes, head of the department of child development at Iowa State University, said Monday in an interview: "There are still too many people who think that if we could only get all these mothers who are holding down jobs outside the homes back with their children, all the current problems of juvenile delinquency and male-female role conflicts would be solved.

"Some people don't seem to realize that we can't give women the opportunity for college training and then encourage them to pursue interesting careers before marriage, and then take all that away from them and put them back behind the drying pan."

Mrs. Hawkes, whose chief research projects have been on the influence of the family on personality development, is here to give a series of 10 lectures to 150 home economics teachers from high and secondary schools.



Dr. Hawkes opened his lecture program Monday by warning the teachers against oversimplifying a complex problem. Later, he told a reporter:

"We're told that by 1970 there will be more women than men in the U.S. labor force and many of these women will have children. I understand that this trend is evident in Canada too."

To meet the problem, adequate day care facilities for the children of working mothers were urgently needed. Ideally, he said, these centres for pre-school children should have one teacher for every 15 children.

Ann Landers

Man Wants to Hire Himself Out as Escort to Women

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is not a gag. I think you are a broad-minded person with a big reading audience and I hope you will help me.

The high cost of living has put me behind the 8-ball. No matter how I try, it is impossible to maintain a good address, decent clothes, and have money left to drive a car and do some interesting things.

I am 29 years old, unmarried, very good looking, an engaging conversationalist and am at home with all types of people.

I would like to make myself available (to high type women only) for $30 an evening plus expenses. I want only to serve as an escort — so please don't assume anything beyond that. I have a new Corvette and a real cut clothes.

ANN LANDERS

Hundreds of women sit at home simply because they do not know an attractive, respectable man who will take them out. I could give a woman a wonderful evening in exchange for this modest stipend.

Will you help me to help them and myself at the same time? — R. M.

DEAR R. M. — I can't think of a printable name to describe your line of work, but "escort service" is a widely employed euphemism. Look in the phone book and line yourself up. (Your city has one.)

P.S. If a dame doesn't have $30, how much would you charge for allowing her to stand at the curb and watch you drive by?

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a 12-year-old girl with a 4-year old problem — my brother.

He is a very good eater when it comes to candy, ice cream and popsicles, but when it comes to regular meals he leaves half his meat and doesn't even touch his vegetables. He hardly ever drinks his milk.

Fifteen minutes after he walks away from the dinner table he is begging mom for popcorn or a glass of lemonade. How come he has room for such things when just a little while before, he said he couldn't eat another bite?

My brother is very skinny and I am afraid he will not grow if he doesn't eat right. I have tried to explain this to him but he doesn't understand. Will you help me? — SISTER OF A SKINNY BROTHER.

DEAR SISTER — You cannot expect a 4-year-old to understand such things, so stop wasting your time. Concentrate on your mother.

She is permitting your little brother to develop some mighty poor eating habits. Children who don't finish their meat and vegetables should not be allowed to fill up between meals on candy and lemonade.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Our daughter is 20 years of age. Alicia's divorce will be final in a few months.

This is our problem: Alicia has been working out of the state. She met a young man and wants to marry him. He has written to ask us if she may bring the young man home with her when she returns in about a month. Alicia wants permission to have him live in our house until he finds a job so they can be married.

My husband says this arrangement sounds scandalous and he refuses to consider the idea — unless you approve it, Ann. I don't know what to say because I realize times have changed since I was a girl and I want to be fair. Can you advise us? — OLD FASHIONED.

DEAR OLD FASHIONED — How lucky can one girl get? Not even legally unwound from one mistake and here she has another man (unemployed yet) all lined up to move in. Tell your daughter nix on the boarder - roomer routine.

A person who is not legally divorced is still married.

And folks who are not married should not be living together. This should put an end to the Great Debate.

Salad Success

A little salad reminder . . . for summer and all year round . . . that salad greens should be as crisp as a crinoline and as cold as a politician's heart! Great green salads use a variety of greens—lettuce, endive, spinach or dandelion greens, celery, and a choice of watercress, parsley, chives or snipped onion tops. And for a "deluxe touch", crumble in a little zesty Canadian blue cheese, then dress it just before serving with your bestest French dressing. There's a salad that IS a salad!

"In the Bag" Picnics

Even try "finger food" suppers, packed in paper bags for easy toting to the picnic spot? With one bag for each "picnicker", service is simplified and the afternoon is a snap, as bags, paper plates, serviettes and cups are tossed into receptacles for same. Food might consist of hamburg or Kaiser buns filled with a nippy cheese and bacon spread, a foil wrapped bundle of raw vegetable nibblers, blue grapes and a fresh pear for out-of-hand eating, some butter cookies or a brownie square, and a carton of cold milk, complete with short straw. Don't the bags with names of recipients in bright colors, or use pictures of the children, drawn free-hand or cut from comics. And, for a thoughtful touch, slip into the envelope containing a prepared (paper) facecloth, newly astringent.

Pies to Perfection

Next time you bake a summer berry pie, remember that fruit pies just love to run out in the oven . . . but they haven't the nerve to try it when there's a little quick - cooking tapioca inside. And by the way, most people like fruit pie served à la mode, so have plenty of ice cream handy to serve your pie fans when their favorite pie comes to the table, still warm from the oven.

Stuff 'em With Goodness

Baked stuffed tomatoes never go amiss for summer lunch or supper time . . . neither do green peppers. Might fill them with macaroni and cheese (don't skimp on that cheese sauce please!) and top them with buttered crumbs or crunchy cereal. Bake till the tomatoes and/or peppers are tender and the macaroni piping hot.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Belleville Jayces trek to Little Britain tonight where they take on the Oshawa Merchants in the second game of the Eastern Ontario senior championships.

The teams may play back here in the third game of the series Thursday night depending on arrangements to be made with the Brockville Beavers in the Ontario Baseball Association eastern senior playdowns.

President Jack Carson of the EOBA, who is the OBA senior convener, said today that we will suspend the Oshawa-Belleville series if the Jayces' management agrees to put the Brockville series under way this week.

With the Belleville Fair slated for next week, Jayces would be at a loss to play a home game. Mr. Carson stated he would give the Belleville club the first home game, probably Thursday with the second slated for Brockville at a date to be set.

Oshawa Merchants, by the way, have withdrawn from OBA competition. Their EOBA series with Jayces will likely be a best-of-five series.

Jayces lead the series, one game to nothing, as EOBA officials declared the first tilt which was halted after four and one-half innings, constitutes a game.

Belleville and Brockville are the only senior clubs east of Toronto in OBA competition. The winners of this series meet the Halton County senior champions. At the moment Dundas, Oakville and Hamilton are in the running for the title.

SOFTBALL

Meanwhile, the Ellis Juniors and Treed Lombanks have finally arrived at a date or dates. The Juniors trek to Madoc tomorrow night for the second game of their four-of-seven finals with the possibility of a fourth game being played here on Thursday night.

On other softball fronts the Commercial leaguers, fully recovered from their hassle with the Umpires, Sunday night, take up their playoff cudgels. Tomorrow night City Hotel goes against the Barrage Landscapers at the Alumite field, while Thursday evening Point Anne tangles with Lightfoots at King George field.

Back to the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association playdowns a bulletin from Secretary Spero Annis states that Cannifton has drawn a bye into the Intermediate "C" series.

In Junior "A" Major Belleville tangles with Oshawa while in the minor ranks Belleville meets Oshawa, with Kingston hooking up with Peterborough in Junior "A" major.

In peewee "A" major the same four cities meet, as do the Tyke "A" major squads.

The bulletin says that all EOBA champions must be ready to play Ontario Baseball Association playdowns by August 29.

"THEM WERE THE DAYS"

In a day of $1,000,000 infields and $300,000 baby bonus players, a newspaper clipping from back in 1941 provides a sharp contrast.

A writer of that period checked the Washington ball club and figured out that the whole infield cost Clark Griffith only $455.

He said Griffith bought Micky Vernon from Seattle for $250 and got Cecil Travers from Joe Engel at Chattanooga who was given $205 for his contract.

Buddy Lewis and Jimmy Bloodworth cost nothing, although Engel shelled out $1820 train fare for transportation from Kid Elberfield's baseball school at Atlanta.

For $455 today you might be able to take a hot shot baby bonus prospect and his family out for a night on the town.

Dark Boils; 'Non-Sliders' Cost Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The case of the missing strawberries could well wind up in files being lofted against two San Francisco Giants following their 2-1 loss Monday night to St. Louis Cardinals, but manager Alvin Dark won't commit himself.

The strawberries in question are the marks habitually picked up on the thighs of players who slide into base when stealing or stretching a hit.

That they are missing from the thighs of Tom Haller and Orlando Cepeda, both tagged out at home trying to score standing up instead of sliding, not only cost the Giants the game, but also raised the temper of Dark near the boiling point.

Immediately after the game, Dark was not sure whether there would be any fines.

"I never announce fines," he said softly, apparently trying to restrain his anger. "That would have to come from somebody else. You have the same game I did."

REDS WALLOP DODGERS

But the only game in National League action, Cincinnati Reds hammered Los Angeles Dodgers 7-2, connecting for a single in the first inning and coasting home from there. The American League was idle.

The plays that caused all the comment in the San Francisco-St. Louis game came in the fifth and eighth innings

In the fifth, with the Giants trailing 2-0, Haller led off with a single. Two outs later, Harvey Kuenn singled, Hal Lanier then popped a single to right Haller lumbering to the plate to find catcher Tim McCarver holding Mike Shannon's eye.

The Giants pulled to within one run in the seventh on Jim Ray Hart's home run and added another threat in the eighth when Cepeda and Hart singled with two out. Shannon then singled to left field and Cepeda came barrelling home from second.

This time McCarver was waiting with Lou Brock's peg.

"We just had the better throw," said Cardinal relief pitcher Ray Sadecki. "He kept the puck out of the net."

Bob Purkey gained the victory for Cincinnati, tossing a four-hitter at Los Angeles.

Vada Pinson connected with a key hit in the first inning, wound up with three hits and Steve Boros drove in three runs as Joe Moeller absorbed his sixth loss in 17 decisions.

Will Not Seek New Term

Frick Will Remain Through 1965

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball's major leagues held a joint meeting Tuesday and learned that Ford Frick will remain commissioner through the 1965 season and that selection of his successor will proceed in orderly fashion.

Frick, 69, announced Wednesday he would not seek a new term and would step down from his $75,000-a-year post when that successor is named. Following a meeting of the major league executive council Frick agreed, however, to stay on the job through the 1965 World Series.

A committee consisting of Frick and presidents Warren Giles of the National League and Joe Cronin of the American League will prepare a report on the functions of the job "in the light of changing times." Until that report is presented to the executive council "and acting," nobody is authorized to screen any candidates for the position.

In other business, the American League approved Los Angeles Angels' move to Anaheim, Calif., beginning in 1966.

Baseball's first baseball meeting since Angel president Bob Reynolds signed a 35-year lease last December for the club to play in a new stadium to be built about 25 miles from Chavez Ravine.

ASKED ABOUT MOVES

The National League interrupted its meeting when Giles, with Milwaukee in mind, asked whether any club desired to request consent to transfer its franchise.

When Giles received no response he asked Braves' representatives whether they had any request to make. The answer was "no."

The National League approved an umpire pension plan which had been orally agreed upon in New York Jan. 6.

An umpire will receive $500 a year for each year of active service after his retirement. Regular retirement is 55, but it is not mandatory.

Ligament Strain Stops Ford

NEW YORK (AP) — The allstar pitching assignments of New York Yankee southpaw Whitey Ford was diagnosed Monday as a ligament strain of the right hip joint.

Team physician Dr Sidney Gaynor said Ford also is suffering from a chronic inflammation of the sacro iliac joint, a calcium deposit. He emphasized however, that the calcium deposit was not the cause of the immediate concern.

A club spokesman said it is hoped the ace would be able to work against the leading Orioles in Baltimore next weekend.

Mays Bounces Back To Fourth

Oliva, Clemente Lead Batting Battles

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Robinson and Chicago White Sox are both in second place in the American League. But his chances of taking over the top spot are far slimmer than his club's.

Robinson collected 11 hits in 20 attempts last week, gaining 15 points to .310. Oliva dropped two points to .334 with 10 hits in 38 tries.

Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees dropped one place to third, with only two hits in 20 times at bat. His average fell 14 points to .300. Brooks Robinson of Los Angeles Angels slumped 10 points to fourth at .298 followed by Cleveland's Bob Chance with a .305 mark.

In the National League, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh held onto first place at .349 with eight hits in 23 at bats. Billy Williams of Chicago Cubs was in seven points to .333 on a 6-for-36 performance. Another Cub, Ron Santo, advanced to third at .328. He gained five points with 10 hits in 35 trips.

Giants bounded back to fourth place, increasing his average three points to .322 with a 9-for-25 showing. Milwaukee's Rico Carty fell 17 points to a fifth-place .322.

Mays walloped three homers, boosting his leading total to 32. Willie Mays of San Francisco

Brown, Fleming Spark BC Lions' Win

Whip Stamps 22-4

VANCOUVER (CP) — If you can't fool Tom Brown you probably won't beat British Columbia Lions.

Calgary Stampeders manifestly failed Monday night as they lost their Western Football Conference encounter with the Lions 22-4.

Brown, a former all-American at Minnesota and now Mr. Everything in the Lions' defence, made 10 tackles and called a masterly set of defensive signals from his linebacker spot.

A crowd of 32,644 helping Lions celebrate their 10th birthday watched the 1963 WFC champions shake Willie Fleming loose for two touchdowns and rookie fullback Bob Swift for one.

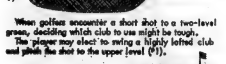
The game gives Lions three points and a chance to bypass Saskatchewan into first place when they meet in Regina Friday. Stampeders have lost two of three.

JINX CONTINUES

Stampeders lost all three meetings with B.C. last year and seemed just as helpless Monday night. Twice they had to give up the ball on downs, and after completing seven of nine passes in the first half, quarterback Eagle Day was held to three completions in 10 attempts the rest of the way.

Both clubs picked up 17 first downs. Calgary outrushing Lions 194 yards to 168 and Lions outpassing Stampeders 136-106.

Peter Kempf converted all three B.C. touchdowns and halfback Ron Morris quick - kicked for a single point. Larry Robinson kicked a 24-yard field goal for Calgary and missed another that went for a single.



Quarterback Joe Kapp hit receivers on only seven of 18 tries, but a long heave in the second quarter was worth the rest put together. Trailing 4-0 and stuck on his own 15, Kapp dropped far back and nailed Fleming at midfield. Fleming, who had outlegged defender Jesse Branch in a straight race for the lead pass, pulled away to make it a 97-yard touchdown play.

The game lost momentum from that point until back-to-back interceptions sparked a 57-yard B.C. march to Fleming's second touchdown early in the fourth quarter. It was a dazzling, 15-yard, draw play through the line.

THE Arnold Palmer METHOD
Four-Time Winner of the Masters
SAFE WAY IS BEST WAY ON THIS SHORT SHOT

When golfer encounter a short shot to a two-level green, deciding which club to use might be tough. The player may elect to swing a highly lofted club and pitch the shot to the upper level (#1).

Or he may choose a less-lofted club and play the shot short of the hazard (#2).

The golfer should play the shot in which he has the most confidence. However, I would like to point out one thing.

You will note in #3 what happens when the player misjudges the shot and the ball hits into the incline. See how the highly lofted shot falls to make the grade while the lower run-up shot still scoots up to the hole. This makes the run-up shot best under such circumstance, in my opinion.

Dave Feeney started for the Hoteliers and four-hitted the Landscapers but his wildness was his downfall. He walked ten, three of them according for as many runs in the last inning. Hawkins took over and retired the side with the bases loaded.

Hiroshima Student Torch Carrier

TOKYO (AP) — ... athletic Japanese college student who was born near Hiroshima on the day the atomic bomb was dropped has been picked as the final Olympic torch runner who will light the Olympic flame at Tokyo National Stadium Oct. 10.

Yoshitori Sakai, now 19 and a freshman at Waseda University, was born in Miyoshi, 40 miles from Hiroshima, Aug. 6, 1945.

His mother, Yukiko, recalled she gave birth "1½ hours after that blinding flash struck my eyes."

Olympic officials said they had been looking for a suitable youth who was born on a memorable day symbolizing the birth of new Japan.

Saki was last year's national high school 400-metre champion. He will receive the torch, first lighted at Mt. Olympus, Greece, at the gate of the 80,000-seat national stadium.

ALL IN THE FAMILY — Ray Remmen, 17, of Hanley, Sask., relaxes in his sulky after driving Rod's M Pick to the second of two victories during a 10-day harness meet in Edmonton. With him is his grandfather Art Hunter. The two-year-old Rod's M is one of six standardbreds that Hunter and Remmen race in Alberta and Saskatchewan meets. (CP Photo)

Youth, Excellent in All Forms Of Athletics, Gets Thrill in Riding Sulky in Futurity

By BOB TRIMBEE

EDMONTON (CP) — When Ray Remmen drove Chucky Mohawk to victory in the $2,500 Saskatchewan Futurity, richest Western Canada race for three-year - old standardbreds, he found himself in a dilemma.

The 17-year-old farmboy admitted "it was the greatest thrill of my life" and served to whet his ambition to train and drive horses around the Prairie harness racing circuit.

But that would require giving up other sports and here the dilemma set in — which sports should be dropped.

Remmen is the eldest of five children. The family lives on a farm in the Hanley, Sask., district, just outside Saskatoon. Next fall he'll enter Grade 12.

The end of the summer holidays will mark the beginning of Remmen's most critical year and by next June he must have his answer.

This fall Remmen will report to the junior Saskatoon Hilltops, one of four teams in the Manitoba - Saskatchewan Football League. He'll also try out with Saskatoon Quakers of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League.

CURLING CHARM

During the winter, if he continues to maintain a 80-plus average in studies, he'll have an opportunity to defend his central district high school curling title and by spring he hopes to be in top shape for track and field and his special ties—220- and 440-yard sprints and the long jump.

High school basketball and baseball are worked in where possible.

"I spend so much time on sports now I find it difficult to study for classes in high school. So I decided last year to forget about university, which requires a heck of a lot more studying. I plan to go to technical school after I graduate and learn a trade.

"That'll give me something to fall back on when I have to give up sports."

There is little doubt harness racing now is Remmen's first love. "My grandfather's been taking me around the circuit during the summer since I was four. I've been driving horses in workouts since I was nine or ten and last year I got a provisional driver's licence and entered a few races."

Winners were few and far between for Remmen in 1963, but things have been rosier this year. He joined his grandfather, Art Hunter, in Ladner, B.C. He remained there about a week and in six starts drove to one second-place finish and four thirds.

CLEANS STALLS

Then he returned to Saskatchewan for the futurity at Yorkton. Chucky Mohawk won both the heat and the final easily.

The Edmonton and Calgary meets were next on Remmen's list.

But sulky driving isn't all glory. Remmen, five-foot-10 and 170 pounds, gets up each morning about 6:30 and spends six hours grooming his grandfather's horses, cleaning the stalls, feeding the animals and jogging the horses around the track.

The afternoon is free and then warmups for the horses begin two hours before the racing card starts. "They say trotters and pacers run better on their second wind."

Driving a sulky "is a lot more exciting and more skilful" than a hot rod race.

"In a car it's just a matter of pushing down the gas pedal. If the car is good enough usually a driver can win. But in harness racing you have to be able to rate your horse.

"A driver plays a larger part in a victory in a harness race than a jockey does in flat racing."

The current season is a critical one for Remmen. Next year he becomes eligible to obtain a regular driver's licence "Racing is in my blood, now, I guess. But I have to be good enough to be able to train and drive horses for other people or I'll have to give it up. Also, I'm not sure how I'll do in all those other sports."

16-Year-Old Mare Used By Girl for Olympics

By JACK MORRIS

VANCOUVER, (CP)—If Inez Fischer-Credo wins a medal for Canada at the Tokyo Olympics, she'll have the personal satisfaction of knowing she accomplished it the hard way.

She has coached herself. She has entered a field dominated by men. And she is riding a 16-year-old former racehorse that was retired nine years ago.

Miss Fischer-Credo is Canada's only entrant in the intricate Grand Prix de Dressage, one of the less glamorous Olympic events involving a 12-minute series of elaborate manoeuvres in trotting, cantering and change-of-gait.

"I really want to put on a good show," says the 23-year-old brunette, a shy woman who pets most of her faith in Gordina, a handsome chestnut mare.

"I don't really like to tell people here Gordina's age—it sounds so terribly old to Canadians. But actually she has been well taken care of and the European masters frequently use more mature horses."

LEARNED FROM GERMANS

Inez, who began training herself and Gordina for the Olympics about three years ago, was born in Mexico, where her parents, German archeologists, had been excavating.

L. Germany, at the age of 10, she began her riding career under the guidance of top German instructors. She concentrated on jumping events, winning a number of European awards.

She was considered too young, however, for Olympic competition. Add to that the fact she was a woman.

"I didn't have much chance," She came to Canada nine years ago and settled here.

About the same time Gordina was retired as a thoroughbred following a lackluster career on local race tracks. She had been too high-strung, often suffering a severe attack of shaking before a race.

Several years later Inez spotted the horse in a pasture.

"I'm not very wealthy, you see, so Dr. Sarjeant (Dr. S. T. R. Sarjeant who "is going to Tokyo as my coach but actually he's really my pupil") and his wife bought her for me.

"I didn't actually start out to train Gordina for the dressage," says Inez, "but one thing led to another, and here I am."

WON U.S. TROPHY

Miss Fischer-Credo and Gordina won the Western Canada Dressage championship for six straight years. They added the Western United States Dressage title to their "trophy list in 1960 and 1962.

Most of the credit goes to Gordina, says Inez.

She concedes that the rider does have some bearing on the outcome.

"I am fortunate because I'm thin and I have long legs—this makes rider and horse look good."

She plans to use conventional costume for the event at Tokyo: silk top hat, gold-buttoned black jacket, skin tight white riding trousers and black boots.

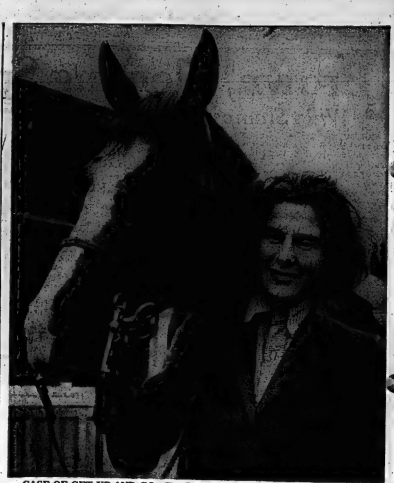
Her toughest competition will come from the European and Russian masters, who have dominated the event for years. All are men.

"They've been at it for years and years, and only recently have a few women been entered."

Her most immediate problem is to raise $9,000 for travelling expenses. After that "I can't promise anything, but Gordina and I will be doing our best."

The Trots

TORONTO (CP) — Lynden Chief, with 19 - year - old high school student Brian Webster at the reins, Monday night won the featured mile pace before 5,810 at Greenwood Raceway.



Webster took the four-year-old horse to the front early and hung on in the stretch to win by a head over fast-closing Pine Ridge Danny, a 9-1 chance, owned by John Newton of Toronto.

Brian has been busy driving for his father's Lynden Hill Farm of Brantford for the last couple of weeks after regular driver Larry Zaid was involved in a car accident.

The Dominion Motors Stable of Owen Sound picked up a pair of wins, both reined by Allan Walker. Josedale Flyaway was the even money choice winner of the second race and May Trust was the 3-5 choice in the sixth race.

Josedale Flyaway was on the end of a double of $223.80 set up when Jacqual ($32.20) won the opening race for two-year-old maidens for Dr. L. E. Haryett of London, Ont.

May Trust figured in the quinella wagering, leading 1&1 chance Crystal Hal, owned by C. Maddock and B. Thompson, of Grand Bend, across the wire. The quinella was worth $38.40.

CASE OF GET UP AND GO—For Inez Fischer-Credo and her chestnut mare Gordina, their trip to the Tokyo Olympics is the culmination of a 23-year riding career for Miss Fischer-Credo and a six-year comeback for a high-strung and retired racehorse. They are Canada's longentrants in the Grand Prix de Dressage, a field dominated for years by European and Russian masters, all men. (CP Photo)

Leafs Zero Crackers, Chiefs Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Syracuse Chiefs climbed a half-game into the International League lead Monday night on the strength of a 3-2 victory over Columbus Jets and the postponement of a game between second-place Jacksonville Suns and Buffalo Bisons.

The game marked the 50th anniversary in the league for the Chiefs and a crowd of 6,821 turned out to honor the occasion.

In other action, Rochester Red Wings snapped an eight-game losing streak with a 4-1 victory over Richmond Virginians while Toronto Maple Leafs blanked Atlanta Crackers 7-0 in a game that was called in the 8th inning because of rain.

Former major leaguer Jim Bronstad tucked away the victory for the Leafs, allowing only four hits on the abbreviated route as Toronto won its 12th game in 15 starts against the Crackers this season.

Back-to-back doubles by Don Dillard and J. W. Porter in the sixth inning gave the Leafs their start and when George Kopacz hit an inside-the-park home run after Bobby Del Greco walked it was all over but the shouting.

In the Syracuse victory, George Smith hammered out three singles in four trips while Jackie Powers hit a two-run double for the Chiefs.

Jets had built up a 2-0 early lead on home runs by Ted Savage and Johnny Powers but couldn't hold onto the edge for loser Tom Butters, who had a two-hitter going before he was relieved in the eighth by Sam Jones.

Morris, Belleville; J. Ling, Belleville; R. Morris, Belleville; D. Edwards, Trenton; D. Edwards, Trenton; R. Morris, Belleville; R. Morris, Belleville.

Winning bird was clocked at a speed of 1390.15 yards per minute.

Wallaceburg Admitted To Junior 'B'

TORONTO (CP) — Wallaceburg Hornets have been accepted on a year's probation into a new Ontario Hockey Association Junior B league made up of clubs from London, St. Thomas, Sarnia, Windsor and Chatham.

An earlier application by the club to join the new group was rejected, but Monday night a subcommittee of the OHA voted for its inclusion, adding that the Wallaceburg club's player and financial strength would be assessed again at the conclusion of the 1964-65 season.

Admission of the former Junior C club to the league was gained over the protest of the permanent members, who hope to advance to become a Junior A league in the 1965-66 season.

Tiger-Cats Add, Cut Players

HAMILTON (CP)—After their 33-5 loss to Montreal Alouettes Saturday, Hamilton Tiger Cats of the Eastern Football Conference Monday cut one player, signed another and brought in still another on a five-day trial period.

Coach Ralph Sazio cut rookie halfback Charlie Calhoun of Florida State.

The club then signed Jackie Simpson of Florida State, who was cut by Toronto Argonauts last week. Scott Tyler, a two-way back from Baltimore Colts of the National League, was brought to camp for a five-day trial.

Sazio announced that Willie Bethea, who dislocated an elbow in Saturday's game, will be put on the 30-day injured reserve list.

Minor Baseball Results

In Peewee baseball Badboys advanced to the city finals by defeating Fountain Park 6 to 4. The other city finalists are the Jaycees. No date is set for the championship game.

W. Farrell pitched a four hitter for the winners. R. Jury caught for him. The loser was J. Wood, with R. Christopher catching.

R. Jury hit a homer and two singles to pace the Badboys. J. Blatchford smashed a double and a triple, while T. Atkinson hit a triple.

L. Loveless with two singles, E. Christopher with a double and D. Dilonaso with a safety were the Fountain Park hitters.

Stoney Creek Wins Ontario Little League

STONEY CREEK, Ont. (CP) Stoney Creek defeated Fort William 12-1 Monday night to win the Ontario Little League baseball championship for the third time in four years and gain a berth in the Canadian final.

Stoney Creek, which represented Canada in the Little League World Series at Williamsport, Pa., in 1962, will meet the other Canadian finalist for the national championship at Valleyfield, Que., Wednesday.

The winners scored four runs in the opening inning and gave up their only run in 31 2-3 innings of tournament play when Fort William scored in the fifth.

Peter the Hermit Character Emeritus of Hollywood Blvd.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is the boulevard — the position of character emeritus of Hollywood Boulevard unquestionably belongs to Peter the Hermit. For as long as most inhabitants can remember, this spindly - legged, pigeon - breasted figure has been a part of the local scene.

While garbed, waspish, searching conscience like a crotchety Gandhi, he makes his periodic appearance on the boulevard to awaken the populace to such dangers as war and girdles.

His tirades against the folly of warfare are eloquent. And he has been known to whack passing ladies on the backside with his staff, then deliver a lecture on the ill effects from confining the body with elastic devices.

For many years Peter was truly a hermit and lived in shacks in the Hollywood hills, sharing the company of goats, sheep and other creatures. Now he lives in a furnished room.

Peter Howard was in his room one morning when a visitor paid a call. He wore his usual freshly - washed white duck pants, open-neck sweatshirt. He looks doggedly patriarchal with his flowing thatch and profuse beard. He claims to have forgotten his age.

WENT TO SEA

Peter related that he had been born in Detroit, had gone to sea as a lad, had studied the faiths of the world and had come to Hollywood because of the great promise it held.

But his encounter with Hollywood appears to have helped encourage his career as a hermit.

"I never call it Hollywood," he snorted. "I call it Follywood. The movies could have become the coming church, the universal language. But that promise wasn't realized.

"Follywood! It has ruined more homes than siege guns. The movies show nothing but war, crime and sex. Follywood never gave anything to anybody. All the movie makers do is fool the people. Well, movie people mean nothing to me. They're aliens, all of them."

Peter continues to make occasional forays to the boulevard "to spread good tidings and the great joy." But he has been spending more and more time in his beloved hills, there to contemplate the follies of man.

"Zulu" Towers Over Greatest Screen Adventures! Epic Drama Shown in Color and Wide Screen.

"Zulu," an epic recreation of one of the most thrilling and gallant battles in history, arrives Thursday for one week and will be shown at two theatres, The Center, Trenton, and Park, Belleville, through Embassy Pictures release. Filmed in Technicolor and Technirama 70mm., the adventure spectacle stars Stanley Baker, Jack Hawkins, Ulla Jacobson, James Booth and Michael Caine, and is presented by Joseph E. Levine.

Depicting the glorious battle of Rorke's Drift, in 1879, "Zulu" also recreates the personal drama of the handful of men who defended a mission against 4,000 highly militarized Zulu warriors. Eleven Victoria Crosses were awarded that one day, for the extraordinary valor and courage displayed by these heroic soldiers.

Baker and director Cy Endfield also co-produced "Zulu", which is being distributed by Joseph E. Levine's Embassy Pictures.

Two complete shows: 7.00 — 9.30.

Many Stars Only Mouth Words Used in Recordings

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Roy Rogers and Dale Evans were industriously rehearsing their parts in one of Andy Williams's forthcoming variety shows recently.

As part of a country - style production number, Roy rode on the NBC sound stage in a motor scooter with Dale perilously poised, side-saddle, on the pillion seat. After a couple of swings around the stage and some dancing with the chorus boys, Dale climbed blithely to a special elevated set and launched into a song without a suggestion of breathlessness.

But, if a spectator in the audience had taken his eyes off the stage and its activity, he would have noticed that during the song, members of the orchestra at the side of the stage were reading newspapers and dozing. This, fakery is a bit of routine filmland magic, a technique of lip synchronization or "lip-sync," which permits a crowd-voiced movie star to warble like a nightingale, courtesy of some unseen, unsung soprano's vocal chords; gives the impression that agile boy and girl dancers also can sing and, most important, frees a performer from a microphone to frolic all over a stage.

The process involves delicate technical skill. Singers (and non - singers) must learn to mouth the words to give a convincing pantomime while the recording is being played.

ESKIMOS CUT WRIGHT

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference released one player, placed another on waivers and picked up two linemen for five-day trials Monday. Released was James Earl Wright, injury-troubled Memphis State quarterback who had been expected to replace Jackie Parker. Pearl (Junior) Hawthorne, a 22-year-old defensive end, was placed on waivers. Duane Cook was picked up from Calgary Stampeders and Larry Cerqley from Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Campbellford News

Bobby Hull Special Guest For Arena Drive

CAMPBELLFORD — The Community Centre drive for funds got off to a good start on Friday evening with Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks, as special guest.

The evening began with a parade organized by his committee, with James Forestell as chairman and Fred Pallister as parade marshal. Starting at Legion hall they proceeded to the post office where a finance chairman standing thermometer was erected. On the thermometer to date is the $20,000 proceeds from the sale of the old arena and land occupied by the arena, a $10,000 government grant has been assured.

A Centennial grant has been applied for, which, if approved, will add $12,000 more, making a tentative fund to date of $42,000.

The fund objective is $60,000. A tag day was conducted on Friday evening with tagged also on Saturday.

Campbellford firemen placed the fire truck in the parade and a group of firemen in their fire-fighting helmets and coats, carrying a large canvas bag, collected $135. The fact that most of the collection was in small change, depicts the fact that a large number of people contributed in a spirit of humorous approval, and that the firemen's association is solidly behind the project.

BAND ON HAND

The Campbellford Citizens' Band, under the baton of J. H. Beare, added color and music. Instead of walking, the band rode on a motor conveyed vehicle, and one unlucky drummer remarked it was hard to keep step with a slow moving truck.

Sports cars followed with members of Seymour council, Campbellford town council, heads of the Community Centre Board, presidents of service clubs, and riding in an open convertible, the popular hockey star, Bobby Hull, accompanied by committee chairman Fred Pallister.

The parade ended at the Sharp Market parking lot, where a platform had been erected. Brief statements were made by municipal officials and those holding confidential offices.

Bobby Hull was immediately surrounded by a bevy of children, and signed autographs for at least two hours. Speaking briefly he complimented the children on their good manners in their co-operation generally. He also spoke of the splendid community spirit displayed, and said the proposed hockey - arena facilities it was quite possible some Campbellford youth would reach the National League.

Winner of the slogan contest was Susan Milne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Milne, with "Give our youth a place to play and they will never go astray," A draw for a house trailer is to be sponsored immediately.

Captains and canvassers are appointed—a house canvass will begin August 10th.

Police Probing Break-ins Over Weekend

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford police have been busy investigating break-ins which occurred over the weekend.

Anderson's Dairy was entered by breaking a window, the office was ransacked but apparently nothing was taken.

Canadian Flight was also entered through a back window. The Pepsi-Cola machine was broken and approximately four or five dollars was taken from the change holder. From the office about $30 in petty cash was taken.

Campbellford Co-Operative in the same area was also broken into but nothing was reported missing.

Holmes Service Station, on North Front St., was also entered. Approximately $75 in cash was taken as well as a considerable number of cartons of cigarettes.

TO TACKLE CHANNEL

LONDON (CP) — A young Quebec law student hopes this month to become the first person to swim breaststroke across the English Channel. For Yvan Cliche, 24, of Beauceville, Que., it will be his second attempt to cover the 22-mile distance. He completed all but 1¾ miles last year when a sudden storm forced him from the water.

Station Wagon Hit by Train, Driver Hurt

CAMPBELLFORD—An accident occurred one mile east of Havelock when a C.P.R. train travelling from Smith Falls to Toronto struck the rear end of a station wagon coming out of Bennett's side road.

The station wagon, driven by Robert Eugene McMurray, 28, 1508 Princess St., Kingston, a salesman for Alpine cigarettes and cigars was a complete write off.

The vehicle was carrying about $2,000 worth of cigarettes and cigars.

Mr. McMurray was taken by Bennett's ambulance to Campbellford Memorial Hospital where he was treated for head lacerations and later released. Damage to the train amounted to $50.

O.P.P. constable J. E. Dewey of Campbellford detachment investigated.

PASSENGER HURT

A two-car accident occurred on No. 7 Highway near Havelock, a car driven by Mrs. Ethel 67, 130 Romaine St., Peterborough and a vehicle driven by Gerald Vincent Brooks, 20, of 85 Union St., Picton were travelling in the same direction, west on No. 7. The Brown car is said to have slowed down to allow a car ahead to make a left turn and the car driven by Brooks ran into the back. Damage in the Brown car amounted to $500 and to the Brooks car $700.

A passenger with Mr. Brown, Mrs. Minnie Howden, 201 Romaine St., Peterborough was taken by her son to the family doctor in Peterborough for treatment.

O.P.P. Constable A. L. Creasy investigated.

Justice Kelly Will Conduct Mining Probe

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice Arthur Kelly of the Ontario Court of Appeals was named Monday as royal commissioner who will look into stock market activity relating to the recent rich base-metal strikes at Timmins.

Terms of reference for the one-man commission were not announced.

Premier Robarts said last week the commission would examine the tangled affairs of Windfalls Oils and Mines Ltd. Its shares rose from 56 cents to a high of $5.80 on rumors of a promising diamond drill hole on the property in the Timmins vicinity.

The price of Windfall shares declined sharply on the same day after Windfall President George MacMillan announced that assays of the drill cores produced no commercial findings.

Mr. Justice Kelly, a member of the court of appeals since 1960, was a member of the royal commission on education from 1945 to 1950. He was president of the Canadian Bar Association in 1957-58.

Hon. E. J. Benson Reviews Work of Govt. at Picnic

PICTON — A cool breeze, which did not encourage outdoor eating on Sunday, but the Liberal Picnic at Wellington Park attracted a nice crowd, and in the sun it was fairly warm.

The address by guest speaker, Hon. E. J. Benson, Minister of National Revenue for the Liberal Government gave a comprehensive review of the accomplishments of the government during the past sixteen months. The Hon. Mr. Benson is M.P. for Kingston and the Islands.

He charged the Opposition with delaying implementation of much other legislation He announced a White Paper on the Canada Pension Plan would be presented in the Commons on Monday and hoped it would be passed by next spring "We are determined to continue our program of legislation, no matter how much time it takes," he said, again charging a filibuster was being conducted by the opposition in connection with the debate on supply. Hon. Mr. Benson painted a picture of booming economy.

Deserting from his prepared text Mr. Benson referred to the new penitentiary to be built in Kingston. "There was no talk, or suggestion, that it be built in the riding of Prince Edward-Lennox before the last election. Reeve Erwell Huff and Lloyd Woolsey have worked with me to secure this $15 million dollar building," he said. Mr. Benson said that Mr. Woolsey," though defeated as Liberal candidate had worked hard for his riding. The Minister also felt that this riding could be won for the Liberal Party. "If every Liberal had put forth an extra half day of work, Mr. Woolsey would have been elected," he said, and stressed the importance of organization. The Hon. Mr. Benson also spoke on the international scene, defence policy, National unity and relations with Provinces, Social Security and Labor. He also touched on economic development and employment, Trade, Parliament and government organization and housing and urban renewal.

The Hon. Mr. Benson also charged "Today there is maneuvering and bickering; obstruction in procedure and partisan delays; raising of questions already decided, or others which are out of order; frivolous and irrelevant questions of privilege and points of order. Not long ago there was a day after day of talk holding up supply. Today there is day after day of resolution and obstructing and raising of useless questions, of order privilege and so on.

In closing his address Mr. Benson said, there is not the time to review every new ingredient of today's prosperity, however a few to be considered were: Exports are the highest in our history. Industrial production is up 6 per cent. Our balance of payments position-critical only two years ago — is steadily improving and our deficit cut by nearly half a billion dollars. Indications are for even more substantial gains in our exports. The outlook is buoyant. "With your help — with your understanding and support and work as you carry this message back to your communities — the message of our record — what we have done and what we are trying to do — we will play our part in Canada's progress".

Loyalist Week Started With Big Parade

PICTON — Picton retail merchants' parade on Monday morning was a successful beginning for "Loyalist Week" proceedings in Picton. The parade featuring floats, old cars and costumes, bands and colorful majorettes brought out a very large crowd of spectators, who lined Main street from one end of the parade route to the other. Service clubs, merchants and business organizations went all out in an attempt to provide a very interesting collection of Loyalist period articles and antiques for window and street display. Many of the shop keepers and their staffs will be dressed in their old-fashioned costumes for the balance of the week. Judges are presented at the end of the week.

The parade which began at 10.30 a.m. was led by the Cadet Band from Cadets' Trade Training Camp at Camp Picton and followed by Mayor Harvey J. McFarland riding in one of his vintage automobiles. Events will continue through the balance of the week and it is expected that the proceedings will end on Saturday night with a street dance.

Cement Carrier Released From Mud Bottom

PICTON (Staff) — The Mohawk Valley Cement carrier, the Peckintaugh, that was grounded in South Bay in the southern part of Prince Edward County this week was freed by tug early Monday morning. The tug, presumed to be American, pulled the 200-foot ship from her position in only seven or eight feet of water and mud. She sailed on to her destination and home port of Rome, New York, after she was taken to open water.

The ship had loaded cargo at Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co. docks in Picton and proceeded as far as False Duck Islands, when had weather forced her to turn back and take shelter in South Bay. Some how the ship managed to go too far in and run aground on the muddy bottom. Two commercial fishing boats had tried to free her but to no avail.

ISLAND OF PROSPERITY—The bright lights and busy streets of the Kurfurstendamm, West Berlin's main shopping area, reflect the prosperity of the Western showplace community, an island surrounded by Communist East German territory. The U. S. in West Germany
No 'Yankee Go Home' Cries Here

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

BONN (CP)—The pro-American fervor of West Germany seems just about as warm as could be wished by the most red-blooded American.

The U.S. influence has been pervasive in the last 2 years and some Germans speak "American" with so authentic an accent that other Germans mistake them for Americans.

The United States-Germany love affair, which reached full bloom in the Berlin airlift of 1949, was striking among impressions of a Canadian observer visiting this country for the first time since the non-fraternization days of 1945.

Some of it may be superficial, of course. There was grumbling in tradition-steeped Bavaria, for instance, about young folk adopting undignified American ways and dress and thinking only of material things.

"Apparently this is one of the few places in the world where U.S. servicemen can be sure they won't hear some version of 'Yankee go home,'" said a West Berlin official.

WALL IS SYMBOL

The cornerstone of the friendship is Berlin and the reunification of Germany, a goal so over-riding that politicians in conversation seem unable to contemplate any real East-West detente without it. The temporary opening of the Berlin wall last Christmas unleashed a flood of feeling that is still being talked about.

"If you're a German you can't look at the Berlin wall and believe in a detente," said a student.

Baron von Kuhlmans-Stumm of the Free Democratic party and a more liberal-minded politician than many, mentioned the slogan "No detente without reunification and no reunification without detente."

Yet there are widely diverging views on how reunification can be brought about. Some West Germans not only approve Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's new flexibility toward the Communist countries but want outright recognition of East Germany.

"The refusal to recognize it is a sin against reality," said a Frankfurt lawyer. "We could do more for the East Germans and bring them closer by recognizing the Ulbricht regime."

MUST BE PATIENT

The West Germans know that countless people in the U.S. and elsewhere are just losing any sleep over divided Germany but they put their stated faith in official assurances from Washington.

As a Berlin newspaper editor expressed it, the U.S. is committed flatly to defence of Berlin but reunification is another matter—"we know we must be patient."

Again and again, politicians returned to the theme that Soviet Union policy has not changed since Lenin pointed out that he who holds Germany controls Europe.

Touring Commonwealth reporters were a mite surprised to be briefed on the Christian Democratic party, which rules in coalition with the Free Democrats, by Theodor Oberlaender, former refugees minister who was dropped after the Christian Socialists attacked his Nazi background.

"He has, as we say in Germany, a past," was the terse comment of an official when asked about it.

There seems no great tendency to condemn anyone simply because he was a Nazi since many outside the party had black records. As an example, many of the defendants in the Auchwitz extermination camp trial at Frankfurt were not Nazis.

Numerous West Germans said they hope the announced visit of Queen Elizabeth to Bonn next year means that Britain is extending the long-denied hand of friendship, however warily.

FRENCH ARE FRIENDLY

Several expressed the view that it was on the basis of shared disaster that France was able to move more quickly toward the Germans, and they insist this goes far deeper than mere agreement between governments.

"War veterans revisiting the French battle areas are greeted with friendship—and not just because of their German marks," was the way one official put it.

"It's because the French and ourselves knew total defeat," said a Berlin city official. "They understood our humiliation."

"Their hearts went out to us in our extremity and they knew what we suffered in bombing," said a retired diplomat in Munich.

The measure of West Germany's "economic miracle," the Wirtschaftswunder, is dramatized by the number of people absorbed. Some 3,500,000 refugees have come from East Germany and 9,600,000 "expellees" swelled the population from the lands east of the Oder-Neisse placed under Soviet and Polish administration after the war.

Yet West Germany now has 1,000,000 "guest workers" from Turkey, Italy, Spain and other countries. And there are 600,000 openings waiting to be filled.

The working "guests" get along well with Germans, said a government official. And he added with a classic slip in English, "Even though some Italians want to rapture young German girls."

Tomorrow: The new wave of war-crime trials.

DIVIDED CITY — To many in West Berlin the wall that separates them from the city's Communist sector is more than just a physical barrier; it's also a symbol of a divided Germany. "If you're a German you can't look at the Berlin Wall and believe in a detente," said one West Berlin student. This photo shows how the wall runs along the gutter of a street, the road in East Berlin and the sidewalk in the West. In the background, in West Berlin territory, is the Church of St. Thomas. Figures Underestimate True Extent of Unemployment NDP Convention Is Told TORONTO (CP) — Unemployment ad underemployment in a booming economy is the paradox of the times, an Ontario Federation of Labor official told the Ontario New Democratic Party convention Monday.

J. H. R. Craigs, director of welfare services for the federation, said the average unemployment rate from 1955 to 1963 was more than double the rate for the years 1946 to 1954.

"These official figures seriously under-estimate the true extent of unemployment," he said.

"Such statistics do not measure the growing unemployment among teen-agers or those who no longer seek work since they know that no employment opportunities exist for them," Mr. Craigs said.

He said there was a rapid shift from a preponderance of blue-collar to white-collar jobs in which white-collar jobs outnumber blue-collar jobs. The shift is caused by forces in the private sector of the economy, he said.

"It may well be that those who do understand the whole economy are the victims from various degrees of contempt are referred to as government bureaucrats."

If the government does understand the situation, he said, then perhaps it is to the government that "we have to turn."

HITS CONCENTRATION

During a discussion on science and social change Arnold Peters, NDP member of the Timiskaming, for Timiskaming, said that over-development of the industrial area around Toronto has resulted in a low standard of living in eastern and Northern Ontario.

He said job opportunities are limited in these sections because of heavy concentration industry in the Toronto area.

The NDP must make an effort to decentralize industry so that the province as a whole can benefit, Mr. Peters said.

During a panel discussion on social security and social change, Michele Lamberg, a Toronto newspaper woman and wife of Stephen Lewis, NDP member of the legislature for Scarborough West, called for equal treatment for working women.

She said women are paid $10 to $25 less than men across Canada although they make up a third of the working force.

Earlier, an attempt to ban Toronto's three newspapers from the convention floor was rejected.

The Star, The Telegram and The Globe and Mail have been hit by a printers' strike since July 9. All three have continued to publish.

The motion was first interpreted as an attempt to prohibit reporters from the press from covering the convention. But the delegate who raised the motion, Marilyn Field, a member of the executive of Toronto Riverdale riding, said later she wanted copies of the papers banned from the meeting floor.

The three - day convention, which got under way Monday, is being attended by about 600 NDP delegates from 10 provincial ridings. It is the NDP's first convention in two years.

Flooded Homes, Snarled Traffic Left In Path

Farmers Here Jubilant Over 2-Inch Rainfall

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Severe electrical rainstorms left a path of flooded homes, snarled traffic, power blackouts and fire damage across much of southwestern and southern Ontario Tuesday, dumping up to 2½ inches of rain in some areas.

The London suburb of Lambeth was hit by a small tornado which of less than two minutes ripped a partially-constructed house from its foundations and toppled scores of television antennas. The brief twister also flattened a garage a..l scattered debris and roof shingles about streets.

Downed hydro lines in Windsor caused the shutdown of several plants while Westminster Hospital in London turned on its auxiliary generators for about two hours as utilities crews crews worked to restore service.

A series of violent storms lashed Toronto rush-hour traffic with sheets of rain, causing a rash of minor accidents and blocking dozens of streets with fallen trees.

At Chatham, where 1¼ inches of rain fell in 20...minutes and winds gusted to 56 miles an hour, trees branches and power lines covered streets.

The weather office reported 1.52 inches of rain fell in London in six hours while Windsor had 1.12, Hamilton, .70, Toronto airport 1.31 and Centralia 1.31 in similar periods of time. The storms also dumped an inch of rain on Trenton, Sarnia, Stratford and Kitchener.

The disturbance, which passed over the Ottawa area about midnight and moved into Quebec early today, brought with it unseasonably cold temperatures, as much as 20 degrees below normal.

Three school teachers were injured when their car struck a stream of water on Highway 401 near Oshawa and snapped off a hydro pole. Another car left the road near Listowel, 23 miles north of Stratford, and cut down a utility pole, leaving the area without telephone service for about two hours. The driver was uninjured.

Barn fires caused by lightning at Strathroy, 15 miles west of London, and at Stephenville, five miles west of Port Elgin, resulted in $23,000 damage. Another fire destroyed the second floor of a home in St.Mary's, 18 miles north of London.

Hailstones the size of quarters were reported to have flattened crops in the Caradoc area west of Strathroy.

With nearly two inches of rainwater in their spirits, residents of the dominantly rural Quinte district were toasting the downpour like champions.

"Boy did it rain," exclaimed one jubilant farmer.

It was a reaction shared by thousands of neighbors across the area, as downpour after downpour washed away all traces of the worst summer drought in local memory.

In Belleville an official reading of 1.89 inches was recorded.

Some grain fields were reported flattened — but there were no complaints raised as the fallout drenched parched farmlands and market gardens, swelled out long-dry creeks and filled wells.

The rains were the welcome end of a not-so-friendly electric storm, which caused power failures and badly damaged one home.

SOME BLACKOUTS

There were sporadic blackouts throughout the Belleville area after the storm launched its first bolts around 6.30 p.m. Most of themwasted only seconds.

However, at Madoc Ontario Hydro reported it hit some trouble with a power failure lasting four hours.

"But we're not complaining" said an official, "we've got what had nothing serious for a storm like that. In proportion to its severity, damage was not heavy.",

Most serious incident caused by the disturbance was on the 9th concession of Sidney ,township where lightning struck the home of elderly Emmett Carr.

HOUSE DAMAGED

Damage of $2,000 at fire damage was caused the upstairs area of his frame home when a lightning bolt struck the attic.

Township firemen put out the blaze before it spread to serious proportions.

Mr. Carr, in his 80s, is staying temporarily at the nearby home of a son, but will be on his return to his own residence when he wants, says Sidney Township fire chief John Aquino.

In Belleville, the intensity of rain at times left motorists owners on North Front and East Bridge Streets.

Rain fell the first significant rainfall since early July. In the interim, the Quinte district has experienced one of the hottest summers on record.

96 Copters Carry Thousand Soldiers In Massive Raid on Viet Cong Nest

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

XA BA HOA, South Viet Nam (AP)—One of the largest helicopter-assaults of the war was buried today against a reported concentration of 2,000 and 3,000 Viet Cong in the jungle area.

Ninety-six helicopters carried nearly 1,000 South Vietnamese troops into the attack.

Minutes after the assault began, a young U.S. Army lieutenant slumped dead at his controls.

A .50-calibre armor-piercing machine-gun bullet had passed through the windshield as the helicopter was making a strafing pass and pierced his heart.

"He was the seventh pilot in our class of 50 to be killed in Viet Nam," said Capt. Robert Estes of Anson, Me.

Every available helicopter in the southern half of South Viet Nam was rounded up for the troop adviser said.

operation.

But the morning started poorly. The helicopters and the Vietnamese Air Force fighters that were to have blasted rockets into the assault zone had to turn away when heavy ground fog rolled in.

It was nearly 9:30 a.m. before the operation got under way again.

"It's nice for the Viet Cong this way, a crew member said. "Out spotter planes have given them fair warning with choppers, and now they have a couple of hours to pack up at leisure."

Soviet Union's Restraint In Cyprus Crisis Has Been Sliver of Silver Lining

By ERIC MACKINNON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A thin sliver of silver lining in the Cyprus crisis has been the Soviet Union's restraint so far observers in Washington feel.

The U.S.S.R. seems to have met the request for aid—which Archbishop Makarios says he sent on behalf of Greek-Cypriots — with a mild moral uplifter rather than anything firmer.

This hands-off attitude, which has cheered the state department somewhat, comes a week after Russia took a comparatively tolerant view of the U.S. air strike at North Viet Nam.

But the reasons for and worth in the two cases are regarded as probably being quite different.

Some observers trace with considerable success a trend of more conciliatory Soviet responses right back to the Cuban missile crisis. Others feel that different factors in different situations help shape Kremlin reaction.

FEAR SPREADING WAR

Thus, under this reasoning, the split with Communist China and a real concern about the spread of war lay behind mild reaction in the Gulf of Tonkin episode in Southeast Asia.

But in Cyprus, some suggest, Russia has acted in a way that indicates she does to rock boats in her own way and when she contents both the oars. In this volatile case, Greece and Greek-Cypriots are pulling at one and Turkey and the Turkish - Cypriots have the other and the U.S.S.R. is keeping its balance although committed publicly to the Greek faction.

George Ball, undersecretary of state, reflected U.S. satisfaction with the Russian attitude early in the crisis when U.S. diplomats still were working literally around the clock.

Ball said in television interviews Sunday that it was to be noted that Russia had abstained from voting on the United Nations Security Council resolution urging members to stay from Cyprus involvement. He said he was certain Russia would recognize the seriousness of getting mixed up there.

Some diplomats here are suggesting that Archbishop Makarios is running out of trumps in his efforts to persuade Russia to help him to achieve complete control of the island by this summer—and then perhaps go to the UN to get recognition of this de facto situation.

One reason is the Russian reply to his request for aid, if he in fact made it. The other is the restraint urged on him by the Greek government itself.

In this context the apparent Russian responsibility is regarded as helpful for holding the shaky cease-fire, for letting Greece save face again to control the island and for encouraging the efforts at Geneva to find an agreement a solution as possible for the hate-filled island.

Failure in U.S. eyes will be blown in NATO, world peace and to the UN.

Kiwanis Club Hears Talk on Ontario Hydro

It would appear that some one or something had it in for Mr. H. T. Turley, Operations Engineer at the local branch of the Ontario Hydro.

As Mr. Turley was speaking to the Kiwanis Club at their regular dinner meeting on Tuesday, the power went off.

Mr. Turley was in the midst of showing the members slides of various Ontario Hydro power and hydro operations. He had shown the group about three slides when the electricity ceased during yesterday afternoon's power cut - out.

The speaker remarked that it must have been a city power failure, that it couldn't have been Ontario Hydro. Mr. Turley for the moment found himself on the spot by his audience.

During his remarks to the club Mr. Turley explained the various duties and operations of Ontario Hydro and their services to communities throughout the Dominion.

PROMISES FIGHT

President Makarios said his Greek - Cyprius would fight "alone or with others" to protect the people of Cyprus. His broadcast speech Tuesday night underscored a rift with Greece.

While Greece has promised people in the nation-wide broadcast, Athens radio disclosed that Greece has launched an offensive against Turkish-Cypriot positions in northwest Cyprus. Also, Greek reinforcements, Greece. Turkey responded with four days of air attacks on Greek-Cypriot positions.

Athens radio said the Greek-Cypriots broke an agreement in failing to get Turkish approval of the military campaign.

Premier George Papandreou sent a cable to Makarios saying: "I express my profound grief because we have agreed differently and you have acted differently."

Greek-Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou flew to Athens Tuesday and met with Papandreou and the Athens government issued a communique pledging full support of Cyprius in case of another Turkish attack.

RAPS BOMBING

In view of the barbaric (Turkish) bombing of the Greek combatant population. the Athens government decided in an extraordinary session to throw its full weight in support of Cyprus," Athens radio said.

Makarios said he expected his appeals for military aid to be successful. Cyprius has received help from the Soviet Union, the United Arab Republic, Yugoslavia and Syria, but no response has been mainly words of support.

Greek-Cypriot newspaper reported today that Makarios had repeated his request to Soviet Premier Khrushchev for military aid.

President Nasser of the U.A.R. sent a telegram to Makarios expressing his readiness to help, the Cyprus government said.

In Ankara, Turkish air commanders said that new planes would continue reconnaissance flights and were ready to deal out heavy blows if the Greek-Cypriots renew attacks on the coastal villages.

MORE OF SUPPORT

In Kokkina, a fishing village where the Turkish-Cypriots are grimly defending their last bit of coastline, 500 Turkish troops confident they will get Turkish air support if Greek - Cypriots attack again.

Associated Press correspondent Gordon McArthur visited the village and said the irregulars appeared heavily armed with machine guns, rifles, bazookas and mortars.

The Greek - Cypriots opened fire on the observers after they saw that Turkish troops and material were being landed there.

The specific theft, tested $30 to the charge, occurred on Aug. 5.

George Caswell Wood, 27, of Brighton, was fined $50 and ordered to pay court costs of $4, when he was found guilty of failing to stop at the scene of an accident.

Wood asked to have the charge, "failing to stop," defined and was told by Magistrate T. Y. Wills it was what the "scene-type motorists" are hit-and-run."

Wood told the court that when he inadvertently ran into the side of a parked vehicle on the government dock on July 22, he didn't think the damage was worth warranted reporting to the police. The parked car was damaged to the extent of $100.

Ronald Keith Vardy of RR3, Carrying Place, driving contrary to the driving, told the court that he had been hurrying to the office of a local doctor for the treatment of a cut finger, when apprehended by Sgt. Gordon Tenenburg on the morning of June 20.

Sgt. Stenburg testified, that the charge was taken from the O'Malley's Store on Front St., at a speed exceeding the limit, and that he had tried on another car to draw off to the side of the road to avoid a collision. Vardy said he had tried to contact two Trenton doctors without success after cutting his finger at work. He then decided to go to the Frankford doctor.

He should think the logical place to go with a cut finger would be the hospital," observed the magistrate.

Vardy was found guilty on the evidence, fined $25 and ordered to pay court costs of $8.

Prime Ice Time Rates Will Be Increased

TRENTON—Rates for prime ice time at the Trenton Community Gardens will be $3 higher this coming season, garden's commission chairman Daniel Senik said on Tuesday. The rate for evening hockey and other events which take up "prime" time, will be $15 an hour. Hockey practice rates remain at $12 an hour. And the sponsors of minor hockey will pay half the new rate for ice time, which will be $7.50 an hour. The Trenton figure skating club will be given the three-quarters rate for the new rate, or, if its practice time is changed, will be given it at a quarter reduction of the old $12 rate.

It is hoped ice formation will start on Oct. 1 this year with ice available by Oct. 3. Two engineers will be supervising the gardens' manager Ronald Thornton, himself a qualified engineer. And there will be hired two to take on janitorial duties, processing ice, etc.

At a meeting of the gardens' board Monday night, it was decided to charge the same rate for the use of the upstairs auditorium, the board room, etc. Needed repairs to the building will be carried out, but no major renovations undertaken this year. Seats, dressing rooms and the foyer will all come in for repair, while the compressor is being overhauled at the moment. Cracks in the building will also be repaired.

Mr. Senik directed rental chairman, Carl Weese, to contact arena' customers and bring in tentative schedule for the upcoming ice season by next month's meeting.

The board will try to cut down on a money drain by having the intake pipe from the bay fixed, that they may get cleaner, than town water, may be used for ice making operations. The board spent $700 on town water last season.

Mr. Senik said the gardens is in better shape financially than last year, with a deficit of $200 on the year's operations, thus far.

Following lunch, a social hour was enjoyed and the meeting ended for the members repeating the club theme.

Negroes

and at least one store was looted.

Paterson is about 15 miles west of New York city and Elizabeth is about 20 miles south of Paterson, but closer to New York.

STATE WITH BOMB

Police said the trouble in Elizabeth began at 11:30 p.m., when a gasoline bomb burst on the sidewalk outside a closed tavern. As three fire trucks sped to the scene, a gasoline bomb crashed through the window of the tavern and started a small fire.

A short time later another bomb was thrown through the window of a Spanish - American grocery, setting another small fire. Down the street a looting spree was broken up and the owner said some suits were taken.

Fifty policemen sped to the area and dispersed about 200 Negroes. Police then turned their attention to youths roaming in cars.

A white man was struck in the head and many bottles but declined treatment.

The disturbances broke out on the perimeter of Peterson Homes, a block-square group of three - storey, publicly - financed apartments housing low - income groups. Negroes, Puerto Ricans and some white families live in the project.

DISPERSE CROUPS

In Paterson, an estimated 150 policemen, helmeted and carrying nightsticks, covered a 10 square-block area breaking up groups and ordering persons wherever they congregated.

The first report of trouble in Paterson was that two teenagers left a city - sponsored dance.

Graves said the youths began hurling empty bottles and bricks at a passing police car. Twelve Negroes boarded the car, knocked the hat off one of four passengers and smashed windows.

The windshield of a police car was smashed, as were the windows of a pharmacy, a pizza restaurant and a clothing store. Graves said there was no looting.

Taking charge at the scene with a walkie-talkie, Graves ordered all taverns in the district closed at midnight.

Generally, civil rights leaders complained of police brutality, high unemployment and poor housing in the city.

Graves said the trouble started from racial discrimination existed in Paterson, a city of 143,000 residents, about 60,000 of which are Negroes. Elizabeth has 107,000 residents—18 per cent Negroes.

A meeting was scheduled for tonight between Graves and the Paterson Negro Council, a civil rights group.

Kiwanians Get View of Good Trout Fishing

At the regular meeting of Quinte Kiwanis Club held at the Kiwanis Centre on Monday night, the Lieutenant-Governor of the district paid a social call and gave a brief resume of the convention held on the West Coast in July. He will give a detailed report at another meeting.

George Brown presided at the luncheon and presented a film he used while running a television show when resident in Ottawa. The title of the film was "Let's Go Fishing," and it showed the wonderful trout fishing that is obtainable in Northern Quebec.

At the conclusion of the film many of the members started to pack gear for a trip to the many spots shown.

The new club is progressing, some new members have been added and their enthusiasm is at the highest peak.

Phil Dyble New Secretary Of Curling Club

In preparation for the curling season fast approaching the directors held a business meeting recently and with regret accepted the resignation of Pat Houston as secretary. Mr. Houston has filled the position for the past two years with great ability and his advice was eagerly sought. He will not be lost to the club and will be available at any time to offer his services wherever required. Mr. Houston was one of the original members of the club and worked hard for its formation.

Mr. Phil Dyble has been appointed secretary until the next annual meeting. Mr. Dyble has taken a keen interest in the club since joining the membership. During the evening the budget for the year was presented and accepted in its entirety.

Ron Benn, ice chairman and Everett Black, past president of the club, have been given the task of obtaining an ice-maker for the coming season and have several applicants to interview before a choice is made.

The matter of a concrete floor for the ice surface has been a matter of concern for the directors for some years but due to the fine season the effort will be made to have the floor put in this year. This project will be one of the first to be resolved by the board next year.

D. C. MacDonald Acclaimed As Leader of Ontario NDP

TORONTO (CP) — Donald C. MacDonald was re-elected by acclamation Tuesday as leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party at the party's annual convention.

It marked the fourth time Mr. MacDonald, who represents York South in the legislature, has been named party leader since the NDP was founded in 1961. He also had been leader of the former Ontario cooperative wealth Federation, the NDP's predecessor, from 1953.

After his acclamation Mr. MacDonald told delegates he was honored by their faith in him.

"There is nothing I would rather do than the work I am now involved in, no matter how frustrating," he told the 600 delegates.

The party leader urged delegates to launch a membership campaign before the next provincial election in 1966 or 1967.

FIGURE CONSTANT

He said the Ontario NDP has a fi ... 13,000 members, about the same number as when the party was formed in 1961. Mr. MacDonald set a goal of 25,000 members for 1965 and called on delegates to sign up 25 members each.

In the election for party president, incumbent George Cadbury was challenged by Stephen Miller of Toronto. James Bury, a former CCF member of the British Columbia legislature, was re-elected provincial secretary.

Lewis Hanley of Ottawa was elected treas ... rer succeeding Lorne Ingle, who is seeking a seat as a federal council member.

The remaining elections for party officers will take place today.

Played Dead, So Escaped From Grizzly

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 64-year-old logger has told how he played dead while a grizzly bear mauled him. Axel Johnson said the bear finally left him after it thought he was dead.

The story was told in a letter to Al Anderson of nearby Surrey. It was written from a hospital bed at Bella Bella, 300 miles north of here, and tells of an incident at Braney Inlet, about 20 miles farther north. It said:

"I was returning home from a fishing trip when the bear came rushing out of the bush and started to paw me.

"I was knocked down, and when I got up and tried to fight the bear knocked me over an embankment. When I saw I couldn't fight or escape I played dead while the bear tore at my leg. He thought I was dead and eventually left.

"I managed to crawl home and patched up three bad gashes before falling unconscious on my bed."

He was found by Haas Otte son, a mail boat skipper, after Johnson's nearest neighbor, Mrs. Amanda Perry, 55, told him that Johnson hadn't been over on a "normal" visit to cut wood for her. She lives 35 miles away.

He was then taken by mail boat to hospital where doctors saved his leg.

Signs Pact Because He Loves Wife

CHICAGO (AP)—Curt Moberg, 33-year-old carpenter, said Tuesday he loves his wife, Cecilia, 26, so much, rather than submit to a divorce, signed his wife's 31-point program for reconciliation.

Under the rules for the reconciliation, Moberg agreed to:

Hold a 40-hour job 52 weeks of the year; guarantee Cecilia $125 weekly; run up no personal debts; let her control the finances of filing clubs; let Cecilia handle all financial matters; joint shopping for family necessities; hold to a family budget; recognize Curt's immediate family comes first and that he will spend more time with his wife and two children: "co-operate in anything and everything"; "maintain an open door policy for all relatives and friends"; be dressed properly for any occasion and maintain "a 50-50 marriage contract at all times."

The children have been married four years.

After Moberg signed the agreement, his wife, Cecilia, won Ben Becker, told Judge Fred C. Suria in Circuit Court: "Judge, if I had signed it those rules I would jump off the building."

Becker is a bachelor.

Edmonton Man Central Figure In Controversy

EDMONTON (CP) — Thomas O'Dwyer, an Edmonton real estate man who has become a central figure in a mysterious controversy involving the Alberta government, Tuesday he suspects his phone is being tapped by the RCMP.

An RCMP official denied the charge. "We don't tap phones in this province," the official said.

Mr. O'Dwyer also said in an interview he wouldn't be surprised if the RCMP were shadowing him at the request of Premier Manning.

Premier Manning, who also is attorney-general, was not available for comment.

Mr. O'Dwyer was commenting on a Toronto Star report from Edmonton which said he had identified himself as a member of an Edmonton group accused by Premier Manning of trying "to discredit the present government of Alberta and destroyed the reputation of individual members."

Mr. O'Dwyer, 45, said the report "was in essence correct, but there were inaccuracies."

"Maybe I was a member of the group. I dont know. There are many groups opposed to the government."

The Social Credit premier said in a press statement last week that an unidentified cabinet minister "was either in a devious procedure to the home of one of the (Edmonton) clique" with the intention of obtaining information damaging to the government ad other ministers.

Tourist Group Given Grant By Government

One of the area's most active tourist groups has received a provincial government grant, along with ministerial congratulations.

Elmer Sandercock, MPP for Hastings West, today reported the Madawaska Valley Regional Tourist Council had received a grant of $5,000 from Queen's Park.

An accompanying letter from Tourism and Information Minister James Auld congratulated association officers and members on development of their promotion program.

Insulator Fails On High Tension Line

Power to the east end of the city and to factories outside the city limits was off for a half hour yesterday, after an insulator failed on a high tension line at Point Anne.

The insulator faiaure, on a 44Kv line at the Canada Cement plant, caused a short circuit which tripped circuit breakers, (the equivalent of a household fuse), all the way back to the Ontario Hydro transformer station on Centre St. in Belleville. The transformer station feeds several 44 Kv lines from one main 110 Kv line.

The city's number three and number five sub-stations on Foster Ave. and Edenhall Road lost power and substations in factories were cut off for about twenty minutes.

Power was restored through alternate circuits after Leonard Sweet, a Canada Cement employee, spotted the remains of the damaged insulator and reported the damage.

Convict Had Help in Making Escape

LONDON (CP) — A 32-year-old convict serving a 30-year term for his part in Britain's great train robbery escaped before dawn today from Birmingham prison.

Scotland Yard posted men on all roads leading out of London on the hunch that the escapee, Charles Frederick Wilson, would head for the capital.

Most of the $7,500,000 loot in the robbery just a year ago has not been recovered.

Prison officials said Wilson had had help breaking out. They said several men got inside, knocked out a night patrol officer, then sealed the prison wall with a rope ladder.

Alligator Caught on Fishing Line

MONTCLAIR, N.J. (AP)—Michael Barlcevac started out to catch a fish Monday, stopping off at a pond on the way home from work.

Instead he caught a bullfrog, and then he caught an alligator which later ate the bullfrog.

Barlcevac pulled them in with his fishing line about an hour apart in Crystal Lake.

He's wondering what to do with the alligator, which he guesses was once a tiny pet that someone tossed into the lake. It's 21 inches long now.

"It's vicious," the fisherman said. "I got it in a garbage can with the frog and all ate the frog. The alligator snaps at me whenever I get near it."

His wife, left in charge of the reptile Tuesday, said she dumped it from the garbage can into a small fish tank.

She said she understood an alligator's growth is limited by environment.

"Put him in something small, and he won't grow bigger than the encloure. That's why I put him in a small tank. And he's trying to get out of that now."

Mrs. Barlcevac said they kept the alligator temporarily because "there's no sense in letin ghim die."

But she doesn't want to find out if her theory about the reptile's growth is true. She is looking for a pet shop that wants an alligator.

Deputy Highway Minister Unaware of Any Collusion

TORONTO (CP) — A. T. C. McNab, Ontario deputy highways minister, said Tuesday his department was unaware of collusion by certain Ontario road surfacing contractors in their bids for contracts.

He also said in an interview he had not known the federal restrictive trade practices commission was investigating department tenders.

The commission, in a report released earlier Tuesday in Ottawa, said 13 contractors in south-central Ontario had been operating under an agreement to submit fictitious bids to the provincial highways department and municipalities during 1959, 1960 and 1961.

"We had no indication of this (the investigation at all,) but we welcome this because we are trying to run a clean shop," Mr. McNab said. He said the department keeps a constant check on amounts involved in tenders but had noticed nothing suspicious.

When asked whether companies named in the report would be allowed to bid on future bids, Mr. McNab said no decision could be made until the full report has been received.

CITES FIGURES

The commission's report dealt with resurfacing contracts only, he added. The provincial government spends less than $4000,000 a year out of a $100,000,000 department budget on resurfacing.

In Kingston, where he is on an inspection tour, Highways Minister Charles MacNaughton welcomed the commission's report and said federal investigators can count on the complete co-operation of his department.

A. L. Johnson, purchasing agent for Scarborough, a Toronto suburb, said he was not surprised by the report because municipalities encourage collusion among contractors and suppliers by using the public tendering system. He said that because tender prices are made public, each firm knows what prices its competitors are quoting.

James Bond's Creator Dies

Fleming's books sold millions of copies around the world.

Russia Takes a Hand

Both Turkey and the Greek-Cypriot government agreed with comparative speed to a United Nations appeal for a cease-fire in Cyprus.

Neither side can have any misunderstandings about the attitudes of most of the members of the UN Security Council towards strife on the island. The call for a cease-fire, therefore, did not introduce any new factor into the situation. Why was the mere voicing of sentiments already well known to the combatants so quickly effective?

The answer probably is that the UN appeal in itself had little to do with the response.

The Greek-Cypriots agreed to a cease-fire because those Turkish planes were overhead.

And the Turks probably saw reason at about the time they got a stiff note from Khrushchev.

Going against the wishes of NATO allies like the United States and Britain was one thing. Bucking Russia, a traditional enemy, at the same time as they were offending their friends was quite another matter, the Turks realized.

Was Khrushchev, then, being helpful? Obviously yes, but we would probably be wrong to conclude that he was motivated by any of the reasons we might applaud. It just so happened that an old enmity momentarily served a good cause. But if Khrushchev's intervention stiffens the already unreasonable attitude of Makarios, in the end Russia's truce-forcing action may make the situation on Cyprus worse rather than better.

This may be termed a cynic's view. By some miracle Khrushchev may suddenly have realized the value of UN peace-keeping missions and decided to back the one on Cyprus. But it appears unlikely.

UN at Crossroads

What happens in the next three months will determine the future of the United Nations.

U Thant recently returned from a visit to Russia and to Moscow, Khrushichev told the UN diplomat that Russia definitely would not pay her share of the UN peace keeping costs in the Middle East and the Congo.

By article 19 of the UN Charter, any nation that falls two years behind in its payment of debts is to be deprived of a vote in the General Assembly. Khrushchev has countered this threat by declaring Russia might withdraw from the world body entirely if her vote is taken away.

The question now confronting the authorities is what to do. The charter specifically states what course of action is to be followed. To make an exception of the Soviets would tear apart what confidence there is left in the world body.

On the other hand to exclude Russia would destroy the United Nations. It would go the way of its predecessor the League of Nations.

What course is to be followed remains to be seen. Whatever path is taken the results will affect all free men.

U. S. Should Investigate

A Cuban freighter loading in Montreal harbor was damaged by an explosion Sunday.

In New York the headquarters of the Cuban Nationalist Association, an anti-Castro group, maintains the explosion was the result of a bomb planted by an underwater demolition team.

Confession may be good for the soul, but this type of confession invites some action.

If U.S. authorities believe in the rule of law, one would expect that officials of the Cuban Nationalist Association would be invited to answer some questions.

The fact that Canada is not observing the boycott of Cuban trade arranged by the U.S. and other members of the Organization of American States ought not to mean the U.S. will condone lawless acts in the harbors of a friendly neighbor.

Red Beads and H-Bomb

By David MacDonald in the Financial Times

A circular advertising 35 home fallout detectors reached our office last week. ("Cheaper radiation meters have been offered before, but this one is different," it says.)

Its arrival seemed so ominously coincidental with the election of Mr Goldwater to lead the Republicans that my first impulse was to buy one post-haste.

The detector is a small plastic affair that can be held in the palm of the hand.

"It is a simple device," says the circular, "consisting of a small tube containing a number of little red beads which when shaken up will float as if by magic and will remain suspended for many days.

"They are held aloft by static electricity, which, it is claimed, should it exist, would cause the static electricity to lose its power and the beads would drop to the bottom of the vial and remain there."

If that happens — and if the bomb hasn't landed in your back yard — you would "know it was time to seek a fallout shelter or get out of the area."

If you can't get to a shelter or get out of the area, "don't panic right away. It might be that the little detector is just run away — or something.

Try rocking it."

"There are no working parts to get out of order," says the circular, "and the wonderful thing about the detector is that all you do to reset it is just shake it for a few seconds."

If the little beads still don't know any life, don't worry.

Presumably, the jig is up anyway.

The distributors of this marvel evidently don't place as much faith in the thing as they want us to. That's the reason for the bottom of the order form which says that money will be refunded if we are not completely satisfied.

Paper's Champion Blunder

Printing Impressions

On its 81st anniversary, one of the most celebrated blunders in American newspaper history went unreported among here in Walsenburg, Colorado, its birthplace.

Walsenburg had forgotten all about "Will Overhead" and how he won the 1933 "Indianapolis Classic" in repeated fashion on the front page of the Walsenberg World - Independent.

The editor of that paper, since converted to a weekly, publishing under the name of Huerfano World, was new at his task, but determined to be a Gung Ho newsman when it came the facts," and before everyone else.

He thought, and justifiably so, that his readers would want to know the name of the winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile race and to learn about action at the finish on the front page of his newspaper.

Not having on-the-spot radio and television coverage to rely on, he asked the Associated Press in Denver to get him the name of the winner, pronto! AP was more than happy to get this information to him in time for his deadline, and to reassure him that the name of the Denver AP correspondent wired back, "Will Overhead Winner."

Unfortunately, somewhat the novice editor didn't know is that, freely translated from press association jargon, this message meant the winner's name would be sent by telegram as soon as Will Overhead was declared.

So on that memorable day in newspaper history, the Walsenberg World - Independent scored the word with a five column banner, "Overhead Wins Indianapolis Classic."

Whether or not the editor was run out of town, or just got tired of all the razzing he took, isn't recorded. However, he was no longer with the paper by the 1940's when humorist H. Allen Smith resurrected this "sleeping dog."

And the new editor had a bone of his own to pick. Smith had added error to blunder by putting the incident in an Indiana setting, and Overhead editor was quick to demand, as was his due, a correction for the slight to his paper and to Walsenberg.

Smith knew it was his duty to correct his error and did so. However, as he looked out to the new editor, the first error was still on the books, so to speak, because the Walsenberg World - Independent had continued to let its readers believe Will Overhead really did win the race. They never printed a retraction.

A new chapter to American newspaper lore was added when the December, 1960, edition greeted Walsenburg with a five-column streamer blaring: "Lou Meyer Wins Indianapolis Classic." If this 16-year-old bit of out-of-context humor left readers somewhat confused, if not apathetic, at least the record was set straight.

Smallpox Again Threat

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Smallpox, a danger which most Canadians consider to be conveniently consigned to the past, is a danger which could occur in the near future, in the opinion of at least one Canadian public health expert. Forty to 50 years ago, smallpox was still an occasional killer which could throw a community into panic. Most of the Canadian population of now consists of people who are too young to have encountered a smallpox scare, and are scarcely aware of the disease except as a trivial item in the history books.

Dr. John Brown, of the University of Toronto School of Hygiene, says that the level of immunity against smallpox in the Canadian population is now dangerously low. A generation ago, fear of smallpox forced people to get themselves vaccinated. Now that the fear does not exist, people generally are not prompted to pay attention to getting vaccinated.

A single case of smallpox in a community could revive the fear, arouse a public clamor for vaccination, and bring about queues of people standing in line for a stab in the arm. In Dr. Brown's opinion, this is not the way to control smallpox. Epidemics are not stopped by rushing to get protection after the epidemic begins.

The low level of immunity in the population is probably to be charged to the generally-held notion that once a person is vaccinated he is immune for life. Childhood vaccination, says Dr. Brown, does not give immunity for life.

Anyone who has not been vaccinated for five years should have a revaccination, in the opinion of the public health experts. Anyone who does much travelling outside Canada would be better off to change the figure from five to three. It is wants to keep himself protected.

Dali-ance With Truth

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Ordinary people, who have been getting their space kicks out of close-up photographs of the moon, are far behind artist Salvador Dali who says he has been shooting at the inhabitants of Mars.

Dali, a modernist whose paintings defy easy interpretation that is seldom available to the average voter, says that he has been in communication with Mars through a unique form of telepathic mechanism.

Martians, he reports, are not who can argue with him—have sent like files with parabolic lenses.

A few skeptics will suspect that Dali, famous for painting some of his most outrageous paintings after having dined not too wisely but too well.

Newsmen, who are aware of Dali's capacity to get in the limelight will regard this to what they consider the proper light, a way of keeping their name out of a public that would, after examining his works, prefer to forget them.

Palpitation Worriers Should Consult a Doctor

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What about palpitation of the heart? I get this quite often, and I'm terrified. Does this mean I have a bad heart? It's a terrible feeling. I feel as if I'm smothering. Can one die from this? — F. A. N.

By far the majority of these "palpitation" cases turn out to be the result of:

1 — Excessive coffee or other stimulants

2 — Sometimes excessive smoking.

3 — Jangling nerves, with or without the two factors above.

Such things as overactive thyroid, or "pep pills," or some of the appetite depressants used by unwary dieters, are other possibilities.

The majority of such sufferers have average good hearts. That is to say, they may have good hearts or sometimes defective hearts, but either way such conditions are little if anything to do with the palpitations.

The nervous system has a great deal in common with heart action. Excitement of any kind can make it speed up. If, as is quite common, you have a worry about this speeding up or palpitation, then your fear makes your heart beat faster, beating rapidly, and you have a vicious circle. The feeling of "smothering" and of weakness is not at all unusual but these result from fear or nerves rather than from any effect caused by the organ itself.

True, there are cases in which palpitation is related to some real heart defect, but these are exceptions rather than the rule.

My suggestion is for people who are worried about palpitation to go to the doctor and have such examination and tests as he needs.

If there is something wrong, now is the time to find out and begin taking care of it.

If, as more often happens, you learn that there is nothing wrong with your heart, then stop worrying.

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend of mine died last year after a gall bladder operation. The third day following surgery she went into shock. The doctor said there was no way to foresee this and sometimes nothing could be done to stop it, as in her case.

Now I'm afraid to have such an operation. She was in bed otherwise in good health. I am 55 and have high blood pressure and too fat and have arthritis. — Mrs. A. B.

No operation is without risk. There is always some, however slight. Classic examples have been deaths from having a tooth pulled. Even that cannot defy.

Yet the risk has been growing constantly smaller as the years pass. It is not to be regarded, as it should not be avoided because of this slight risk. To do so would be like refusing to have surgery because of the danger of being shot by a bandit, run over by an automobile or hit by lightning while going to hospital. Those are real, though slight, risks too.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can the hormone testosterone be obtained without a prescription? Is it safe to use without a doctor's supervision? What is the proper dosage? — D. G., and Kwe

First, you need a prescription.

Second, it can do mischief if not properly used.

And third, there can be suggested dosages of most medicines, but that is merely an approximate guide. People aren't all alike, and they react differently. Proper use of any medication is based on watching to see how the patient responds, whether any unwanted effects appear, or whether a moderate increase in dosage is likely to be useful or tolerated.

Go Beyond Thinking to Master Any Art

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Watching a Western on television, my boy wanted to know why the hero always outdraws the villain in a gunfight. He is watching the action intently about good and evil, where he questions the unvarying triumph of goodness on the screen.

After trying to explain to him some of the mythic and moralistic qualities of fiction, I mentioned that there also is some basis in truth for the fact that the hero outdraws the villain, their proficiency being nearly equal.

This fascinating theory was devised by Prof. Niels Bohr, perhaps the outstanding physicist of our age, who won the Nobel Prize while he was still in his 30's. In his book, "Biography of Physics," George Gamow tells us that Bohr was an ardent devotee of Western movies.

He theorized that even though the villain draws first, the hero is faster and shoots him down before he can fire. He has to decide when to grab for his gun, while the hero acts faster because he knows the villain will when he sees the villain reach for his gun.

His colleagues laughed at this and Gamow bought a pair of guns from a toy shop to refute the theory — whereupon Bohr succeed in "killing" his colleagues when he shot it out with them.

In point of fact, Bohr's reflexes were faster because in his youth he was a member of the All-Danish Soccer Team and was still a superb athlete in late middle age. He could probably have shot down the whole faculty while they were still struggling to extricate their guns from the holsters.

This apart, however, what Bohr was emphasizing was the value of the instinctive as against the premeditated. The villain loses time in aiming when to draw; the hero, in response, has no time to think. Only when our "thinking" is unconscious can we attain the optimum of speed required and accuracy.

Every pianist knows this; one cannot really play the piano well unless one no longer thinks about the keyboard or the notes, but only about the music as a flowing entity. This is also true in sports my tennis is so wretched because I give myself time to think and so choose the wrong shots in the wrong positions. When I have no time to think, I play by instinct and do expert never thinks — he simply reacts.

Mastering any art means going beyond thinking. After his last accident, Stirling Moss, the great racing driver, said that he quit racing because he found himself "consciously thinking" about the turns, and knew that he could no longer outdraw death on the track.

Cement Co. Shows Increase In Earnings

TORONTO — A record increase of almost 40 percent in net earnings during the six months ended July 31 this year was reported today by Lake Ontario Portland Cement Company Limited.

In a semi-annual report to stockholders, Board Chairman the Hon. George A. Drew and President C. Richard noted that the Company's net earnings during the six-month period, this year, totalled $638,00 as compared to $462,00 for the corresponding six months of the previous year. Billings to customers rose from the 1963 half-year figure of $5,200,000 to $6,900,000 bringing gross profits from $1,400,000 up to $1,700,000.

The Company said that, after following for preferred dividend accruals, the earnings amounted to 18.3 cents per common share — largest interim profit in the Company's history.

Gains recorded during the six-month period were attributed largely to the general buoyancy of construction activity, but also to increased use of concrete in the home.

The Company pointed out that its major expansion now under way at its Picton, Ontario, plant, virtually doubling present capacity, has also been largely justified by this growing acceptance of concrete and concrete products. It also said that the operations of its wholly-owned subsidiary, Premier Building Materials Limited, in the ready mixed concrete, aggregate and building materials fields assured a sustaining market in the Toronto area.

To facilitate consolidation of the operations of its subsidiaries, Lake Ontario Portland Cement also noted that its fiscal year-end is being changed from January 31 to December 31, effective this year.

Approximately 75 carefully-selected applicants who have coaching experience or are active in their community hockey program have been chosen to attend the Ontario Institute. Prof. W. J. L'Heureux of the University of Western Ontario, is the professional educator at the clinic. Coaches are Hap Emms, 1941 Stanley McLeod, Don Rope, and Glen Sohmore.

The purpose of the institute is to teach the fundamentals of hockey to prospective coaches. Additional time is put into discuss the proper philosophy and leadership needed and the place and importance of physical fitness and citizenship connected with our national game of hockey.

Town Trucks Removed From Burning Barn

PICTON (Staff)—At approximately 9:15 p.m. last night fire was discovered in the town barn on Church Street in Picton. The fire, first noticed by Mr. Edgar Keep of Picton, was quickly brought under control by Picton Fire Department. Cause of the fire in the frame structure is unknown. The town barn contained two trucks that were speedily removed. The old barn was located on Church Street about half way up the hill to the Picton Army Camp.

Soldiers and fire fighting equipment from Camp Picton responded to a fire call at Point Petre today at approximately 5 p.m., where a large grass fire was burning furiously. Some 100 to 150 Army personnel were called out to help fight the fire. It is not known whether any damage was done to any of the buildings on the Army camp property. The heavy rainfall encountered about this time did much to quench the firefighters in extinguishing the fire.

NEW PETITION READY

A new petition to hold a plebicite on having a liquor store in the village of Wellington has been completed and presented to Wellington Reeve Robert Boyce.

Mr. Boyce said he has forwarded the petition to the Liquor Control Board of Ontario and the matter is now in the Board's hands, including setting the date for the vote. The issue has aroused keen interest in Wellington from early in 1963 a year when a petition was first taken and presented to the village council. There were some legal flaws in the first petition and the second one had to be taken on the proper legal forms.

NEW OPP CONSTABLE

Newest addition to Picton Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police, is Constable Jack Hoggins of Kitchener. Constable Hoggins took up his duties on Monday morning with the local detachment. His addition to the force brings the number of constables here to seven.

No Progress In Annexation Proceedings

PICTON (Staff) — No progress has been made in connection with the possible annexation of Hallowell township land adjoining Picton, Councillor Robert Walmsley told this week's meeting of town council. He said that Hallowell's plan to seek independent advice could result in a long delay and it would be up to the town to take action if it so desired.

Resignation of Planning Board chairman, Carl P. Reid, has been accepted with regret, but he had been requested to remain until the end of the year. A committee of R. Walmsley, and R. Clapp presented the following report of the Planning Committee meeting with Hallowell on July 27. Present were: Reeve and Deputy Reeve of Hallowell and two members and township clerk: R. Clapp, B. Rayburn, C. Barber, A. Jarvis, D. Thompson, L. Calnan, R. Walmsley. The purpose was to reconcile the proposed plans of the town of Picton to annex adjacent areas all belonging to Hallowell with the plans of Hallowell township.

The meeting discussed the proposed annexations and proposed use of the land for two hours. The results of this meeting were inconclusive but two definite points emerged.

1.—Hallowell township is at this time opposed to annexation. The chief basis of their opposition being the loss of revenue for the township, which would probably not be accompanied by a reduction in their costs.

2.—The township of Hallowell expressed itself as favoring in principle the land use restrictions heretofore established for the area immediately adjoining Picton but were not prepared to approve the proposed land use report of the Central Prince Edward Planning Board.

Hallowell township council expressed their intentions of obtaining independent advice on future land planning on the planning board report. The town of Picton pointed out to them the strong necessity of this being done as soon as possible so that planning for the area can go forward with a minimum of delay.

BURN NEGRO CHURCH

CANTON, Miss. (AP)—Civil rights workers report the 14th burning of a Negro church in Mississippi since civil rights workers began their "summer project" to register Negro voters last year. A spokesman for the council of federated organizations said the Mount Pleasant Church in the nearby Gluckstadt community was burned Monday. It was used as a "freedom school."

Quinte Secondary

The following are the results of the Grade XIII examinations written by Quinte Secondary School students in June, 1964. Standing is indicated as follows: 75% - 100%: I; 66% - 74%: II; 60% - 65%: III; 50% - 59%: C.

Students obtaining standing in eight or more papers including English literature and English Composition are entitled to Ontario Secondary School Honor Graduation Diplomas which will be presented at the annual commencement exercises in the Fall.

Certificates and appeal forms may be obtained at the school office during office hours, Monday to Friday inclusive.

—L. F. Ball, Principal.

Attention is drawn to the fact that any appeals must this year be submitted to the Department by September 1, 1964. Forms may be obtained at the school office.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

TEEN-AGERS AND TABLE MANNERS

Table manners seem to be of great concern to teen-agers who want to appear knowledgeable when dining in the homes of friends or in restaurants.

These are typical of questions we've been asked recently:

QUESTION: How do you know what seat to take when you enter the dining room?

ANSWER: If there are no place cards, the hostess indicates where each person is to sit.

QUESTION: When are you supposed to pick up your napkin?

ANSWER: When the hostess picks up hers.

QUESTION: Is it all right to refuse a helping of some food you don't care for?

ANSWER: It's more polite to take a small helping of everything that is offered. However if it's something you're not supposed to eat, or a food you just can't stand, if given a choice it's permissible to say "No, thank you." without further explanation.

QUESTION: When there's an array of silver on either side of the plate, how do I know which is the correct utensil to use for each course?

ANSWER: You start from the outside and work in. For instance, if soup is the first course the soup spoon should be on the extreme right, and so on. If you still have any doubts about what to use, take a peak at what fork or spoon the hostess is using and follow suit.

QUESTION: Can you reach for the salt and pepper, or are you only supposed to ask for it?

ANSWER: If the salt and pepper are nearby, it's permissible to reach as long as you don't have to lean across the table or the plate next to you. If they're not fairly near the right or left arms of your place setting, then it's advisable to ask the next person to pass them.

QUESTION: After being served, when do you start eating?

ANSWER: If the service is buffet, you start eating as soon as you fill your plate and sit down. If the hostess serves, or food is offered by a waitress, you start eating as soon as a few people at the table have filled plates in front of them. It's not necessary to wait until everyone is served.

QUESTION: Is it okay to put elbows on the table between courses?

ANSWER: It's still not considered proper form even between courses. While waiting for the next course, it looks better if you keep your hands lightly in your lap. While eating, the left hand should remain in the lap and shouldn't hold on to the plate or fiddle with the silver on the table.

If you have a blanket that's too short, just cover a strip of woollen or other fabric to the end that's tucked into the foot of the bed.

Children Show Results Of Their Green Thumbs

MONTREAL (CP) —Heaven help certain parents in Montreal who don't eat their vegetables.

Their children—green-thumb graduates of the Montreal Botanical Garden—will most likely set up a merry rumpus.

More than 300 youngsters maintain plots at the garden in a parks department program for children stuck in the city for the summer.

The first children's gardens were established in 1938 by Brother Marie-Victorin, founder of the botanical garden. The idea caught on with the speed of a weed.

A teacher from the Catholic School Commission organizes the course in gardening, gives lectures and directs the children. A gardener from the botanical garden staff supervises the practical work, along with several monitors.

"We have 308 gardens this year, covering about an acre and a quarter," said Rejean Vallee, chief monitor.

The individual plots measure about six by 14 feet and the competition for them is keen. Registrations open in February and there is always a waiting list after the 308 have been allotted.

TAKE VEGETABLES HOME

The children grow radishes, lettuce, cabbage, onions, carrots, tomatoes, beans and, in the space vacated early in the season by the radishes, flowers.

"The gardens are open to the children three days a week and each child must work on his or her garden at least once a week," Mr. Vallee said.

"As the vegetables grow and ripen, the children take them home to be eaten. Lettuce is in full bloom right now and their tomatoes are coming along nicely."

Many of the graduates of these gardens have gone into gardening as a profession and some are on the botanical garden staff as well as in nurseries in other centres.

In addition to tending their gardens, some youngsters enlist in the Young Naturalists Club and put in extra time collecting and mounting specimens of plant and insect life during the gardening season.

In the fall, a prize-giving evening is held, sponsored jointly by the botanical garden and the St. Lawrence Kiwanis Club.

Special trophies are given to the top gardeners and there are prizes for the stand-out young naturalists.

BLOOMS ROOM

Almost 20,000,000 daffodils were cut in B.C.'s Saanich Peninsula this year and sent to markets coast to coast.

Speaking Personally

TRIBUTE TO AN INDIAN

One of the finest gentlemen I ever knew was an elderly Indian named Henry Mitchell who used to live at Moira Lake.

When Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe who first attended the Dionne quintuplets said in a press interview once, that when he visited Madoc one of his friends and one of the first persons he wanted to see was Henry Mitchell, I knew what he meant.

Dr. Dafoe was a former Madoc boy, and his family lived in Madoc, (some relatives still do), and his generation as well as mine found Henry's little cabin a place of refuge in winter and Henry a source of knowledge about Indian lore, paddling a canoe, carving and the ways of small creatures and birds.

A group of young people would snowshoe in winter from Madoc to Moira Lake and arrive cold and numb. Henry would let us come into his one-room cabin where it was cozy and warm. He gave us food from his humble fare, maple syrup and soda biscuits, plain but satisfying (any food is to young appetites), then he would take an old violin down from a shelf and say, "Now I play Bubbles". This was a song popular at that time called "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles". And we would all sing while Henry sawed away at his violin. For an hour or more we would harmonize (?) with all the old favorite songs.

He was the only person who stayed at the lake all year, and perhaps it was because it was a lonely life that he made us feel welcome there, but I choose to think it was his generous heart. Most people seeing a crowd of youngsters descending on them would have locked the door and pulled down the blinds. He would always give us some small souvenir like a pair of moccasins for a doll, or a miniature birch bark canoe. Once when I was ill he tramped to Madoc through the snow to bring me a fresh fish he had caught through the ice.

In summer he taught us how to paddle a canoe, Indian fashion, turning the paddle to make it silent. He was a sort of self-appointed life-guard at the lake and frequently warned people against going out on the lake when a storm was threatening. Three young men went out against his advice one time, they upset, and one was drowned.

When I think of Henry Mitchell I think of Henry Thoreau. Henry Mitchell was not an intellectual, in fact I do not believe he could read or write, but in his own way he was a philosopher. He lived the simple, independent life that Thoreau sought, discarding all non-essentials, satisfied with what St. Paul said, "In whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content".

I didn't question how he made a living, such things do not assume any importance when one is young. But I do know he made boats, beautiful canoe paddles, fished, hunted, made deer skin moccasins, and made excursions to Rice Lake for the wild rice and duck shooting.

Many stories and legends grew up about Henry. He was beloved by all who knew him as a kind, unassuming, courteous, gentle man, and I pay this tribute to him now although he will never know it. He has long since gone to the happy hunting grounds.

ONE YEAR OLD

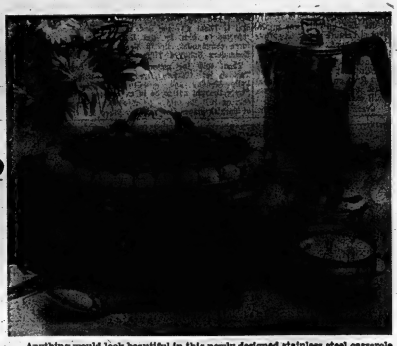
This column is celebrating its first anniversary, and this seems like a good time to say thank you to all those who have taken the trouble to write or to speak words of encouragement. Some have approved and some have disagreed with the thoughts expressed, both groups are appreciated. It was begun as an experiment in the hope that what interested one person might interest others. If it has accomplished this, I am happy. So again thank you for your kind acceptance.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Another baby on the way? If you plan to have thereby fit spend your hospital time at grandmother's. It's a good idea to let him (or her) get a couple of overnight visits during the last part of your waiting period. Come the day of your departure, he will have become accustomed to the idea and will probably accept it more readily.

Bedtime story. If your youngest child is still using the crib, you'll want to transfer him to a regular bed well before the arrival of the newcomer. (If you have to give a reason for the move, try the line about being "grown-up" now.) By giving you child time to get used to the new bed, he'll be less likely to resent the newcomer taking over the crib.



Early weeds. As you know, one of the early additions to a new baby's diet is cereal. Gerber offers 2 specially prepared packaged baby cereals which provide several of the nutrients your baby needs almost from the start. Now, Gerber also offers 4 cereal-fruit combinations in jars. Rice Cereal, Oatmeal, Mixed Cereal and Protein Cereal—all with Applesauce and Bananas. Cereal is cooked right with the fruit for marvellous flavour and a wonderfully smooth, moist texture.

Tactful tactics. You can often diminish resistance to the new baby by suggesting that big brother or sister share in the care of the "helpless" baby. Jealousy can also be held in abeyance by saving billing and cooing over the new baby for times when junior's out of sight.

Special information dept. When baby is ready for strained foods, it should be reassuring to know that when you give him Gerber, you give him quality. All Gerber Baby Foods are "custom-cooked" according to their own requirements. This simply means that different foods require different cooking methods to insure tasteful, nourishing products. But whatever method is used, cooking time and temperatures are controlled to protect flavours and colours and precious food values. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Anything would look beautiful in this newly designed stainless steel casserole, and Mary Moore's recipe today for Veal Rosemary makes a worthy content. Served with rice it will impress and please your most appreciative guests. It is comparatively inexpensive.

Veal Rosemary Is Gourmet Dish

by Mary Moore

The basic idea for the gourmet dish I am giving you today came from France and calls for veal. But when I asked my butcher for 2 lbs. of veal he gave me a dubious look and said "I didn't order any veal this week, Mrs. Moore for we would have to sell it for $1.79 per lb." "That's disgraceful! Whoever sets veal prices is pricing it right off the market!" I was disgruntled and undecided. What could I substitute? Glancing along the counter I found chicken breasts at 59c per lb. That was more in my price bracket and yours too, I know, so I bought 3½ lbs. knowing full well I had to bone out the raw meat at home. We could buy a whole chicken cheaper if you had the patience to bone it out. But I do make this new dish. If you can manage to buy veal at a respectable price, use it.

Heat fat in your largest frying pan. I used my copper-bottomed stainless steel chicken fryer. Add raw chicken meat (or veal) cut into bite-size pieces and while it browns, chop and add the garlic, onion, carrot, celery, stirring every time you add something. Add the salt, pepper, bouillon cubes and rosemary leaves. (Note: If you like rosemary very much use ¾ teaspoon. If you are indifferent use only ¼ teaspoon rosemary leaves.) Now add hot water and simmer, covered, for 1¼ hours. (Note: If veal is used it may require 2 hours of simmering to become tender.) I thickened the mixture by stirring in a smooth paste made of the cornstarch and milk and let it cook gently for 10 minutes longer.

I served this in the centre of my new stainless steel shallow casserole, bordered with whole medium sized mushrooms which I steam-fried. Inside the mushroom border I sprinkled a ½" band of chopped parsley. I served this with fluffy boiled rice.

The rich flavor of this dish is a treat for gourmets and I urge our hostesses to try it.

School Chums Give Shower for Bride

WELLINGTON — Last Wednesday evening the Misses Anne Sprigings, Kathy Smith, Noreen Allisen and Connie Boyle were sponsors of a miscellaneous shower given in honor of Miss Gloria Tuttle. The shower was held at the home of Miss Sprigings. The many guests were school chums and members of grade 12A, who had an enjoyable evening together.

A recipe file was filled with cards on which favorite recipes had been written by the girls, and they had fun making a bride's book and reading a mock wedding.

Games were played, after which the guest of honor was seated at a table. Miss Anne Sprigings read an appropriate address and the many lovely and useful gifts were presented to Gloria, who thanked her friends most sincerely for their kindness to her.

Lunch was served by the sponsors of the party, assisted by Mrs. Sprigings. Other gifts for the evening were Mrs. R. B. Pierce of R.R. 5, Picton; Mrs. K. B. Monks of Ottawa and Mrs. Ed Anderson of Ottawa, who are staying in Picton while their husbands are with the cadets there, Mrs. B. Tuttle and Miss Gwen Tuttle and Mrs. Brooks, mother and sisters of the guest of honor.

Mother's Helper

STILL uncertain about your toddler's "dry nights"? Make his bed with a draw sheet, so a midnight accident won't involve remaking the whole thing. Put the bottom sheet on as usual, spread a waterproof pad over it. Cover the waterproof pad with a crib sheet. Then, if necessary, just whisk off those two top layers.

Council

notices if trouble broke out again.

The new council appeal was proposed by Arsene Assouan Usher of the Ivory Coast. It asked "all governments to stop all flights over Cyprus that violate its sovereignty" and requested that the UN force in Cyprus "reinforce its units in the zone of the recent military operations so as to ensure the safety of the inhabitants."

The first part was directed at Turkey, which has said it would continue scouting flights over Cyprus until Greek - Cypriot forces pull back from positions won in their drive into Turkish-Cypriot holdings last week. The Second part was intended to put UN troops in a position to protect Turkish-Cypriots.

Turkey's planes strafed Greek-Cypriot areas last Friday and Saturday with the avowed purpose of stopping a Greek offensive. After meetings Saturday night and Sunday, the council adopted a British-U.S. cease-fire resolution.

Cypriot delegate Zenon Rossides asked for an urgent council meeting Sunday, claiming that two Turkish destroyers were landing arms and troops on Cyprus. He renewed the request Monday on the ground that there had been another Turkish air attack.

When the council convened Tuesday, Rossides charged that two Turkish jet fighters strafed Polis Monday, wounding 10 persons. He complained that Turkish planes flew over Cyprus again Tuesday.

He said all this was unprovoked because Greek - Cypriots had stopped firing Saturday night.

Turkish delegate Orhan Eralp replied that Turkish planes had not fired on Polis. He declared that the Greek-Cypriots were still shooting Sunday.

Greek delegate Dimitri Bitsios also asked that Secretary-General U Thant give the facts as reported in him by the UN force commander, Indian Gen. Kodendera Subayra Thimayya.

Thant told the council two Turkish jet fighters fired on Polis Monday and casualties "were thought not to be in excess of 10." He said a number of Turkish planes flew over Cyprus Tuesday but did not fire. Everywhere now, he said, "firing has come to an end."

Each speaker is limited to 30 minutes, but he is allowed to speak each time a new amendment is placed before the House.

After being seemingly bogged down in clause-by-clause committee study all day on the tax-sharing measure, the Commons crept through the final two clauses without debate in the closing two minutes of Tuesday night's business.

The bill enacts complex arrangements worked out in federal-provincial talks during the last nine months.

It gives the provinces an extra four-per-cent slice of personal income taxes over the next two years. Equalization payments to poorer provinces will go up and the annual $8,000,000 grant to Newfoundland will be extended indefinitely.

The Senate met in the hope of getting the eight-clause bill Tuesday night, then adjourned until today.

During the debate charges were levelled that the federal government concocted its new tax-sharing formula to fit the amount of money it was prepared to give the provinces. Opposition MPs described the measure designed to give the provinces a bigger slice of the tax pie as unfair and discriminatory.

COMPARES FORMULAS

Finance Minister Gordon conceded that the new system of equalization payments is not perfect, but neither had any of the formulas in the past been perfect.

The new formula, which takes provincial resource revenues into account in equalization payments, was described by various opposition MPs as a monstrosity, a stop-gap measure conceived in haste and discriminatory to British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

H. A. Olson (SC—Medicine Hat) said: "It is becoming more and more obvious . . . that the amount of money which the federal government was pressured . . . into distributing to the provinces was a predetermined figure and then the formula was concocted in order to meet that figure."

Mr. Fleming-baker said an examination of the formula indicates it is not based upon any known degree of common sense or logic. He said it is a stop-gap designed to achieve by increasing the amount each province receives, a reasonable degree of support because each province will receive more whether discriminated against or not.

Lloyd Francis (L—Carleton) expressed concern at the whittling down of federal responsibility in the fiscal field. He was backed up by Ralph Cowan (L—York-Humber), who said there is a limit to which the finance minister can go and "there are a few of us who think that the limit has been exceeded."

AROUSES IRE

However, Mr. Cowan aroused the ire of Forestry Minister Sauve and several other MPs when he attempted to prove that Quebec was not a "have-not" province and thus did not qualify for privileged treatment under the tax-sharing arrangements.

Mr. Sauve quoted a different set of statistics in an effort to refute Mr. Cowan's argument. The Toronto Liberal replied that he needed no lessons from the forestry minister in reading statistics.

Steve Otto (L — York East) said he dissociated himself from Mr. Cowan's remarks in connection with Quebec. "There was a smell of vinegar in his speech which I do not believe adds anything to the unity of the nation."

New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas said the introduction of resource revenues as a factor in equalization payments represents a reversal of policy and a departure from the equalization principle.

"If the government was going to take the revenues of the provinces into consideration . . . they should have taken its consideration liquor profits, sales taxes, motor vehicle licence fees and all the other varied sources of revenue," Mr Douglas said.

PROMISES ACTION

TORONTO (CP) — Alderman Richard Hoskins said Tuesday Metropolitan Toronto's centennial committee will either reach a decision at its next meeting Sept. 15 to start a centennial project or it will disband. The committee has agreed to invite representatives of various municipal centennial committees to discuss a Metropolitan Toronto parade and plan a calendar of events. If each municipality has made its own plans, the committee will consider disbanding, Ald. Hoskins said.

Ann Landers

Retter to Get Air Clear Before Walking to Altar

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am 26 years old and have a good job in a department store. Since I was a kid I've had a bad limp which has made me self-conscious. I wasn't able to work up the nerve to ask a girl for a date until I was 20 years old.

ANN LANDERS

Last year I began to take out a girl who works in the store. Bernice gave me a lot of confidence in myself. Until I met her I never thought I was interesting enough to hold a girl's attention.

Bernice is 24, has been married and divorced. She is full of pep, good company and says she is crazy about me. I gave her a diamond ring for Valentine's Day and we plan to be married in October.

Lately I've been hearing a lot of talk about Bernice and the floor walker, Bernice and the shoe buyer, Bernice and the window trimmer, in name just a few. She has told me several lies and now I see other things that didn't add up.

I'm afraid to have a showdown for fear she will break off with me. I couldn't take that. I'm hoping she will settle down after marriage. Any advice? — HOPING.

DEAR HOPING — Bernice isn't playing it straight and you know it. Better to face reality now than to marry the girl and wonder where she is — and with whom.

In the department store business there's an old adage — "The first mark-down is the cheapest." This adage applies to people as well as merchandise.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My 17-year-old brother teases me because I'm a steady reader of your column.

He says only old bails read Ann Landers — that something has to be wrong with a person who wants to read about other people's problems. According to him it's like peeking through a keyhole. He also says there is something sadistic about people who enjoy reading about trouble all the time. He pointed out that last week you wrote about a deaf and dumb beggar, a mean mother-in-law, a retarded child and a little kid who had to wear second-hand clothes.

What shall I say to my brother when he teases me about reading your column? I would surely appreciate it if you could supply me with a good answer — LANDERS FAN AND PROUD OF IT.

DEAR PROUD FAN — The next time your brother needles you about reading my column ask him how come he knows everything that's in it?

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a 44-year-old divorcee, and much too old for this sort of problem. I accepted a job as a receptionist, secretary and bookkeeper for a friend who has had financial reverses. I'm working at a fraction of my former salary because I want to help him get on his feet. The man has a lovely wife and family and he truly deserves a break.

Our most important customer is an octopus. He comes in several times a week, follows me around the office like a puppy-dog, and makes passes left and right. The louse is getting bolder and bolder by the day and I am sick of it.

If he weren't so important to the business I'd give him a crack in the mouth and call it a day, but we need his account.

How can I get him to leave me alone and still keep him friendly — at the business level? — TIRED OF RUNNING AROUND THE DESK.

DEAR TIRED OF RUNNING — If the entire future of the business hinges on the account of this eight-handed idiot you might as well lock the door now.

The man didn't give the firm his account because of you — and he probably will not take his account away if you chill him. So go ahead — and let the teeth fall where they may.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-Age Smoking," enclosing with your request 15c in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PERMANENT TRANSIT MIX CONCRETE

Big buildings going up in the Belleville area prompted Permanent Transit Mix Concrete last week to move a second 10-yard-capacity mixing truck to Belleville. The first of the semi-trailer rigs was moved in on a permanent basis during July. Three of them were brought down from Kingston during the spring to help pour the floor of the new Baxter cannery in Bloomfield, but these trucks were returned to Kingston when the job was completed.

Total fleet at the P.T.C. depot now includes six of the normal 44-yard mixers, mounted on tandem truck chassis, two tandem tractors, two ten-yard mixers mounted on tandem semi-trailers and a tandem semi-trailer with a dump body. The dump unit is used to carry sand and gravel to the depot.

The big jobs, (they weigh about thirty tons, loaded), will be used mostly for big jobs such as the Intelligencer building, the new liquor store, the Smith Transport garage and the Sir Mackenzie Bowell school in Belleville, the new Federal building in Trenton and highway work. As long as they are here though, they can be used to advantage on a lot of other jobs. The ten-yard capacity, for instance, is just about right to do the basement floor of a house in one trip, at a saving in time and money for the contractor and for P.T.C.

Arrival of the second of the big trucks this month is a milestone for depot manager Jack Hamill, who is marking his ninth year with the firm this month. The depot, one of 22 owned by P.T.C. in Canada, has been operating for 11 years now.

HASTINGS ASPHALT CO.

In production for a couple of weeks now, the new Hastings Asphalt Co. completed its first placing jobs last week. The firm was formed after W. D. Curry of Toronto, Mac White and Lightfoot Construction of Belleville bought an asphalt plant from Rayner Construction of Toronto, about five weeks ago. The asphalt plant was already erected on a sideroad north of Bayside at the time of the purchase. W. D. Curry is president of the firm, Mac White is vice-president and general manager, and Jim Lightfoot, acting for Lightfoot Construction, is secretary treasurer. Ed Muldoon, an ex-McFarland employee, is foreman at the plant.

The plant is one of the biggest, if not the biggest, batch-type plants in the district. Capacity is about two tons of asphalt per batch, and it can turn out a batch in about two minutes. McFarland Construction has a flow-type plant with larger capacity.

The firm also owns equipment for placing asphalt, used last week to pave two parking lots. Production for the firm's own paving contracts, and for other contractors, will keep the plant going for a year with the orders already on hand, according to Mac White.

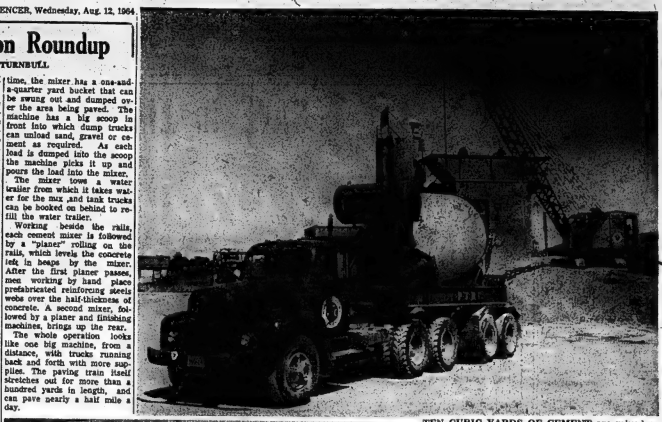
401 PAVING

Work on McFarland's paving contract on Highway 401 is about one-quarter finished now. Paving half the lane at a time, the paving crew is more than a mile past the half-way mark on the ten-mile contract. The north half of the north lane is being paved as the machinery moves east; the south half will be paved as the machinery heads back to Belleville.



The paving train is worth seeing. Rails to carry the machinery and to serve as forms for the continuous strip of concrete are laid nearly a mile ahead of the machinery, and pulled up again a day or so after the "train" passes. Plastic sheeting—polyethelene— is laid over the gravel and the "baskets"—a new type of expansion joint—are put in place.

Cement is mixed in a monster mixer that moves on caterpillar tracks at less than walking speed. Able to mix two batches of concrete at the same time, the mixer has a one-and-a-quarter yard bucket that can be swung out and dumped over the area being paved. The machine has a big scoop in front into which dump trucks can unload sand, gravel or cement as required. As each load is dumped into the scoop the machine picks it up and pours the load into the mixer.

The mixer tows a water trailer from which it takes water for the mix, and tank trucks can be booked on behind to refill the water trailer.

Working beside the rails, each cement mixer is followed by a "planer" rolling on the rails, which levels the concrete left in heaps by the mixer. After the first planer passes, men working by hand place prestretched reinforcing steels probe over the half-thickness of concrete. A second mixer, followed by a planer and finishing machines, brings up the rear.

The whole operation looks like one big machine, from a distance, with trucks running back and forth with more supplies. The paving train itself stretches out for more than a hundred yards in length, and can pave nearly a half mile a day.

TEN CUBIC YARDS OF CEMENT are mixed on the run by this truck, the second of its type to be stationed in Belleville by Permanent Transit Mix Concrete Ltd. The trucks were brought in because of a rush of big building in the area this year.

HASTINGS ASPHALT CO. has bought this two-yard-capacity asphalt plant from Raynor Construction of Toronto and is using it to produce hot mix at Bayside. Tank truck in the background is delivering materials.

Recently Published Poem Pleasant Change and Uplift

DEAR DORIS — This is just a small note of appreciation for the item "Just For Today" that appeared recently in your column. It was such a pleasant change and uplift from the many problems posed to

DORIS CLARK

Have you seen this:

BROKEN THINGS

When I remember with a little catch
How broken things were nearest to my heart,
How many cats and crippled, homely dogs
And limbless dolls and toys torn apart
I gathered in my arms and comforted,
Promising kinder days for them in store;
How yet my sleep is troubled in the night
Sorrowing for the sorrow at my door —
Pull well I know God loves His broken things!
If my cold heart is torn, how must His heart
Yearn o'er the hurt of all this writhing world,
Gather it in His Arms and smooth away Its smart!
Ah I, who languish here with maimed wings
Look up and know—God loves His broken things . . .

Vera Maris Tracey

This I found in "Sharing", a magazine of Christian healing — and thought I'd share it. — MRS M. I. McK.

DEAR MRS. McK. — I think it's a little gem. I wrote and obtained permission from "Sharing" headquarters to reproduce it here. Thank you.

DEAR DORIS — I have a girl friend who swears quite a bit and I do just a little. She likes going out with boys. Sometimes I go but sometimes I think I won't get back.

I like her very much and I think she is a lot of fun. My mother doesn't like me going around with her. Should I stop going around with her? Shouldn't I have a choice about who I want to go with? — FUN-LOVING GIRL.

DEAR FUN-LOVING — Not when she swears, flirts, goes with boys you don't feel safe with! Pick somebody who is more like your mother's idea of a lady — and mine.

(Put your problem on paper and send it to Doris in care of this newspaper, along with a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Professional Skill at Your Service

Your pharmacist, by necessity, is also a merchant because of the multiplicity of items, apart from drugs, with which he serves the community. But first and foremost he is a professional man, regarding his skill and knowledge in the handling of prescriptions as the most important charge upon his time and services. This is as it should be — and the unhesitating trust placed in him by physicians and public alike is indeed a high tribute to the faithful service he renders.

Belleville Fair: An Epitome Of Community Enterprise

POINTING UP EXPANSION phase is President Bob Phillips touring grounds with officers Carl Thompson, Dr. Harry Burns and Earl Dafoe

Calls for Year-Round Planning

They throw the organizational switch Monday and set the Belleville Fair in motion for 1964.

Late Thursday night they start switching out the last light on the big exhibition for another year.

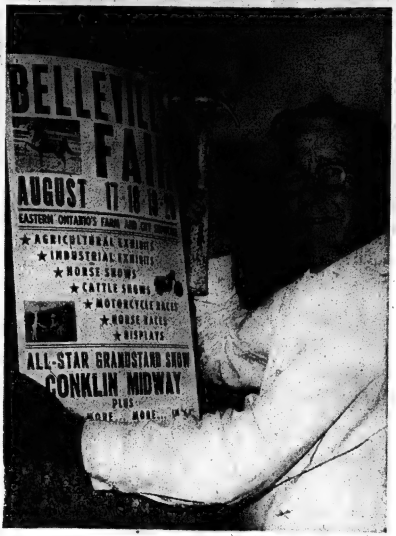
It will have lasted four days and four nights — as far as the public is concerned.

But for Bob Phillips and the members organized under his presidency on the Fair Board the event will have lasted a full year!

In a community whose social and cultural exchange must of necessity be the responsibility of dedicated amateurs, the Belleville Fair is the supreme example of community enterprise.

This year has not been without notable progress — for the specific benefit of Fair patrons.

Particular emphasis was laid by Mr. Phillips on traffic problems. The flow has been made easier by widening the Catherine Street and southside gates while the parking lot west of the grandstand has been doubled in area.



Much work has been done also to enlarge facilities for housing livestock.

At fairtime, the frazzled man coping with the intricacies of feeding herds of livestock may be a schoolteacher; the man sorting prize lists classifications could be a bank official or fire chief; the man in shirtsleeves hammering up posters as a country sideroad a member of the provincial parliament; the one puzzling a problem of show business a fuel merchant.

Doctors, farmers, merchants, municipal officials, they all make common cause in integrating the many phases of local endeavor.

Their joint endeavor brings together thousands of their fellow citizens.

All in all, a fair piece of achievement.

"SANDY" SANDERCOCK, MLA, lends hand with publicity tour

New Emphasis on Local Industry Display

Ever worked a machine in an industrial complex without realizing what the company's product looked like?

Asked in your community without fully realizing what its industries produce?

If the reply is affirmative the Belleville Fair this year has also set the task of providing definite answers to the questions.

In co-operation with the city's Chamber of Commerce the Fair this year is devoting an entire building to a local industrial display.

The idea itself isn't exactly new. It will be staged in a pavilion that is known as the "manufacturers' building." However, and to possibly trigger interest for years the displays here have emphasized commercial products — a broad category that has allowed manufactured items of all origins on show.

Now, however, the Fair and Chamber are being more specific.

"This is the first full-scale annual exhibition concentrating on products manufactured by local industries, explains Earl Dickensheider, as Chamber secretary the man directly responsible for organizing the display.

The theme behind the idea is two-fold: to acquaint local citizens with the industrial background of their community — and to possibly trigger interest in other companies to locate in Belleville.

"Not very many of our local industries sell to people in this area," says Mr. Dickensheider.

"This will give the citizens a chance to see what goes on industrially in their area!

"It might also possibly impress on other enterprises that we already have an industrial settlement here," he adds.

So far, this week, close to 20 industries have signified intentions of putting their work on display at the fair.

However, this will not take up all the available floor space in the building — and he is hoping there may be some more bookings before the week is out.

"It's the holiday season and some companies can't spare the personnel for the display," he explains.

All in all, however, there seems to be general satisfaction over the response by local industrialists.

Neither will the exhibition be strictly contemporary.

Spicing it up, says Mr. Dickensheider, will be something akin to a study in industrial contrasts, linking modern methods to those of days gone by.

The Hastings County Historical Society also is planning on a display of industrial heirlooms.

Top Judge For Fair

Belleville Fair will be officially opened this year by a man who is no stranger to such events—from Arnprior to Australia.

Doing the formal honors will be Jack Fraser, one of the world's outstanding livestock breeders and judges.

His Spring Farm Holstein herd near Brampton is a consistent producer of top-flight cattle and breeding stock.

Its record is almost unbroken in the production of champions and stock from the herd has been sold across the world.

Among the record holders were Spring Farm Sovereign Supreme—three times All Canadian champion and Spring Farm Juliette Holding, the unmatched record of six All-Canadian awards and then years' entry in the All-Canadian show selection. Sovereign Supreme later was purchased for breeding purposes by the Republic of Colombia. Other customers for Spring Farm stock include Argentina.

In 1945, Jack Fraser was designated a master breeder by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada. An acknowledged world authority on the Holstein breed, he has judged national exhibition from the Argentine to Australia.

(His Australian trip incidentally involved flying on 27 different aircraft and 17 airlines.)

On the American continent he has judged all major cattle shows from the San Francisco Cow Palace to the Charlottetown Exhibition.

When he's home Mr. Fraser lives on the property he purchased when a 22-year-old farmer—just across the road from the family homestead. His original purchase of 100 acres quadrupled over the years.

COMMUNITY LEADER

Also on homeground, Mr. Fraser is an active community leader, and has served as reeve of his township and warden of Peel County.

An enthusiastic hunter and fisherman and curler, Belleville curlers have also good reason to recall him.

In 1958 he was lured to the operation

Tex Ritter
The 'Old Maestro' Headlines Show

A solid recipe for any venture in show business is fun and music.

Add to the above a dash of nostalgia and there's the formula for this year's Belleville Fair grandstand show.

All three top ingredients with its guarantee of something for all ages — is personified in the top star Tex Ritter.

For his appearances, the veteran performer has rounded up a constraining bill of talent, notably Eddie Collins, wizard of the banjo and Neal Hale, a youngster whose gifts of showmanship are reported far beyond his tender years.

But it will be the old maestro, Tex Ritter, who must carry the brunt of the show.

Still one of the most active figures in show business after three decades as a headliner, the man known as "America's Most Beloved Cowboy" defies a listing of his appearances or a description of his many talents.

If he were credited with little else, the fact he started the vogue for cowboy music among Easterners, would assure him his niche in entertainment annals.

A native Texan and one-time law student, his fabulous career started with a summer vacation job as a cowboy ballad singer with a Houston radio station.

Eventually drawn to New York, he stayed there five years - - long enough to make cowboy music a popular medium.

In 1937 he was lured to the biggest entertainment centre of them all - - Hollywood. In the next 12 years he reached a pinnacle of his career with a startling record of 78 western musicals. In later years he sang the background music for many top-grade western dramas. "High Noon" being perhaps the most memorable.

(Today, he is married to his first leading lady of the screen, Dorothy Fay. They live with their two sons in California, where they are both active in civic affairs).

Probably few performers have toured as extensively as Ritter. His appearances are a regular of the public entertainment medium - - rodeos, fairs, night clubs, conventions, political rallies. He has toured all North America, Europe and South Africa. His more recent recordings even included a session in Mexico City. As late as 1961 - - after 30 years of recording contracts, he again came up with a hit: the million seller "Hillbilly Heaven."

Eddie Collins, known for his spritely recordings of such foot-tappers as "Four Leaf Clover", "Hop Scotch Polka" is credited as the man who brought the banjo back to the entertainment sphere. Among his other earlier credits are stints with the Art Mooney band and appearances at New York's Roxy and Hollywood's Palladium.

Neal Hale, qualifies as a veteran not by age, but by years in show business. He started at the age of six. Already he has appeared on more than 100 television broadcasts.

His act "Hi-Fi Fantatics" is a relentless string of spoofs and skits ending for a succession of hi-fi equipment, props and spoofs. He brings them along himself.

His youthful appearance — as witness his photo — belie the zest and zaniness he projects into his act. They also give a different impression of his qualifications as a veteran trouper in show business.

He has been a featured entertainer at business and service club conventions and has appeared previously in Canada, and south of the border in New York, Philadelphia and throughout the Midwest.

TEX RITTER

"Proudest Horseshow in Eastern Ontario"

Busiest man in Belleville right now probably is Carl Thompson.

As Belleville Fair official and veteran member of its board of directors he is spending most of his waking hours at the Fairgrounds offices, registering prize list entries.

At last report those entries were totalling a volume that promises a record.

And way up there, of course, is one of the Fair's showpieces - - its display of horseflesh.

"It's one of the proudest horse shows anywhere this part of the province," says Mr. Thompson, pausing briefly between counting off a mound of entries.

"Right now it's not quite fair to say just how many exhibitors we'll have. But last year was a top event - - and this year looks like topping even that."

Horseshows always have been a traditional item imparting classy glamor to such events. Most fans - - and all Fair board members agree - - that the annual display in Belleville has become one of the classiest.

How it came about seems to have been a mixed combination of enthusiasm and accident. In one way it just grew.

But the display always has had its dedicated promoters among board members. Public response showed a similar inclination - - as did exhibitors over an increasingly wide area.

Now entries come in from around Southern Ontario as the Fair board announces the dates of the annual exhibition.

Neither have breeders or trainers been disappointed.

Each year, they rarely leave without expressing the enthusiasm of the sportsman for satisfaction derived from the event, win, lose or draw.

Too, such events as the Fair appear riding on a new wave of enthusiasm for equestrian pastimes.

There is mounting interest in horse-breeding, with an increasing number of youngsters showing a deep, involved interest.

This can only augur well for horseshows in the future with the Belleville Fair high on the list.

Auschwitz Story

"The Most Horrible Book Ever Written"

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

FRANKFURT (CP) — Prosecutor Joachim Kuegler 38, is author of the "most horrible book ever written"—the story of Auschwitz.

His 700-page volume is the legal charge-sheet against 21 men on trial here as officials and guards at Auschwitz, the indescribable Nazi death camp that exterminated millions of Jews, Poles, Russians and Gypsies.

The young prosecutor takes a flat, unsensational approach to his job—"sensation is a by-product"—but he spoke with grim finality when he gave this analysis to a Canadian reporter:

"History has many examples of slaughters and atrocities, but for me two things emerge about Auschwitz.

"Auschwitz was a death factory with at the same time a successful attempt to make use of the victims' belongings — rings, watches, silk and woollen underwear, gold teeth, women's hair, anything. This was new.

"The second thing is that from studying the personal files of the men who worked at Auschwitz — their religious, family and personal background — I'm convinced they represented a cross-section of the German population at the time. And not one of them rebelled."

CAN'T EXPLAIN

Why did they do it?

"I don't know," said Kuegler with a helpless gesture. "I'm only a lawyer."

The case, which began last Dec. 20 and is expected to run until early next year, is the biggest in a new wave of war-crime trials now being heard in West Germany. Its significance is great.

Unlike the post-war Nuernberg trials, where Allied judges tried Germans for war crimes under international law, the German prosecutors accuse the defendants of violations of German criminal law ranging from murder to assault and battery.

Wide newspaper coverage has caused spasms of shock among Germans, and some of the older generation are said to believe the exercise is pointless nearly 20 years after the war. But Kuegler draws satisfaction from the impact on young people.

"They are asking a lot of questions—questions that have no answers," he said.

The hearing before three judges and a jury has been moved from the Frankfurt courthouse to a more spacious public hall, whose gallery is "sold out for months." Teachers and youth club leaders bring young folk to listen.

REACT WITH SILENCE

Apart from gas - chamber stories they hear how babies' brains were dashed out against walls and how rats scurried over starving children so emaciated they were branded on the legs because their arms were too thin to take the imprint.

There are some faintings among spectators but "horror is usually expressed by dead silence," Kuegler said. Hearings are held three days a week and it was an off day when a group of Commonwealth reporters visited the court. A separate case, involving two henchmen of Adolf Eichmann, was being tried.

The Auschwitz accused, a routine - looking group, range from Boger, the dreaded head of the camp's political section, to former guards. Each could pass for an ordinary burgher, or citizen—did just that, in fact, for many years. Many sought to put blame on the dead Eichmann, who tried to implement the "final solution" of the Jewish problem.

Apart from one defendant who killed a pedestrian while drunk-driving, the accused apparently have lived within the law since the war, sometimes under assumed names. Kuegler estimates about 20 Auschwitz "big fish are still free.

Why has retribution waited so long?

Kuegler indicated the West German authorities have been slow—"this sounds like an accusation and in a way it is—but there were difficulties.

DOCTOR IN GHANA

For one thing, Auschwitz was in Poland, behind the Iron Curtain. Several wanted men took refuge on the South American "chessboard." Eichmann was grabbed by Israeli agents but brought out horrors similar to those now being recounted at Frankfurt.

Ordinary Germans had suspected that Allied tribunals were tinged with vengeance but now their own courts were proving that, for instance, the SS Elite Guard was a sort of Murder Inc.

Another significant event came in 1958 when legal authorities of West Germany's 11 states formed at Ludwigsburg a central agency to deal with foreign countries and clear away tangles among themselves.

The agency has opened nearly 700 preliminary inquiries and handed over 480 cases to prosecutors. It was in this way that Kuegler and his co-prosecutor, Fritz Vogel, also 38, came into the picture at Frankfurt, once the home of Germany's biggest Jewish community.

"We investigated 1,040 people," said Kuegler, who began the job in 1959. "Many Auschwitz victims were broken physically and mentally. They forget, or they imagine things. We have 150 witnesses now."

Much has been said about the Communist countries refusing to give information to West Germany, but Kuegler said that recently Russia, Poland and East Germany have given documents and co-operation "without trying to make political capital — perhaps it is symbolic."

Some 800 cases now are pending, and Kuegler said this represents a determination among responsible Germans to face up to and root out the evils of the past.

EICHMANN ASSOCIATES TRIED AT FRANKFURT — Hermann Krumey (left), 59, a druggist, and Otto Hunsche, 53, a lawyer, sit in a Frankfurt court during their trial on charges of murder and extortion during the Second World War. Krumey is held responsible for the deportation of 437,000 Hungarian Jews. Joachim Kuegler, 38, author of a history on Auschwitz prison camp, says a study of men who worked at the camp—their religious, family and personal background —showed they represented a cross-section of German population at that time. RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

They say he weighs 600 pounds on the hoof, or paw. He's covered with a hirsute mattress from head to foot, has pointed ears and has a "brg" guaranteed to make a hoop-glass out of anything that tips the scales at 300 upward.

He is billed as the "added attraction" to the regular mat melee at Memorial Arena Friday night.

I don't know whether he's grisly, Russian, or just plain brown or black like the garbage collectors in Algonquin Park.

They tell me he wears a muzzle so he cannot talk back to the referee or made snide remarks to the blondes in the third row back.

He is called "Terrible Ted," a scion of one of the finest bear families extant, and reputed to be one of best wrestling members of his breed in the world.

And from this record, it should be quite a while before his fur-edged and converted into a fireside rug for somebody's den or a northern log cabin. He wrestles one, Jean Dubois, Friday.

Headlining the card is Gentleman Jim Hady, a steady favorite here, who takes on "The Beast" and his manager in the main bout.

And what should be a clean-cut dilly is the semi-final which brings together popular Ray Villmer and Ilio De Paolo, the huge Italiano.

Eric Frohler, the likeable blonde German lad, takes on the tough "The Great Mephisto" in the opener.

HYDROPLANE RACING

Upwards of 100 inboard and outboard racing craft will churn the waters off Zwick's Island on Sunday, August 30th in a Canadian Boating Federation sanctioned regatta, when Hydroplane Club president Doug Storey announced.

Seven classes of racing boats will be competing for points in the second leg of the Bill Braden Trophy, presented to the winner each fall.

The regatta is a combined inboard and outboard affair with four classes of hydroplanes and three classes of racing motors competing.

The two-skimming hydroplane classes include the "D" Class at 75 miles per hour; "C" Class 70 mph; "B" Class, 65 mph and "A" Class 55 mph. There will also be open competition in the inboard class with several boats, including 150, 266 and 266.

Alcohol-burning racing motors craft will be represented by three classes: "A", 62 mph; "B", 70 mph and "C", 78 mph.

It is expected that boats from Ontario, Quebec and the United States will be here. The American Power Boat Association has given its sanction jointly with the CBF.

The races are scheduled to start at one p.m. and will carry through to five p.m. There will be a schedule of thirteen races all told.

Thousands of fans have been attending similar sanctioned regattas in other parts of the country, Storey says, and he anticipates a large crowd at Zwick's Island on Sunday, August 29th.

Answering the prayers and entreaties of the rainmakers and with an eye to giving a helping hand to a parched countryside, Ole Jupe Pluvius opened the flood gates last night and gave the back of his hand to sportsmen of the city and district.

The two-inches deluge effectively wiped out all diamond activities hereabouts, causing schedule-makers to indulge in some head-scratching and date searching.

The Belleville Joycos-Oshawa Merchants game didn't get off the ground, nor did the boys leave the city. And that just about leaves the Belleville-Oshawa EOBA series in the air for the moment.

Manager Gordie Vaughan said this morning that the team was ready and rarin' to meet the Brockville Beavers in the EOBA eastern senior finals. The first game had been scheduled here for Friday night but it seems the screen has been removed from the front of the grandstand due to Fair arrangements—and that presents another problem.

Manager Vaughan said arrangements were under way to play home games during Fair Week on the Cannifton diamond—but this is not definite.

Joe Louis Says

Coach, Not Liston, Quit

BALTIMORE (AP) — Joe Louis, former world heavyweight boxing champion, says it was Sonny Liston's manager who threw in the towel in last February's title fight with Cassius Clay.

"Everyone keeps saying that Liston quit in his corner after the sixth round, but it isn't true," Louis said Tuesday. "I was the first person in the ring and Liston was yelling to his corner men: 'Let me fight, I can still beat him.'

"But Jack Nilon, his manager, made him quit. He knew that they had a return-bout clause and he didn't want to take a chance on Sonny hurting his shoulder so that he would never be able to fight again."

Louis, who was at the ringside in Miami Beach as a television commentator for the heavyweight title bout, said: "Clay was the one that really wanted to quit. After the fifth round, he was yelling at his seconds 'don't let him hit me so more.'"

Ladies' Golf Draw

The reason, the Picton Golf Club is holding its annual Ladies' Field Day and some 25 Quinte women golfers will be there seeking titles and awards.

The draw:

A.M.

Libby McFarlane
9.14—Kay Lack
Eleanor Haggerty

The winners of the July tournaments have been announced. These are: Phyl Dybie, 95; Monica MacDonald, 92; Betty Walmsley, 81; Gerry Carmichael, 76; Dolly Diamond, 67; Clare Hopwood-Jones, 65; Hilda Dolan, 64 and Ana Ryan, 62.

Leafs Whip Crackers, Suns Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jacksonville Suns parlayed a pair of victories over Buffalo Bisons and a loss by Syracuse Chiefs to Columbus Jets to regain the International League lead Tuesday night.

The Suns pounded the Bisons 6-2 and 7-1 to climb a full game ahead of Syracuse, who lost 6-2 to Columbus.

At the same time, Toronto Maple Leafs pulled into a fourth-place tie with Rochester Red Wings. The Leafs battered Atlanta Crackers 9-4 while the Wings shocked a 5-0 drubbing at the hands of Richmond Virginians.

Canadian Vern Handrahan of Charlottetown, P.E.I., took the hose in the Richmond victory making his record 4-3 for the season as he worked 4 1-3 innings, struck out two, gave up all five runs and allowed six hits.

Glen Hobbie allowed only one hit in collecting the victory in the seven-inning first game at Jacksonville while the Suns grabbed six unearned runs in the bottom of the sixth inning off loser Craig Anderson and reliever Dick Selma.

The Maple Leafs overcame three home runs by Atlanta batters with 11 scattered hits of their own to edge back up in the standings.

Bob Sadowski led the way with three hits in five tries while John Anderson limited the Crackers to a pair of safeties other than the home runs by Sandy Valdespino, Randy Hundley and Larry Osboure.

TO COACH SWEDES

RED DEER, Alta. (CP) — Gary Hughes, of Red Deer, said Tuesday he hau signed a two-year contract to coach Gisloved, a Swedish hockey team. Hughes coached the Polish national team in 1961 and 1962.

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Yogi Berra isn't reaching for the panic button yet.

But he's to be forgiven if he's wondering where is the similarity between his club, which lost a day-night doubleheader to Chicago White Sox 6-4 and 8-3 Tuesday, and former New York Yankee teams.

August is usually the month the Yankees pull away from the rest of the American League. This year, they appear to be packing water pistols instead of heavy artillery.

The White Sox, who had lost 10 straight to New York, weren't about to extend that string as Montreal-born Pete Ward stroked three hits including his 17th home run and drove in four runs in the afternoon victory.

They were even more convincing in the nightcap as Ward had three more hits and Juan Pizarro fired a five-hitter to win his 15th game. Pizarro added insult to injury in the sixth inning with his third homer of the year, a three-run shot.

The double victory pulled the White Sox to within a game of league-leading Baltimore Orioles who edged Boston Red Sox 9-7. Elsewhere, Washington Senators whipped Kansas City Athletics 8-2, Minnesota Twins downed Detroit Tigers 5-3 and Cleveland Indians shut out Los Angeles Angels 3-0.

The losses dropped the third-place Yankees 3½ games off the pace and gave them five defeats in six games against Baltimore and Chicago in the last week.

Baltimore got three two-run homers, the last one Boog Powell's 30th of the season, to whip the Red Sox. Brooks Robinson and Sam Bowens also connected for the Orioles who beat relief ace Dick Radatz.

Jim King and Don Lock homered to back up Claude Osteen's pitching for the Senators' victory. Nelson Mathews homered for the Athletics in the ninth.

Earl Battey drove in three runs and Tony Oliva slammed his 26th homer as the Twins snapped a seven-game Tiger winning streak. Detroit built an early 3-0 lead around Don Demeter's 15th homer but Hank Aguirre couldn't hold it.

Rookie Luis Tiant won his fifth game, a four-hitter, and Max Alvis belted a three-run homer in the ninth inning for all the runs as the Indians blanked the Angels.

Major Leagues Confab

Present Player Draft Favored

CHICAGO (AP)—Fearing possible congressional action on the legality of a free agent draft, the major leagues all but decided at a joint meeting Tuesday to stay with their present first-year player draft.

The free agent draft—such as the one employed by professional football in which all eligible college graduates are drafted first by the last-place clubs and then up the line—appeared doomed following the meeting.

Commissioner Ford Frick said every possible draft system had been presented to the owners and their representatives by the draft committee.

Frick said, however, the feeling seemed to be that the clubs want to retain the first-year rule with possible amendments. The rule provides that during a player's first full year under contract he must be carried on the major league roster.

A club can send a rookie to the minors but he will be changed to the major league roster, thereby leaving the parent club a man short of the 25-player limit.

Although professional football has employed the free agent rule for years, Frick said baseball owners are still concerned over its legality and are not willing to risk congressional investigations by adopting the measure.

The clubs voted to cut fifth-place teams into the World Series pool by taking two per cent off the top of the players' pool. The action permits fifth-place teams in each league to receive one per cent of the proceeds, which will amount to about $300 for each player on a team finishing fifth.

ICEY KINGDOM

Eighty per cent of Danish territory is beneath the ice—most of it comprising the land mass of Greenland.

196 Says Balding

Predict CPGA Record

HALIFAX (CP)—Al Balding, on hand to defend his Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship, predicts an eight-under-par 196 for the 54-hole distance over the Ashburn club course here will wrap up the 1964 title.

If the touring Toronto pro is even close to the mark, his own CPGA record of 202 made last year at Edmonton will be bettered.

The title play, for a total of $10,000 in prize money, starts Thursday. Most of the field of 125 have already got in practice rounds and take another crack at the course today in a pro-amateur tournament preceded by special play for pros not in the pro-am competition.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, CPGA winner eight times, would make no specific predictions but declared flatly, "There's going to be a record, that's sure."

U.S. SPORTSMAN DIES

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — George E. Gauthier, one of Ohio's most prominent sports figures for half a century, died Tuesday in a Blind River, Ont., hospital. He was 74. He suffered a heart attack some time ago. His condition was complicated by asthma. For 34 years Gauthier served as athletic director and track coach, and for 26 years as head football coach at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Homers Win For Giants, Phils

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a bad night for New York Yankees all around.

Even Joe DiMaggio was knocked down a peg.

While Chicago White Sox whipped the Yankees in a doubleheader, Hank Aaron of Milwaukee whipped past the Yankee Clipper into 14th place on the all time home run list, hammering his 19th and 20th of the season as the Braves walloped Houston Colts 9-8 Tuesday night.

The homers lifted Aaron's career total to 382, one more than DiMaggio.

While Aaron continued his heavy hitting for Milwaukee, Johnny Callison did the same for league-leading Philadelphia, slugging the first grand slam of the season by the Phillies and adding two doubles in a 13-5 walloping of Chicago Cubs.

The victory kept the Phillies three games in front of San Francisco Giants, but may have cost them the services of outfielders Cookie Rojas and Tony Gonzales.

Rojas jammed both wrists when he ran into the centre field wall chasing a fly ball and Gonzalez, his replacement, was hit on his protective helmet by a Dick Ellsworth pitch. Both players were taken to the hospital, but the injuries were not considered serious.

GIANTS BEAT CARDS

The Giants rode homers by Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda to a 6-3 victory over St. Louis; Cincinnati Reds edged Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5 on homers by Frank Robinson and Deron Johnson and New York Mets defeated Pittsburgh 3-2 in a game halted after 7¼ innings by rain.

Aaron hit a two-run homer in the third and a three-run shot in the sixth that climaxed a six run uprising, but Warren Spahn was tagged for a two-run homer by Walt Bond in the fifth and failed to finish for the 14th time in the last 15 starts.

Frank Thomas slammed three doubles for his new Philadelphia teammates, driving in three runs for a 3-0 lead. But the Cubs came back to move in front on homers by Andre Rodgers and Ernie Banks.

Callison then broke it up with his grand slam, capping a five-run rally touched off by Gus Triandos' homer.

Harvey Kuenn collected three doubles for the Giants, triggered three rallies and scored three runs. Jim Bird Koenn scored on Mays' 33rd homer.

Robinson homered in the first for the Reds, then tripled in the fourth and Johnson followed with his homers.

The Cubs beat their semitls, Bob Friend, who had a 12-0 lifetime record against the New Yorkers. Larry Elliot drove in two of the Mets' runs with a homer and single.

Deal Good For Hawks Says Hull

OTTAWA (CP) — Bobby Hull said Tuesday that Chicago Black Hawks have bettered themselves as a result of recent National Hockey League player deals.

Hull, the Hawks' high-scoring left winger, said Doug Mohns and Jerry Toppazzini, picked up from Boston, are "bound to help."

"Mohns, in particular, will be valuable," Hull said. "He's the type of defenceman who can carry a puck well and that's what we need—someone who can take the puck out of your own end and relieve the pressure.

"Toppazzini can play either centre or right wing, and should fit in well."

Hull was here with teammate Kenny Wharram for two days of instruction at a hockey school in neighboring Hull, Que.

Coach Criticizes CNE Swim, Officials

TORONTO (CP)—Marty Sinn, of Ann Arbor, Mich., one of the top women marathon swimmers, will not compete in the Canadian National Exhibition Lake Ontario swim Aug. 20 because of what her coach describes as "senseless, gruelling and dangerous" conditions.

Rosemary Dawson, coach of the 20-year-old blonde swimming star, said:

"The CNE officials) don't care about the swimmers. Lake Ontario is terrifically cold and these swimmers are expected to swim all night. It's difficult enough to keep them the way the lake sometimes blows up, but at night it's impossible."

CNE officials have said the swimmers will be provided with translucent bathing caps so that they can be spotted at night. Among the 24 swimmers entering for $71,500 in prizes in the swim will be Abdel Latif Sabry of Egypt, winner of last year's marathon; Herman Willemse, the school teacher from Holland; Nabil El Sasly of Egypt, winner of last Saturday's Lake St. John swim; Ir. John Lacourslere of Montreal; Cliff Lumsdon of Toronto and Mary Lou Whitsell of Ottawa, the 22-year-old winner of a 10-mile qualifying swim last week.

Heidi Schmidt of Toronto and Dave Matuch of Chicago, who both competed in last Saturday's Lake St. John swim; Ir. John Lacourslere of Montreal; Cliff Lumsdon of Toronto and Mary Lou Whitsell of Ottawa, the 22-year-old winner of a 10-mile qualifying swim last week.

Mr. Munro said the federal government through the fitness and amateur sports program is contributing $122,926 toward sending athletes to the Winter Games last winter at Innsbruck, Austria, and the Tokyo Games next October.

MEMORIAL UNFINISHED

NEW DELHI (AP)—Lack of funds has stopped construction on the Gandhi memorial building after a seven-year outlay of $60,000. A recent appeal by Indian Prime Minister Shastri and others brought $5,000 of the $130,000 still needed to complete the project.

Bombers, Eskimos Tonight

WINNIPEG (CP) — Former roommates will be at the opposing helms tonight when Edmonton Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers clash in a Western Football Conference game.

Bud Grant, veteran Bomber coach, and Nelli Armstrong, Eskimos' freshman, shared the same quarters in the early 1950s as star ends with Winnipeg.

Armstrong returns to his old stamping grounds with a rookie-laden club whose inexperience was obvious in a 52-15 season-opening loss to Calgary Stampeders Friday.

But on the eve of the match he expressed cautious optimism: "They're green, but they're going to Winnipeg with the idea they'll win."

Blue Bombers, like Eskimos seeking their first 1964 victory, plan several changes in the lineup that fell 27-29 before Saskatchewan Roughriders Friday.

Grant will test his bench strength by giving defensive end Roger Locke and fullback Roger Hagberg their first taste of action, switching Jack Delveaux from fullback to interior linebacker and moving Herb Gray to Ray Ash's offensive guard post. Jerry Jones and Gar Warren will sit it out.

METS OBTAIN PITCHER

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Mets obtained pitcher Dallas Green from Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday as part payment for outfielder Frank Thomas, who went to the National League baseball leaders in a waiver deal last week. To make room on their roster for Kroll, a 23-year-old fastballing righthander, the Mets returned pitcher Wes Sutherland to Buffalo in the International League.

Luci Johnson Out Working For Father in Campaign

By BO BYROMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Political rally, Hollywood style.

"You are cordially invited to join us at a barbecue honoring Miss Luci Baines Johnson and United States Senator Birch of Bayh . . . no solicitation of funds. . . ." The telegram was signed: Young Citizens for Johnson Committee — co-chairmen: Natalie Wood and Steve McQueen; entertainment chairman; Vic Damone.

The scene was a sportswear maker's estate in Beverly Hills, an area unaccustomed to the compacts and small sports cars that lined the streets.

Arriving at the same time were Warren Beatty and Leslie Caron, who were startled to find photographers snapping them. They turned around and left.

In the big backyard, tables were placed around the Roman pool, in the middle of which was a fern-covered float with LBJ spelled out in daisies.

FEAST FOR FAMOUS

The real action was on the tennis court, where the youthful crowd sipped beer and soft drinks, munched on ribs, chicken and cole slaw, and strained for glimpses of the more famous Democrats.

Luci obliged them by meeting the guests at each table. Perky in a white dress, her dark hair shielding one eye in what was once known as Veronica Lake style, she netted a blistered palm for her trouble.

McQueen said he was strong for President Johnson but wouldn't campaign much "because I'm representing our country in the European road races."

Miss Wood said she was proud to be on the steering committee of the Young Democrats for Johnson and in show biz style was counting the house. They hoped for 400 for the barbecue, had to turn away many after the 1,100 capacity was reached. Cost for the young Demos: $5 a head.

SPEARHEAD DRIVE

At 36, Senator Bayh of Indiana flitted into the young assemblage with no difficulty. He said that the rally was one of 17 across the country "to get the teens, 20s and 30s onto the Johnson team." He is helping to spearhead the drive, but he added that his duties do not include learning the Watusi.

Luci displayed her Watusi style in a duet with McQueen. She performs with the proper loose-jointed, lip-biting intensity. McQueen gave her able support, being a Watusi expert. Secret service men, also looking intense, stood by.

OPENS JUBILEE

ST. ANN'S, N.S. (CP)—Dr. Flora MacLeod, 20th chief of the Clan MacLeod, Monday formally opened the silver jubilee of the Nova Scotia Gaelic fete in this historic hill-top settlement. It was her fifth trip here to the home in Dunvegan, on the isle of Skye. She recalled she had officially opened the first mod, a gathering of the clans, 25 years ago.

Yukon Gold Rush Story Will Be Told on CJBQ

The days of the Yukon Gold Rush, back in '97 and '98 were fabled days: Robert Service worked in a bank then, and Sam Magee hauled freight on Lake Labarge, and everybody knew Jack London.

Gold was bringing people in from all around. They mushed in, they walked in, they came by steamer — from Seattle to Skagway, to Whitehorse, and finally to Dawson - - all of them helping gold . . . in one way or another.

On Monday, August 17, at 9 p.m., CJBQ radio recreates those days by taking part in the annual Yukon Discovery Day celebrations in Dawson City. The program will be carried on CJBQ.

At this time of year there are almost 24 hours of daylight in the Yukon and on the 17th nobody goes to bed. To celebrate the discovery of gold they put on a parade - - a real public spectacle that recalls the days of the gold rush, when in three years, more than $30 million in gold was taken out of the ground.

For the program, Bill Anderson and Cal Waddington talk to many of the oldtimers, the ones who came through the Chilcoot Pass to try to make their fortunes.

One of these, Alfred Lobely, who was born some time in the 1870s (he doesn't remember exactly), and who came to Skagway in '97, didn't have any luck with gold but he started running scows down the Yukon River between Whitehorse and Dawson (one of his employees was Sam Magee). He also packed mail and sold lumber, and at one time had a balance of $150,000 in the bank where Robert Service worked.

They must have been great times, for the first gold ship to land in San Francisco from the Yukon Gold fields late in 1897 had passengers with $650,000 in gold dust between them.

Total gold value produced in the Dawson area in 1897 was $2,500,000, compared to the peak year 1900, when $22,275,000 was taken out of the ground. Total production to the present day is well over $250 million.

'Dancer' Won't Start In Travers

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (CP) — Northern Dancer definitely will not start in the Travers Stakes here Aug. 22, the trainer of the leading Canadian race horse said Tuesday.

Trainer Horatio Luro said the injured Dancer is "completely out" of the Travers and probably won't race again until the Woodward Stakes at New York's Aqueduct track Oct. 3.

Northern Dancer, owned by Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor, nicked his right front leg during a workout at New York's Belmont track two weeks ago.

Luro said the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner still is under treatment at Belmont but it is too early to say when he'll be back in racing trim.

SCRAP BUILDING PLANS

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Proposals to build a stadium on stilts above railway tracks apparently were scrapped Tuesday when the promoters said they were pulling out because of opposition by some groups. The city has been backing plans to build a 60,000-seat multi-purpose stadium above the tracks near the Pennsylvania Railroad 30th Street station. It is would have housed the baseball Phillies and the Eagles of National Football League.

TV—Radio Column

Getting TV Program Onto Air Is Expensive Gamble

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Getting a television program onto the air is an expensive gamble. With odds so high against a hit, it is surprising so many people take the risk.

Between 130 and 200 pilot films are turned out each season—and if one in 20 is picked for a network series, it's a good pilot year. Then, the series must win again, this time with the unpredictable public.

An even more delicate operation is maintaining public interest in a series that has been around a few seasons and whose format is beginning to wear thin. Thus at the beginning of each new season we invariably hear about "changes" in progress.

For instance, this season NBC will send Dr. Kildare to Rome, far from his usual hospital base.

GETS NEW SIDEKICK

Rawhide, which has been driving that herd of cattle over the CBS plains for years, will spruce up with big-game guest stars, with Marshal Dillon of Gunsmoke will have a new sidekick after years of relying on Chester for chuckles.

The Nurses will be concerned with a couple of new doctors and the employer of Hazel will have new law offices, complete with a pretty secretary for her to worry over.

Lassie will lose her old adoring family and start life anew with an adoring forest ranger. Mr. Noval will encounter a new, pretty dean of girls at his high school and Andy Griffith will be romantically interested in a new girl in town.

Changes don't always shore up an established series. An early disaster of last season was 77 Sunset Strip, completely remodelled after several successful years, and a succession of drastic operations failed to salvage the series called Empire.

At the Belle

Songs, Dances, Comedy, Toy Cast are Features of Comedy With Music Romp.

Fun recipe: Move Robin Hood and his merry men and maid from Sherwood Forest in 1465 Century Merrie England to Chicago during the "Roaring Twenties." Supply a laugh-filled story and a batch of lively new songs. Add Technicolor, Panavision and top with the dazzling array of talent including Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jr., Bing Crosby, Peter Falk, Barbara Rush and Hope Bruno. The dish: a rollicking Warner Bros. musical comedy film, "Robin and the 7 Hoods," now showing at the Belle Theatre.

The satire, directed by Gordon Douglas, adds to Sinatra's string of performances in a variety of musical, dramatic and comic roles. Sinatra also sings in "Robin."

Dean Martin comes to "Robin" following comedy roles in "4 For Texas" and "Who's Been Sleeping in My Bed?" In "Robin and the 7 Hoods," Dean also sings in his role of a small-time gambler and pool-hustler with Sinatra and Crosby.

The singing, dancing and acting talents of Sammy Davis Jr. are on display in "Robin." Sammy appeared previously with Frank and Dean in "Ocean's 11" and "Sergeants 3".

Academy Award winner Bing Crosby plays the secretary of an orphanage who administers Sinatra's charitable activities and makes him famous as a modern Robin Hood.

Barbara Rush, as the only female starred in the cast, has a role as lucious as she is. She previously appeared opposite Sinatra in "Come Blow Your Horn."

BIG GROUP OF SONGS

Academy Award composers Sammy Cahn and James Van Heusen turned out a group of songs for "Robin" which should include a high percentage of hits. They are: "My Kind of Town" as ode to Chicago sung by Sinatra, Martin, Crosby and Davis as a solo by Frank; "Don't Be a Do-Badder" and "Mr. Booze," also sung by the same quartet; "Any Man Who Had a Heart" by Crosby, sung by Martin; "Bang-Bang," introduced by Davis; "Style," presented by Frank, Dean and Bing; "Allez For One and One for All," sung by Falk, and "Charlotte Couldn't Charleston."

MINERS SAFE

TOKYO (AP)—Twenty miners were rescued unharmed Tuesday after they were trapped for 90 minutes by a fire which swept through a coal mine 100 miles northeast of Tokyo. The Dai Nippon Colliery Company said the fire in a pit at Isohara probably resulted from seeping gas.

Income Tax Explained

By C. A. MILLER

There is one section in the Income Tax Act that many taxpayers attempt to apply but in most cases they are in error although the instructions accompanying the return are quite clear.

This section is used when a dependant has income slightly in excess of the statutory amount of $950. If the dependants income was $975, the taxpayer could still claim them for $550 exemption if the excess over $950, that is $25, was added to his own tax payable. Taxpayers who try to take advantage of this provision will add this excess to their own income which is in error. The excess should be added on the line indicated as Tax Adjustments.

I cannot state a definite amount of the dependant's income in excess of $950 that would not give an advantage to the taxpayer as it all depends on the taxable income of the person making the claim. A much greater excess over $950 would work to the advantage of a taxpayer, who is allowed the equivalent to married status, $1,000 on the dependant. This is something the taxpayer must work out for himself.

This provision does not apply in regard to a wife's income. It is applicable only to children and other dependants. Errors as outlined above could be avoided if the taxpayer would read carefully the instructions that are received with every income tax return.

Remember the excess over $950 must be added to your own tax payable. Some taxpayers have argued that the words tax payable is a misprint and should be "taxable income." There is not a misprint on any tax return or instructions.

For personal replies pertaining to income tax problems, please enclose a self - addressed five cent stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin for each question you wish answered.

QUESTION: My son earned $901 last year during the summer holidays and weekend jobs. Is there any way I can claim a partial exemption for him?

ANSWER: You can claim $550 if you add his excess income over $950 to your own tax payable.

QUESTION: I am a widower and always claimed $1,00 on behalf of my daughter. This year after she left school, she earned $1,100. What can I claim for the period she attended school?

ANSWER: For this year you may claim the $1,000 for her, if you add her excess income over $950 to your own tax payable; that is if this is to your advantage.

POWER VISITORS

More than 300,000 visitors toured four generating stations and the nearly completed Douglas Point nuclear power station in Ontario last year.

The Banners of Cyprus
So You Think We've Got Flag Trouble?

By PETER BUCKLEY

NICOSIA (CP) — Any Canadian who hopes to escape the great flag controversy at home would be well advised to avoid Cyprus.

Flags in Cyprus approach the level of a national mania, second perhaps only to a day or two of shooting in the mountains.

In the Turkish sectors of the divided island, the question is straightforward. The only flag to be flown is the flag of Turkey—white crescent and star on a red background.

Well, almost straightforward. Since the flags sometimes fly for extended periods, the decisive red field tends to bleach in the sun to a pale pink.

Then it becomes difficult to tell the Turkish national flag from the flag of the Red Crescent Society, the Moslem equivalent of the Red Cross, which flies a white flag with a red crescent over its food dispensaries and other buildings in the Turkish sector. The weather tends to make that flag, too, look pinkish in time.

THREE FOR GREEKS

It's in the Greek Cypriot areas, however, that the confusion hits a fine peak.

There is the Greek - Greek flag, the Greek-Cypriot flag, and the flag of Cyprus.

The flag flown outside the Greek Embassy here, for example, is a white cross on a blue field. In the centre of the cross is a gold crown.

That, says the embassy, is the official flag of Greece.

If common sense were the sole guiding force, the official flag of Greece would be the most logical banner for Greek-Cypriots to wave in demonstration of their affection for Mother Greece—the way the Turkish-Cypriots wave the flag of Turkey.

Instead, the Greek - Cypriots prefer the flag of the Royal Greek Navy. That flag is a series of blue and white stripes, with a blue and white cross in the corner—a design vaguely reminiscent of the Stars and Stripes.

OFFICIAL FLAG

For buildings of a public nature in Greek-controlled areas—historic monuments, police stations, government office buildings, and the occasional Greek Orthodox church—there is the genuine and official flag of Cyprus.

The situation being what it is, the official flag is among the rarest to be seen. Some Cypriots have been known to regard this as a blessing because the flag of Cyprus is the result of compromise.

When the Republic of Cyprus, after years of British rule, was being put together in 1959 and the question of a flag came up, both Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots were sure of only one thing each.

The Greeks refused to consider anything with Turkish red on it, and the Turks rejected out of hand any possibility of Greek blue.

UNDER FOUR FLAGS—The colors are flying in Cyprus and Greek and Turkish Cypriots are faced with blues, golds, greens, whites and reds in making a choice for a national flag. The Greeks refuse to accept anything with Turkish red. The Turks refuse anything with Greek blue. An accord was reached with the flag. It contains a plain white field, an outline of Cyprus in pale gold in the centre and two dark green crossed olive branches. The Cyprus flag is rarely seen. Inhabitants seem to prefer the Turkish red crescent or the Greek flag or the Greek-Cypriot flag. (CP Photo)

What they finally settled on was a plain white background, with an outline of the island of Cyprus in the centre, above two crossed olive branches. The color of the central figure is a pale gold, and the leaves are dark green.

It is not the type of flag that sets designers and heraldic experts to rejoicing.

DEFIANT SIGNPOSTS

While the flag of Cyprus is relatively rare, the Greek naval flag and the Turkish star and crescent are everywhere.

In heavily populated areas, the usual procedure is for each side to clear a building of its occupants, pack the windows with sandbags, build a sandbagged gun post on the roof, and then float a flag in nose-thumbing defiance above the whole fortification.

Smaller villages usually have at least one flag high enough and central enough to identify the loyalties of the occupants, and the village cafe will often have a smaller banner standing in the corner.

In the mountain battlegrounds, however, a Greek or Turkish flag is nearly indispensable.

Since the peaks so often look alike—and since the Greek and Turkish - Cypriots themselves are scarcely distinguishable one from the other — a partisan climbing the hills for a day of rifle practice could become one of the rare battle casualties if there weren't a flag to guide him to the right camp.

The entire situation has been even further confused, of course, by the arrival of the United Nations.

Since the six national contingents in the UN force—Canada, Britain, Denmark, Finland, Ireland and Swedes—usually fly their own national flags over their main camps, in addition to the blue and white UN banner, the sky above Cyprus is alive with flags of every description.

The arrival of a new flag to replace the Red Ensign over the Canadian camps, if it ever occurs, will only add a small ripple to the sea of confusion here.

Canada Getting a Little Fed up With Being Umpire For Ten Years in Indochina

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — After 10 frustrating years as an unthanked, sometimes cursed, umpire in Indochina, Canada is getting a little fed up with it all.

It has offered to stay on if the 14 nations that created the truce commissions in 1954 feel a useful purpose can be served.

But, as External Affairs Minister Paul Martin told the Commons external affairs committee July 9, "we are not anxious to carry on an undertaking if it is thought that the operation is not a useful one."

And early in August he rejected a British effort to widen the responsibilities of the truce supervisory powers — Canada, India and Poland—by having them try to get the three internal parties in Laos to move outside the country to settle their differences.

How did Canada get involved in this situation?

The associated states of Indochina — Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos—were part of the old French colonial empire which began to disintegrate after the Second World War.

In 1950 the Communist Vietminh opened a civil war which reached its climax in the disastrous French defeat in the battle for the fortress of Dienbienphu.

The Geneva conference of 1954 put an end to the war. The 14 nations including Communist China agreed to the partitioning of the area into four units: Communist North Viet Nam — communist South Viet Nam, neutral Cambodia, neutral Laos.

OFFERED HELP

Canada had taken part in the phase of the Geneva conference dealing with Korea, and Lester Pearson, then external affairs minister, let it be known this country was willing to help in the Indochina situation.

On July 21, 1954, the government received a five-paragraph letter signed "Anthony Eden. V. Molotov." It was an invitation from the then British and Russian foreign ministers — Britain and Russia were co-chairmen of the conference—to Canada to participate with India and Poland on the three international truce supervisory commissions for Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

It took the Liberal government of Louis St. Laurent a week to make up its mind whether to accept. It did so, reluctantly, July 28, but has often repeated the feeling that it would have preferred the truce commissions to have been set up under the United Nations.

Seventy Canadian Army officers and men are still serving on inspection teams in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia and about 30 members of the external affairs department participate in the civilian control of the commissions.

The cost to Canada has been $8,052,715 so far.

MILLION REFUGEES

From the start the chief problem was Viet Nam. The first main task of the commission there was to oversee the transfer of about 1,000,000 refugees from North to South.

(There was also a refugee movement from South to North but it was small, involving about 5,000 persons.)

In December 1955, in a minority statement attached to the commission's fourth report, the Canadian delegation told how he Communists obstructed the commission's mobile inspection teams as they tried to help refugees get to South Viet Nam.

— Communist soldiers had been stationed in the houses of Roman Catholics to prevent them from getting in touch with the commission teams.

— Would - be evacuees were grouped in village churches and the Communists tried to keep the teams from entering church grounds on the excuse that services were in progress.

—In many cases the local clergy had been intimidated and, in some cases, subjected to forced residence and imprisonment.

—In at least a dozen instances, people wanting to leave were physically molested by hostile crowds and sometimes dragged away before they had an opportunity of meeting the team.

ELECTION NEVER HELD

Under the Geneva accord, North and South Viet Nam were to be reunified through general elections in 1956. The Communists obviously believed they could take over the entire country this way, and President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam blocked any election.

The situation in Cambodia remained quiet during this time and there wasn't serious trouble until the last year when border guerrels broke out between Cambodia and South Viet Nam.

By 1958 the situation in Laos appeared fairly stable and the commission there adjourned indefinitely, at Canada's insistence, on the grounds that the Communist Pathet Lao had been assimilated into the national government as set out in the Geneva agreement.

But no sooner had the commission packed up than trouble began again. The United States, which did not sign the Geneva agreement, tried to install a rightist premier in Laos. The move backfired.

The upshot was a new Geneva conference on Laos which dragged on through most of 1961 and 1962. Finally a new agreement was reached which was little, if at all, better than the 1954 one.

LITTLE AUTHORITY

Despite the efforts of Howard Green, then Canadian external affairs minister, the revived truce commission was given little authority to arrange and oversee ceasefires among the right-wing neutralist and Communist factions in the state.

Fighting goes on in Laos and there have been new calls, particularly from China and France, for a new 14-nation Geneva conference. Canada sees no point in it but will go if one is arranged. Mr. Martin has said an agreement exists and that the main thing is for the parties to live up to it.

Canada regards Viet Nam as the key to the Southeast Asia situation. It feels there can be no peace in Laos as long as the North Vietnamese use Communist-conquered eastern Laos as a military supply route to South Viet Nam.

After an election failed to materialize in 1956 the Communist guerrillas opened a civil war in South Viet Nam and this war has gradually mounted in fury.

The U.S. military buildup in South Viet Nam began in December, 1961. In 1962 the commission criticized both the U.S. and North Viet Nam. Washington for its arms buildup, and the Communists for directing Viet Cong subversion in the south.

DELEGATES BICKER

There was frequet bickering among the Canadian, Indian and Polish delegates. Mr. Martin told the Commons committee July 9 that "lack of collaboration from time to time" by India and Poland had made an already difficult assigment more difficult.

Constant Polish siding with the Communists made unanimous findings by the commission all but impossible. And by and large, the Canadians haven't had much use for the sometimes tortured attempts by the Indians to steer a middle course, although these attempts tended to decrease after China's invasion of northern India.

By May this year the Canadian government was talking more and more bluntly about the situation. After France suggested neutralization of South Viet Nam, Mr. Martin told the NATO council meeting in The Hague that such talk seemed likely to weaken South Viet Nam's resistance to total Communist takeover.

A Communist victory in South Viet Nam, he said, would jeopardize the stability of Thailand and Malaysia and undermine the neutrality of Laos and Cambodia.

BLAMED REDS

On May 22 Mr. Martin told the Commons the civil war in South Viet Nam was being "supplied, directed and inspired" from Communist North Viet Nam. "Political solutions seem hardly possible for Viet Nam as long as the present militant Communist interference in South Viet Nam continues."

On June 26, the day after the

CANADA'S INVOLVEMENT — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin has expressed Canada's reluctance to act as mediator in Indochina. "If it is thought that the operation is not a useful one". Seventy Canadian Army officers and men are still serving on inspection teams in the Indochinese states of Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam. About 30 members of the external affairs department work in the civilian control of commissions. Since 1954 this has cost Canada $8,052,715. But their reluctance to continue as mediator has stemmed from the constant outbreaks of violence in spite of efforts to maintain peace. (CP Photo)

Canada - U.S. cabinet defence committee met in Washington Mr. Martin told the Commons the U.S. objective in Southeast Asia is simply the proper execution of the Geneva agreements of 1954 and 1962.

"I am satisfied that if the Communist powers for their part would observe those agreements, the U.S., which seeks no permanent bases or special position in either Laos or South Viet Nam, would no longer find it necessary to take special measures to support the governments of those two countries."

On July 8 Mr. Martin said the Southeast Asia situation is dangerous because the challenge there is from an adversary— Red China—that has become so isolated from the West that it cannot be counted on to assess accurately the purpose and determination of the U.S.

U-Paddle Service Offered

ton's Bay Company's rent-a-canoe program for adventure-some northern tourists has caught on so well it's almost sure to be expanded next year, says Hugh Ross, who helped launch the project. There have been hundreds of inquiries about the project, mostly from Americans.

U-paddle, as the service is called, provides canoes at five locations in the Canadian N.W.T., Waterways, Alta., Ile a la Crosse, Sask., La Ronge, Sask., and Norway House, Man.

Aimed mainly at tourists who want to follow historic fur-trading routes, U-paddle now has 28 canoes in use. The 17-foot aluminum craft weigh 75 pounds and rent for $35 a week. They can be picked up at one post and turned in at another, as in the car-rental business.

The company uses planes and trains to return them to the original base.

"This kind of travel is not kid stuff," Mr. Ross says. Working at Winnipeg, he tries to separate those travellers able to take care of themselves in the north from the ones who can't.

Guides are available and all renters are advised to call the RCMP wherever they camp and to call in at trading post along the way so that their approximate position will be known.

One of the longest routes is 700 miles and takes about two months by canoe.

U.S. Paratroopers Sent To The Congo

Consulate Staff Asked To Leave Stanleyville

Claim U. S. Troops Acted Against Army

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—Four giant U.S. Air Force transport planes with 50 American paratroopers aboard were headed for The Congo today on "temporary assignment."

The four U.S. C-130s of the 82nd Airborne Division flew to Leopoldville on a direct transatlantic flight from North Carolina.

The decision to send the planes came as leftist Congo rebels asked the American consulate staff to leave Stanleyville The Congo's third largest city captured by the insurrectionists more than a week ago.

The planes and troops will be at the disposal of U.S Ambassador G. McMurtie Godley and his military advisers. But it was stressed in Washington that the role of the paratroopers was to protect the planes and equipment and not to take part in military operations.

Arrangements were made through a third party for a plane to land at Stanleyville to evacuate the five-man American consulate staff there headed by Consul Michael Hoyt.

DEMANDS DEPARTURE

Stanleyville rebel leader Gen. Nicolas Olenga sent a message to the U.S. embassy in Leopoldville asking for the consulate staff to leave. He claimed "U.S. troops acted against the popular Army" and expressed displeasure at American and Belgian pledges of aid to government forces.

Meanwhile, reports circulated here that at least two planeloads of former Katanga policemen landed in Leopoldville in the last few days.

There also were reports that a shipfit of arms had been made from the Portuguese territory of Angola where they had been stored by Premier Moise Tshombe during his secessionist movement in Katanga province.

The U.S. and Belgium agreed Tuesday on new measures to help Tshombe's government restore stability in The Congo.

Officials said they expected the new measures to increase military and economic aid. However, they did not envisage Belgian or U.S. military personnel being involved.

See Signs Of Rebel Collapse

ELISABETHVILLE (AP) — First signs of a possible rebel collapse in Katanga province were reported today.

A river captain said in a radio message that the town of Kabalo had been abandoned by insurgents.

Kabalo, 250 miles west of Albertville, is an important rail and river traffic junction that has been in the hands of rebels for more than a month.

Alexis Kishiba, East Katanga's minister of the interior, said he received reports from Albertville that there are signs the rebels also intend to abandon that town.

The minister said reports referred to mistreatment of Roman Catholic missionaries and other whites.

The minister also said army and police forces had received orders to advance in Kabalo and were within 40 miles south of the town.

The rebels were said to be fleeing north toward the towns of Kasongo and Ubolo.

North Viet Nam Rejection Is Made Official

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Soviet Union made official Wednesday night Communist North Viet Nam's rejection of a United Nations Security Council invitation to give its version of last week's Tonkin Gulf clash.

The Soviet delegation delivered to the council a copy of Tass news agency's text of the North Vietnamese foreign ministry rejection and of a North Viet Nam government statement broadcast by Hanoi radio and asked that they be circulated to Security Council members.

The foreign ministry Aug. 6 said the Security Council had no competence to judge North Viet Nam's role in torpedo boat attacks on U.S. warships in the gulf that brought U.S. retaliatory attack on North Vietnamese bases.

When the U.S. reported its actions to the council as defence measures, Soviet Ambassador P. D. Morozov insisted that the North Vietnamese be invited to give their version. The U.S. agreed on condition South Viet Nam also would be invited, and council President Sivert Nielsen of Norway issued the invitation to both.

PC's Take Tough Line

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative opposition to the government's proposed maple leaf flag took on a tougher line in the Commons Wednesday with repeated charges that the government is pandering to the wishes of a minority.

The assault on the flag, which continues today, drew a counter-charge from Liberal James Byrne (Kootenay East) parliamentary secretary to Labor Minister MacEachen, that the Conservatives are staging a filibuster.

Six Conservative speakers accused the government of pandering to a minority in Quebec and forcing a majority of Canadians to accept what a minority wants. One of them—Drummond Clancy (Yorkton)—broke ranks with his party and said he would vote against Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's amendment calling for a national plebiscite on the flag issue.

The harsh Conservative line came as the Commons resumed debate on the flag—three red maple leaves on a white background with blue vertical borders—for the first time since July 3. It was the seventh day debate.

Mr. Clancy said he opposes a national plebiscite on the flag because it has been the bitterness caused by previous plebiscites. And then he warned that many westerners will not

Convict Sprung By Syndicate

LONDON (AP) — An underworld syndicate known as the Freedom Fliers today was credited with whisking Charles Frederick Wilson out of a maximum security prison Wednesday and adding yet another astonishing footnote to the unending saga of the great train robbery.

Wilson, 32, ex - bookmaker, married and the father of three daughters, is the most wanted man being sought across the nation and in many parts of the world through the huge Interpol network.

Police today were checking on an unidentified blonde woman seen outside the prison Wednesday.

An Englishman said the woman looked to be in her early 30s and said she was outside the prison with two men in a panel van about half an hour before the escape.

Police believe Wilson may have flown out of the country immediately after his escape.

Police clamped a close watch on British ports and air terminals, visited dozens of addresses and combed through Wilson's known low-life haunts.

Wilson was sentenced to 30 years in jail last April when he stood trial with 11 other men for staging the biggest cash grab in history — the raid on the Glasgow-London mail train one year and five days ago. The

265,000 Canadians Jobless, 28,000 Less Than Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian unemployment was estimated at 265,000 in mid-July, down 17,000 from the middle of June and 28,000 lower than a year earlier.

The bureau of statistics said today the jobless total represented 3.7 per cent of the labor force as against four per cent in June and 4 per cent in July, 1963.

Seasonally adjusted, the unemployment rate was five per cent for July, down from 5.9 per cent a year earlier.

Goldwater's Unity Manifesto Cements Party Solidarity

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Many Republican leaders saw today Senator Barry Goldwater's unity manifesto a stride toward party solidarity, but some cracks still showed on the foundation the Republican presidential nominee is out to build.

Former president Eisenhower sounded the unity keynote with a warm endorsement of Goldwater and vice - presidential nominee William E. Miller, and a promise to do all he can to elect them. Nov. 3.

". . . Any uncertainties I may have felt as to the fitness, adequacy and quality of the political program they will offer to the United States in the 1964 campaign have been resolved," the former president said.

Goldwater acknowledged Eisenhower was among the authors of the detailed position paper he delivered Wednesday to a four-hour closed-door meeting of three dozen Republican governors and other party chieftains from 28 states.

In a key passage of the unity declaration, Goldwater told the Republican leaders: "I seek the support of no extremist—of the left or the right."

Eisenhower, New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller and other party leaders joined in praising that statement.

"He has repudiated character assassins, vigilantes, Communists and any group such as the Ku Klux Klan that would attempt to control" localities through terror, threat or other "unlawful means," the former president said.

Rockefeller said that republicanism, along with other Goldwater pledges, should help the ticket. But the New York Governor said he would have added the John Birch Society to the disavowal list.

Goldwater held a press conference he has vigorously opposed "damaging, ridiculous and very stupid statements" by Robert Welch, the society's

Break Up Racial Mobs

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — Youths armed with gasoline bombs, bottles, rocks and bricks rioted in a multi-racial neighborhood of Elizabeth and smashed car and store windows in a Negro district of Paterson Wednesday night and early today.

Helmeted policemen with nightsticks restored order in both cities early today. It was the second consecutive night in which violence broke out in the two northern New Jersey cities about 20 miles apart.

Elizabeth police tore into a throng of young Negroes shortly before 2 a.m., subduing some of the youths with sticks, firing into the air, and making arrests. The brief battle followed bombarding of at least three police cars with bottles, nearmisses on several motorcycle police, a flaring gas bomb that lit up an intersection and the explosion of firecrackers.

Elizabeth hospitals reported treating eight persons for minor injuries. About a half-dozen Negroes and whites were injured in Paterson.

Sixteen adults and two juveniles, mostly Negroes, were arrested as disorderly persons in Elizabeth. Twenty - three Ne-

Charge Ships Break Pact

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—"Two groups of United States warships" intruded into North Vietnamese territorial waters Aug. 10, the Communist North Viet Nam news agency said today.

U.S. aircraft, also flew over five North Vietnamese provinces, the agency added.

It said the liaison mission of the North Viet Nam army high command sent an emergency message" to the International Control Commission Wednesday night.

The message, quoted by the agency said: "These are blatant provocations repeatedly committed by the U.S. government following the Aug. 5, 1964, U.S. air strikes against North Viet Nam."

It asked the commission of Canada, India and Poland to recommend that the U.S. government "put an immediate end" to the violations, thereby ensuring respect for, and correct implementation of, the 1954 Geneva agreements on Viet Nam.

Claim They Gave Their Consent To Air Attacks

Truce Seen So Brittle Insult Could Break It

NICOSIA (AP) — Chances for peace on Cyprus are so precariously balanced that United Nations officials fear an insult shouted across no man's land could shatter the truce.

And in Nicosia, emboldened Turkish - Cypriots have been screaming insults across the sandbagged "green line" that divides them from the Greek-Cypriot sector.

Turkey called off its reconnaissance flights over the island Wednesday in response to a UN appeal, but warned it would not hesitate to strike if the ceasefire collapses.

In the northwest corner of the island, Turkish - Cypriots manned the tiny outpost of Kokkina, into which they were driven by Greek-Cypriots before the week-old cease-fire.

Despite the aerial threat, the Nicosia government is maintaining a tight cordon around Kokkina and UN observers fear renewed clashes.

NO ACTION

Parliament President Glafcos Clerides drew shouts of approval when he said that the time for talk was past. Only outright self - determination, under United Nations shelter, would satisfy the island's 400,000 Greek-Cypriots, he said. They form four-fifths of the population.

Blasting the Turkish air attacks, Clerides said "nobody can believe the responsibility rests solely with Turkey.

"Nobody can believe that Turkey would dare launch such attacks, with NATO planes, without the consent of these two countries — the United States and Great Britain."

Greek Foreign Minister Stavros Costopoulos warned the Turkish ambassador in Athens that if the Turkish flights continued Greece would "react accordingly."

Shortly before Clerides spoke about 100 demonstrators marched past the British information office to the U.S. Embassy where the gates were closed and shutters drawn. Waving placards with such slogans as "Johnson, Wilson, Hands off Cyprus" and "Johnson, Wilson, Hands off Cyprus" and "Johnson, Wilson, Hands off Cyprus" and

Need Taggers To Aid Firemen Fight Dystrophy

Help! Belleville firemen need it, fast.

Not to fight fires. But for a cause just as good. Fighting muscular dystrophy.

The firemen have already established an enviable record in this work.

Now, though, they need funds and are planning to hold tag days, on Friday and Saturday of this week. Unfortunately, they have not enough taggers to do the job properly.

Anyone between the age of 18 and 80 who is willing to assist in this worthy cause by selling tags on either Friday or Saturday is asked to telephone WO 2-8288 or WO 8-8220. Tagging will be from 4 p.m. to 8.30 p.m. Friday and from 8.30 a.m. until half an hour after noon on Saturday.

Proceeds will go to the support of the Hastings and Prince Edward Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The funds are urgently needed to assist in the care of muscular dystrophy sufferers, there being nine patients in this area, and to finance research work into the treatment and possible cure of this dread disease.

Rescued Men Seldom Speak Of Incident

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — A year ago today the roof of the Oneida No. 2 hard coal mine near here gave way 300 feet underground, trapping David Fellin, Henry Throne and Louis Bova.

Fourteen days later Fellin and Throne were hoisted to safety through a newly-drilled 20-inch shaft as people around the world waited anxiously for developments.

What's life been like for Fellin, 59, of nearby Sheppton, and Throne, 29, of Hazleton, since the hot glare of the limelight passed?

Friends say the two seldom speak of the event now. And only rarely do they see each other.

Throne says the ordeal is "pretty well kept out of my mind." Fellin says the experience may have sobered him some, but had not changed him basically.

Although both had vowed never to return to the mines again, both went back for a while. Throne also worked as a bartender and now he's a construction worker. Fellin drives a bus.

During the last year, Fellin, a part owner of the mine, was often called to court as the state explored ways to recover Bova's body. Eventually it was decided to close the mine forever, leaving Bova buried.

Edmonton Gets Cake Without The Frosting

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton gets the cake without the frosting Monday when it assesses industrially-poor Jasper Place on the city's north side.

Amalgamation was sought by the town of 37,500, the province's largest town, and wasn't opposed by the city of Edmonton providing it could also assess industrial sections of the county of Strathcona on the east and part of the municipal district of Stony Plain on the west.

Alberta's Local Authorities Board ordered Edmonton to take Jasper Place but refused to give it the two other blocks that made the whole package look attractive to the city.

The town will be adopted Monday and Alberta's largest city will have a population of about 350,000 persons. The area will increase to 75.96 square miles from 68.67.

Bowling Notes

Despite their loss in the women's semi-finals in Ottawa on Tuesday, a rink of Mrs. Lil Mascaro, Mrs. Phyllis Graham with Mrs. Grace Clapp as skip made a fine showing. Runnymede club of Toronto won the playoffs and only beat the local ring 18-16 in the first game. The gals from the city won the second game 20-7 and Arthan 15-6 and the Ottawa entry 19-7 in the third game. The hospitality to the visitors was immense, the greens tricky, but good, and the rink had a most enjoyable time.

Holiday time always disrupts a schedule and the writer of this column has just returned. Many notable events have happened and we will try to summerize some of them. Wally Lavergne and Ab Wonnacott journeyed to Brighton and won the McGinnis trophy and accompanying prizes. Jack Avery and Orlo Smith were second high three games; Lorne Lockhart and Carm Graham won three, while Ken Peacock and Bill Fuller won the two-game high.

Jack Avery, Orlo Smith and Percy Graham journeyed to Kingston and won the Fashion Craft trophy in grand style. This is one of stiffest tournaments in the district and with a good entry this win was very gratifying to the members of the local club.

With 32 rinks entered, the Trenton club staged one of their most successful tournaments. Austing Watkin with his mother, Amos Watkin, won the tourney. Other winners were: Mr. and Mrs. Williams Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Smith, Mrs. Carm Mott and Ab Wonnacott and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham.

Two rinks are competing in Toronto at the Provincial fourteen-end rink championship of William VanTassel, William Wright, William Fuller with Percy Graham as skip, and the other, Ralph Tuck, Jack Avery, Gordon Edwards with "Jerry" Hyde as skip. The boys are putting up a good showing against the best bowlers in Ontario and it is some time having a wonderful time.

On Saturday an exodus will begin to Kingston for the Molly Galt Memorial Trophy. There will be two drawn and a number of local rinks will compete.

Another 15 Army Personnel Off to Cyprus

OTTAWA (CP) — Another 15 Canadian army personnel left for Cyprus today in answer to a United Nations request, it was announced today.

Conservatives To Hold Meet In Fredericton

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservatives will turn a spotlight on four major problem areas, including Confederation and national unity, at the four - day national conference on Canadian goals next month.

Dalton Camp, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, announced Wednesday night the program for the Fredericton conference, planned to set a background from which future party policy will develop.

About 300 persons—half selected by the party organizations and half by the conference organizers — will spend their time examining these problem areas:

1. The individual's role in a changing society.

2. Government's role in developing the national economy.

3. "Canada in the world."

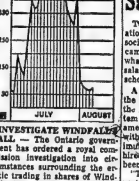
4. Prospects for Confederation and national unity.

SPEAKERS INVITED

Discussion leaders include a number of Americans and even two men—Dean Ian MacDonald of the University of Toronto and Bruce Whitestone from a Montreal investment firm—who attended the Liberals' so-called thinkers conference at Kingston in 1960.

Mr. Camp told a press conference that the purpose is not to discuss Conservative party policy for the next election but to make an assessment of the four major problem areas and encourage a "dialogue" on them.

His view is that political parties have difficulty, not in solving problems, but in understanding them. To keep pace with the times, political parties must study and assess the substantial changes in their country and the world.



Sugar Price Again Reduced

MONTREAL (CP) — One of three major Montreal sugar refineries today reduced its wholesale price of sugar 40 cents to $9.30 a 100-pound bag.

Canada and Dominion made the change while the other two refineries — Atlantic and St. Lawrence—did not.

The last price change by the three refineries was a 10-cent increase Aug. 6 to $9.40. A year ago the price of sugar was $12.25.

In retail stores sugar currently is selling at 56 cents a five-pound bag and $1.10 a 10-pound bag.

INVESTIGATE WINDFALL FALL — The Ontario government has ordered a royal commission investigation into circumstances surrounding the erratic trading in shares of Windfall Oils and Mines Ltd. on the Toronto Stock Exchange during July and early August. Graph traces closing prices for the stock during the period.

Windfall which closed at 64 cents July 2, rose in hectic speculative trading based on rumors of favorable results from diamond drill exploration in the Timmins, Ont., area, site of recent valuable copper strikes. Windfall reached its top closing price of $20 July 20 and was selling at $4.15 July 30 when the company announced assays indicated no commercial ore had been found. The price dropped to $1.04 the next day and Windfall closed at 78 cents Friday, Aug. 7. (CP Newsmap)

Secret Service Agent Given Six Years

CHICAGO (AP)—U.S. Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan has hailed the conviction of secret service agent Ebraham Bolden as clearing the integrity of the U.S. secret service.

Bolden, first Negro ever assigned to guard a U.S. president, was convicted Wednesday and sentenced to six years in prison for trying to sell government evidence in a counterfeiting case for $50,000.

He had charged that the government framed him because he planned to tell the Warren commission about what Bolden contended was heavy drinking and drunkenness among secret service agents assigned to guard President Kennedy in Dallas.

"The verdict completely rejects the outrageous charges that Bolden has made, and confirms the public's belief in the complete integrity of the U.S. secret service," Hanrahan told reporters.

TEARFUL PLEA

Bolden, 29, apologized for the charges in a tearful plea for mercy after his conviction was announced and before sentencing, in U.S. district court by Judge Joseph Sam Perry.

Bolden wiped tears from his eyes as he stood before Judge Perry.

"I want you to take into consideration that I do have a wife and three children, and I am their sole support. I am asking for mercy—please have mercy —in the name of God, have mercy," he sobbed.

When Bolden finished, Judge Perry said it was the truest sign of penitence he had seen.

Judge Perry then sentenced Bolden to six years. He could have sentenced him to 25 years in prison and fined him $15,000 plus three times the amount of the $50,000 payment sought, a total of $165,000.

It was the second trial for Bolden. The first ended in a deadlocked jury.

Whether They Hit Their Salary Cuts

TORONTO (CP)—The Federation of Women Teachers Associations of Ontario launched a campaign Wednesday against what it calls a new form of salary reduction being used by school boards.

A resolution was passed at the three-day annual meeting of the federation opposing the system by which a school board amends an existing contract with teachers and lowers maximums salaries for new teachers hired after the contract has been negotiated.

"This is an attempt on the part of the school board to amend the terms of employment to militate against teachers hired on or after a certain date," said Edith Bailin, a federation official. She called it a cutback system.

The system limits any new teachers hired in lower categories of qualifications to a lower maximum until they upgrade themselves into a higher category.

The school boards maintain it serves as an incentive to teachers to improve their qualifications.

DISCOURAGES YOUTH

Mrs. Bailin said the system discourages young people from entering the profession, punishes teachers who do not upgrade themselves and limits job mobility in the profession. She said whenever a teacher changes employment she becomes a new teacher and is penalized when she starts a new job.

Speakers from among the 900 delegates mentioned cases in which teachers who had taken maternity leave were penalized in this way when they returned to work.

Wrecked Plane Soon Sighted By Rescue Unit

TRENTON — An RCAF Albatross crew completed their search for a missing civilian aircraft, when they sighted the wreck less than three hours after taking off on the search. The pilot, Mr. Raymond Hammond of Windsor, the only person on board, was killed in the crash.

The aircraft a Morney Mark 20 left Windsor bound for Kitchener at 1.30 Tuesday night. When Mr. Hammond was overdue on his flight the Rescue Co-Ordination Centre at Trenton was alerted by the Air Traffic Control Centre in Toronto at 11.30 a.m.

The Albatross was airborne at four o'clock, and at 6.30 p.m. Corporal Percy Hagins of the Station Trenton Para Rescue Section spotted the crashed aircraft and minutes later the Ontario Provincial Police were directed by radio to the scene, some 12 miles southwest of London.

Typical rescue operations, part of a current pilot training program, were demonstrated recently the Royal Canadian Air Force's new CH-113 Voyageur helicopter at the RCAF Station at Trenton.

The tandem - rotor helicopter ordered by the RCAF to perform search and rescue operations over land and water, was designed by The Boeing Company's Vertol Division at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The Voyageur is powered by twin T-58 General Electric engines and cruises at 150 miles per hour.

In the mission shown above, a paramedic team retrieved an injured man with a rubber dinghy which was launched and recovered through the rear ramp of the helicopter with rotors shut down. This operation has been demonstrated in winds gusting up to 35 knots and waves of three to four feet.

A second water rescue technique was also demonstrated in which the CH-113 helicopter landed in the water, taxied to a "survivor" and recovered him through the forward side door.

Nuclear Power Plant Will Be Constructed

TORONTO (CP)—A decision to build a $260,000,000 nuclear generating plant at Bay Ridges on Lake Ontario at the eastern edge of Metropolitan Toronto was described Wednesday night by Reeve Clifford Laycock of Pickering Township as "the shot in the arm" the municipality needed.

He said: "This will start the industrial ball rolling. It will be a godsend to the taxpaying homeowner."

The plant, to be the largest of its kind in the world, will have a two-unit generating system with five times the output of the Douglas Point project nearing completion north of Kincardine.

It will feed 1,000,000 kilowatts of energy into the southern Ontario power grid at a cost of four cents a kilowatt hour.

Lancaster Will Be Shown Crowds at CNE

A famed Dam Buster will be at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. One of Canada's celebrated Lancaster Bombers has been assembled for display in all its World War II splendor and armament.

During the war, 430 Lancasters were manufactured in Canada and a total of 42 Allied squadrons of Bomber Command hammered such varied targets as the German battleship Tirpitz, the V2 rocket sites and Hitler's own hideout at Berchtesgaden. The Lancasters found permanent fame as dam busters when handpicked crews bombed Mohne, Eder and Sorpe dams from a scant height of 60 feet.

During its stay at the C.N.E., the Lancaster will be on display as an open invitation for the registration of former RCAF airmen who served on the planes during World War II. Assembled outside the International Building at the "Ex" by the Trenton Command, the Lancaster will recall the war years for hundreds of veterans and a registration system has been set up in the International Building whereby RCAF veterans are invited to identify themselves and also learn the present whereabouts of former Lancaster buddies.

The 1964 appearance of the famed Lancaster at the Canadian National Exhibition is a compliment to the odd mixture of sentiment and industry which backgrounded the efforts of the C.N.E.'s executive and the Trenton Command. The Dam Buster will prove a top attraction at the "Ex" this year.

CANADIAN PAINTINGS

The National Gallery in Ottawa plans to present its sixth biennial showing of contemporary Canadian paintings in the summer of 1965.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — When John Cabot in the Matthew first came upon Newfoundland June 24, 1497, he was struck by two things—the vast quantities of fish and clouds of seabirds.

It wasn't long before destruction of the birds began and it continued along the Newfoundland coast until conservation measures in the mid-19th century gave the first hint of respite.

One species, the great auk, became extinct at the beginning of the 19th century. The great auk was a favorite of hunters because it was unable to fly. After the auk's disappearance greater hunting pressure fell on other birds.

Today the murres, puffins, razor-bills, petrels, kittiwakes and gannets have five sanctuaries where they can nest and breed in safety.

The sanctuaries were declared by the provincial government Aug. 27, 1963. Three are on islands—Witless Bay islands 20 miles south of St. John's, Funk Island in the Atlantic 120 miles north of here, and Gaet Islands. The others are at Cape St. Mary's on the south coast and Hare Bay on the Great Northern Peninsula.

NO DOGS ALLOWED

The nesting grounds are forbidden territory to humans, rats, cats, dogs and other predatory creatures. This suits the birds who prefer the loneliest and most precarious crags they can find.

For centuries men had climbed cliffs of islands to take eggs from nesting birds or to kill the birds while they were dopey and slow with approaching autumn. Some ornithologists believe the species survived only because many nesting areas were in inaccessible places.

Today hunting is permitted in season at a few places on the coast, usually in fall and early winter.

Favorite quarry among seabird hunters is the murre, also known locally as the turr and Baccalieu bird. Hunters in Conception Bay on the east coast call them Baccalieu birds because large flocks nest on Baccalieu Island north of the bay's mouth.

The flesh is dark in color and has a distinctive taste of fish, understandably, since fish is the diet of all seabirds.

SIT IN SHIFTS

The murre is white with a black head. Its eggs are also on any convenient rocky ledge and are somewhat conical in shape, which keeps them from rolling off.

Puffins and petrels burrow into turf to lay their eggs. Petrel parents stand 24-hour shifts, one spending a day at sea hunting while its mate sits on the egg, then they change places.

Flocks of petrels, also known as Mother Carey's Chicks, frequently are encountered by ships at sea. They have been known to fly into ventilators and down funnels, and their peculiar kerosene odor permeates the ship.

Pay Homage To 53 Victims Of Berlin Wall

From AP-Reuters

BERLIN (CP%) — West Germans paid homage today to the memory of 53 persons who died trying to flee Communist East Berlin, divided from the West three years ago by the Berlin Wall.

Mayor Willy Brandt placed wreaths on mounds along a part of the 26-mile-long Communist wall on its third anniversary. He also honored 92 other persons who paid with their lives attempting to cross the heavily guarded border between East and West Germany.

East German border guards, showing signs of nervousness, fired 160 flares during the night. The flares are used to illuminate the wall.

West German police were ready for a possible riot similar to one that broke out at last year's anniversary.

NO ESCAPES TODAY

Nearly 20,000 persons have broken through the barriers to freedom since the wall was begun Aug. 13, 1961. There were no reports of escapes today.

Another part of the observance will be an hour of silence tonight. All public transportation will halt.

An oddity of the Berlin situation is that it is much easier for tourists from some distant spot to pass through the wall than it is for natives of the divided city.

Auto Workers Ordered to Take Strike Vote

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers union has ordered all of its General Motors Corporation units to take strike votes before the end of the month.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice-president and director of the union's GM department, ordered the vote Wednesday night.

A telegram to all local units called for the balloting to be completed by Aug. 31.

The UAW contracts with GM, Ford Motor Company and Chrysler Corporation expire Aug. 31.

Meanwhile, top-level negotiations resumed today between contract bargainers for Chrysler and the UAW.

Non - economic issues were studied Wednesday by subcommittees for both sides.

In other talks Wednesday, the UAW made its effort to persuade General Motors to cut down on the amount of work farmed out to smaller companies. The union wants this work to be handled by GM workers. Discussions at Ford centered on production standards.

Tobacco Market Research Urged By Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — An active program of market research for the Canadian tobacco industry and increased expenditures on production research have been recommended by the Commons committee on agriculture.

The committee said it was surprised in its investigation, begun last May, to find that there is no market research now being done in Canada for the industry. It also found production research is cramped and inadequate.

"Production research to keep the Canadian tobacco grower abreast of the ever - changing requirements of the consumer is of little benefit if the requirements of such consumer from time to time are not ascertained and relayed to the production research scientist."

The committee's investigation was principally into the production and marketing of tobacco. Manufacturing research is left mainly to the tobacco processing companies.

The committee did not have powers to investigate the health aspects of using tobacco but said "as yet no specific ingredient in tobacco has been positively identified as being harmful to health."

COULD REMOVE HAZARD

"Evidence received by the committee indicates that if such an ingredient does in fact exist and can be isolated and identified it may be possible to remove the hazards to health through research."

The committee noted that the Canadian tobacco-growing industry has been seriously curtailed by an accumulation of stocks. It said that Canada is doing far less research than other countries competing with Canada in export markets — principally the United States, Rhodesia and India.

"If an active program of marketing research had been carried on 10 years ago the present position of the burley and cigar tobacco industries in Canada . . . might have been vastly different. . . .

"Your committee does with the utmost emphasis the most urgent recommendation in this report that steps be taken forthwith to establish an adequate program of market research for the Canadian tobacco industry with particular emphasis being placed on requirements for export markets.

CHECK THE BUYER

"We must ascertain what the buyer requires and then arrange to grow that type of tobacco. This is of particular importance in regard to export sales."

The committee said there is a potential for substantial increase in foreign markets for flue-cured tobacco if Canadian tobacco farmers can grow what top grades.

Subcommittees on production research were inadequate to do routine work to keep Canada abreast of developments in competing countries. More research needed to be done on mechanized production methods, producing a milder cigar tobacco and better grades of pipe tobacco, combatting tobacco plant diseases and pests, the committee said.

said:

As of today, Aug. 12, General Motors Corp. has made no movement at the national level. It has indicated any date at which the union can make counter proposals. In view of the shortness of time remaining, it is essential that all local unions and units schedule strike votes to be completed prior to Aug. 31."

C. Roy Slemon Praised by LBJ On Retirement

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP) — President Johnson praised retiring Canadian Air Marshal C. Roy Slemon Wednesday night for his "consummate judgment" as deputy commander - in - chief of North American Air Defence Command.

The president's praise of the 60-year-old Canadian was contained in a message read at a testimonial dinner. Slemon retires Friday after serving as NORAD's deputy chief since its establishment in 1957.

The dinner, given by Gen. John K. Gerhart, NORAD commander-in-chief, was attended by about 300 persons including Canadian Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller and Air Marshal C. R. (Larry) Dunlap, who takes over from Slemon.

The president's message said, in part:

"Your consummate judgment, your selfless devotion to duty, and your total dedication to the mutual national interest of our two great nations have set an example for all of us in the free world to follow.

"You have been a tower of strength in moments when split-second decisions were required — decisions that, had they not been adroitly taken, might well have resulted in the most devastating consequences for humanity. . . .

"You take with you thanks of a grateful nation and our best wishes for the future."

Spring-Fed Well Uncovered Under New Ont. Intel Bldg.

Construction workers at the site of the new Ontario Intelligencer building have uncovered an old spring-fed well about four feet below the basement floor level of the old post office.

From information obtained on the well's origin it is known that older residents of the city drank from it years ago.

It is believed the well was fed from a spring which runs down East Bridge Street hill and north along Pinnacle St. into an old well located in front of the Glen Roy Creamery.

The exact date is not known but it is believed the well enclosing the well was built some 75 or 80 years ago.

Each brick was expertly placed in a circular form with a heavy beam running the width of it. The beam was probably used for securing the rope from which a bucket to draw the water was hung.

The well, unfortunately, will now have to be covered over and sealed as a cement pillar, according to the plans for the new Ontario Intelligencer building will be placed directly on top of it.

Only a few feet of water is visible in the well as rock and bricks have fallen into it since the excavation work began.

Wheat Sales Threatened

Although we have seen no comment on the fact, (aside from the gyrations of Massey-Ferguson shares on the stock market), Prairie prosperity may easily be decisively influenced by recent events in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Are we going to be permitted to continue to sell wheat to China, providing the Chinese wish to purchase it?

"Permitted" may be a harsh word. But that is what it really amounts to. We may say, quite correctly, that we would not want to sell wheat to China if that country became actively engaged in war with the United States. There are, however, several stages short of outright war, in some of which we might feel wheat sales to China would be justified but in which we might find our opinion differing from that of the United States. Under such circumstances we should find ourselves under considerable pressure to abstain from supplying wheat to China.

It now appears the crisis in Southeast Asia is easing. If the Chinese make no overt move to increase support to North Viet Nam and, through that country, to the Viet Cong, we may find it possible to continue wheat sales to China at no bigger penalty than the arousal of additional criticism from the right-wing elements in the U.S. Even in an election year, this opposition may not be sufficiently embarrassing to the Johnson administration to lead it to make official protests against these sales.

Any deepening of the crisis, though, would almost certainly bring at least covert pressures on us to forego wheat sales in the interests of Western unity.

Such a development might prove doubly annoying to the Western farmer if Russia fails to repeat the large wheat orders it placed with us last year. Washington reports that the Soviet Union's wheat crop this year appears to have rebounded to average yields, after last year's drought. Khrushchev hinted some time ago that Russia would probably continue to buy wheat abroad, to build up a surplus, but there is no certainty this policy will be followed. Indeed, it is just possible that if China became embroiled with the U.S. the reason for such a policy might disappear. Some observers suggest that Khrushchev's desire for a wheat surplus is linked with the fear of possible border strife in the East and China would hardly create frontier incidents with her nominal ally at the same time as she undertook to struggle with the U.S. "paper tiger" in the south.

All this just brings home a fact which was not infrequently mentioned last year, but largely ignored—that the Prairie farmers' prosperity rested on very uncertain grounds.

If there is any comfort to be found in the situation, it is the somewhat doubtful asset of poor crop prospects resulting from drought in the western provinces.

Not So Dense

Ray Remmen is a 17-year-old Saskatchewan farm boy who is too busy with sports to give the necessary time to his high school studies. Therefore, he has decided to forget about university and to learn a trade at technical school.

"That'll give me something to fall back on when I have to give up sports," he says.

While most people will admire his frankness, many will feel that his sense of values is badly askew when he gives priority to sports over a university education.

We are not so sure. The other week the Toronto Star pointed out it was impossible for all young people to acquire a university education—there is just not space enough at our colleges to accommodate everyone. It argued with what seemed to us convincing logic, that it is society's duty to provide a means of earning a decent living to those who can not get a university training. Ray Remmen seems ready to do his part to prepare himself for a useful role in society.

It seems to us rather obvious that all our best brains should get the benefit of a university education—but that does not mean that all who are university-trained are necessarily certain to fill socially-useful jobs. Nor is there much evidence that those who are most useful to society receive the top rewards. Whether he is at the race track, at the curling rink, on the football field, the baseball diamond or the basketball court, Ray Remmen seems to us to be as useful to society as the Beatles, to mention one noisy example of the financial rewards of mediocrity.

PC's Have Had Liberals' Help in Stalling House

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Perhaps the neatest political trick of the Session —so smooth as to almost have been done with mirrors—has been the way the Government planted the blame for the delay and frustration of Parliament firmly on the Opposition.

Particularly the Conservative Opposition.

The slow motion, legislatively, of this bitter and angry Parliament has been the result of what amounts to a team effort.

No one group could have so stalled Parliament.

Not even the Conservatives, skilled by their 22 years of training in the Opposition in the fine political art of harassing and haranguing the Government.

Good as they are at Opposition — they are very, very good, in fact, the best — the Conservatives had to have help.

And they got it, in full measure, from the Government itself.

Even the Liberals, or at least the more clear-sighted and objective of them, ruefully admit that this could be — although, of course, they will not say to the degree the Government by its own ineptness has contributed so generously to its difficulties.

INSENSITIVITY

Both the Conservative Opposition, furiously, of course, and the more reflective of the Liberal backbenchers, with understandable reluctance, fault the Government for its insensitivity.

1. Its managerial incompetence, as the Conservatives call it; or its arrogance, as much as these Liberals prefer to term it.

2. What the Conservatives charge is its plain "arrogance" or, as the Liberals seek to rationalize, its unfortunate "insensitivity."

Call it managerial incompetence or its arrogance, either the Government has done some remarkable fumbling with its legislative program.

Time and again, the Government brought its bills into the Commons, then withdrew or revised them, with a minimum of order, and until just these last few weeks without any priority of action.

Even the Canada Pension Plan jewel of the Liberal crown, and the big political pitch of the party's election campaign, is still going from one fourth re writing.

But all this blundering the Opposition could go along with quite amiably, even enjoying the trouble the Government was creating for itself by its own certain fumbles.

What the Opposition couldn't and wouldn't take, the Conservatives and "Splinter" groups alike, was the Government's "arrogance" or "insensitivity."

Split the difference in meaning, and call it high-handedness.

SLOW BURN

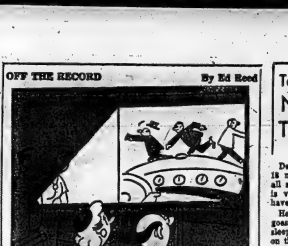
Probably fed to the teeth with Opposition criticism, the Government, a couple of times, has apparently decided to simply ignore it.

Day after day, the Conservatives mostly, with the odd assist from the New Democrats, pounded away at the Government, hammering Cabinet Minister after Minister with pointed questions about their departments — and got precious few, if any, answers. And answers were demanded.

Finally, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker exploded.

This, he blasted hotly, was a new brand of the old Liberal arrogance — "The arrogance of silence."

But there have been other, many other instances of Cabinet Ministers, seemingly with deliberation, provoking the Opposition.



There was Agriculture Minister Harry Hays who taunted Conservative Critic Alvin Hamilton when he was citing some figures: "Statistics are for losers."

There was Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing telling Party Scout Douglas Harkness, native MP Gordon Aiken, when he asked what the Government might be doing about low water levels in the Great Lakes, to "pray for rain."

There was Citizenship Minister Rene Tremblay, instructing New Democratic Leader Tommy Douglas, when he asked why Harry Hooper, an American, had been detained after spending three months in Don Jail without legal counsel, to "ask the man himself."

And there is Forestry Minister Maurice Sauve, grinning and shrugging and making faces, but giving no reply when asked, time and again, by the Opposition whether there is any "conflict of interest" in the Minister, with his $35,000-a-year Government job, selling his wife Jan, to continue working as a highly-paid,CBC television personality.

And so it has gone — Opposition questions too often answered with supercilious wisecracks or lofty silence.

Strictly Personal
Wickedness Is as Rare as True Goodness

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: The sublimity of political conventions is equalled only by the gullibility of those viewers who actually believe that such words as "freedom," "courage," and "principle" bear any relationship to the power structures in political parties.

When a writer is staring out of a window, it is hard for anyone to accept the fact that he is working; that as William Blake told his wife one day at lunch: "I have written a poem this morning, all that remains now is to put it on paper."

There is very little positive evil in mankind; true wickedness is as rare as true goodness; where we fail it is through timidity, the unwillingness to pay the price for what we know is right, the wistful hope that we can somehow remain passive and virtuous at the same time.

It must be more than a coincidence, or a mere genetic trick, that those families which have an effeminate son usually have also a masculine daughter; the reversal of roles among siblings of opposite sex seems indicates strongly, to me, that the parents have somehow reversed their own emotional roles.

Experience can be the worst teacher as well as the best; all that experience teaches a delinquent is to grow rich and successful enough to be able to afford a top lawyer.

Watching a demure actress being interviewed on television, I was reminded of Oliver Herford's tongue-in-cheek definition of modesty as "the gentle art of making others think you're unassuming not to be aware of it."

The old saw about marrying in haste and repenting at leisure can be turned inside out more forcefully; there are doubtless many happy couples who married at leisure and repented in haste — for the time spent together before marriage is more relevant to the union as the time spent in a doctor's waiting-room is to the treatment.

Whenever I hear a public figure invoking God for some partisan goal, it reaffirms my feeling that religion, and not agnosticism, is the most serious threat to the free forces bent on the genuinely religious spirit.

The advent of high winds and low scudding clouds, signifying the start of a new season, always gives me a sense of exhilaration that no tranquil weather can evoke.

The basic difference between the "conservative" and the "reactionary" is that the wise right wing wants to use what is permanent, valid in the past to cope with current problems, while the reactionary wants simply to return to the past; and conservatism today is in as much danger of being engulfed by blind reaction as liberalism was nearly thrivelled by Marxism radicalism in the 1930's.

Poor Ivan Has Woes

We may think we have our troubles with direct-distance dialing and all-digit phone numbers, but pity the poor Russian.

In many areas in the Soviet Union, if a Russian wishes to make a long-distance phone call, he decides in advance how long he will speak.

He then buys enough coupons to fill the minutes.

If he finishes sooner than he expected or if he has not yet spoken to his youngest grandchild, the Soviet telephone people sum up this situation in two words: "Too bad."

Vital Post Given Sikh

London Free Press

Prime Minister Shastri of India has learned that he cannot carry out the whole weight of government of that vast country. His efforts to work day and night to fill the great gap left by the loss of Nehru resulted in a heart attack, which caused considerable consternation in political circles.

Now he has handed over one of the posts to Mrs. Gandhi. He has named Swara Singh to be foreign minister. This is a highly responsible post, in the present delicate state of relations between India and her neighbors.

Swara Singh is a Sikh — a group not noted for numerous size. But the new foreign minister has shown ability in other posts, and has managed to keep out of the internal politics which has wrecked the Congress Party.

Paperwork Voracious

Brantford Expositor

Many businesses are in danger of being swallowed up in the paperwork that governments impose on them. A survey conducted for a U.S. congressional committee has revealed that American independent business enterprises expend 361,000,000 man-hours per year completing the various returns federal and state governments require of them. This sea of ink and mountain of paper is estimated to cost the business community $1.75 billion annually.

The survey covered enterprises that employ a total of 10,000,000 employees. It found that federal reports average 33 minutes per month per employee and state reports 24 minutes. In 24 percent of the cases, the owner prepares the bulk of the forms; in all, 202 reports may be required. The Census Bureau leads the way with 50 forms, followed by the Internal Revenue Bureau, with 40.

The two greatest evils of our time are the typewriter and carbon paper," said Ernest J. Leahy, who made life's work of showing governments and business how to reduce their paperwork. He said he has saved the U.S. government $70,000,000 by his paper-saving suggestions. The government is also estimated it could cut Ottawa's paperwork by millions of dollars.

In spite of these reminders, government verbosity continues. A 1955 government order on cabbage prices used 36,911 words. A Canadian amendment to the income tax law goes on for more than a page without even a period. Senators complained they couldn't understand it. In contrast the Lord's Prayer contains just 56 words and Lincoln's Gettysburg Address just 266.

To Your Good Health
Not Unusual for Children To Sleep Several Hours

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son is 18 months old but my friends all say he sleeps too much. He is very alert and bright so I have never worried.

He naps from noon until 4 p.m. goes to bed at 8:30 p.m. and sleeps until 7. He gets up right on the dot. What do you think? — Mrs. T. M.

I think that's fine. I wish all children of his age could have as much sleep.

If a child is getting more sleep than he needs, he'll awaken and make this known to us, using the wonderful ingenuity of childhood to raise some sort of a ruckus. No child gets too much sleep.

I don't have to tell you anything about seeing that a youngster gets the sleep he needs and deserves. But I can give you a tip as to how one smart mother shut off criticism from busybodies who wanted to impose their notions on her and her children.

Whenever anybody tried to foist off silly ideas on how she "ought" to change whatever she was doing, she'd smile very sweetly and say, "Isn't that perfectly terrible, isn't it?" And then go on doing things the way she knew they ought to be done.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about menopause. I am 40 and although I have tried to ask my doctor, he never seems to want to elaborate. I believe that if a woman knew what to expect, it would be a lot easier to face.

At what age does menopause start? When do monthly periods cease? What are hot flashes? How many year, before menopause ends? What other symptoms are there? If you could answer in your column, do you have a pamphlet I could send for? — Mrs. L. J.

It's a complicated enough subject so I guess most doctors feel the same way about it. Once you get started talking about it, or you use up a lot of time you can't reasonably afford.

There is a great deal of differences in the way menopause affects various individuals. There is no sure way of predicting when it will begin — but for most women it is somewhere between the moderately early 40's and very early 50's, a mid most generally in the latter part of the 40's.

Every question you ask is included in my booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." I quite agree that knowing what to expect makes menopause easier to face. And really, it has been built into a myth of frightening ogre than it deserves. Keep in mind that it is a natural occurrence which comes to all women who reach middle age. To receive a copy of the booklet, send 30 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.

Dear Dr. Molner: You stated that a permanent method of removing hair was by electrolysis. This is not so. My friend has some facial hair taken off by the electrolysis operator and it has all grown back. — Mrs. A. J.

It is a misconception that the hair "grows back." It doesn't grow back—hair that has been destroyed. What happens is that other hairs, which may have been lighter in color, turn dark and become noticeable.

Ontarioan Unspeakable

Stratford Beacon-Herald

It occurs to us that one reason why Ontario people are fairly good Canadians, prepared to put the interests of the country ahead of the narrower interests of their provinces, is that we have no word to use to proclaim our provincialism.

The Bluenoses don't go about saying that they are Bluenoses; they rather resent the word. Any Bluenose has a word to use for his provincial identity, though. He says correctly, and say, "I'm a Nova Scotian." Similarly the citizens of Alberta let it come naturally off the tongue for someone in the eastern shadow of the Rockies to say, "I'm an Albertan."

What can a citizen of Ontario say? The answer is that he has no word to describe himself as a citizen of his own province. For the purposes of the printed page, one can invent words like Ontarioan or Ontarioite. Such words can not be spoken comfortably—they do not come naturally, and fail to establish themselves in the spoken language. The citizens of other Canadian provincial polities, has to get around the lack of a word with circumlocution. Commonly, as: "I say to you, my fellow citizens of this great and terrific province of Ontario."

In Prince Edward Island, the provincial politicians handle the matter with ease. They live in "my fellow Islanders." In Ontario we have no comparable word for the people who live in Ontario.

We have to take the larger view, and call ourselves Canadians.

Fashion In Ailments

Ogdensburg Journal

An Israeli doctor performs what we had suspected all along—that bodily ailments change almost as often as the fashion in women's clothes.

Patients sometimes switch to new diseases, says Dr. J. J. Groen of Jerusalem, and occasionally they even go back to their old faithfuls.

It used to be that if you were sick you were simply fingered along with your illness chronically or got well. Now there is a definite "variety" possibility: you switch brands the way you might with cigarets.

The important consideration is that the malady be "interesting," and the best kind of all is the kind involving an implied inner emotional tragedy, such as a misapprent past or a broken heart. If the patient can manage to look faint—although not dangerously—haggard, that's good, too. Just the right degree of "delicate" healthy, moreover, can protect the sufferer from most anything resembling work.

Shakespeare was right when he wrote of "the thousand natural shocks that flesh is heir to"—but then, of course, he was born 40 years too soon. The figure obviously must be revised sharply upward if a modern man can have a little room to move around in.

Ambassadors Meet to Expand Force's Powers

OTTAWA (CP) — Ambassadors of Canada and five other nations contributing to the United Nations peacekeeping force in Cyprus will meet today in New York to plan extension of the force's powers.

Paul Tremblay, Canada's permanent delegate to the UN, was called back to Ottawa Wednesday to be briefed in preparation for the meeting.

The meeting follows a session of the UN Security Council which decided the force should be used to help enforce the cease - fire shakily arranged among the Greek, Turkish and Cypriot governments.

The result of the meeting may also indicate what steps can be taken to widen and strengthen the authority of the peacekeeping force of nearly 7,000 men, of whom 1,100 are Canadians.

External Affairs Minister Martin told the Commons Wednesday that Antonin Barzeta, Canadian ambassador to Greece, after being in Ottawa for consultations, is returning to his post in Athens and "will be seeing the government of Greece very soon" on matters we have been discussing with him here in Ottawa."

GIVEN HONORARY

An informant said Tuesday Mr. Martin had given Mr. Barzeta an important mission to perform in Athens. Its nature could not be ascertained.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and Mr. Martin both praised Mr. Barzeta, former Union Nationale premier of Quebec who was appointed to the diplomatic service by the Diefenbaker government.

Mr. Martin told Wallace B. Nesbitt (P C — Oxford) that he and the government have been in touch through diplomatic missions here and abroad, with other countries "who we feel share our view" in trying to persuade Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus—as Mr. Nesbitt put it—"to be more agreeable" to let UN patrols roam the island widely.

Canada had suggested that today's meeting be at the level of foreign ministers, but all of them were not available at once. The other contributors to the force are Britain, Denmark, Finland, Ireland and Sweden.

"Not only will the Canadian representative (Mr. Tremblay) be attending but we hope to see that the powers are extended but . . . he has done this now for many weeks," Mr. Martin said.

At Winson Green prison in Birmingham where Wilson had served less than four months of his term, an inquiry was launched as part of a high-level investigation into the escape ordered by Home Secretary Henry Brooke.

REPORTED IN IRELAND

Many British newspapers suggested Wilson had skipped to the Irish Republic. There was no official comment from the Irish but the London Daily Herald's report that he narrowly escaped arrest in a late night swoop by Scotland Yard detectives on a West London apartment.

Fleet Street crime correspondents were convinced that Wilson had been spirited to freedom by an underworld group of jail breaking artists, the Freedom Fixers. Part of the mail train robbery gang, he is said to have been used to hire their special talents. The price was estimated at between £50,000 and £100,000.

The jailbreak is thought to have taken no more than 10 minutes.

The gang moved in at 3 a.m. Wednesday, scaling the prison wall with a ladder. They moved through the jail corridors to Cell Block B where Wilson was confined. Using duplicate keys, they moved him in a matter of seconds. Wilson's cell. A 50-year - old prison officer, Bill Nicholls, who surprised them, was knocked out.

Wilson swiftly changed his prison uniform for ordered clothes and went back over the wall with the gang. At 3:10 a.m. they were away.

Wilson's blonde wife and children—one a baby of 18 months—left some six weeks ago. Their whereabouts are unknown.

Conservatives to help Eric Winkler, Grey Bruce, suggested a full-party parliamentary committee set out the design of a distinctive Canadian flag.

Canada Serves UN In Ten Countries

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The United Nations has closed down its military operation in The Congo and the last of the Canadian troops there have come home. But Canadian servicemen are still on duty with the UN in 10 other countries.

The oldest UN peacekeeping venture, the military observer group in India and Pakistan to supervise the ceasefire in Kashmir, was established in January, 1949. Eight Canadian Army officers serve there, and since June there have been eight RCAF personnel providing air transport for the UN team.

Almost as old is the UN truce supervisory organization in Palestine on which 19 Canadian officers are serving. The organization covers five countries: Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon. It oversees the truce between Israel and its Arab neighbors and was established in July, 1949.

Two Canadians have been killing on the UN mission in Korea since July, 1953, when an armistice was arranged to end the Korean war. The force today contributed warships, a brigade of troops and an air transport squadron.

L.I.I.2 IN CYPRUS

The biggest UN operation as far as Canada is concerned is in Cyprus. Canada has contributed 1,122 men to the UN force including a battalion of the Royal 22nd Regiment and the reconnaissance squadron of the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

Some 950 Canadian soldiers and airmen are on duty with UN force in Egypt which was established in the fall of 1956 to halt the Anglo-French-Israeli invasion of Egypt.

The UN mission in Yemen was established last year to oversee its pull - out of the withdrawal of Egyptian and Saudi Arabian forces from that desert country. Twenty - three Canadians are serving with this mission.

Besidts these UN operations, there are the non-UN truce supervisory commissions in Viet Nam. Laos and Cambodia to which Canada has been supplying some 80 military personnel since July, 1954. India and Poland are the other members of the commissions.

Integration of Armed Services Moving Smoothly

HAMILTON (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer says integration of Canada's three armed services—army, navy and air force—is moving smoothly.

In a television interview taped in Ottawa for CHCH-TV Hamilton, the minister said Wednesday night the integration process began last week with proclamation of the legislation approved by Parliament.

It started with establishment of the defence staff, "bringing together the naval, the general staff and the air council into one new single organization," headed by Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller, who also participated in the interview.

"That is the beginning and then the integration process will extend down through the national defence headquarters strata by strata and from there out to area headquarters."

Asked whether there was a target date for integration, Mr. Hellyer replied: "We've used the figure of one year for integration at national defence headquarters. Nothing that has happened so far has led us to believe that we couldn't achieve it in approximately that length of time."

Asked about morale in the armed forces and whether there was opposition or apprehension about the program, Air Marshal Miller replied:

"There are some people who don't necessarily agree with it but the majority of them query whether it is timely to make a move such as this, but my experience is that the vast number of people in the services support this move and support it enthusiastically."

New recruits should be able to choose the branch of the service in which they would like to serve.

Asked when a single uniform for the three services might come about, Mr. Hellyer said: "We're not keen on my priority list at all . . . We have more important business to do first.'

SANK WARSHIP

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Vice Admiral Elliot W. Grenfell, the first American to sink a Japanese warship in the Second World War, will retire Sept. 1. Running submerged one morning in early 1942 his submarine sighted a Japanese submarine tender. "We were moderately lolling on the deck in bathing trunks. "We let him get nearer and nearer and down he went," Grenfell said.

EVEN "Northern Dancer" IS NOT A "Sure Thing"

Some people feel that buying common stocks is just about like betting money on a horse. There are few "sure things" in either racing or the stock market, but stocks can be evaluated so that your risks are minimized and your chances of picking winners are vastly improved.

If you are interested in a particular stock, ask us to evaluate it for you.

Await Result Of Peace Plea By Prophetess

LUSAKA (Reuters) — Northern Rhodesian officials today awaited results of a message by self-styled "prophetess". Alice Lenshina asking her followers to lay down their arms.

She urged her rebellious Lumpa sect followers to return peacefully to their villages and bring an end to the religious revolt which has cost some 500 lives since July 24.

Lenshina, who was wanted "dead or alive," surrendered Wednesday to the government and recorded an appeal for peace. The message was to be broadcast with copies of it dropped from aircraft in all Lumpa areas, particularly in north, east and western provinces which were wracked with violence.

Prime Minister Kenneth Kaunda earlier ordered "no reprisals" against the Lumpa sect followers who have terrorized the eastern and northern provinces, attacking villages with modern leaders, spears, axes and knives.

Lenshina, who said she was reincarnated as a Christ - like witch-craft, told her followers they would go to heaven for their sacrifice.

be pushed around by a minority in Quebec and would—if compelled to—readily join the United States.

Conservative whip Eric Winkler (Grey Bruce) urged that the design of a distinctive Canadian flag should be worked out by an all-party parliamentary committee.

Percy Noble (PC — Grey North) said the government should withdraw its maple leaf design before it divides the country and inflicts wounds that will take centuries to heal.

Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary North) appealed to the Liberals to take a reasonable attitude and promise so that the steps can be taken to find a flag suitable to the majority of Canadians.

Mr. Winkler said he would use all his personal influence to see that a design is worked out calmly and deliberately which would not be a political flag. He did not say whether he was speaking on behalf of his party.

URGES MODERATION

He urged moderation in the flag debate and cautioned that because the design was arranged and presented to Parliament in a political way Canada stands "on the brink" of serious internal disunity.

He wondered whether there was any significance in the fact that in the government's design the maple leaves have 15 points. There were three leaves on one stem, but this never occurred on a maple tree. It was characteristic of another plant—poison ivy.

Mr. Noble said the government's appeasement of French Canadians in the selection of a flag design will not satisfy their aspirations. He had received hundreds of letters but only one supported the maple leaf design.

Mr. Noble said speeches by Ontario Liberals on the flag issue are conspicuous by their absence. He challenged Ontario Liberals to speak in the debate and said that if they supported the new design they would be through in politics.

How Many People Read International News Today?

By JACK HUTTON

A question is bothering a great many people across Canada during these days of international crises: how many people read international news?

Particularly the younger generation which will inherit the problems adults don't seem capable of solving. Are they interested in Vietnam? Cyprus?

Is the fact that Ringo has a cold more important than the fact that United Nations Secretary - General U Thant can't find enough money to run his organization?

If you want to test your own basic knowledge of world affairs, try the following questions. (Why limit them to yourself, in fact. Try them on a kitchen table conference!) Answer them all correctly and you obviously belong somewhere editing foreign news. See how you do.

1. The island of Cyprus, very much in the news, is split into two bitterly opposed factions. Greek and Turkish Cypriots. Can you name the leaders of both sections?

2. Which country do the following men represent: (a) Gen. Charles de Gaulle (b) U Thant (c) Nguyen Khanh (you should know him by now) (d) Moise Tshombe (e) Sen. Barry Goldwater.

3. Italian President Antonio Segni was in the news recently. Why? While you're at it, name the premier of his country. (Answer both of these correctly, and you'd get an international whiz).

4. Who opposed Sen. Barry Goldwater for the presidential nomination at the recent Republican Party convention? And just which one does Sen. Goldwater represent?

5. Can you name the children of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip in order of age? (Come to think of it, can you even name them all? Half the people I've asked can't).

6. People are talking a great deal these days about the Geneva Conference of 1954. What did it do?

7. What happened 19 years ago this month to completely change the history of the world ending one era and launching another? What was the most important thing to happen 50 years ago this month?

How did you fare? The answers are below.

1. Archbishop Makarios, a Greek Cypriot, is President of Cyprus, Dr. Fazil Kutchuk, a Turkish Cypriot, is Vice-President, devoted to ensuring that his minority gets the rights he feels it should have.

2. (A) France (b) Burma (c) South Vietnam (d) Congo (e) The United States.

3. President Segni, 72, suffered a cerebral thrombosis. His premier, who has just gone through rocky political waters, is Premier Aldo Moro.

4. Gov. William Scranton was the unlucky gentleman from Pennsylvania who was steamrolled by Mr. Goldwater's forces. And you undoubtedly knew that Sen. Goldwater represents Arizona.

5. Hah, did this one stump you? Charles, Anne (a lady), Andrew, 4 and Edward, less than one-year-old.

6. The Geneva Conference split Indochina into Vietnam and Laos, hoping to neutralize Southeast Asia and prevent usual warfare. Needless to say, things didn't work out.

7. Nineteen years ago this month the first atom bomb exploded at Hiroshima, making all earlier weapons obsolete and presenting us with problems we still haven't solved. Fifty years ago this month World War I was launched — the war to end all wars.

Don't feel badly if you missed many of the foreign names or couldn't spell most of them. But they may just stick with you the next time!

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS WAYNE KELLER

Keller – Hollinger

Colorful bouquets of white hydrangea and blue delphinium adorned the altar in the United Church, Foxboro when Miss Retha Hollinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hollinger was united in marriage to Douglas Wayne Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Keller, Actinolite, Ontario. Rev. Robert O. Reid officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Lorne Weese, Shannonville, aunt of the bride, presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Arnold Reilly, Foxboro.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, dressed in a floor-length bridal gown of white taffeta with soft pleats flowing to a short train.

The fitted bodice was enhanced with a scallop neckline studded with sequins and long lily-point sleeves. Her chapel-length veil fell from a head dress of imitation miniature daisies and carried a cascade bouquet of Sensation American beauty red roses and white stephanotis mingled with fern and ivy.

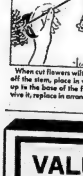
The matron of honor, Mrs. Lorne Carleton, Tweed and bridesmaids Mrs. Everett Harry, Trenton, Miss Joyce Hollinger, Kingston, sisters of the bride and Miss Leonara Keller, Oshawa, sister of the bridegroom were identically gowned in street-length dresses of turquoise peau de soie, matching veiled headdresses, matching shoes and white gloves. They carried nosegays of turquoise and white 'mums.

The demure little flower-girls, Misses Lynda and Louise Harry, nieces of the bride wore identical dresses of yellow chiffon over taffeta with short white gloves, and headdresses of white and yellow flowers with net and matching yellow ribbon. They carried nosegays of white and yellow 'mums.

The ring bearer, Master Mikel Harry, nephew of the bride, wore long black pants and a white linen jacket completed with a yellow carnation.

Mr. Ronald Keller, Frankford, brother of the bridegroom, was best man while Mr. Keith Tompkins, Frankford, Mr. Lynn Reynolds, Foxboro, and Mr. Robert Bean, Tweed were the ushers.

The reception was held in the church hall decorated with white and yellow streamers and white bells. The bride's table was attractively centred with a three-tier wedding cake, trimmed with yellow and white roses and miniature doves, and topped with a bride and bridegroom under an arch of white flowers and a bell. The table was attractively designed at the base of the cake entwining white and yellow lily-of-the-valley. Two candelabras containing vases of yellow flowers and white candles, and the colorful bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.



The guests were received by the bride's mother dressed in a flowered pink sheath dress, with jacket, white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a blue flowered dress, white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

For the wedding trip to a honeymoon resort, Cove Haven, Pocono Mts., Lakeville, Pa., U.S.A., the bride wore a white sheath dress with pink flowers, matching pink duster, white accessories and a corsage of white and pink carnations.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Napanee, Kingston, Bowmanville, Tweed, Batawa, Frankford, Stirling, Peterborough, Actinolite, Shannonville and Oshawa.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Richard Reid, Frankford; at the home of Mrs. Lorne Carleton, Tweed; and at the home of Mrs. Carl Hagerman, Foxboro. The bride and bridegroom were presented with an electric fry pan and blue mountain vases from the Frankford-Sidney Hydro Social Club and also were guests of honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Foshay, R.R. 3, Frankford, when they were presented with a lovely pole lamp, foot stool and a bedroom lamp.

Mr. and Mrs. Keller are residing at Frankford, Ontario.

When cut flowers will, cut an inch off the stem, place in warm water up to the base of the flower to revive it, replace in arrangement.

Keen Political Struggle Ahead for Mrs. I. Gandhi

By RUKMINI DEVI, Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP) — There is a keen political struggle for survival ahead of Mrs. Indira Gandhi, the late prime minister Nehru's daughter who has been appointed minister of information and broadcasting in the Shastri cabinet.

Under the constitution, Mrs. Gandhi will have to win a seat in the Lok Sabha, the lower house of Parliament, or get nominated to the upper house within six months.

Present indications are that she will seek election to the Lok Sabha from the Phulpur constituency which was represented by her father. Mrs. Gandhi is said to feel that she must be in Parliament on her own right.

Congress party supporters in Phulpur also are eager that the constituency should continue to be represented by a member of the Nehru family.

Opposition parties intend to throw their full strength into the Phulpur fight.

Both the leftist United Socialist party and the rightist Jana Sangh, the party of Hindu orthodoxy, have said that they would put up candidates against Mrs. Gandhi.

Whenever Nehru contested the Phulpur seat, he always had an easy victory over his opponents. His popularity with the Uttar Pradesh was taken for granted and he did not even have to tour his constituency. Observers think his daughter may face a stiff fight.

POLITICAL NEW-COMER

Mrs. Gandhi is as yet a new comer to active politics and the Phulpur electorate may not automatically transfer to her the affection it had for her father.

Since Mr. Nehru's death on, position parties have intensified their activities in Phulpur.

Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia, the United Socialist leader, in a meeting Mrs. Gandhi "must be defeated if only to demonstrate to the world that the people of India are not always dependent on members of the Nehru family for their political advancement."

The Experts Say

Child's School Attitude Depends on Parents

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP) — The first day of school has begun to loom large in many a young mind. Whether the day will dawn with a glow of excitement and adventure or in a fog of fear and trembling is largely up to mother and dad.

"You can tell, when the children come, what the family's attitude has been," says Toronto kindergarten teacher Mary Ellen Haylor.

"A mother should make school an experience they plan together and have fun thinking about.

"They should laugh about it, practise going back and forth, get used to doing things away from home."

Miss Haylor, who has spent the summer teaching other kindergarten and primary teachers, says some schools make a preview easy. Some plan visits for next year's kindergarteners and their mothers so they can see a class in action. Some have a registration day, with no class when mothers and children meet the teacher and see the room, then go home together. Others stagger the entrance dates, bringing in a few children at a time for several days.

If there is no such arrangement, parents can at least show a child the school.

FEAR CATCHING

The mother who thinks her child is too young to leave her, who fears he won't be able to keep up with other children, who realizes suddenly it's time for school, and fears she hasn't taught her child enough, creates attitudes, however unconsciously, that the child will catch.

Miss Haylor says the has seen the odd child who does not know his own name or how to take his sweater off, but she says they are better off in some ways than the child who has been rushed into learning things because he is about to go to school.

"Some independence is useful, but not the threat that now that you're going to start school you must do this and that."

No matter what the tone attitude, some children will be nervous just because they don't know what will happen at school.

Miss Hayhoe describes a general first-day routine which she says the child might be told about.

She takes her children into the classroom a few at a time, beginning with the more mature. There are always a few crying. A few ready to cry at the least provocation, and at least one who says, at the last minute, "No, I don't want to go in." The less fuss made about the dissenters, the better. "If the mother is willing to let you take over, the child is usually all right."

PLAYS GAME

She usually plays a group game first, to organize interest and settle down her new charges. Then comes choosing a toy, one which must be put together and put back in its place—the responsible for. This helps them to meet one another, perhaps to help one another. They learn to learn classroom routine.

The next step may be group songs at the piano. At first almost everything is done in 10-minute shifts, because unorganized attention spans won't last much longer. All of the activities start the children right away learning to navigate in a group, learning to believe the teacher means what she says.

Miss Haylor says the tears and fears are usually over in a week, sometimes an hour, certainly in a month, except for a fringe group. Even most of those will come around in time. She says she has found that with a few exceptions even the timid or belligerent are excited about going to school, and given a chance, will want to learn.

Parents Must Co-operate To Obtain Happy Home

DEAR DORIS — The letter from a fellow stepmother, Jungle Jennie, caught my eye. In my experience the one who needs counselling is the father. A pediatrician told me that the step-parent should be the one who gives the treats, but the real parent should see to it that discipline is maintained and should support the step-parent — rather than teach the children that they can come between the parents and get their own way by doing so.

DORIS CLARE

My husband now realizes that had he followed my advice, my stepdaughter would not now be a selfish, disobedient 17-year-old, who wants to be paid for everything she does and always wants more.

If the stepmother is to do all the work and bear all the strain of raising the children, she should be able to make the rules and be obeyed. Love alone will not be enough. Anyone expects a little friction in discipline between parent and child and thinks nothing of it, but let it be a step-parent, and the inexperienced immediately assume that the child is being ill-treated.

Parents should consult in private, and then present a united front. In Jennie's case the father should be shown that he is harming the children by letting them grow up without respect and obedience for their stepmother. Otherwise, no matter how hard she tries, and no matter how good her intentions are, and how long her patience, the stepmother is wasting her time, and getting a lot of frustration and misery for nothing.

Believe me, I have done my best, and now my husband admits that had he had confidence in my judgment and in my desire to be a good mother, our girl would have a nicer personality and be able to hold friends. Instead she has always new acquaintances; and continually irritates people by her careless and sometimes rude manner; because her father did not make her speak politely when she was smaller, and be obedient to either of us.

These girls of Jennie's should be encouraged to mix into other people's homes and see how other children are made to behave; and they should be encouraged to entertain school friends at home. They should be sent to dancing classes or swimming or riding classes so that plenty of happy activities with other children will teach them how they must behave to get along with others.

My husband would not let ours do various things lest she mix with undesirable children or injure herself, in spite of the doctor's encouragement that I was right. She must have felt very frustrated at times. It seemed unreasonable to me to forbid her to do things, but people who have not been in this position I have, simply do not understand that step-parents have a point of view too.

So many people assume that the fairy tale type of step-mother is the only kind. As a social worker, you know only too well what real parents can be like; not all are good to their children! But if the father will not co-operate with the step-mother very soon she would be wise to have them placed in a good boarding school so they will get proper training. Believe me, I know. I tried "love", as you say, but got nowhere because of no rules. — ANOTHER STEPMOTHER.

DEAR ANOTHER — I couldn't agree more. Thanks for this helpful true story.

Management End of News Business Not Dull Says Woman President of Chain

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—In that office of alumni any other metropolitan publisher it would be preposterous. But visitors waiting for the president of the Washington Post may employ their time by studying gay swatches of decorator fabrics placed there on a table.

With Katharine Meyer Graham, this seems precisely right.

"I was never wild for a career," she says.

And along with comments on great men and great affairs, she sprinkles her conversation with such womanly concerns as explaining how she would like to be home each day to welcome the children from school.

Recently U.S. politicians appear to have rediscovered women, now get government jobs of increased responsibility. So it's fitting that Kay Graham should preside over a communications empire larger than any ever headed by an American woman.

True, it's not in the same league with a Hearst or Heaverbrook group. But, in addition to the Post, the company owns Newsweek magazine, Art News magazine, one radio and two television stations, an interest in a Nova Scotia paper company and, with the Los Angeles Times, a news service to 74 clients in the U.S. and abroad.

Mrs. Graham's responsibility came shockingly with the death of her husband, Philip L. Graham, a year ago.

Housewife, mother of three sons and one daughter, volunteer worker for Washington's needy children, Mrs. Graham had to shore up her shattered personal world and take command of a complex business.

EXPANDING BUSINESS

Fortunately, she was not entirely unprepared.

Her father, Eugene Meyer, banker and government executive, had bought the post in 1930, her husband had been with the paper since 1946, and both discussed with her the joys and troubles of an expanding business.

Katherine Meyer was born June 16, 1917 in New York City but her family moved here when she was six months old.

She went to Vassar transferred to, and was graduated from, the University of Chicago, spent a short time as a $21-a-week reporter for the San Francisco News, and for six years worked in the Sunday, circulation and editorial departments of the Post. She has known most of its key people for years.

Yet one gets the idea in talking with her that she still may be a bit awed by the editorial processes, although not so awed that she doesn't go about her job manfully while asking questions womanfully.

While she reads, she wonders.

"You may have a doubt about this," she says, "and you may ask: 'Haven't we gone overboard on something?' And why?"

Tall, vivacious and enthusiastic, Mrs. Graham goes along gamely with an inside joke. When managing editor Alfred Friendly finds one of her suggestions particularly helpful, he gives her a "Brenda Starr award," a reference to a whirlwind girl reporter in a comic strip appearing in the post.

On Tuesdays and Wednesdays, Mrs. Graham is in New York for Newsweek editorial conferences. On Mondays and Thursdays there are meetings here including lunch with famous guests and the editorial staff.

Friday, big bonus: No scheduled meetings.

The Post is a morning newspaper, so a congressman upset by an editorial or a cartoon or a column or a news story can be fighting mad by the time Congress opens.

Vituperation and statistics aren't kept, but the guess is that no other newspaper is scolded so regularly and so heartily, even though it usually is high on any rating of the top American newspapers.

She says she wants the news done fair and free.

"If we are not going to be fair," she asks, "what are we here for?"

Well, she's been on the new job for a year—how does she find it?

Her answer was most ladylike.

"I'm amazed at how much I like it. I adore it. I love most of the things you spend your days doing."

A reporter said he has always suspected the management end of the news business would be dull.

"It isn't," Mrs. Graham said. "I promise you."

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Nostalgia is a double-edged sword. It can be an inspiring stimulant, or a deadly poison.

Nostalgia is a confusing emotion and it is full of paradoxes. It can be painful, and yet in the pain of nostalgia there may also be a sweet sadness — so haunting and penetrating a feeling that we never willingly part with it. Its admixture of anticipation and expectancy, joy and sorrow, come together in so powerful a combination, so hard-to-get-able a mood, that we almost — on return to it, embrace it, but this haunting beauty is precisely what can make it so destructive of life's fulfillments. Its danger, one has said, "is that we may become addicted to it, listening to the siren's song that we end up drifting onto the rocks." Nostalgia can lead us to a wasting away — a human waste of this hour, this day, in the painfully sweet retreat to the faded moments of yesteryear.

NEW MOMENTS

While nostalgia of this sort does tend to hark "homeward" it is often a home that is no more, a world that has passed. It is one failing to recognize creatively unhappy because of our sudden awareness that "things are not the way they used to be." It is something else again when we exploit this unhappiness as a shield for our fearful refusal to create new moments, to make new homes, to build new worlds.

But nostalgia will never be expunged from the catalogue of human emotions; it is indelibly there, to stay. And it can serve us in creative, positive ways. It need not merely remain an empty yearning for a lamented past, but can be a vital link to the living past that it can bump us up, to help us live this moment in the light of other moments.

Sometimes, in our brooding over the passing of dear ones, we lose away from life in hate, and vindictiveness. Other times, however, when nostalgia plays its healing role, we can live on ... the enduring links it helps to preserve. Consider this in the light of a report of one psychiatrist:

NO SELF PITY

"A woman who had been a widow for nearly 30 years had stayed amazingly vital and active with no evidence of self-pity. Eventually increasing age made her physician advise her to limit her activities. She was still determined to go to her summer home, and from there sent him a letter in which she said: 'My husband is here — a great comfort and pleasure and a great help. I hope he will stay a long time as it seems very lonely on this mountain!' The statement caused such conviction that the doctor wondered for a moment whether she might be hallucinating. But after some reflection, it struck him that there was really irrelevant. What impressed him was the vision not only of loss but of an enduring union despite the loss, that seemed not irrational but perfectly realistic. There was no inkling here of what had sustained her throughout the lonely years."

INEVITABLE FUTURE

In a creative way, nostalgia can make us understand that anybody who is, was — and that anyone who was, is. A part of being, rooted in having been. Nostalgia founders when it takes us from the present to the past — and never lets us return. But when it helps us to know that nothing precious is ever lost, it brings us back from the past and helps us face our future — our inevitable future.

308-Pounder Wants to Be Dress Model

LONDON (CP) — Muriel Parsons thinks her sturdy 83-50-60 figure is just right for modelling dresses.

"Dress manufacturers could learn a thing or two from me," the 308 - pound baker says.

"They want to put a couple of extra inches on the hips. They forget fat people want to sit down."

Last fashion house spurn the 54-year-old woman: offer to model their wares, she has another trick up her capacious sleeve.

"I'll try the bad manufacturers," she says.

"My husband Peter weighs 17 stones (238 pounds) so there's 39 stone (546 pounds) between the sheets in our old double bed.

"That's saying something for the springs."

Margy's Mosaic Made in Mould

by Mary Moore

For a professional cook to go a daughter-in-law that oom cook and whose husband never has cause to complain "it's not like Mother made" is a blessing that should be treasured. And she is — by me.

My daughter-in-law Margy is a splendid cook. I have been waiting for an opportunity to give you the recipe for what I call Margy's Mosaic for nearly 4 months. It is a refrigerator dessert that will serve 12. It calls for lady fingers. Happily these may now be purchased in packages. It bothered me in former years to have to remember to order these in advance from the bakery or to make my own, for they are so time-consuming. This refrigerator dessert is simpler to make than the Coffee Coronet I gave her two weeks ago.

Civil Rights Movement Going on Says Negress

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP) — Addie Wyatt is a Negro and a woman who works for equal rights for both groups as a Chicago union official and civil rights worker. Both, she says, suffer discrimination, prejudice and the effects of outmoded custom.

"Hot or cold, extremists or moderates, the civil right movement is going on. Every vestige of segregation must be completely destroyed," she said Wednesday.

She was addressing a luncheon sponsored by the women's committee of the New Democratic party at their provincial convention.

She said the Negro waited patiently for change, with little hope, until he took matters into his own hands to force a crisis. Now a new Negro has emerged who speaks for himself and repudiates the belief that he is satisfied with his lot.

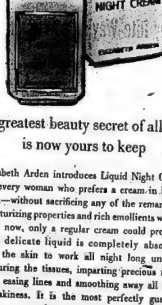
"Housing is the greatest problem. The outlook for widespread progress in education is dimmed by the pattern of housing segregation."

Whether the segregation exists by law, as in the south, or by custom, as in the north, it is useless to poor shooling for Negroes which in turn helps to keep them at the low end of the employment scale.

EMPLOYED BY UNION

Mrs. Wyatt is program co-ordinator for the United Packinghouse Workers, and a member of state and national commissions on the status of women. As such she has helped negotiate contracts and studied the problems of job opportunities for women.

She said opportunities for women have increased in many fields, but not in industry. Women, especially Negro women, perform low paid jobs which are easily automated.



"The focus of public attention must be brought on the unreasonableness of discrimination based on sex," she said.

At a press conference, Mrs. Wyatt said unrest in Canada and all over the world should recognize the civil rights crisis as part of a total problem the whole world is facing.

"She should recognize herself the rights of every person and be an advocate of those rights.

"No Negro has avoided being hurt by the evil of segregation. I don't know of any group which has received so little from a country and been so loyal to it."

Women's Institutes

RYLSTONE W.I.

On August 5th, Rylstone Women's Institute members were entertained at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Rutherford on the Trent River, near Campbellford. There were fifteen ladies present.

Mrs. Lindsay Anderson, president was in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Ernest Irwin, secretary gave a report of the regular June meeting and a special meeting for making up the programs for the year. The purchase of the small tract of land at the end of the ninth concession of Seymour was also discussed and a decision to buy it and turn it into a community park was made.

TALENT MONEY

There were discussions on the proposed park and ways and means of making money for cleaning it up and landscaping. One suggestion which was acted upon was for the Institute secretary to give the members a "talent" money which they were to invest in some way to increase the money for the park.

Donation for a prize for Campbellford Agricultural Fair was also discussed and it was decided to make a donation.

Mrs. Ernest Irwin gave a short reading.

Mr. Rutherford, or "Fred" as he is known to all the Institutes, then took the ladies on a tour of his riverside property, explaining how he built up the shore line to make what is now a beautifully landscaped lawn with lovely flowers and natural trees with a seat see wall and wire fence along the sides and front and an old fashioned picket fence in front of the small log-house museum in which is housed a splendid collection of antiques, farm and lumbering tools, harness making tools and some harness, home made chairs and iron tea kettles and pots, old clocks, a home made wooden butter churn and other butter making tools and utensils. A spinning wheel occupied a place of interest, along with one of the first disc record phonographs and an Edison phonograph with cylinder records, music from which was enjoyed as the ladies inspected the antiques, while Fred explained their origin.

HANDMADE DOOR

An article of interest in the make-up of the log cabin museum was a hand made door from the original home of Mr. Rutherford's great grandfather, Samuel Dunk, who moved to the seventh concession of Seymour while the township was all forest, except two or three small clearings. The door is put together with wooden pegs and fastened with a wooden bolt. The contents of the cabin have all been restored to their original state and are an interesting collection which the ladies all enjoyed.

After the tour through the museum was finished refreshments were served in the cottage by the hostess and refreshment committee, Mrs. Percy Reid, Mrs. Gerald Petherick and Mrs. Charles Stewart. Some time was spent in visiting and Mrs. Ellis Jones played a few selections on the old parlor organ (still in good tune) to bring an interesting and pleasant evening to a close. Mrs. Ellis Jones voiced the thanks of all to their host and hostess but each lady thanked the Rutherford's for their kindness. Mrs. Rutherford was a member of Rylstone Women's Institute for several years and held several offices in the Institute.

Ann Landers

Bathroom Battle Familiar All-American Sport

DEAR ANN LANDERS — If you can solve this one you are a genius. The problem: Four children, two adults, one bathroom.

ANN LANDERS

The girls, 15 and 17, usually get in first. They spend about 20 minutes (together) putting on make-up and combing each other's hair. This makes the boys 12 and 10, furious.

Some mornings the boys get up early and try to beat their sisters into the bathroom. When they succeed the girls bang on the door and raise such a ruckus my husband (who doesn't have to go to work until noon) gets out of bed and adds to the bedlam by screaming at them.

I've begged my husband for a second bathroom but he says, "We had nine kids in OUR family and the bathroom was outside. We managed to grow up all right."

Please tell me what to do. — TIRED BLOOD.

DEAR TIRED — If it's any consolation to you, Madame, a house with four kids and one bathroom is usually happier than a house with four bathrooms and no children.

Hold a family conference. Tell the girls what time to go in — and what time to get out. Buy them a wall mirror so they can apply their make-up and comb their hair in the bedroom. Make it clear that if the girls don't go in on schedule they lose their place to the boys.

This should end the Battle of the Bathroom, which, incidentally is an old familiar all-American sport.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — For three years I dated a fellow I will call Charley. He was like a brother to me and there was no hint of romance between us. Charley never even kissed me in all the years we dated. On two occasions he told me about girls he was sweet on and I coached him on how to romance them.

Last night Charley brought me a ring and asked me to marry him. I was speechless. I told him I had never thought of him that way and I was shocked that he wanted to marry me.

Well, Ann, he broke down and cried. He offered to build me a home, buy me a car and make me his queen forever. He left with eyes as red as tomatoes and said he'd call me in a week.

I feel so sorry for him I could just die. He's a fine person but I can't see myself married to him. My mother says maybe I could learn to love him. She suggested that I write to you. Please help me. — NO WORDS.

DEAR NO WORDS — After three years of dating if the friendship hasn't caught fire, it never will.

A girl who married a man because he cried (and she felt sorry for him) will surely wind up crying (and feeling sorry for herself).

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am the mother of five (five children. My husband's eldest is unmarried. Aunt Faye has a fine executive position and has invested her money wisely.

The problem is that Aunt Faye has been extremely fond of our eldest daughter, Rita, from the day she was born. Rita is 15 now and Aunt Faye has taken her on so many lovely trips that it is obvious to the rest of the children that Rita is her favorite.

This is causing bitter resentment against Rita. The other children are becoming openly hostile toward her. What, if anything, should be done about it? — R.B.S.

DEAR R.B.S. — Parents should not permit relatives to make a "pet" of one of their children. It breeds envy and hard feelings which could last forever. Insist that the favoritism be stopped at once.

'The Bride's Guide" ANN LANDERS' newest booklet, gives authorative and complete information on how to plan a wedding. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 40c in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

VANCOUVER (CP)—For the third time Eleanor Morley, retired top officer of the Pacific region's National Employment Service, has been named as a conciliation board chairman. Last February she was named a "woman of achievement" by the Vancouver Quota Club.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

MAIL CALL

QUESTION: I've received several duplicate wedding presents which creates a problem about displaying them. Should only one of a kind be put out for guests to see, or should all be put on display? — M. W., Ithaca, N.Y.

ANSWER: All wedding gifts should be put on display, including duplicates. Those that are the same, though, should be separated as far as possible on the table, so the duplication isn't so obvious.

QUESTION: A couple who recently moved into our neighborhood have an elderly aunt living with them. Whenever I've seen them going out for a drive or going shopping, she usually accompanies them. I'd like to invite the couple to a gathering at our house, but I'd prefer not inviting the aunt, since the group is considerably younger in age than she. Would it seem rude not to include her in the invitation? — Mrs. A. V., Pottstown, Pa.

ANSWER: An invitation does not have to include everyone in a household, especially when only couples are to be invited, so you couldn't be considered rude or slighting if you invited only couples are to be invited, omitted their aunt.

QUESTION: The son of my employer was married recently. My husband and I were invited to the wedding and reception, which we attended. Since we knew the boy only slightly, I did not think a gift was expected, and that the invitation was only a courtesy gesture, but one which we could not refuse. A friend says we should have sent a gift. Is it too late to send one? If not, should it be sent to both or addressed only to the bride? — Mrs. D. F., Akron, Ohio

ANSWER: Those who accept an invitation to a wedding and reception usually send a gift before the ceremony but it's still possible to send the couple a present. It should be addressed to Mr. and Mrs., and sent to the couple at their home.

QUESTION: Our second child is expected next month and I'd like to send out a birth announcement. We sent out announcements when our first child, a boy, was born two years ago. However, I've been told, and I'm certain I read it somewhere, that announcements are sent out only for the first child. Is this correct? If not, I think it's rather a ridiculous rule and I just can't see where it possibly can be considered bad form to announce the arrival of a subsequent children. Would you phrase set me straight on this? — Mrs. V. C. C., Newark, N. J.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"It's all right, he just wants to know where the Hemplemoyers live."

ANSWER: Your friends are wrong, and I doubt if you read somewhere that it's considered bad taste to send out birth announcements for the second, third, etc., baby. If you want to send out announcements, go right ahead. But choose a simple, dignified card (a good stationer can show you several samples) and stay away from the overly cute kind that are supposed to be amusing.

COOKING DONE TO A TURN—For tourists and native Londoners who like originality in cooking a new angle has been added in the form of a 600-foot tower with a revolving restaurant. The approach is straight up by 1,000-foot-a-minute elevator. The tower also is a pivot for a new microwave hookup relaying telephone and television beams out of the heart of London. (CP Photo)

Tower Will Allow Diners To Take Meal 600 Feet Up

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP) — Sometime next year tourists with a heap to spare will be able to combine an expensive meal with a unique 23-minute round trip of London.

They will be taking this meal some 600 feet up in the clouds in a revolving restaurant on a tower near the heart of the city.

Diners will see a London that few human eyes have seen before—lower than any aircraft is allowed to fly yet higher than any other building in Britain. On a clear day the city and surrounding countryside spread out like a panoramic relief map.

On a foggy day in London town, when the British Museum bar lost its charm, disenchanted visitors will be able to head for Bloomsbury and take a 1,000-foot-a-minute elevator to the sunlight above the gloom.

The revolving restaurant and cocktail bar above it exist only because of a hobbyhorse—not thought to a purely functional design.

The tower was originally commissioned by the general post office, which runs Britain's telephone system, as the pivot for a new microwave hookup relaying telephone and television beams out of the centre of London.

The tower had to be at least 600 feet high because microwave links operate on a line-of-sight basis and London is in a bowl formed by the Thames Valley. The tower also had to be higher than any other building in London—such as the new 380-foot Hilton Hotel or the 387-foot Vickers building.

"Once these essential technical requirements had been satisfied we began to think of what other uses the tower could be put to," said Geoffrey Dupon, minister of public works, at a "topping out" ceremony on the tower recently.

"So we introduced the observation galleries and still later decided it would be feasible to have a revolving restaurant."

The £2,500,000 tower (rounded on London clay and built of reinforced concrete, is about two third- as high as the Eiffel Tower in Paris and about the same height as the restaurant tower atop for the world's fair in Seattle.

In London, where soft clay prohibits Manhattan-style skyscrapers, the green - glassed tower punctures the skyline like a huge rocket ship or a misplaced lighthouse. It is already established as a primary landmark for airline pilots homing on London Airport.

Michigan Governor George Romney, who has been cool toward the ticket, said he was accepting the party's decisions on platform and nominees. He flew home to Lansing from the Hershey meeting Wednesday night and issued a brief statement that offered a personal endorsement of the Arizona conservative's presidential candidacy.

Pennsylvania Governor William Scranton was host for the Hershey meeting, but he wasn't a talkative one when it was over. When the approach made and the feeling engendered was very good," he said.

The governor who had withheld his support—John H. Reed of Maine—was quoted as saying he's now behind the ticket.

Goldwater told a press conference his unity drive is three weeks ahead of schedule. He said the party is as solid now as he had hoped it would be by Sept. 1.

"We now have, I believe, only two senators and few congressmen on the reluctant list," he said.

Among them: Senators Kenneth B. Keating and Jacob K. Javits of New York. They were not at the Hershey session, and neither indicated his stand has changed.

groes, including six juveniles, were arrested in Paterson.

Paterson Police Chief John O'Brien estimated that between 200 and 300 persons windows were broken in the fourth ward. A flaming gasoline bomb struck a bus, but caused little damage.

Two newspaper men — photographer Mel Finkelstein and reporter Mike Pearl of the New York Journal - American—suffered cuts and bruises when a brick flew through their car window in Paterson.

More than 150 policemen scoured halls and alleys in the Negro district for hit-and-run bands of youths who hurled empty wine bottles.

Paterson Mayor Frank Graves, at the scene, said he would decide today whether to impose a curfew for the coming weekend. Bottles narrowly missed him on several occasions.

In Elizabeth, the brief riot climaxed a tense night in which an estimated 500 Negroes and whites congregated at one point near the Pioneer Homes, a low-income project. Gasoline bombs flew from atop and behind the project, and exploded in the street. Store windows were smashed.

SUGGESTS TALKS

Acting Police Chief Michael D. Roy told the crowd to send spokesmen who could meet with city officials to discuss grievances.

At 1 a.m., 2½ hours after his first appearance before the crowd, Chief Roy returned and about 50 Negroes and whites gathered around him. They demanded that Mayor Steven Berezik visit the neighborhood.

Roy said the mayor would not be called until all order had been restored.

Suddenly, a power failure knocked out street lights on First Street for several minutes. Negro and white youths began running helter-skelter in the street as bottles popped overhead and police sirens pierced the air.

Twenty standby police cars screeched into the area. Officers alighted, firing pistol shots in the air and wielding nightsticks. It took them only minutes to clear away knots of Negroes.

The renewed violence flared in the North Jersey cities only a few hours after President Johnson told the American Bar Association he will enforce the civil rights law and citizens must obey the law—regardless of demonstrations in the streets and violence in the night.

Speaking in New York, scene of recent rioting in the Harlem and Brooklyn sections, the president pledged:

"We will not permit any part of America to become a jungle where the weak are the prey of the strong and the many."

265,000

employment increased by 276,000 or about 4.6 per cent between June and July, a larger than usual gain.

Service and manufacturing industries showed the biggest employment gains.

190,000 GAIN

Meanwhile, the labor force grew during the month by 190,000 to 7,252,000.

The bureau said the unusually large gains in both employment and labor force were due mainly to students entering the labor market at the end of the school term. An estimated 219,000 teen-agers went looking for work during July. Many of them apparently found it, because a slightly larger number of persons in that age group found jobs during July.

Of the total 265,000 still jobless in mid-July, about three-quarters of them — approximately 199,000 — were without work for three months or less.

The other 86,000 had been looking for work for four months or longer. This compared with 81,000 in June and 92,000 in July last year.

ALL AREAS IMPROVE

The improvement in the jobless situation since July last year was spread across all regions.

The Atlantic provinces in July had 32,000 or 4.9 per cent of their labor force unemployed, compared with 35,000 or 5.5 per cent a year earlier.

Quebec had a higher unemployment rate with 102,000 jobless in July, 3.1 per cent of its labor force. This compares with 112,000 or 3.7 per cent in July last year.

In Ontario, an estimated 2.8 per cent of the labor force was unemployed in mid-July, 152,000. A year earlier the figure was 81,000 jobless, 3.2 per cent of the labor force as it then stood.

The Prairies in mid-July had 27,000 unemployed, down from 30,000 a year earlier. The unemployment rate dropped to 2.2 per cent from 2.4 per cent over the year.

British Columbia had an estimated 29,000 unemployed in July, for 4.3 per cent of its labor force. This was a sharp drop from 35,000 or 5.5 per cent a year earlier.

Kiwanians Spend Day With Boys At Roblin Lake

PICTON (Staff) — Roblin Lake Salvation Army Fresh Air Camp was attended Wednesday afternoon by members of Picton's Kiwanis Club when they sponsored their annual Field Day. Members of the Kiwanis Club participated in five organized games for the boys. Many attractive prizes were awarded the winners of the events, in fact all of the 53 boys attending the camp this week received a prize. The "Army Fresh Air Camp" has been operating at Roblin Lake in the village of Ameliasburg for some years, however, this is the second annual field day sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Picton. The camp operates for three weeks during the summer for underprivileged children. The first week this year 105 girls attended, this week 53 boys and next week again the same number of boys.

The camp accommodates underprivileged children from this whole division. The division includes Uxbridge, Peterborough, Oshawa, Whitby, Lindsay, Trenton, Belleville and Kingston.

Ages of the children attending vary from 8 to 12 years. The camp is supervised by eight councillors and one director, Miss Barbara Cooper of Belleville. Chief supervisors for this week at the camp are Envoy and Mrs. F. Phelps of Peterborough, Ont. The first week was supervised by Envoy and Mrs. John Dixon of Oshawa, Ont., and the last week will be Lt. and Mrs. Fred Lang of Uxbridge, Ont.

Through their week stay the children are involved in sports, hikes, swimming, camp fires and probably most important of all Bible studies, under the supervision of Cadet and Mrs. H. Moore, Trinity College, Toronto. The boys are accommodated in cabins, 14 to each cabin, a canteen building, a craft cabin, auditorium and hospital on the grounds.

Along with the Kiwanians attending the events at the camp were president of the Picton Kinsmen Club, Dr. L. Hall and Lieut-Governor for District 8A Carl P. Reid, both of Picton. Kiwanians themselves enjoyed participating in the games held at the camp and after the games all enjoyed a meal with the boys in their dining hall. Lt.-Col. A. Mercer of Belleville thanked Kiwanians for their assistance to the Camp in this and other years.

PICTON (Staff) — Another historical historic plaque was unveiled in Prince Edward County Wednesday evening. This took place at the home of Carmen home on Bloomfield road near that village. The house was a former Quaker Boarding School. In attendance were Mr. David Taylor, President Prince Edward County Historical Society, who acted as chairman, Dr. G. F. G. Stanley of Kingston, Dr. A. G. Dorland, Mr. H. M. Beer, Headmaster of Pickering College; Douglas Aikenbrack, M.P. Prince Edward Lennox; Warden of Prince Edward County, Ken Hicks and Reeves Moore and Huff.

Minor Mishaps Investigated By Police

PICTON (Staff) — There were two minor accidents reported to Picton Detachment O.P.P. Tuesday evening. Both were one-car accidents with only minor damage reported in each case. The first occurred at 6.30 p.m. on Highway 33, south of Carrying Place. The owner and operator of the car was Elmer Jack Hirdy of 89 Bertram Blvd., Belleville. The second accident occurred one mile east of Picton on Highway 33 and involved Stanley Stevenson, 25 Main St. West, Picton. There were no injuries in either accident.

Town police reported an accident which occurred at 8.30 p.m. Tuesday when a car driven by Larry Allen Hawser, 17, of Picton, crashed into a hydro pole on Lake Street. The car is said to have struck a deep puddle of water and caused it to swerve off the street into the pole. Hawser, uninjured, was accompanied by Jim Gillian, 17, of Cherry Valley, who was treated for scratches and cuts to brow from glass; Carl Nutley, 17, of Camp Shilo, Man., was treated at MIR Camp Picton and required stitches in his lip. It is not known if the owner of the auto, Bruce Wright, of Tofonto, Ont., was in the car at the time of the accident.

Damage to the car was estimated at approx. $200 and consisted of damaged front fender, bumper and broken windshield.

Members Get Expenses Paid For Trip Home

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of the Commons agreed Wednesday to have the public treasury pay their expenses on trips home to their constituencies once a week.

The House adopted without debate a report of its commissioners of internal economy—a committee of cabinet ministers working with the Speaker of the House—authorizing the change in expense allowance payments.

By an earlier decision, the House agreed MPs' expenses for travel between their home constituencies and O t t a w a should be paid on the basis of the economy-class air fares.

No allowance was made for members from nearby ridings who drive to their homes where there is no air service. The new rules allow members to charge up to seven cents a mile for driving their own cars between Ottawa and their homes.

Under the old rules there was no limit on the number of trips an MP might make.

charged that the plasma was so old its use could be fatal.

An embassy spokesman said the plasma, of the same type used by the U.S. armed forces, has a standard warning on the label that if it becomes cloudy after shaking it should not be used.

Diplomats in Nicosia, Athens, Istanbul, Geneva, London, Ottawa, Washington and the United Nations were working to take advantage of the present lull to reach some kind of agreement.

The Makarios government is attempting to make light of reported cabinet dissension and at the same time restore relations with Athens which plunged to a low point when Greek planes failed to challenge the Turkish jet raiders. The Greek government has been annoyed because Makarios's forces attacked the Turkish-Cypriot villages without consulting Greece.

Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou arrived in Nicosia this morning after emergency talks with the Greek cabinet. He reported it was decided that any Turkish attack should be faced jointly in such an eventuality. Greece said that her forces will stand by the side of fighting Cyprus.

The reported cabinet dissension has been denied by Makarios. But rumors persist that some of his closest associates are not happy with the Makarios appeals to Russia for military help.

Ontario NDP Repudiates Any Suggestion of Merger With Any Political Party

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario New Democratic Party voted Wednesday to repudiate any suggestions of a merger of the NDP with any other political party.

The party ended its three-day convention by voting for a resolution which would require any executive member to resign from the executive before undertaking any talks with members of other political parties. He could still be a party member.

The resolution indicated that reports of exploratory talks between high-ranking NDP members and the Liberals after the Sept. 25 provincial election caused many members to refuse to renew their membership.

Earlier, the party was told in a report from a study group that it should adopt the concept of a guaranteed minimum income, unrelated to work, as a platform plank. No formal action was taken on the report.

A panel that dealt with the economic growth of Ontario and automation said New Democrats must be prepared to advocate such ideas as a guaranteed income "even though it runs counter to the puritan ethic of our society."

URGE HIGHER RATES

The imposition of increased overtime rates and the reduction of working hours by legislation were suggested by the panel as temporary measures. But it warned these should not be thought of as final solutions.

Establishment of an industry and manpower agency to deal with plant location, worker mobility, training and related research was also suggested. It would encourage or discourage shifts of industry to various areas of the province.

The report also called for legislation to require long - term advance notices by business of any major changes in total employment and types of employment.

Employer training and retraining facilities, which the report said now are adequate, should take place in collaboration with labor, management and government through an economic planning board and a labor market board.

Another panel reported that the majority of its members felt there was not sufficient legislation at the provincial and federal levels to allow the implementation of a realistic NDP program at the municipal level. For this reason, it rejected by a 76-to-44 vote the use of the party label in municipal elections.

Lowering of the voting age to 18 in Ontario was suggested by a panel on modern democracy in Ontario. It also suggested calling of elections every four years on a fixed date except when a government is defeated in the legislature; placing of party affiliations on the ballot; and limiting of campaign expenditures to 15 cents a voter in urban polls and 20 cents in rural polls.

Party members called off a planned mass demonstration on picket lines outside the three Toronto daily newspapers. David Lewis, a national vice-president of the party and a lawyer for striking printers at the papers, said the demonstration might add some difficulties in search of a settlement and violate an injunction limiting the number of pickets in front of the newspapers.

Easy for Foreign Tourists To Crack Berlin Wall But Natives Find It Tough

BERLIN (AP)—An oddity of the Berlin situation is it is much easier for tourists from some distant spot to pass through the Berlin Wall than it is for natives of the divided city.

The Wall is three years old Friday.

Thousands of tourists take bus trips through it to look at the Communist - run sector of Berlin.

Only a few of the city's 3,500,000 inhabitants can do this. The Communist authorities make exceptions for only those persons whose trips they consider helpful to the Communist regime.

Other Berliners are kept apart h the 26½ miles of concrete and barbed wire snaking across the city's waist. Those who cross without official permission risk being shot by the guards.

CAN WALK ACROSS

Foreigners who want to go to the East sector can take the elevated drive or walk across the border. All cases involving pass through Communist controls in customs huts alongside the wall. They surrender their passports and fill out a declaration of how much money they have with them. This has to be shown, along with receipts for money exchanged and spent, on leaving.

Foreigners who go by car or on foot pass through the Friedrichstrasse opening in the wall. On the Western side is the U.S. army control post, known as Checkpoint Charlie.

The gaps in the wall are deliberately narrow, to frustrate would-be refugees. Only one vehicle at a time can pass through the opening for pedestrians is just wide enough for one person.

There can sometimes be long, inexplicable delays in the Communist control shacks. Passports disappear behind a grill and the owners sometimes have to wait an hour before they are handed back. When there is a security drive on, people may be searched. They can be asked to turn out their billfolds to prove the amount of money they have declared.

Strangers in town can avoid much of this trouble by taking one of the regular commercial bus tours. Big buses, with large sight-seeing windows, can be picked up in the main street of West Berlin, the Kurfuerstendamm. The buses also call at leading hotels by arrangement. The tour, lasting about five hours, covers the whole of the city, East and West.

Tourists also have the choice of tours that cover only West or East. Multilingual guides accompany the tours, giving a running commentary during the trip.

At the border the guides change. The West guide is not allowed to enter East Berlin and the East guide is not permitted to come to the West.

The bus manoeuvres through the concrete obstacles on the border and halts on the East side. Two security men check passports. There is no filling out of forms or long waiting for the bus passengers.

They are taken on a prescribed route which shows postwar reconstruction.

The tour includes a stop at the vast memorial to the Red Army town, laid out to commemorate the Soviet soldiers who died in the conquest of Berlin. About 5,000 fallen Russians are buried there.

Another brief stop is made near the Friedrichstrasse station to show tourists a glimpse of the downtown life of what the East Germans call their capital.

Back at the checkpoint there is a quick count of heads, the East guide says a polite farewell and the bus rolls through the barrier into West Berlin.

Lawyer Seeks Leave to Appeal Judge's Ruling

CHATHAM (CP)—C. E. Perkins, defence counsel for Ron Russell D. Horsburgh, charged on eight counts of contributing to juvenile delinquency, said Wednesday he has commenced an application for an order of prohibition and leave to appeal Juvenile Court Judge W. H. Fox's ruling last week.

Judge Fox on Aug. 5 dismissed a motion brought by Mr. Perkins to drop the charges against the 45-year-old Chatham United Church minister, who was arraigned on 29 and has appeared in court eight times since.

Judge Fox had set Wednesday for plea in the case, and Crown Attorney Blake Wand anticipated that the trial would start Tuesday, Aug. 18. Instead, the motion will be heard by Ontario Supreme Court Justice E. L. Haines at Osgoode Hall in Toronto on that date.

Rev. Horsburgh was remanded until next Wednesday Aug. 19. His $7000 personal bail will continue.

SEEKS DISQUALIFICATION

The prohibition section of the motion seeks to have Judge Fox disqualified from dealing further with the case because the charge before the court, on which he has already ruled, is improper.

The charge against the minister alleges he contributed to the delinquency of juveniles by providing a place for, permitting or encouraging sexual intercourse in which they took part in the apartment and office of the church building.

The defence is also appealing the judge's ruling of last week in which he held that the information now before the court was valid and that the Crown need not furnish Mr Perkins with any further particulars other than those contained in the information which gives details of the eight counts.

May Produce Human Life Artificially in Few Years

BAR HARBOR, Me. (AP) — One of the world's leading geneticists believes it will soon be embryonic human life would be produced artificially in the laboratory—in the form of test-tube developing babies—by the end of this century.

But Dr. Bentley D. Glass of Johns Hopkins University said that such a revolutionary development could be fraught with both legal and ethical problems, including whether disposal of embryos, once they have developed, would constitute murder.

So he urged that the medical and genetics professions as well as philosophers and religious leaders get to work on these solutions to the potential problems.

Addressing scientists taking a special high level course on medical genetics, Dr. Glass said advances would be seen first in the laboratory culture of various human body cells, such as blood cells. He said there is also the possibility of maturing and multiplying male and female reproductive cells in test tubes and then combining them to eventually produce an embryo.

SAME AS NORMAL BABY

Such an embryo would be a developing child, equivalent to the product of a mother's womb during the first few months of normal human pregnancy.

Dr. Glass, 55, a native Virginian, added: "If you produce embryos in the laboratory, what do you do with them? If you dispose of them is it murder . . . ? If you experiment with them, is that immoral?

"I . . . suggest that the medical profession and the genetics biologists be reached with them when they must give grave consideration to problems of this nature before they fall upon us unprepared."

SENTENCE PASSED

CHICAGO (AP) — Abraham Bolton, a former security service man assigned to guard the president, was sentenced Wednesday to six years in prison for trying to sell a secret file for $50,000. The 29-year-old defendant was charged with trying to sell a file on a counter-filing ring, to Joseph Spagnoli Jr., 31, an accused counterfeiter.

Events in Cyprus, Viet Nam Take Attention From Congo

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Recent events in Cyprus and Viet Nam have tended to turn public attention from The Congo, where dangerous developments that would eminently cause grave concern have gone almost unnoticed.

In the last seven months rebel forces have gained control of about one-sixth of the country and there are signs that the central government is gradually losing its grip on the situation.

Many observers feel that unless the tide is turned the central African country—in turmoil since it received independence from Belgium nearly four years ago—will eventually revert to the shambles that enveloped it when the Belgians left the country in June, 1960.

U.S. OFFERS AID

The United States has recently offered broad military and economic assistance — but no military personnel. Also, Averell Harriman, state department troubleshooter, went to Brussels to persuade Belgium to give increased assistance to the hard-pressed government of Premier Moise Tshombe, now in office once again.

This represents an ironic situation since it was just two years ago that the U.S. was attempting to dissuade Belgium from supporting Tshombe, then premier of wealthy Katanga and attempting his abortive secession of the copper-rich province.

Belgium has, however, proved co-operative in this new task, and has increased its financial support and doubled its number of advisers to 600. Still she is reluctant to become too deeply involved for fear of rebel retaliation against the large number of Belgians still in the country, particularly in the areas where the rebels have made the greatest headway.

The various rebel groups seem, despite their successes, to be remarkably disorganized. Some of them apparently are backed by the Communists and others seemingly leaderless.

REMAINS CANDID

Tshombe remains candid about the situation and makes no attempt to hide the fact the rebels have gained control of about 200,000 square miles of his country, including their greatest prize — strategic Stanleyville, the country's third largest city.

The general situation seems to defy any long-term planning, as has been the case throughout the brief but violent history of the independent Congo. The key to the problem is the army, sadly depleted and disorganized.

The central government now has mustered a special force of some 4,000 former Katanga soldiers and found funds to equip and train them.

Seeking Right To Compensate Police Helpers

HAMILTON (CP)—City council's legislation committee Wednesday unanimously endorsed a plan by Alderman Joseph McLaren to enable the city to compensate private citizens injured while aiding police or trying to prevent a crime.

The committee recommended that city council ask the provincial government to pass private legislation allowing Hamilton to compensate such citizens. It would also apply to damages to personal property, such as a citizen's car that might be used by police during a chase.

INCO Workers At Thompson Now on Strike

THOMPSON, Man. (CP) — Workers went on strike officially Wednesday night against the International Nickel Company of Canada at this northern Manitoba town.

The strike involves about 1,700 hourly workers on the surface and underground. It arose from a dispute over a new contract. Wages and duration of agreement are involved.

Members of Local 6166 of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) voted 964 to 180 Wednesday night to reject settlement proposals arrived at in last-minute talks in Winnipeg Tuesday between union and company negotiators.

Brian Koshul, publicity chairman for the local, said about 2,000 men were picketing entrances to Inco's $185,000,000 operation, which includes a mine, mill, smelter and refinery. The men had been out since midnight Tuesday, he said, and the plant was "shut down completely."

Until 9 a.m. supervisory and office personnel were permitted to shoot their time at the plant, but after that everyone was ordered to remain at camp.

He "hit a couple of pickets," Mr. Koshul said. One received medical treatment for a "banged leg" following the incident.

It is the first strike in about four years of operation here. The town is supported solely by the nickel operations. It is situated in wilderness about 400 miles north of Winnipeg and has about 4,500 residents.

The Steelworkers are seeking their first agreement with Inco. In 1962 they rejected the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers as bargaining agent but carried on under the Mine-Mill agreement until it expired March 31.

The union sought an 11-per-cent wage increase over the basic $2.60½ an hour in a two-year agreement retroactive to March 1. The company offered eight per cent in three years.

One of the union's major objectives is a contract that would expire about the same time as those covering steelworkers at Inco plants in Sudbury and Port Colborne, Ont. Steelworkers have said they want to be able to bargain simultaneously for Inco employees in all three provinces.

The last formal estimate from the federal share of $460,000,000 of the added cost, the provinces providing the rest, was $1,000,000.

Ottawa could cover its share by a 25-per-cent increase in personal income taxes. Provinces could tap the larger when compared with the cut of approximately 20 per cent in personal tax," the foundation commented.

SALES TAX POSSIBLE

As for the provinces, they conceivably could raise their share by an increase in revenue from everyone or by increasing sales taxes, in those provinces which have sales taxes. Where sales taxes alone, the foundation said, would mean increasing present rates by three percentage points.

If premiums were used to raise the full provincial share, these would have to be about $79 a year for a family and $40 for a single person. Premiums would be in addition to premiums already collected in some provinces for hospital insurance.

One other possibility raised by the foundation was to divert existing federal family allowance payments to the health program. This would lower the amount of extra public funds required by $460,000,000, leaving a "more manageable" $375,000,000 to be raised by taxes of one kind or another.

But that decision would be politically difficult, the foundation observed.

Health-Services Package Could Cost Increased Rate In Personal Income Taxes

OTTAWA—(CP) — Canadians could face a 25-per-cent increase in personal income taxes if this revenue source were ever tapped to finance the big health-services package recommended last month by the Hall royal commission.

The estimate is made in its latest journal by the Canadian Tax Foundation, a large private organization of accountants, lawyers, corporations and others who aim at "expert, impartial research into current problems of taxation and government finance."

The Hall commission advocated a comprehensive program, including prepaid medical care, that would by 1971 cost $4,481,000,000, about $466,000,000 more than existing private and public health programs would then cost.

It said about 85 per cent of the over-all cost would be channelled through governments, which should raise the extra funds required by increasing taxes in a way that the taxpayer could "see" how much the whole program was costing him.

Using the commission's figures, the foundation estimates that if the big plan was operating in 1966, about $915,000,000 would have to be raised in the form of higher taxes or government insurance premiums to meet the public share of the added cost.

COULD BOOST TAXES

This $915,000,000 could be raised by boosting corporation income taxes to around 74 per cent, about 16 percentage points above the present maximum federal rate. That would be "ludicrous," the foundation said. And the payment wouldn't be visible to the individual Canadian.

To raise the same amount of money, the federal sales tax would have to be increased to 19 per cent from the present 11 per cent. But this, too, was ruled out by the foundation because the tax is applied at the manufacturers' level, not on retail sales.

"To raise $915,000,000 through the regular personal income tax would require increasing everyone's income tax by almost 50 per cent," the foundation said. "Such a rise in the personal tax would have to be accompanied by increased payments, just as they now share the cost of hospital insurance.

The tax foundation estimated that the federal share of the added cost, the provinces providing the rest, was $1,000,000.

Ottawa could cover its share by a 25-per-cent increase in personal income taxes. Provinces could tap the larger when compared with the cut of approximately 20 per cent in personal tax," the foundation commented.

Claim Pilot Was Tortured Before He Died

NICOSIA (AP)—The Turkish air base y claimed Wednesday that the Turkish Air Force pilot who was captured by Greek-Cypriot fighters after his jet plane crashed during an air strike on Cyprus was shot three times and tortured before he died.

An embassy spokesman said the pilot, Capt. Cengiz Topper, 30, also suffered a broken shoulder and had other injuries which Turkish-Cypriote doctors said showed he had been tortured.

Topper bailed out just before his swept-wing jet crashed. He was captured by Greek-Cypriot national guards. He died next day in hospital of injuries suffered in his fall, the Cyprus government said.

A Cyprus government spokesman said a representative of the International Red Cross had an opportunity of seeing the pilot's body and "confirms there was nothing abnormal about it."

Publishers Advertise for Outside Help

TORONTO (CP) — Publishers of the three Toronto daily newspapers, operating without their regular printers since a strike began July 8, advertised today for outside help to be hired on a permanent basis.

The papers, which have been using supervisory and non-union employees to carry out composing room work since 680 members of Local 91 of the International Typographical Union (CLC) went on strike, placed ads in The Globe and Mail seeking experienced composing room employees.

The Globe and Mail, a morning paper, and The Star and The Telegram, evening papers, sought applications from linotype operators, machinists, monitors, paste makeup artists and floor men. The Star has put type together in page forms.

The publishers sent letters to the printers last week asking them to return to work individually. The letters said the publishers had no desire to have the printers that jobs were available before seeking outside help.

So far 12 employees at The Star and five at The Telegram have responded to the request to work.

'Chip' Sheppard Gets $50,000 From Relative

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sam Sheppard Jr., 17, is going to inherit more than $50,000 from his maternal grandfather, probate court records here showed Wednesday.

The youth, better known by his nickname "Chip," was reunited last month with his father, Dr. Sam Sheppard, after the latter's release on bond from Ohio penitentiary.

Dr. Sheppard served nine years of a life sentence for the bludgeon slaying of his wife, Marilyn, July 4, 1954. A federal judge's decision that freed him on bond pending a new trial is being appealed.

Thomas S. Reese, father of Marilyn killed himself with a shotgun in an old Cleveland motel room Feb. 13, 1963 Then he was a vice-president of Di-Noc Chemical Arts Incorporated.

Reese died without leaving a will and his estate was estimated for inventory purposes at $132,244, most of it in stock.

Lawyers for the estate filed for approval to [illegible] about $50,000 to Cleveland Company officials who handle Chip's financial affairs.

Campbellford News

Water Commission, Engineers Report to Town Council

CAMPBELLFORD — The town council held its regular meeting on Monday evening, August 10th. All members present except R. K. Thompson who has moved away and whose resignation was received and accepted.

Representatives from Ontario Water Resources and British Consultant Engineers were present in the persons of K. Sharp, Mr. Barker, Mr. Cunningham. The report of the engineers had previously been received by council.

Mr. Sharp was asked what priority should be given the sewage disposal project in the light of other projects for the town. Mr. Sharp answered that the time had come to deal with sewage, that there were 42 municipalities on a priority list and that Campbellford was among those listed. Another question asked was why Campbellford should be listed when other municipalities farther up the river and contaminating the water at their point were not being asked to provide a sewage disposal.

Mr. Sharp stated in the report on the waters of the Trent, that generally speaking the Trent system was good, but that it might not always be so and that the water commission was prepared to see a program carried out to protect waterways in Ontario and that the Trent River was one. Another question arose as to contamination by waste from boats, especially in Campbellford where boats dock overnight just above the intake. Mr. Sharp agreed that this created a problem, many facets came into the picture, size of boat, what type of disposal units, how to police regulations. The problem is under consideration due to many complaints but as yet nothing definite has been brought forth. The fact was stated that the municipality of Campbellford has already reached almost the limit of borrowing capacity. The cost of the sewage disposal plant if constructed, will be in the neighborhood of $490,000, plus interest, carried out over a period of 30 years, during which time the Ontario Resources has completed financial control until the debt has been cleared.

WHY THE HURRY

As Campbellford just recently opened a new filtration plant some rate payers are asking why the hurry to go further into municipal debt at this time. The Campbellford Community Centre Committee are striving to raise funds to build an arena and Council at the June meeting on a polled vote refused to issue debentures for the project, the vote being Mayor Tanner, nay; Reeve Free, nay; Deputy Reeve Locke, nay; Councillors Grills, Sharp, Bennett, nay; Councillors Torrance, Hughes, yea.

Mr. Barker reported on the sewage disposal estimate of $490,000. There was no allowance for work on the present sewage system, it was purely an estimate for the disposal of waste and that there was nothing urgent to be done immediately on the present sewer system, although chairman of this committee in various years recognize several sewers are over taxed.

Approval has been received for the construction of 367 ft. of sewer on north Front St. from Major St. to town limits.

Clerk Ibbey asked if any "explosive" action was expected from the town by the Ontario Water Resources Commission on the sewage disposal project. Mr. Sharp replied that the Commission provides information to municipal officials of the condition of the Trent waterway and what corrective action should be taken first by test then published report. Next step is the setting up of a rate system in regard to cost, then the Ontario Water Resources appeals to Ontario Municipal Board for approval of expenditure and if approved by Ontario Municipal Board that the municipality is in a financial condition to assume this expense, then the Ontario Water Resources give directions as to the construction of the sewage disposal project. As rates have not been established no application has been made as yet to the Municipal Board.

DELEGATION HEARD

Mr. Ian Imlach, industrialization waited on council to ask if the corporation would put sewer and water facilities to Shannon property on Centre Street to service 22 lots in the property. The answer was that the quickest manner would be by private investment and charge to the property when sold. Ontario Municipal Board approval would take from four to six months.

The Ontario Municipal Association annual convention is to be held in London, August 23-26. Reeve Free and Councillor Grills were appointed delegates.

Emeryville Chapter, IODE, suggested they be given permission to beautify with trees, etc., the small new park on Queen St. Council approved and the work is to be done in co-operation with parks committee.

A request was made from G. Anderson of Anderson's Dairy for paving in front of his place of business. Reeve Free said while provision had been made in the budget to do a small part of Trent Drive and the Anglican Church hill by excavation, gravel fill, pipe drainage and re-surface no money had been budgeted for the Anderson frontage this year. A motion was made to ask a local company to view the location and given estimate of cost.

Wayne Post asked for definite designation of Sully St. and Dolmar St., a survey is to be made.

GRANT DISCUSSED

The matter of Centennial grant came up for discussion. Clerk F. M. Ibey reported a request had come from centennial grant committee asking for a certified copy of by-law authorizing the project also method of financing capital cost as well as details concerning location and description of building. The closing date for application for centennial grant is November 9th. The closing date set by the Community Centre fund raising committee by canvass and drive is September 30th. If not sufficient funds are received by that date some form of temporary financing must be established. The question arose if the bylaw authorizing the project is passed can Council be held responsible for costs of construction. The matter was turned over to the legal committee.

Approval was received from the municipal board to pay for new public school site at rate of $5,000 per year for 1964-65-66-67.

In reports of committee chairman Reeve Free outlined work being done on roads and streets also reported large truck needed two new tires.

Councillor Bennett, industrial chairman reported plans for an Industrial Day to be held October 1st. This appears to be quite an ambitious project. Registration from 9 to 10 a.m., sports events, golf, tennis, lawn bowling, motor tour of town, luncheon at Riviera Inn, at 2 p.m., tour of Sportsman Park, boat trip, reception and banquet with Barry Hays, Toronto and Campbellford Textile Mill, as guest speaker.

Invited are council members, Chamber of Commerce, L.O.D.A. officials, Bank managers, members of P.U.C. Hydro officials, C.N.R., Industrial Development Board and Ontario Development Agency, Federal and Provincial members of Parliament, representatives from local industries. Councillor Bennett hoped some of the cost would be borne by the banks, some by Chamber of Commerce — $150 in budget for this purpose.

Chairman Mr. Hector MacMillan.

WANTS NEW TIRES

Councillor Sharp, reporting for police commissioner R. K. Thompson said Chief Bandy asked for two new tires for police cruiser taken over in January, of this year and which now registers approximately 18,000 miles, also three pairs of boots for police.

The purchase of boots was passed by council, the matter of tires to be looked into by committee.

It was authorized by council that due to resignation of R. K. Thompson, Councillor Sharp be chairman of police committee. Councillor Sharp already has held chairmanship of property committee which means incoming councillor to fill vacancy will not hold a chairmanship of any committee unless a change is made when Councillor Grills reported a fire chief meeting to be held in Campbellford in the near future. Some dissatisfaction was expressed with the new boat purchased this year for use by firemen.

In new business clerk E. M. Ibey stated the act in reference to filling a vacancy on council. The succeeding person on the election vote is offered the position until list is exhausted. If no one accepts, council appoints one. After October 1st there need be no one required to fill a vacancy.

A motion was authorized by council to ask Department of Transport, to place chains on high walls of aqueduct for safety purposes as a near drowning had occurred there recently. The pay sheet was passed.

Some further discussion took place in the meeting which Mayor Tanner asked the press representatives not to publicize.

DESERONTO

Residents Glad To See Vessel Taken Away

DESERONTO — The Frank H. Brown, onetime lakeboat of the Colonial Line, has finally left Deseronto.

The abandoned hulk was boarded, tied, and towed to Belleville on Sunday afternoon by the tug Dover of Port Dover.

Long a source of annoyance to local residents for the manner in which it blocked the waterfront it was more distressing to out-of-town pleasure craft, who found it effectively blocked the approaches to the local marina.

It was also a hazard to navigation in that it bore no lights and carried no watchman on board.

The Frank H. Brown, owned by Mr. Sid Spiegel of Crawford Metals, Belleville, came to Deseronto when the Dravo Engineering Company was busy cutting up old lakers for scrap.

The Frank H. Brown came down to die at the welders' torch. But she never made it.

When Dravo closed up local operations the town had an old hulk on its hands for by this time she had drifted from the dock, where she had been moored out into the open water off Dawson's Boating Centre

CUTS OFF VIEW

For over a year and a half the abandoned vessel sat there, swinging with the wind and cutting off the view of the Marina from the bay and the Long Reach.

For Don Dawson of Dawson's Boating Centre it was a continuing frustration.

"I couldn't say what business I have lost because of it," says Don, "but lots of people have said they didn't know the Marina was here on account of the boat."

For Dravo it was a frustration as well. Technically it still rested in their waterfront area.

According to Mr. Bill Higgins, company representative in Deseronto, the Dravo firm had been pressing since April of this year for its removal.

When the Department of Transport became involved through growing complaints, Crawford Metals took action.

With Sherry Gamble of Port Dover at the wheel the long-time topic of local conversation was removed.

The Macabre Wonder of the World

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

BERLIN (CP) — The first stark impression of the Berlin Wall is that it has to be seen to be believed.

From the Western side, the stranger figures it is as ugly as a wall can get. But he's wrong. It's worse from the East.

This reverse wonder of the world, built of sickly grey, porous, concrete brick, splotched and stained, is topped by rusty barbed wire.

The macabre atmosphere is deepened by the sight of soldiers lurking in East Berlin windows, watching with field glasses, machine-guns ready to kill anyone who tries to scale the wall.

"This monstrosity is probably the best propaganda we could have," said a West Berlin official, but without satisfaction.

Here and there are triangular wooden shrine-like memorials, bearing wreaths and flowers. These mark the places where would-be escapees were slain since the wall went up in August, 1961.

Doors and windows of East Berlin buildings flush with the border are blocked in and at one point a high cemetery wall serves as a section of the barrier. Corpses are admitted from West Berlin to the Communist side at a checkpoint on certain days.

DRAWS TOURISTS

A group of Commonwealth reporters driving along the wall stopped at Potsdamer Platz where Europe's busiest intersection was reduced to rubble by Second World War bombing.

Here the wall is a tourist attraction. You can buy postcards and knicknacks or climb to a platform and view the desolate ground where Hitler died in his bunker. There are may other small platforms which relatives and friends mount on birthdays for impromptu wave greetings over the wall.

Hitler's suicide bunker is in the Todestone, the East Berlin "zone of death" where guards have orders to liquidate anyone approaching the wall from their side. There are cosy signs like this: "The Bonn wish for Lebensraum (living space) will cost only your head."

The wall area and the dreary vistas beyond are in woeful contrast with booming West Berlin, where stores burst with merchandise and new housing is the pride of the Federal Republic.

Visiting Commonwealth reporters saw nothing sensational but merely what has become routine in this upside-down strip where the Communist world and the West nudge each other.

ZONE CLEARED

We crossed to East Berlin at famed Checkpoint Charlie on a quiet Saturday morning, a Lebanese student acting as guide since West Berliners may not enter.

Passports were scrutinized three times, a device by which the border soldiers check on each other as well as on travellers. Cars were thoroughly searched. Conversation was nil.

From this side the wall assumes a new dimension in ugliness, since to the other civilian whitewash has been added to show up movement. The wall is backed by secondary barriers, tank traps and other obstacles in the Todeszone.

The zone has long been evacuated and buildings destroyed to allow a clear field of fire for the soldiers, assisted by floodlights and loudspeakers.

"At first the guards would shook to miss but they don't get away with that any more," we were told.

Industrial production has greatly improved in East Germany in recent years and the so-called "Khrushchev architecture" of the new apartment buildings on the main residential streets are a vast improvement over the small-windowed, ant(1)y "Stalin architecture" dwellings erected after the war

QUEUE FOR FRUIT

Behind these impressive buildings, however, many back streets are lined with bombed-out relics of the war where human habitation wouldn't be suspected but for curtains at the windows.

Store displays were generally depressing. Women stood in queues in the hot June sun, waiting for such goodies as oranges and bananas. One large show-window displayed nothing but beer in brand.

When we tipped a state-restaurant waiter with cigarettes—the hay-lasting East Germany brands are expensive—he followed us to the door with thanks. We had paid our bill with West German marks, an operation requiring form filling by a flustered manageress.

Street-strollers were mostly older folk and children. The young men and women have, as the saying goes, "voted with their feet."

About 55 of them, as it turned out, voted for death at the wall.

Tomorrow: Germany re-examines Hitler and his era.

MAKING PROGRESS ON THE "ZONE OF DEATH"—Vopos, East Berlin's police force, uses crowbars and axes to clear land along the boundary of the free sector of Berlin to provide a free field of fire. The wall has been whitewashed on the east side to show up movement and is backed up by tank traps, loudspeakers and floodlights. One West Berlin official says the wall "is the best propaganda we could have". (CP Photo)

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CANYER, Sports Editor

Mark 1964 down on your baseball calendar as the Year of the Great Flop; The End of a Dynasty, and The Return of the Underdogs.

A world series drama without the New York Yankees and the Dodgers or Giants occupying the front and centre would be, to the present generation, the eighth wonder of the world.

Die-hard Yankees whistling for courage, say the Bombers are in a slump from which there will be a quick return. Dodger buffs are not so confident. Some, not necessarily front-runners, are switching affection to the rampaging baseball Beatles from Philadelphia.

A definite change in the main entree of the world series annual banquet will be a pleasant departure from the roast beef of Yankees-Dodgers-Giants to perhaps a couple of turkeys from Chicago and Philadelphia.

It could mean a change of eras in the dynasty-marked National and American Leagues.

Without a doubt the most spectacular dynasty in the history of major leagues baseball is that of the New York Yankees.

For 43 years, beginning in 1921, the Bronx Bombers won 28 pennants with seven seconds, six thirds a fourth and just one seventh-place dive into the second division.

Not quite as sensational, perhaps, but showing a yen to divide the era-creating honors, is the record of the National League.

The senior circuit claims three outstanding dynasties from 1908 to 1937.

John McGraw's Giants were the team to beat from 1903 to 1925. The later editions were a ball-raising, hard-tippling gang of roughnecks who run roughshod over the opposition.

Branch Rickey's St. Louis Cardinals, which included the famous "Gashouse Gang," with Ole Diz and Paul, occupied front stage from 1926 to 1946.

Then from famous Ebbet's Field in Brooklyn emerged the daffiest, wackiest conglomeration of ballhawks to ever "jolk a serious" from their hated enemies from the Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium.

Under Larry McPhail they broke out into civilization, and with the roars of Canarsie, Greenpoint, Flatbush and the fragrant Gowanis in their ears, overlapped the Cards under the brilliant guidance of Rickey and Walter Alston.

McGraw's famous or infamous "Gints" in 23 years won ten times, finished second nine times and was out of first division just once.

The "Bums" for the thirteen years beginning in 1945, were first six times, second four times and third three times. From 1941 to 1957 the Dodgers were out of the first division only once.

But the great Ebbet's Field machine collapsed abruptly. The terrors of Bedford Avenue were spawned together and practically went down the same way.

I saw that wonder machine in 1957. There were such Flatbush Terrors as Gil Hodges, Roy Campanella, Carl Furillo, Duke Snider, Jackie Robinson, Junior Gilliam, Charlie Neal and Pee Wee Reese to field and scare hell out of opposing pitchers, and Don Drysdale, Sandy Koufax, Curt "Oiskin," Don Newcombe, Roger Craig and Clem Labine to mow down opposing batters.

The Dodgers did well at Los Angeles, winning twice in seven years, but they could not match the consistency of the old Ebbet's Field fusillers.

Baseball history may repeat itself—but don't wager your life insurance on it. The Yankees might come back. The Dodgers could turn into mountain climbers. But don't be surprised to see the Phillies, Orioles or White Sox give this perennial pair the move-over sign when the curtain rises on the first act of the 1964 world series drama.

$200,000 World Golf
Says Hogan Man To Watch

DETROIT (AP) — Veteran professional Al Watrous tabbed Ben Hogan Wednesday as the man to watch in the $200,000 World golf championship at Oakland Hills Country Club Aug. 27-30.

Watrous, who has been pro at Oakland Hills for 35 years, recalled that Hogan won the U.S. Open on the long course in 1951 and that he always has scored well there.

Tournament officials released the official list of 155 starters in the 36-hole tournament, with practically every big name in golfdom included.

Among Canadians entered are Nick Weslock of Toronto, Canadian amateur champion; Al Balding of Toronto, Canadian professional champion, and George Knudson of Toronto, given an open entry as one of the top 40 money winners last year on the professional golf circuit.

Others include Ontario Open Champion Frank Whibley of Kitchener, Moe Norman of Tpronto, Alvie Thomson of Toronto, and Manitoba Open leaders Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg and Bill Wright, Sr., of Edmonton.

Mickey Mantle and Sam Bowen hit two homers each and made the headlines in the American League Wednesday.

Result: The first-place Baltimore Orioles increased their lead to two games over Chicago White Sox while New York Yankees remained 3½ games back.

Mantle, veteran Yankee outfielder, hit a tape-measured homer of just over 500 feet and one of 350 feet in the 7-3 New York triumph over the White Sox.

Bowens, rookie outfielder for the Orioles, connected for homers of 378 and 425 feet in Baltimore's 7-0 shutout over Boston Red Sox.

Mantle's was the third homer to be hit in that sector. Larry Doby of Cleveland Indians did it in 1948 and Mantle 10 years ago. The latest Mantle homer compares to his estimated 600-footer last year against the right field facade in Yankee Stadium and his measured 565-footer in Washington in 1953.

In other AL games, Los Angeles Angels defeated the Indians 4-2, Detroit Tigers downed Minnesota Twins 5-2 and Washington Senators edged Kansas City Athletics 4-3.

Rookie pitcher Mel Stottlemyre shared the spotlight with Mantle for the Yankees as did veteran Milt Pappas with Bowens for the Orioles.

TOSSES SEVEN-HITTER

Stottlemyre, a righthander up from the Richmond of the International League, pitched a seven-hitter and issued only one walk against the White Sox in his first major league start. Pappas yielded only five hits to the Red Sox in recording his fourth shutout of the season.

Jimmy Piersall paced fourth-place Los Angeles to their triumph over Cleveland. He singled home two runs in the second that broke a 1-1 tie, later scored the last Angel run, went three-for-five at bat and stole a base.

Harmon Killebrew, the major league leader, hit his 40th homer for Minnesota but Bill Freehan's three-run round-trip-per for Detroit more than offset this in the Tigers' triumph.

Jim King's two-run homer in the eighth inning scored the tying and winning runs in Washington's win over Kansas City.

YANKEE ROOKIE PITCHES A WINNER — Rookie righthander Mel Stottlemyre, called up from the Richmond farm club by the Yankees yesterday, winds up for a pitch in the fourth inning of yesterday's game with the Chicago White Sox in Yankee Stadium. After losing two games to Chicago Tuesday, Stottlemyre reversed the Yankees luck going the full distance for a 7-3 win. (AP Wirephoto)

CPGA Tournament
Lesser Lights Cause Red Faces

HALIFAX (CP)—The golfers who were supposed to take the Ashburn course apart with a par-wrecking display are a bit red-faced today but still determined to show the way in the Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship.

It wasn't that they didn't turn in acceptable performances in Wednesday's two play-for-keeps preliminary rounds. Their efforts just weren't good enough against some lesser lights who seemed bent on making some forecasters look good in predicting that the 54-hole tournament will be a wide-open affair.

The only high ranking player among nine par-breakers in Pro-am honors went to George Knudson of Toronto and his amateur partner, John Green of Montreal, who had just been elected honorary president of the CPGA. Knudson shot a 70 and the winning low-ball score for the two was 57. Including amateur handicap allowances at specified holes.

The 66s by Kosak and Murray in the pro-am brought them $107.50 each.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, eight times champion, shot a 70. Jerry Magee of Toronto had a 69; and Alvie Thomson of Toronto, 1962 winner, had a 72.

Peter Hilditch of Mount Hope, Ont., had a 68.

Wednesday's all-pro and pro-amateur rounds was defending champion Al Balding of Toronto with a 67, one under par. Six others, considered by experts anyone as potential champions, matched his score.

But ahead of them with 66s were a trio of Ontario pros—Bob Rothmel of Brantford, Bruce Murray of St. Catharines, and Bill Kozak of Niagara Falls. Rothmel shot his 66 in the morning against 46 other pro players among the field of 120 who will start today's first round. He collected $100. Murray and Kosak were in the pro-amateur competition.

Trip Won't End Kelly Puck Career

TORONTO (CP) — A trip to the Olympic Games in Tokyo as official representative of Canada does not necessarily mean an end to Red Kelly's 15-year National Hockey League career.

Kelly isn't at all sure he will make the trip, and even if he does Punch Imlach, Toronto manager, says it doesn't necessarily mean Kelly won't be back to play.

The Olympic Games are scheduled Oct. 10-24 and Leafs open defence of the Stanley Cup Oct. 15. This means Kelly would miss five games at the start of the season.

Imlach looks on the trip as official.

"Remember, this is government business. I don't think its an insurmountable problem."

Kelly, in an Ottawa interview during a break from his House of Commons duties where he is Liberal member for York West, said he had not received details of the proposed trip from the external affairs department, but said he had been assured ice would be available where he could skate and keep in shape.

Meet Joyces At Fair Grounds
Brockville Here Tomorrow

Belleville Joyces and Brockville Beavers go to the senior baseball mat at the Fair Grounds here tomorrow night in the first round of their Eastern Ontario Baseball Association playdowns, starting nine o'clock.

The second game is scheduled for Brockville on Sunday at 2.30.

The series is a best-of-three affair.

There was some doubt at first if the game could be played here Friday but permission was received by convener Jack Carson from the Parks and Fair Board to use the Fair Grounds diamond.

Meanwhile, the Othawa Merchants - Joyces EOBA semi-finals series has been suspended until further arrangements can be made.

Due to the lack of an EOBA senior league statician, some confusion reigned as to what club actually finished on top of the schedule.

On the basis of figures available it was decided that Joyces led the loop with Oshawa in third place.

However, a probe into the statistics by President Carson and officials reveal that Joyces and Ajax finished in a top tie with 10-8 records.

Meanwhile Ajax and Little Britain are engaged in their semi-final playoffs with Little Britain leading 1-0.

Manager Gordie Vaughn said today that the club is well rested and ready to battle Brockville. It was the consensus of players that the club go into the OBA playdowns.

While Joyces held a fine record over the Beavers in EOBA play, the riversiders came back strongly in the last outing to decisively defeat the Belleville team.

With the chips down, it looks like a good series and a lot of support at the box office will be appreciated.

Phils Open Gap; Cards Wallop Giants

Four-Game Lead

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco Giants, tripling over former teammate Bill White, have taken the first big tumble in the National League pennant scramble.

White, the emerging first baseman of St. Louis Cardinals, slammed three hits and triggered two rallies in a 6-4 victory over the second-place Giants Wednesday night that opened a big gap between the leading pennant contenders.

The defeat, coupled with Philadelphia's 6-5 victory over Chicago Cubs, gave the first-place Phillies a four-game lead—the largest margin either team has enjoyed in the season - long struggle for the top spot.

White, 30, was with the Giants until the end of the 1958 season when he was traded to St. Louis.

The lefthanded swinger extended his hitting streak to 20 games against the Giants—tying the majors' top mark for the season.

Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles Dodgers added to his laurels by posting his 18th victory with a 4-1, five-hit win over Cincinnati Reds. In other games, Milwaukee Braves whipped Houston Colts 5-1 and Pittsburgh Pirates edged New York Mets 3-4.

TIED THE SCORE

The Giants trailed 4-0 going into the seventh but tied the score on Hal Lanier's run-producing single and Willie Mays' 24th homer, a three-run shot.

Trailing 2-1 after Ron Santo's homer had put the Cubs out front, the Phillies moved ahead to stay in the eighth when John Briggs stroked a pinch-hit single, Richie Allen walked and Wes Covington tagged Larry Jackson for a homer.

Koufax, now 18-5, has a shutout until the seventh when Deron Johnson homered for the Reds. The Dodgers put it out of reach early against Jim O'Toole, scoring twice in the second on a single by Tommy Davis, an error, John Roseboro's single and Johnson's fumble of an attempted pickoff.

Eddie Mathews got the job done for the Braves, drilling a homer, double and two singles in support of Tony Cloninger, who had a five-hit shutout until Dave Roberts predicted the Houston run with a two-out homer in the ninth.

Dennis Ribant, making his first major league start for the Mets after being acquired from the Braves, was tagged for a solo homer by Willie Stargell in the fourth and a three-run shot by Jerry Lynch in the fifth and that proved decisive for the Pirates.

Members Whip Press Gallery

OTTAWA (CP)—A team of MPs handed the Parliamentary Press Gallery their second softball defeat of the season Wednesday night, but both Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker missed the game.

Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker arrived on the scene —the rain-drenched lawn in front of the Parliament Buildings—at 6:30 p.m. but there was a light drizzle falling and the two team captains told the game had been called.

They left but the game got under way about 15 minutes later when the rain stopped.

The MP. were easy 7-4 winners.

However, for the press gallery the loss wasn't as humiliating as their 35-17 defeat at the hands of the MPs earlier this summer.

Leafs Whip Crackers, Take Fourth

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jacksonville Suns and Syracuse Chiefs kept up their rivalry for first place in the International League, both winning, but an 11-3 victory by Toronto Maple Leafs over Atlanta Crackers and a 8-5 loss by Rochester Red Wings to Richmond Virginians moved the Leafs into sole possession of fourth spot.

The Suns held onto first place with a 9-4 win against Buffalo Bisons as Nell Chrisley hammered out a three-run homer.

The Chiefs dumped Columbus Jets 4-1 featuring a drum-tight defence to come up with three double-plays to snuff out prospective Jets' rallies.

In the Toronto victory Ossie Virgil slammed three home runs to bring his season total to seven and his five runs while Eli Grba and Frank Funk were limiting the Crackers to seven hits.

Ken Retzer added a fourth home run for Toronto, driving in two more runs.

Bob Schmidt came up with his fourth and fifth home runs of the year for Richmond as the Virginians unloaded 13 hits against Rochester.

HILL ESCAPES CRASH

NORWICH, England (AP) — Graham Hill of England leader in this year's world auto racing championship, crashed at 100 miles an hour during a practice run Wednesday but suffered only a cliff neck. Hill said he expected to drive in the Australian Grand Prix Aug. 23.

Three-Way Mound Duel

Lombanks Shade Juniors 4-3

TWEED (Staff) — Tweed, Lombanks' Blaine Healey bested two Ellis Juniors hurlers in a tight mound duel here last night to snatch a 4-3 victory in the B. and D. Softball League finals.

The win squares the best-of-seven series at one win each. The third tilt is scheduled for the CNRA Park tonight at 6.30.

Healey hooked up with Bobby Boyle and Bobby Ethier in the hill-top hassle, striking out 17 and issuing the only walk in his four-hit effort.

Boyle started for the Juniors and gave way to Ethier in the fifth. They gave up but six hits between them with Boyle whiffing three and Ethier five.

Despite the closeness of the game, Juniors committed seven errors, two of them damaging, and the Lombanks five.

The winners pushed across two runs in the first inning off singles by Carleton, T. Lesage and Gorr and an error.

They upped the count to 3-0 in the fourth when Boyle hit two Tweed batters and gave up a double to Healey.

They pushed what proved to be the winner across the plate in the seventh frame when no less than four runs scored. Meraw. Ethier deserved a better fate in this frame when he struck out the side.

Healey held the Juniors hitless and scoreless until the fifth inning when they scored twice to cut the margin to 3-2.

Stu Malloy got the first hit, off the Tweed hurler, went to third on a wild pitch and an error. Yorke reached first on a fielders choice, Malloy scoring. Yorke scored on a double by Gardiner.

The Juniors rallied in the ninth scoring once and leaving the tying run on third.

Muirhead struck out and Chatland drew the only walk of the game. Boomhower lashed out a single sending the runner to third. Malloy whiffed and Boyle's single drove in Chatland. Boomhower stole third but Healey struck out Yorke to win the game.

Healey's double paced the Lombanks at the plate with Carleton, Lesage, Gorr (2) and Sherry getting singles.

Gardiner's double and singles by Malloy, Boomhower and Boyle accounted for the four Juniors' hits.

The teams:

Ellis Juniors	—	Gardiner,
Moon, Muirhead,		Chatland,
Malloy, Boyle, Yorke, McKibbon, Ethier.
Tweed	—	Carleton, T. Lesage, Warren, Gorr, R. Lesage, Healey, Sherry, Cotton, Healey.

The score:

Juniors	000 020 001	-	3	4
Tweed	200 100 10x	-	4	6

OFFER TV PACKAGE

MONTREAL (CP) — Football's Montreal Alouettes and hockey's Montreal Canadiens announced Wednesday that they have become partners in an experimental cable-television deal. A joint statement gave no financial details. The venture provides 10 selected Canadian road games and the last three quarters of seven Alouette home games.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Flyalong, a horse nobody wanted, won the $12,900 Colin Stakes Wednesday at Fort Erie Raceway and defeated the best two-year-olds running in Canada.

This was Flyalong's third start and it proved to be his easiest victory, too. The big bay colt of Flying Fury was simply ridden out by jockey Cliff Potts as he coasted home two lengths in front of stable-mate Grand Galop. Blue Reel was third.

The Colin was the first test for two-year-olds at three-quarters of a mile and Flyalong proved he could more than handle the distance.

Last Saturday, Flyalong roared past his opposition in the final furlong to win going away. Wednesday he was blocked at the head of the stretch, found an opening and sped to the lead before the other two-year-olds could blink.

Flyalong once found it tough to find a home. Breeder Tomlinson decided he didn't want to keep Flyalong and another colt named Empress.

Tom Hays of Oakville bought the pair for $10,000, sight unseen.

With his $7,800 victory in the Colin, Flyalong's earnings reached the $19,300 mark. Expressed hasn't been as successful as Flyalong but has won one of seven starts.

The daily-double of Fabulous Star and Poppy Talk returned $14.90 while the quinella of Northern Girl and Cam Shaft was a surprising $182.00.

City Hotel Defeats Landscapers

Erupting for four-runs in the extra innings, City Hotel defeated Barrage Landscapers 10-6 in their Commercial League semi-finals last night.

The win gave the Hotelmen a 2-1 game edge in the best of seven series. The fourth game is scheduled for Tuesday night.

It was a see-saw battle up to the end of the seventh frame. Barrages scored three in the first, two in the fifth and one in the seventh, the latter run tying the score.

The Hotelmen plated one in the first, grabbed a 4-3 lead in the second and scored singles in the fifth and sixth.

Dave Feeney went the route for the winners and was touched for nine clouts, whiffing and walking four Landscapers.

Tom Cooley started for the Landscapers and gave up all seven of the Hotelmen hits. To was relieved in the eighth and gave one out by Joe Harvey who put out the Hotel fire. Coolen walked three batters and Harvey retired the side hitless and scoreless.

Seven errors did not help the Barrage cause while the winners committed but one bobble. Four left-siders on base while the Landscapers stranded seven.

Martin paced the winners with two singles with Talenti, Morrow, D. Hull who drove in two runs, Rutherford and Feeney collecting one each.

Don Wood's double and single led the Landscapers with Cook's three singles, two by Duff and loners by Sopha and Cooney rounding out the nine-hit attack.

City Hotel	130 011 04	-	10 7 1
Barriages	300 020 10	-	6 9 7

HEATHER RIDLEY

Lived At Trenton

Wins French Track Honors

A 15-year-old Canadian girl is running away with track honors in Eastern France, and only missed a try at the French championship because of her nationality.

Heather Ridley is the daughter of Leading Aircraftman Duncan Ridley, 43, an aero-engine technician stationed at the RCAF's No. 1 Wing at Marville, France. Prior to his transfer to France, LAC Ridley served at RCAF Station Trenton, Ont., where he is well known for his sporting activities with the RCAF hockey team.

To date, Heather has walked off with top honors at the RCAF Air Division High School track meet, running the 75 yards in 8.3 seconds, the 100 yards in 11.10 and the 200 yards in 28.1, which is only 0/10 of a second off the required time for eligibility in Canadian Olympic trials.

As a member of the French St. Avold Athletic Club, she is, unbeaten in inter-club meets.

At the end of May she won the 150 meters to become champion of Lorraine and in June she won the 60 meters and 150 meters to become champion of the Moselle. Shortly after, she sprinted ahead to become champion of Eastern France. As such, she was sent to Paris for the national track meet but was disqualified because she was a Canadian.

Invited in July to compete in the Wallonie track meet in Belgium, she again won top honors in the 150 meters event. As a result, the Belgians have invited her to compete for the Belgian championship to take place in August.

Heather's interest in track was stimulated initially by an old family friend, Corporal Dick Carmichael, an RCAF recreation specialist who was a sufficiently fine runner to try out for the Canadian Olympic team several years ago. He coached Heather for two years.

Since Cpl. Carmichael left France, she has been coached by Monsieur Screes, the Athletic Director of the St. Avold Athletic Club.

Heather has also had considerable encouragement from her father who, during his Air Force career, has been hockey coach for the Trenton RCAF Globetrotters, the 2 Wing Eagles in Grostenquin, France, and has been invited this year to coach the 1 Wing Arrows at Marville, France.

AIMING SHOTS IN A CROSSWIND

The average golfer figures that a crosswind will have more effect on his low shots than on a short iron approach.

"The drive travels farther in the wind," he says. "So I have to allow more for wind drag on the shot."

This is not necessarily true. All things being equal, a given crosswind will have no more or no less effect on a drive than it will on a wedge shot.

True, the drive stays in the air for a longer time and for a greater distance, but it also travels with greater velocity and therefore is better able to resist the crosswind effect.

Remember this the next time you play a crosswind shot. Try allowing for less wind effect on a long shot and for more on a short shot.

Also, when playing in a crosswind, it's usually best to merely allow for the wind's effect when you aim. Don't try to cut or draw shots into the wind. The more shots you can hit with your normal swing, the better you will score.

The winning side included Andrew skip, Henry Pickett vice, skip, Earl Albertson second, and Jack Miller lead.

MacMillan defeated J. Smart of Niagara Falls, Ont., 18-13 in the semi-finals.

The Robert Simpson Trophy for foursomes went to Elgin Wagg's team from Stouffville with a 16-6 win over W. Kimberley's Toronto rink.

The Flint Insurance Company Trophy went to Whitby, 16-13 over G. McCorquodale of Kingston. The Whitby team, headed by Bob Gallagher, included Dick Adams, Ward Bick and Lloyd Sabina.

Dick Walton's team from Toronto took the Parker Pen Trophy with a 21-3 win over Gerry Hyde's Streetsville crew and Ontawa's Ed Barry won the Dunlop Canada Trophy, 16-15, over Al Llewellyn's Toronto side.

With the rink competition now completed, the tournament moves into the closing stages of the pairs events today. Singles events will be Friday.

HOVER TO PLANE

LONDON (AP)—A group has asked transport ministry approval of a $20,000,000 project to halve travel time between this city and London Airport with hovercars speeding at 80 m.p.h. over the route of the outmoded and money-losing Grand Union Canal. The canal would be drained and paved over a distance of 14 miles to help the cars along on a cushion of compressed air.

AUCKLAND (CP)—A number of New Zealand writers received a surprise from Russia recently. The publication of short stories by 22 New Zealand authors, many without their permission, in Russian was followed by royalty payments.

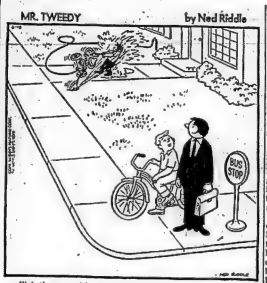
The Trots

TORONTO (CP)—Rocky Herbert and Eagle Armbro looked every bit the odds on choices in winning respective division trials of the Standardbred Stakes for three-year-old pacers Wednesday night at Greenwood Raceway.

Rocky Herbert was a five-length winner in the first division and Armbro Electra was second with Dox Dale taking third.

The crowd of 5,936 established Eagle Armbro a 2-to-5 choice in the second division and for a few moments they were shaken up as the son of Tar Heel broke stride.

Driver Harold McKinley quickly put the colt back on stride and in the stretch he pulled away to a six-length triumph over Chief Saint.



Rocky Herbert and Eagle Armbro will clash head on next Monday in the $5,000 final of the stakes event. The first five finishers in each division gained a berth in the final.

Orwell Morrissey of Charlottetown, P.E.I., posted a $57.10 win mutuel with his pacer Terry Mac in the fifth race. It was the first win in seven starts for the seven-year-old gelding this year.

A daily double of $189.90 came up as Belmont Eric took the first race and was coupled with second race winner High Brooke.

The junior doubles title was captured by David Tate of Kingston Jamaica, and Tom Karp of Los Angeles, who registered a decisive 6-4, 6-2 win over Hobson and Howard.

Rookie, Veteran Spark Win
Bombers Blast Eskimos 37-7

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers, with the youngest and oldest members of the offensive backfield throwing the big punches, battered Edmonton Eskimos 37-7 in Western Football Conference action before 13,789 fans Wednesday night.

Billy Cooper, 19 - year - old rookie Canadian, and halfback Leo Lewis, 31-year-old who is Bombers' all - time leading ground-gainer, pranced through inexperienced Eskimo defenders to score a touchdown apiece and set up two others.

They ignited a 27-point second-half explosion that gave Bombers their first victory—they had a tie and a loss in earlier games—and a share of second place with British Columbia Lions, one point behind Saskatchewan Roughriders.

For Eskimos, burdened with 14 rookies, it was the second avalanche in six days. They were buried 52-15 by Calgary Stampeders Friday night and now are last, winless and two points behind Calgary.

Fullback Roger Hagberg, quarterback Kenny Ploen and end Farrell Funston also got touchdowns as Winnipeg moved ahead 3-1 in the first quarter, 10-7 in the second and 23-7 in the third. Halfback George Fleming kicked four converts and a 39-yard first-quarter field goal.

SCORES FOR ESKS

Rookie Butch Pressley scored Edmonton's touchdown. Fullback Jim Thomas got a single.

Cooper, Winnipeg junior graduate, scored Bombers' last touchdown on a 43-yard pass-and-run play with relief quarterback Hal Ledyard and tossed a 42-yard pass-and-run into an 82 - yard march for Bombers' fourth touchdown by Funston.

Lewis, after scoring Winnipeg's first touchdown, ifie the second quarter, kicked off Bombers' second-half outburst with an 85-yard kickoff return. Four plays later Hagberg lugged into the end zone.

Winnipeg had 25 first downs to Edmonton's 12; 187 yards rushing to 131; 275 yards passing to 183. Eskimo quarterbacks Lynn Amedee and Gary Hertzfeldt completed 12 of 19 pass attempts, Ploen and Ledyard 13 of 24. Both teams intercepted one pass.

Television's Season Looms As Year of the Computer

By CYNTHIA LOWEY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television's 1966-67 season looms as the year of the computer. The machines soon will be blossoming in new actors.

The star of a new CBS comedy series, My Living Doll, has a computer in the title role. The character looks like a beautiful human female, but it is a disguised machine programmed to exhibit every human characteristic except emotion.

When there is Thrush, the international cartel of evil that NBC's Man From U.N.C.L.E. will fight each week. The scheming head of this vicious organization is a computer, programmed by the villainous agents to dream up dreadful plots for the brave agents of U.N.C.L.E., the crusading organization, to foil just before the final commercial.

Computers will turn up as dress extras and minor characters in science fiction and adventure tales, including The Outer Limits. In ABC's Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea, a flashing computer will spew out information in the control room of the show's non-human star—an atom - powered, glass nosed submarine that roams the world performing miraculous feats.

So far, there is no cause for alarm on the part of human actors, their agents and unions or by owners of animal stars. But there may come a day when it will be easier and cheaper to build actors on order, and program their parts, thus eliminating the need for retakes or fluffed scenes or haggling over new contracts.

USES SATELLITE

CBC-TV will receive one hour of Olympic coverage from Japan each day during the Games in October by using the communications satellite, Syncom III.

"Zulu" Shot in Color in Natal on Location of Historic Mission

Royal Natal National Park is one of the most beautiful natural wonders of the world. There, for fourteen weeks, a motion picture company recreated the personal drama and military glory of the handful of British soldiers who heroically defended a mission against 4000 highly trained Zulu warriors. The result: "Zulu", Joseph E. Levine's Technicolor-Panavision spectacle epic adventure opening tonight at two 20th Century Theatres, Paris, Belleville, and Centre, Trenton, for one week

Starring Stanley Baker, Jack Hawkins, Ulla Jacobsson, James Booth and Michael Caine, "Zulu" is the first joint venture of director Cy Endfield and star Stanley Baker, who co-produced the spectacular film.

Made at the actual sites of the adventure, using actual Zulu natives to portray their ancestors, Baker and Endfield managed to record not only the spectacle of this exciting true story, but the emotional impact as well. The magnificent scenery alone was worth the hardship and expense of location shooting, according to the producers.

In the shadow of the picturesque Drakensberg Mountains, some 6,000 feet above sea level, the Diamond Films Ltd. company set up shop, complete with hospital, telling station at Rorke's Drift — including its hospital, church, stores, huts and stockade — all of which figured prominently in the bloody battle.

Up at 4.30 every morning, the actors had breakfast at six and began their make-up routines by 6.30 for the day's work. The professional cast was ready for cameras, however, Zulu actors were still making up. One details, worn back-combed and fluffed out around their legs had to be added to the experts, who had researched Zulu war costumes. Other regalia were the waist sashes with fringes of leopard skin, arm bands of copper and bronze, necklaces of lion's teeth. Particular attention was given to the hair-styling of the Zulu soldiers, for in actual combat this was as distinguishing as a British soldier's uniform marks.

Two complete shows each evening, 7.00 p.m. and 9.30 p.m. Box office opens 6.30 p.m. Saturday continuous show from 1.00 p.m.

Actor Decreed Interview Blackout Making Picture

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Three years ago Max von Sydow had been signed to portray Jesus in The Greatest Story Ever Told and was reminded of H. B. Lewis, whose career as dramarama epic adventure opening tonight at two 20th Century Theatres, Paris, Belleville, and Centre, Trenton, for one week

Starring Stanley Baker, Jack Hawkins, Ulla Jacobsson, James Booth and Michael Caine, "Zulu" is the first joint venture of director Cy Endfield and star Stanley Baker, who co-produced the spectacular film.

Made at the actual sites of the adventure, using actual Zulu natives to portray their ancestors, Baker and Endfield managed to record not only the spectacle of this exciting true story, but the emotional impact as well. The magnificent scenery alone was worth the hardship and expense of location shooting, according to the producers.

In the shadow of the picturesque Drakensberg Mountains, some 6,000 feet above sea level, the Diamond Films Ltd. company set up shop, complete with hospital, telling station at Rorke's Drift — including its hospital, church, stores, huts and stockade — all of which figured prominently in the bloody battle.

Up at 4.30 every morning, the actors had breakfast at six and began their make-up routines by 6.30 for the day's work. The professional cast was ready for cameras, however, Zulu actors were still making up. One details, worn back-combed and fluffed out around their legs had to be added to the experts, who had researched Zulu war costumes. Other regalia were the waist sashes with fringes of leopard skin, arm bands of copper and bronze, necklaces of lion's teeth. Particular attention was given to the hair-styling of the Zulu soldiers, for in actual combat this was as distinguishing as a British soldier's uniform marks.

Two complete shows each evening, 7.00 p.m. and 9.30 p.m. Box office opens 6.30 p.m. Saturday continuous show from 1.00 p.m.

There were even reports that Stevens had decreed an interview blackout.

"That was not true," von Sydow said. "George's reasoning is that he does not want this picture to receive the same kind of commercial treatment that other films receive. Because of its nature he wants to avoid saying that so many millions were spent on it or that so many thousands of extras were used in the crowd scenes.

"He also restricted the release of photographs from the film, because he wanted to control what was issued and also because the release date is still distant. But there are no restraints on what I should talk about."

Youth Column
Many Will Fail to Survive Next Year's College Term

By GEORGE L. ZUCKER
MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) — An army of eager freshmen will flock to U.S. college and university campuses again this fall. For an al loo high number, the statistics will prove more of a shock than they expected.

Many will fail to survive the pitfalls awaiting them behind the ivied college walls. Despite high school achievement and monthly cheques from home, they will not make it.

Two Purdue University educationists at the university's Parker Memorial Centre have set out eight years ago to learn why so many high school graduates falter in college. This inquiry into the country's college drop-out problem was begun by Prof. Robert F. Schwarz, 41, who is the centre's director, and Prof. Howard D. J. Murdock, 49, who teaches chemistry.

Schwarz and Murdock set up their week course for Michigan City area college-bound graduates in the summer of 1956, calling it, "how to study in college." They had hoped that students would sign up; 75 did. Schwarz and Murdock feel the quandary facing many students entering college is the abrupt adjustment they must make, the learning process.

Schwarz and Murdock set up their week course for Michigan City area college-bound graduates in the summer of 1956, calling it, "how to study in college." They had hoped that students would sign up; 75 did. Schwarz and Murdock feel the quandary facing many students entering college is the abrupt adjustment they must make, the learning process.

Other study tips:

Study planning—"Make out a weekly study schedule and stick to it. It is important that you allow one hour weekly just to reduce the next week's work."

Study conditions—"Don't use your desk for anything but studying. No letter-writing, radio or picture of the girl back home."

How the professors recommend "cramming" before exams?

"If you haven't done anything else, you should do it. But it is the least effective in adjustment they must make."

Our Architectural Heritage

By LENNY WILLIAMSON

The Murney-Falkner house, at the top of the hill on Bridge St. West, provides a capsule history of 19th century architectural styles.

The simple white clapboard house at the front dates to before 1829, when the first settler on the West Hill sold it, and the surrounding 28 acres of land, for £275 in cash and "50 in "merchantable whiskey."

The towered brick addition behind it, typical of the flamboyant taste of the mid - 19th century, was added in the late 1850's by Edmund Murney, Esquire.

In 1839, Belleville had just been incorporated as a police village and Murney, a lawyer, and th- newly-appointed Clerk of the Peace, needed a domestic establishment suited to his station.

The house he moved into was the typical rectangular frame structure of its day, with a gentle - sloping gable roof and a fine Neo-Classical doorway.

From 1836 until his death in 1861, Murney served four terms as Member of the Legislative Assembly. When he rose through the political ranks to the position of Cabinet Minister, he turned his thoughts to the addition of a modern wing to his now old-fashioned house.

Two events probably hastened Murney's decision to build - his daughter was about to marry Nathanial B. Falkner, a young law student just out from Ireland, and the Prince of Wales was due to visit Canada in 1860.

The newly-wed: moved into the expanded Murney house, but the Prince, afterwards King Edward VII, never made it to the grand ball planned in his honor in the lower drawing-room.

Religious prejudice prevented the Prince's landing before he reached Cobourg. The Orange Lodge prepared a large triumphal arch to be placed over the gangplank at Kingston as the Prince stepped ashore. This was intended as a calculated insult to a prominent Roman Catholic in the Prince's entourage, and Edward had no intention of fanning the flames of religious dissention in his mother's senior colony.

He diplomatically solved the problem by refusing to disembark. The Orangemen dashed after him to his next scheduled stop, Belleville, but Edward had been forewarned and stayed resolutely on board ship.

Murney was frustrated in his plan to crown his long political career with a reception for the Prince in the house on Murney's Hill.

The accompanying sketch shows the Murney-Falkner residence as it looked in 1877. When Murney built it, the Tuscan tower was the status symbol of its day, an indispensable adjunct to the house o. a man of wealth and position. His tower is impec-cably Italianate, with its generously bracketed low-pitched hip-roof and its round headed windows arranged in a Paladian trio. Al one time there were balustraded balconies under the windows.

The drawing room was on the second floor, in the authentic European tradition. Vertical living was commonplace then among families who could afford a retinue of servant girls and handymen.

Now sectioned off into three separate houses, the Murney-Falkner residence in its sp ious grounds still adds a touch of grandeur to West Bridge St. Hill.

EOKA CHIEF TAKES OVER IN CYPRUS

3 From City Killed At Parry Sound

Two-Car Crash Leaves 7 Dead, One Car Burns

Mrs. Lloyd Monteith And Two Sons Die

Mrs. Lloyd Monteith and two sons, Ronnie and Art, were three of the seven victims in a two-car crash on Highway 69, ten miles north of Parry Sound, last evening.

Two of the other victims are believed to have been Mrs. Monteith's father and mother.

Mr. Monteith, an employee at the Entomological Laboratory here, left this morning to identify the bodies.

Provincial Police, who withheld the names of the victims pending the notification of next-of-kin, still had not released the names of six of the seven victims at press time, but there seemed no doubt as to the identity of the local people involved.

Besides Mr. Monteith, another son, Kenny survives.

Mrs. Monteith's parents, from Duluth, Minnesota, had been visiting here. The Parry Sound reports state that the accident involved a Minnesota car, with five occupants, and an Ontario car with two occupants.

Provincial police today identified one of seven persons as Paul McKenna, 23 of Sarnia.

McKenna, a mechanical engineering student at the University of Western Ontario, was hitch-hiking to Toronto from Sudbury, where he had been working, to act as a pallbearer for a friend who was drowned recently. He was in the Ontario car.

Provincial Police at Parry Sound said fire broke out in the car bearing the Minnesota licence, when the gasoline tank apparently exploded.

There had been intermittent rain before the accident, which occurred on a straight stretch of highway, but visibility was said to have been good at the time of the crash.

Police estimated both cars were travelling at least 70 miles an hour when they collided.

People Keep Nickel Town as Strike Begins

THOMPSON, Man. (CP)—Effects of the first strike in its history hit this one - industry town Thursday as official picketing began at the International Nickel Company gates to its mining and smelting operation here, 400 miles north of Winnipeg.

A CNR ticket agent said about 450 persons left on the Thursday night train and extra cars will be added to trains during the weekend.

It was not clear how many leaving were taking advantage of the strike to go on vacation. The ticket agent said about 200 of the tickets sold were one-way.

Members of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), most of whom had already walked off the job, made the strike official Wednesday night by voting to reject a last-minute settlement offer by the company and union negotiators in Winnipeg the previous day.

600 Plate-Throwing Guests Rout Armed Raid on Argentine Dinner

BUENOS AIRES (CP)—Former president Arturo Frondizi escaped injury Thursday night in a daring raid on a dinner party by gun-wielding youths who injured four persons.

Among the injured was Frondizi's brother, who suffered a broken arm, and another man who had his skull fractured.

Police said it was not immediately known whether the injuries were caused by bullets or flying furniture.

They said about 15 armed youths burst into the dinner attended by almost 600 guests, many of them women.

The man with a fractured skull, believed to be a labor union leader Ruiz Diaz, underwent an emergency operation and was in serious condition.

A local news agency said Ruiz Diaz was wounded by a bullet when he also opened a parliamentary deputy's head.

At the height of the fray, guests hurled bottles, chairs, glasses and cutlery at the youths, then threw themselves to the floor. The youths fled.

Frondizi, deposed in March, 1962, blamed the government of President Arturo Illia. The government declined comment.

"They will not intimidate us with their policy of hate and vengeance," Frondizi said.

Illia is considered an opponent of Dictator Juan D Peron, sent into exile in 1955 Frondizi became president in 1958 with the help of Peron followers. Illia took office a year ago.

Frondizi was imprisoned for 16 months after anti-Peronist military leaders arrested him and annulled the elections. The government ordered his release in July, 1963.

The former president was the centre of heated exchanges Wednesday when he testified before a congressional committee investigating oil concessions granted under his administration.

As he left the Congress chamber he was given a deafening reception of cheers and boos by a large crowd that had gathered outside, blocking traffic.

Party Leaders To Meet

By RUSSELL ELMAN

OTTAWA (CP) — A Conservative move late Thursday night spelled out what the official opposition wants in a national plebiscite on the flag with the possible effect of further lengthening the flag debate in the Commons.

As behind - the - scenes manoeuvres continued to try to find a solution to the present impasse over the flag, Ken More (PC — Regina) moved a sub-amendment to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's amendment calling for a referendum.

Meanwhile, outside the House it was learned that Prime Minister Pearson has invited party leaders to meet Tuesday in an effort to reach a compromise on his resolution for a maple leaf flag.

Mr. More's motion would have a national plebiscite ask Canadians the following questions:

1. Are you in favor of the Canadian Red Ensign?

2. Are you in favor of the Canadian Red Ensign changed in some details so as to show the heritage of the two founding races?

3. Are you in favor of a three-maple leaf flag design?

4. Are you in favor of a one-maple leaf design?

MAY SPEAK AGAIN

The motion would permit all MPs who already have spoken in the protracted debate to make another speech on the flag.

Parliamentary observers also saw in introduction as first evidence of an intention, expressed privately by many Conservatives, to extend the flag debate by a series of sub - amendments. So far 32 Conservatives have spoken on Mr. Diefenbaker's amendment.

Today the Commons takes a one-day break from the flag debate. Scheduled business is consideration of immigration departmental spending estimates for 1964-65 during which a re-

WOMAN INJURED IN HOME DURING VIOLENT NIGHT—A Negro woman receives first aid from a policeman in her Paterson home after one was hit on the head by a thrown object when she looked out a window. Toronto Constable's Bullet Hits Bandit Between Eyes

TORONTO (CP)—An armed bandit was critically wounded and another arrested today as police flushed them out of an east-end bank they were attempting to rob.

The bandit was shot between the eyes by Const. James Tough as he spun to fire at the constable in the foyer of the Toronto-Dominion Bank branch on Queen and Logan Streets. Police said he was in grave condition in hospital.

The second bandit, who emerged from the bane clutching a woman as a shield, threw his hands into the air in a gesture of surrender as his accomplice fell. Police said he was not armed.

"It was either him or me," said Const. Tough, 28, father of two who has been a policeman for three years. "I wasn't going to get shot so I made sure it was him."

Police said the bandits forced their way through the bank's roof during the night. As nine employees, five of them women, reported to work, they were herded into the manager's office.

The 10th and last employee, a woman bank clerk, became alarmed when she noticed the blinds were drawn. She ran next door to a confectioner and asked him to phone police.

Const. Tough, patrolling on a motorcycle a block away, arrived with another policeman a minute later. They ran into the bank and saw the bandits. Const. Tough hid in the foyer while the other policeman ran outside to warn reinforcements who had arrived.

Const. Tough said one bandit came out clutching a woman clerk as a hostage, the other following him with a gun in his hand.

"I yelled to him to drop his gun when he was eight feet away, but he spun around and looked as if he was going to fire. I shot first and hit him in the forehead.

"It was the first time I've ever had to pull my gun out of its holster."

Vivian Deverteuil, relieving manager at the bank, said only one of the men, who both wore masks, was armed. He said the man made "no direct threats" to the employees.

They didn't get a chance to get near the vaults," he said.

Racial Trouble Subsides

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Gasbombs, bullets and bricks crashed in the streets of Paterson's Negro district for the third successive night, but city officials called the disorder less serious.

In Elizabeth, police swinging nightsticks swept a street clear of hundreds of Negro and white youths at midnight Thursday after a police car was struck with a bottle. There, too, on the third night of violence, authorities said the tension appeared to be subsiding.

Paterson police reported that between 50 and 60 incidents occurred Thursday night in and near the city's predominantly Negro district. They arrested 23 Negroes, one white man and a dozen juveniles.

Three policemen and a teenager suffered minor injuries. A police car was "extensively damaged" by rocks and bricks, Mayor Frank Graves said.

Several store windows were smashed and a gasoline bomb set a small fire at the Ace Wiping Rag Company, a two-storey building.

Graves, who promised to meet street violence with violence, said late Thursday night: "I'm very encouraged at this point . . . I think they know mean business—a year in jail for fooling around with a cop."

Officials in both Elizabeth and Paterson, about 20 miles apart, have blamed "hoodlums" for the disturbances. Governor Richard J. Hughes said an "antisocial element" was responsible for the disturbances. "It's not white versus black," he said in the state capital at Trenton.

Shortly before midnight, some 40 Negro youths began a march on one side of First Street in Elizabeth, but they broke into a run when a white man in a telephone booth yelled, "Hey, get that boy in the grey jacket."

The milling crowd of between 200 and 300 persons began running and overturning a strong swimmer before sailing.

Creditistes Poise New Barrier

OTTAWA (CP)—Real Caouette and his Ralliement des Creditistes poised a legislative barrier Thursday in front of all bills from the Senate.

He indicated their aim is to get further control by the upper chamber on a bill seeking a bank charter for the proposed Bank of British Columbia in which that province's Social Credit government holds an interest.

Mr. Caouette served notice in the Commons that his 13-member group will try to block all bills originating in the Senate, while has sent the B.C. bank bill to a committee for study.

A number of measures, including one sponsored by the government, now are on the order paper of the Senate, which resumed its position in public exercept that involving spending of public funds.

The Creditiste leader said during Commons debate on a private bill to increase Bell Telephone Company directors to 20 from 15 that bills originating in the Senate do not interest the Creditistes.

Ron Basford (L—Vancouver Burrard) asked whether Mr. Caouette was taking his stand by agreement with Premier Bennett of B.C. Mr. Caouette replied: "You asked me whether Bennett let me do this or that . . . I don't care about this."

Drought-Stricken Farmers To Get Aid From Ont. Govt.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Ontario government extended a helping hand to drought - stricken farmers in eastern and northern sections of the province Thursday.

Noting that lack of rain had affected almost every county east of Kingston and north as far as Sudbury, Agriculture Minister William Stewart announced a subsidy to help farmers ship in hay from other parts of the province.

He said he had been assured of federal government participation in a subsidy of up to $10 a ton to bring in hay in areas where lack of rains have reduced the crop by up to 75 to 80 per cent. The Ontario minister will meet today with Agriculture Minister Harry Hays in Ottawa to discuss the federal government's part in the program.

Freight assistance also will be given to farmers who ship feeder cattle to Toronto for sale at the stockyards. The amount of this subsidy must still be worked out, Mr. Stewart said.

The provincial government also will guarantee bank loans required by farmers to feed their cattle. The same guarantees will apply to farmers whose crops have been destroyed by army worms in recent weeks.

At the same time, Mr. Stewart said, a one-year moratorium on the payment of principal and interest on junior farmers loans will be granted to drought-area farmers who suffer hardship.

Mr. Stewart appealed to farmers in other areas of the province, who have had good first crops of hay, to harvest the second crop and to make it available to farmers that need it," he said.

Mr. Stewart said north Renfrew in the Ottawa Valley is the worst - hit area, requiring at least 25,000 tons of hay.

In Northern Ontario, hay crops in the Algoma district around Sault Ste. Marie are

Grivas Regards UN Force As Bloody Nuisance

Thant Asks More Men, Truce Only 'Breather'

NICOSIA (CP)—Gen. George Grivas today took over as leader of the Cyprus national guard after he was reported to have said he considers the United Nations peace - keeping force in the troubled Mediterranean island "a bloody nuisance."

UN Secretary - General U Thant wants more soldiers to bolster the Cyprus force in the face of a warning by the UN force commander that the halt in hostilities "is only a breather."

Gen. K. S. Thimayya of India, the commander of the UN force, said after a trip to the troubled area in northwest Cyprus, that he felt Grivas, the Greek-born former leader of the anti - British underground, did not want the UN interfering with the Greek-Turk communal strife that has wracked the island since December.

Thimayya said Grivas regarded the UN as "a bloody nuisance."

Grivas succeeded 57-year-old Lt. - Gen. George Karayannis who resigned apparently over differences with him.

Grivas went into self-imposed exile in Greece after independence but returned to Cyprus this spring.

It was understood Karayannis did not agree with Grivas over attacks launched Aug. 6 against Turkish Cypriots in northwestern Cyprus which triggered an air intervention by Turkey last weekend and threatened to escalate into a major war.

The Security Council intervened and recommended a halt to all military flights. A shaky cease-fire has been in effect since Tuesday.

Thimayya described a heated half-hour argument Wednesday night among Grivas, Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios and Interior Minister Polycarpou Ghoorghadis. The UN commander said Makarios ordered Grivas and Ghoorghadis to accompany Thimayya to the front lines and Grivas got "very upset."

Thimayya said the 1,000-Turkish-Cypriots remaining in the

Berliners Riot At Red Wall

From AP-Reuters

BERLIN (CP) — West Berliners clustered in knots of silence Thursday on the third anniversary of the Communist-built wall. Then silence turned to violence as rioters surged to the barricade and attacked a Soviet Army car.

"The wall must go!" shouted the demonstrators.

Others sent a truck trailer smashing through barriers put up to keep West Berliners away from the wall between East and West Berlin.

West Berlin police, swinging clubs, dispersed the rock-throwing demonstrators.

A crowd of about 500 West Berliners assembled on the Soviet military car in West Berlin, kicked it and tore off its licence plate as the driver passed through to East Berlin. An American military policeman said there were four Russian officers in the car but the crowd did not attack the passengers.

RELAYS TRAILER

Demonstrators pushed the truck trailer from a parking lot and sent it speeding down the street toward the police barriers. The police jumped aside and the trailer smashed several barriers before stopping some distance from the wall

The demonstrators raced for the breach in the barriers, but police closed ranks, swung their clubs and held off the demonstrators.

The wall was built three years ago by the Communist to stop the westward exodus of East Germans. Since then, 83 East Germans have died trying to scale the wall.

To pay homage to the dead, the West Berlin government asked all West Berliners to observe a three-minute silence at 8 p.m. Thursday. Public transport stopped, and streets generally were deserted.

Princess Anne, Once Toothy Tomboy, Now Potential Beauty

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne, 13 Saturday, has emerged as a potential beauty.

The tomboy with the blonde Princess has added the curves that go with her height and clearly is past the ugly duckling stage. Every day she gets more like her mother, Queen Elizabeth.

Anne's biggest pre - birthday thrill was to star as the only girl in the 17-man crew of Prince Philip's yacht Bloodhound,

In the opening day of the Cowes regatta, premier event of the British yachting season, Anne emerged in jeans and a faded blue shirt.

She lent a willing hand on deck. But her main task in the eight-hour race was to keep out of the way and open beer cans for her father and his shipmates.

That was her first Cowes appearance. Prince Philip, wise in the ways of the sea, insisted she wear a life vest—a strong swimmer before sailing.

Prince Philip obviously enjoys his daughter's company, now. from now on she can be expected to be a Cowes regular.

In this she differs from the Queen, who is not a sailor and ventures afloat only in the line of duty. Prince Philip, in turn, goes to horse racing only when he has to.

Anne shares her mother's interest in horses and is a fearless rider.

One girl in line to the British throne, Anne already has performed the occasional public functions which will be her regular lot once school is over.

Basically she's a country girl, with hunting and fishing high on her list of pleasures. Westerns are her favorite TV programs and that's because of the horses.

Until last year her education was confined to Miss Wooldam at Buckingham Palace, where she shared a tutor with two young friends of the Royal Family.

Now she goes to Benenden, a girls' school set in the heart of Kentish parkland. She sleeps in a dormitory with five other girls and has to take turns in waiting at table and washing dishes. She also will call her Princess Anne, the girls just Anne.

A century ago Anne's future would have been dull indeed. A dozen future kings would have queued for her hand.

Now Europe's monarchies are few and have a surplus of princesses.

Anne, however, will not languish on the shelf. Her aunt, Princess Margaret, and her cousin, Princess Alexandra, set the pattern. She will be free to marry a commoner if she wishes.

Can You Steal Rented Car ? Problem Posed to Magistrate

Can you steal a rented car?

That was the problem posed Magistrate T. Y. Wills this morning by lawyer Paul Bunnell.

Mr. Russell was defending 20-year-old Gordon Alexander Du-Plain of 17 Fifth St.

Mr. DuPlain rented the car on June 17th from a Herts agency in Belleville for a drive to Kingston. It was recovered June 28th when police stopped him near Brighton, as he returned from Florida.

Mr. DuPlain said he contacted the agency twice and renting the car—the last occasion shortly before he set off on the Florida trip. At that time, he had told Inger by phone he would return in the same day.

Mr. DuPlain also claimed no deadline for return of the automobile was filled in on his rental contract.

"I think if you adopt the explanation of the accused it's like opening a bank account (that) you use the right cheques for any amount," argued crown attorney John Pringle.

The accused had made no effort to contact the agency and inform them he was taking the car to Florida, he emphasized.

Mr. Russell argued that the case might only be one of breach of contract.

"He interprets (the contract) as he sees fit," commented the magistrate. "He may believe he can drive but he has no right to such a thing. Does that then make it an offence?"

Since Mr. DuPlain was not informed he could not have the automobile Mr. Russell claimed he had a "color of right" in driving it to Florida.

"I think you're taking in too much there," retorted the Magistrate.

Mr. Russell persisted it was a Herts contract.

"They should be bound by it and they had not filled in a date (of termination)."

"Yes that may be of considerable consequence," reflected Magistrate Wills. "I know it certainly impresses me".

He adjourned his decision to August 20th.

Mr. DuPlain also was charged with theft of the automobile's spare wheel and jack which, he said, he exchanged for gasoline when he ran short of funds.

CONTROL RELAXED

The Argentine government is making a four-month control on the price of the peso in an effort to push sales abroad on wheat and meat and boost home industry. The peso, steady at about 137 to the U.S. dollar since January, went down in value Wednesday to 144, three pesos lower than the 1963 average. At the same time, the government eased its controls on the price of beef in livestock auctions and offered an official incentive to the Far East to push gain sales.

Soviets Get Glimpse of Promised Items

MOSCOW (CP) — A popular attraction in Moscow this hot summer is an exhibition of consumer goods where Soviet citizens can glimpse the good things promised under communism.

The exhibition, containing 20,000 individual items ranging from food and clothing to refrigerators, cars and TV sets, is in the two pavilions in Gorky Park not far from the Kremlin. Opened July 2, the show is expected to run until September. It drew 65,000 the first week.

First Deputy Premier A. N. Kosygin toured the exhibition before the opening and is reported to have said that within a year Russians will no longer have to wait to get a refrigerator.

Some Russians are skeptical about such promises, however. Their mood is reflected by a remark made by a man at one of the exhibits. A guide was asked how long it will take him to get delivery of a refrigerator. Before she could answer, the man interjected: "Only 10 years."

Following which the guide, an employee of the factory where the refrigerator was made, commented about rude remarks of cynics.

SOME PRICES DROP.

The standard-size refrigerator on display, standing about five feet tall with considerable small freezer compartment, was priced at 310 rubles or the equivalent of about $275 Canadian.

There are indications, however, that some domestic goods are dropping in price. For example, an early model of an all-purpose motor-driven cotton utensil sold for 100 rubles when it was later reduced to 95. An up-to-date version at the exhibition was selling for 90.

The price of a portable television set was given as 240 rubles, and a table model with a screen measuring 15 by 12 inches and equipped with its own stand was priced at 300 rubles.

Most spectators take no more than a wistful glance at the cars. The price of a late-model Chaika, with its size and styling that would please even the low-price range in North America, is quoted at 13,000 rubles, about $4,940 Canadian.

Foreigners living here can get the same sum for a fraction of the list price by paying dollars.

The administrator of the exhibition conceded that many of the goods shown are generally not available in stores. The purpose of the show, arranged by the Economic Council and featuring products produced here, was to educate the public and "will be more sophisticated buyers when supply catches up with demand.

National Gallery Stages Canada-at-War Exhibit

By CY FOX

OTTAWA (CP)—Half a century after Europe burst into bloody conflict, the National Gallery is staging an exhibition that commemorates Canada's role in the First World War.

The 14 paintings, seven of which are of massive proportions, are part of the Canadian War Memorials Collection organized in 1917 by the late Lord Beaverbrook.

Vividly depicted by a variety of major artists are such war scenes as a Canadian artillery crew in action, the courage and panic that met the first German gas attack at Ypres and the glow of Canadian Highlanders fresh from a front - line battle.

There are 959 pictures in the collection, all from the 1914-18 war and the period immediately following it.

A. Y. Jackson, David Milne and Fred Varley are among the Canadian artists involved in the program, which sought to establish a graphic and artistic record of Canada's military effort.

But most of the participating painters were British, principally Sir William Orpen and Wyndham Lewis. Augustus John and Wilfred Roberts.

HALIFAX

Lord Beaverbrook, then head of the Canadian War Records Office, offered the secretary of a private committee that sponsored the Canadian War Memorials project.

Many of the resulting pictures now are kept at the National Gallery here and at the War Museum in Ottawa.

The large paintings in the current show are the ones including works by C. R. W. Nevinson and G. E. Moira, are rarely seen because they are too large for the gallery are too small to accommodate them. They will remain on special display until Sept. 27.

The artillery scene, done in contrasting shades of brown, yellow and orange, came from the brush of the Canadian-born Orpen. It is more than 12 feet in height by 11 feet in width.

The gallery describes it and other exhibition paintings as the same high-ceilinged room by Roberts and Edward Wadsworth as "brilliantly evocative of English art history."

FIGHTING FRENCH

Called "A Canadian Gunpit," the scene shows a British flight a big howitzer, a near-by shells painted a sinister yellow. The gunners' faces are distorted seen of the two central figures and, in the upper background, a column of grimly-helmeted infantry mounting a devastated hill.

WRITHING FIGURES

It was Roberts who chose to depict the gas attack. He and Wadsworth belonged to the raucously revolutionary movement known as "Vorticism" which Lewis had helped forge across the London art scene in 1914-15.

Lewis died in 1957.

The Roberts canvas offers a multi-coloured swirl of figures writhing as they flee the gas and stumbling through gun installations manned by stolidly determined Canadians, some with cloth wrapped around their noses as defence against the oncoming lethal cloud.

Eric Kennington, a British painter known for his illustrations of the literary works of T. E. Lawrence, presents a broad spectrum of life and Canadians in a victory march.

At the other end of the room is the looming bulk of a camouflaged ship in drydock, a Wadsworth picture which features the concealing patterns of the camouflage paint as a mass of brilliant whites and blues against a background of seaport industry.

David Bomber, now receiving wider appreciation than from his British countrymen, is represented by a weird subterranean picture of Canadian sappers in action. The "modernistic" touch stands in radical contrast to the serene portraits that hang nearby.

The almost photographic portraits by Orpen include a special study from 1917 to 1919, and four of his divisional commanders.

Robert Wodehouse, curator of the gallery's war art, says the Orpen pictures have special historical significance — because you have portrayals of the first all-Canadian team of corps commanders."

Russ Girls Now Happy Pravda Solved Their Problems

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP) — For the girls who work in the Krasni Vostok textile factory at Zaraisk, life was drab and often rowdy.

Now things are reported changing.

Zaraisk is a small town near Moscow. Its only big employer is the textile factory, which largely by girls brought up in orphanages.

Not long ago a group of these girls wrote to the Communist party newspaper Pravda, complaining about conditions in the dormitories they were forced to be housed. They particularly cited House No. 21, where "hooligans and rogues" were free to charge.

Pravda, doing its own investigating, found that "nobody really cares for the dormitories and no educational activity is going on there."

The girls in No. 21 were wide open, and the staircase walls defaced by signatures. Every floor shared only two of showers to break it open. The dormitory was infested by idlers and passers-by." Pravda reported.

The rules here are: come in anybody you like at any time. . . there is no caretaker or watchman."

HOODLIGANS INVADE

Most of the "hooligan youth" who frequented the place were from the same factory. "Why are they not brought to order?" the newspaper asked.

It complained of accommodation of the young girls with that enjoyed by older female workers at Zaraisk, who live in large rooms containing about 10 beds each, some including children.

Those are rooms for people with "taste," it said.

The industrial Don River basin, in the Ukraine, miners enjoyed clean, cosy rooms and modern furniture, plus community centres with newspaper files, magazines, table games and TV sets. There is also a cinema in every dormitory and not a single week goes by with-out "cultural" events, organized recreational evenings.

The girls' directors found time to take part in workers' discussions. By contrast it was always "somebody business, business and production" with the directors of the textile factory.

DOESN'T MEET QUOTA

And, Pravda noted, the mines fulfil their quotas while the Krasni Vostok factory doesn't.

After the letter to Pravda, things suddenly began to happen in the factory dormitories. New furniture was installed, including cupboards and shelves.

A community centre opened, complete with newspapers, magazines and table games. Paved sidewalks and flower beds appeared.

A watchman was installed on the staircase. A Young Communist League secretary moved in with the other girls.

"In one week," commented Pravda gaustfully, "they (factory officials) have done what they couldn't do for many months."

The newspaper didn't say what became of the hooligan youths.

Salvage Crew Unloading Grain

CORNWALL (CP)—A salvage crew began unloading grain cargo today from the New Brunswicker, a freighter which ran aground Wednesday in the St. Lawrence Seaway 11 miles east of here.

A seaway authority spokesman said the vessel would be lightened before it can be pulled free by two tugs standing-by.

The spokesman said he did not believe the ship suffered any damage.

The New Brunswicker, owned by Papachristidis Company Limited of Montreal, was carrying grain from the Lakehead to Montreal.

Remarks Fathers Get Tired Of Hearing

— By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that fathers get tired of hearing:

"Don't take off your shoes. Don't you remember — we're going out tonight."

"Is the head of the house in? Oh, excuse me — you're the head of the house?"

"I hate to trouble you at home, sir. But I'm sure that after you listen to the importance I have for you from the Thanatopsis Life Insurance Company about its new all-family protection plan, you'll bless the day I knocked on your door."

"That your father coming in now, young man. Just wait until I tell him what you've been up to all day."

"You can spank me if you want to, dad. But if you do do —don't expect any present from me next father's day."

"No, I'm not going to cut the roast. You slice it. After all, that's a man's work."

"I don't understand why you don't want to talk to me about your office. Other husbands I know like to discuss their jobs with their wives. They even ask for their advice."

"What', this blonde hair doing on your coat? We are getting real interested in our new secretary, aren't we?"

"What do you mean you need lunch money? What did you do with the $3 I gave you yesterday?"

"I know you told me not to phone you at the office unless it's an emergency, dear. But this is an emergency. Can you stop off at the supermarket and pick up a pound of bacon, a dozen eggs, two boxes of breakfast food, four bottles of milk and one beef kidney for the cat, and. . .

"Daddy, it's not fair for you to beg the referee's decision. Who wants to listen to another old political speech? We want to watch that new program, Ratfinks in Space. It's real cool."

I spoke to the orthodontist today about Danny's teeth. He says that to straighten them in time for about two years and $750. Do you think we ought to go ahead now— all until the doctor takes Danny's tonsils out?"

"You'll have to sleep on the living room sofa, George. Judy and her girl friends are having a pyjama party tonight."

"You're tired? What about me? If you think slaving all day for a husband and three kids is any bed of roses, let me tell you that. . . .

"No, I don't approve of your running off to play golf with those lockermoon Mott friends of yours. This is the weekend you promised me faithfully you'd stay home and cut the crabgrass."

"Aw, gee, dad, don't you ever remember what it was like to be a kid yourself?"

Stanley Hagerman Succeeds L. A. Young as President of Stewart-Warner of Canada

Retirement of L. A. Young as president of Stewart-Warner Corporation of Canada, Limited, and appointment of Stanley D. Hagerman to succeed him were announced today by Bennett Archambault, chairman and president of Stewart-Warner Corporation. Mr. Hagerman's appointment will become effective September 1, the day following Mr. Young's retirement.

A native of Belleville, "Art" Young joined Stewart-Warner in 1922 as assistant plant manager, becoming plant manager four years later at the age of 25 years. He became a director of the company in 1929, general manager in 1938, and president in 1940.

Mr. Hagerman joined Stewart-Warner at Belleville in 1928. In 1954 he was transferred from the position of general sales manager here to that of manager, Industrial Commerce, and in 1956 he became an executive vice-president. He became export department at Chicago, and has been director of export sales for the Corporation since January 1, 1962.

Fire Marshal Probes Four Grimsby Fires

GRIMSBY, Ont. (CP)—Fire marshal's investigators and police Tuesday continued to investigate the cause of four incendiary fires in two days in the Hamiltonian community.

Police said there were no new developments although arson is suspected in all four fires.

The latest blaze was Wednesday night in a town-owned tool shed. It was confined to little damage. However, volunteer firemen and the Grimsby Corps of Frontiersmen went on emergency standby duty throughout the night.

Mayor John Hewitt has appealed to citizens to "help police combat the lawless elements that are rampaging through our streets." The mayor said he was referring to a group of Grimsby youths who are believed responsible for a series of crimes in this town.

Three fires were thought to have been deliberately set Tuesday. A warehouse was destroyed, the police chief's office was burned out and minor damage was caused in a third fire in a town bar.

Two Charged With Abduction Of Taxi Driver

TORONTO (CP)—Two men have been charged with abduction and robbery after a Toronto taxi driver told police he escaped two abductors by leaping from his cab while it was travelling at 60 miles an hour along Highway 401.

Peter Katchutas, 28, who told police the men talked about killing him during a high-speed drive towards Kitchener leaped to freedom after jamming a cigarette into the face of one of his abductors.

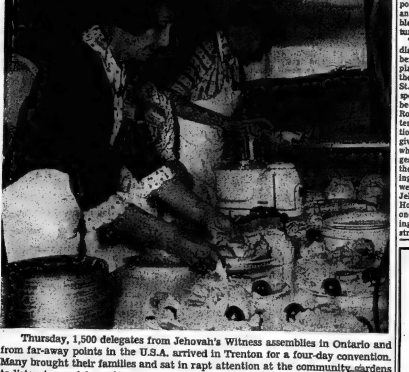
Suffering only from a "stiff neck," he hitchhiked to a Kitchener police station. Police arrested two men in Kitchener a few hours later.

"There'll be no more taxi driving for me," Katchutas said Thursday. His cab is up for sale.

Want Pictures Of Old Camp Petawawa

CAMP PETAWAWA — Old sweats who once served at this Ottawa Valley military base are being hunted by Army officials now stationed here.

Reason for the search is the campsite's Diamond Jubilee year which falls due in 1965.



To celebrate the 60th anniversary of the camp, soldiers here are trying to re-construct a pictorial history of the base which went into operation in 1905 and are having their problems locating photographs of the earlier days.

Militia units from Halifax to Winnipeg used this 140 square mile site as training ground before and after Warold War I and the army has strong hopes that some old photographs might be discovered tucked away somewhere in an old family album or trunk.

What also will be to do is borrow the photographs for a short period of time so that copies could be made and their history brought up to date.

Army officials here are guaranteeing safe return of the old photos which might have some sentimental value to their owners.

Contact at the base is the Public Relations Officer, c/o Headquarters, Camp Petawawa, Ontario.

Thursday, 1,500 delegates from Jehovah's Witness assemblies in Ontario and from far-away points in the U.S.A. arrived in Trenton for a four-day convention. Many brought their families and sat in rapt attention at the community gardens to listen to special speakers.

German 'Buzz-Bomb' Taken To Ottawa National Museum

TRENTON — A German World War II "Buzz-Bomb" left No. 6 Repair Depot over the weekend bound for the National Aeronautical Museum in Ottawa.

The bomb will make the two hundred mile journey by flatbed truck and will probably excite considerable interest en route.

During the war thousands of these V1 Flying Bombs were launched from continental bases against England. They were termed "Buzz-Bombs" or "Doodle-Bugs" by the undaunted British, because of their strangely spluttering engine.

The machine weighed over two tons and carried nearly a ton of high explosive in the nose. The fuselage was just slightly over 20 feet and the machine had a wing span of 17 feet. The propulsion unit, which was mounted on top of the fuselage extended the machine's length to 26 feet.

The V1 Flying Bomb had a rudimentary guidance system which was originally constructed but extremely simple in detail and was designed to control the machine's flight by elevator and rudder movement only.

The Germans developed a piloted version of the Flying Bomb and this type of V1 was fitted with cockpit and aelerons. It is uncertain whether pilots were expected to accompany their machines to final destruction or whether they were to parachute to relative safety after setting the flying bomb on its final course.

In any event although a good number were destroyed by anti-aircraft fire along the south coast and by aircraft interceptions.

Vessel Aground Blocking Seaway

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — Salvage tugs worked Thursday to free a Canadian grain vessel which ran aground Wednesday night in the St. Lawrence Seaway near Summerstown, Ont., partially blocking traffic.

Seaway officials said The New Brunswicker, owned by Papachristidis Company Limited of Montreal, carried a full load of grain.

Cause of the grounding and extent of damage was not immediately known. One-way shipping was maintained around the vessel.

MANILA (AP) — The Travel and Tourist Industry Board has ruled visitors may stay in the Philipines for 15 days without visas. The previous limit was 72 hours.

Witnesses Open Assembly With Large Crowd

TRENTON — The Community Gardens yesterday became a huge 'Kingdom Hall' for the visiting delegates to the Fruitage of the Spirit" district assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in Trenton. "The first day was a complete success," reported Ross Hoffman, presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses in Trenton, "with 2,781 in attendance for the afternoon sessions."

While most delegates are coming from Eastern Ontario, some from as far south as Missouri have arrived. Over 400 persons have been accommodated in private homes of Trenton residents as well as many others in hotels and motels, said Mr. Hoffman. "Such hospitality as we have experienced makes possible an assembly of such size; it would not otherwise be possible, and we are grateful to the Trentonians who have opened their homes to us."

"On our first night," Mr. Hoffman continued, "we heard two and one half hour discussion on how to search out answers to Bible questions, plus a minute examination of how there is complete harmony between all 66 books of the Bible and that all its teachings are necessary in order to give a complete picture of an every or prophecy." The first was informative," added Hoffman, "as there has been considerable discussion recently on the authenticity of certain parts of Genesis."

Donald Walters of Ottawa, assembly chairman, welcomed all the visiting delegates and introduced the afternoon speakers who discussed the first four of the fruitages of God's Spirit as outlined in Galatians 5:22. Thursday evening round table discussions were presented highlighting the importance of using both Hebrew and Greek portions of the Bible in getting answers to Scriptural questions.

This morning, after a baptism discussion, presentation of a number of new Witnesses took place in the swimming pool of the Dutch Mill Inn on Dundas St. E. "This evening a public speaking training school has been scheduled," reported Mr. Ross Hoffman, presiding minister of the Trenton congregation. "Various delegates will give Bible discourses, after which they will receive suggestions on how to improve their speaking ability. A meeting of this nature is held each week in all congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses," Mr. Hoffman explained, "and anyone interested in public speaking will find the program instructive."

Longlair Leghorns

MOUNT ALBERT, Ont. (CP) The leghorns are longhairs at Feathercrest Farm.

When the big automated egg farm 25 miles north of Toronto opened two years ago, the owners provided their 60,000 laying hens with the best of everything, including piped-in music.

But the music was largely "rock 'n' roll and the hens just didn't dig it, says Len Rosenberg, one of the owners.

"Our quality dropped and so did egg production. We didn't flight. We switched to FM"

The classics and other soothing music apparently appealed to the hens because 70 per cent of them now leave an egg a day in appreciation.

But that's not all the hens have to be thankful for. The five buildings in which they are kept—two birds to a cage—are air-conditioned, specially lighted and antiseptic.

Each hen has its own eight inches of feed and water trough.

There is no pecking society here and they have plenty to eat and drink, plus soothing music," says Mr. Rosenberg. "I suppose they might get bored but never cold."

Each of the buildings is tended by one woman, with washing, grading and packaging done by machine. The eggs reaching store counters within 48 hours of being laid.

No fine enters the buildings without his clothing being treated with antiseptic and donning plastic boots.

The only thing that keeps this from being a complete paradise for the hens, in fact, is that they're through when they reach the age of 18 months. Another 24,000 chicks or pullets are housed elsewhere ready to take their place when they're retired.

Bright Scholars

Grade 13 results are out.

Ten students attending Belleville schools are Ontario scholars, that is they averaged 80 per cent or over on eight papers.

The Grade 13 curriculum has been under severe criticism. It is alleged that it is much too heavy to encourage proper study, that it encourages memorization and "cramming," that those who fail do not deserve to be criticized.

Yet some students not only manage to pass every subject they take, but to obtain excellent marks.

Shall we write this off as merely the result of a willingness to "cram" and an ability to memorize?

We think not. These students, we suggest, would prove the best over-all students under any system.

That is not to say that they will necessarily enjoy the greatest success in life. Success comes in many packages. It is sometimes granted to those of little scholastic ability. And even where this ability is required, it may only be in a certain, narrow field, in some specialty for which the fortunate man or woman shows a special aptitude.

Far be it from us to decry such success. But this, we suggest, should not detract from the achievements of those boys and girls who, writing Grade 13 examinations, show an all-round ability and obtain good marks in subjects of widely differing natures.

In fact, we would go so far as to suggest that there is a prestige attaching to the selection as an Ontario scholar today which will be diminished when the authorities have got through revising the course so that it is less demanding.

It takes more than a good memory and persistence to average 80 per cent on eight or more papers of the present course; it takes a willingness to make sacrifices in the pursuit of an objective and courage. It takes, too, a naturally bright mind. Is not that worth honoring?

Land-Fill System Works

Our Trenton correspondent reports residents of the Stanley Heights subdivision in that town now admit that a golf job is being made of the task of filling a gravel pit with garbage. "Some of them go so far as to say the pit is beginning to look downright attractive," we are told. Earlier, residents had vigorously opposed the town council's decision to use the pit for a garbage dump.

This reminds us of protests voiced by some residents of the area when the swamp on the west side of the Bay Bridge Road here was being converted into what is now a fine public park. We should imagine that today everybody in the district is delighted with the transformation.

We are not so optimistic as to expect that these two examples will deter residents in the vicinity of property chosen as garbage dumps in the future from objecting vigorously. We do suggest, though, that municipal councils ought to stiffen their backs and resist pressures to abandon plans approved by qualified engineers. In most, if not all, cases, these plans involve making an existing nuisance or eyesore worse, before it is made better—but the improvement does not take so long to achieve as some fear and when it comes it is impressive and permanent.

The person who first invented the sanitary land-fill method of disposing of garbage is owed a debt by many. We believe that it was first tried in Canada in the Hamilton or Oakville area, some twenty years ago. That is to say this was the first time the system was used with the deliberate intention of improving existing conditions—the mere covering of refuse with soil must surely have been used in haphazard fashion much earlier, probably back in the days of the first pioneers. Now, however, it is difficult to imagine how any progressive urban community could dispose of its garbage without resorting to this method or to costly incineration.

A Good Trick

More than 150 Ontario home economics teachers are taking a two-week crash course in family development.

If this works, there are thousands of married couples throughout the nation who are going to feel rather foolish. They have been devoting years to the same project, working seven days a week, including summer holidays.

Strictly Personal
On Emotional Need of Child

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In my column of a few days ago, on the learning process in very young children, I dwelt on the fact that if the brain is not sufficiently and properly activated in the first few years it may never reach its full capacity in adult life.

Even the act of "seeing" is a learning process, contrary to the popular belief that we see "naturally" and without effort. Prof. J. D. Young of England illustrates this from cases where people born blind have later received their sight after an operation. He tells us:

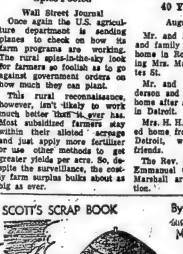
"The patient on opening his eyes for the first time gets little or no enjoyment; indeed, he finds the experience painful. He proves to be completely unable to pick out objects by sight, to recognize what they are, or to name them. He merely sees a spinning mass of light and colour. He has no conception of space with objects in it, although he knows all about objects and their names by touch. . .

Of course, even such a person blind from birth must take a little time to learn to recognize these objects by sight. "Not a little time," replies Prof. Young, "but a very, very long time, in fact years. His brain has not been trained in the rules of seeing, rules usually learnt by the long years of exploration with the eyes during childhood."

Contrary to what we might suppose, forty years of experience, the eye and brain do not simply "record" in a sort of photographic manner the pictures that pass in front of us — rather, we have to "learn" to see the world as we do.

In his prize-winning monograph a few years ago, Dr. Ralph Gerard mentioned the work on chimpanzees raised in total darkness for the first months of their lives. "Although the eye and brain were unmotivated," he reported, "the animals never acquired the ability to use pattern vision. During the maturing process certain things that should have been stimulated in the nervous system as a result of functioning, just didn't happen."

If this is true in the case of the eyes, it must be even truer of the brain itself. Whatever else "thinking" includes, it also involves neural patterns and pathways, electrical circuits, as it were, which develop through use. Just like vision, is a habit — and if the habit is not acquired and cultivated from the beginning of life, the nervous system block off those pathways.



This explains enormous amounts of money and time on the physical welfare of our children, but disastrously little on their intellectual and emotional needs — even to the point of denying their importance.

Spies Fooled

Wall Street Journal

Once again the U.S. agriculture department is sending planes to check on how its farm programs are working. The purpose: spies-in-the-sky look for farmers so foolish as to go against government orders on how much land can plant.

This rural reconnaissance, however, isn't likely to work much to the department's advantage. Most subsidized farmers stay within their allotted acreage and just apply more fertilizer or use other methods to get greater yields per acre. So, despite the surveillance, the cowly farm surplus bulks about as big as ever.

Excise Stamp Is Useless

Vancouver Sun

The Excise Tax Act requires that a stamp be placed on all packages of tobacco products—cigarettes, cigars, even snuff—to show the manufacturer has paid excise tax and excise duty.

But why any stamps?

Stamps may have served a purpose in 1920—when the cigarette industry was in its infancy—but certainly not now.

In doing away with the stamps, the government could also with draw a silly, unenforced unenforceable law.

That's the one that says any person who opens a package of cigarettes without breaking the stamp—or is caught in possession of an open pack with an unbroken stamp—shall be fined $25 for the first offence and $100 for each subsequent offence.

As a point of interest the revenue department knows of no one ever prosecuted for these crimes.

Hard to Tell From Scum

Ottawa Journal

A Philadelphia, Miss., resident was explaining or telling a reporter the other day:

"If I find that only the scum in our community did this lynching I'll tell you where the bodies are. But if I find that some of our good citizens just got carried away and joined the scum in this thing, then I'll never tell you or anybody."

As if turned out, the bodies of the three civil rights workers missing six weeks were found anyway, and it still remains uncertain whether some of our good citizens did the lynching.

Mississippians are also reported concerned about the alleged use of federal money to obtain information about the bodies. And a New York Herald Tribune writer reported from the scene:

"It seems hard to believe, but people here were much more ashamed of having a Judge among them than of having eight lynchers among them."

There is little reason to be taken from a picture of Mississippians concerned about the morality of those who would propose such a crime. Nor is it easy to admire that form of community spirit that would protect good citizens who just got carried away and murdered a few people.

Survivors of the three men who died in Mississippi will find it hard to differentiate between scum and good citizens.

Gambia Soon Independent

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Britain's last remaining West African dependency becomes a nation on Feb. 16. Gambia, small enclave which is primarily associated with the growing of ground nuts, takes charge of its own destiny at that time. . .

It is one of the oldest areas in the disappearing Empire and its history of association can trace back to the day of the Spanish Armada. It was in Armada Year, 1588, that a group of English merchants received a royal charter from Queen Elizabeth I to trade with Gambia.

In the 376 years since that time it has variously been associated with Senegambia, Sierra Leone and finally became a separate colony in 1888.

Gambia enters nationhood with one place of equipment that seems an integral part of such status. In 1963 it had adverse trade balance of more than $1,000,000. It is also the first to have master development plan financed very largely by British capital.

The Gambian constitution will be democratic in the sense we understand the word and will offer all the fundamental human rights, the British form of judiciary and the public duties and responsibilities imposed on the leaders that are common in the West. It has one unique feature that Canada does not, which is the inclusion of procedure for local amendment of the constitution.

Gambia at its own request will become a monarchy through the reigning sovereign in London and a member of the Commonwealth in this way.

Gambia is moving into its heritage with a minimum of difficulty due in measure to 376 years of British associations.

Pony Popular In Germany

West German Bulletin

In Germany as in many lands, the horse has been on his way out. But now at least a partial restoration of the habitat of nature has been found — in the pony.

The pony idea received its strongest push when, in 1958, a campaign was launched in Germany to save the ponies of Iceland, where 5,000 or more are born annually and only about a thousand can be used.

The Iceland pony began to be recommended as a children's pet, the perfect family steed, tough, friendly, easy and cheap to maintain. The idea caught on, a success: many thousands of ponies "emigrated" to serve in pleasant ways in their new country.

By now, ponyback rambling has become a favorite recreation: there are a number of pony-trekking farms and in private gardens, the children's animals carry and pull with goodwill and reliability.

Not that the Iceland pony has ousted the Shetland, that always was and still is a favorite in Germany for some purposes. A complete the story of ponies in Germany today, the most recent arrival must be mentioned — the Fjord pony from Norway that is proving its usefulness in many a farm. There are also the two kinds native to Germany: the sauerland or mountain pony, the Hallinger, and the Dueimaen pony that comes from the only wild-horse stud farm in Europe, near Dueimaen in Westphalia.

Drink Toasts Sitting Down

St. Thomas Times-Journal

The British Defence Ministry announced that from last Friday, the Royal Marines will drink toasts sitting down only. The right to do so was granted by the Queen in honor of the 300th birthday of the corps.

That seems a peculiar distinction, but it will be much prized by the Marine officers.

In the days when the Royal Navy was known as the wooden walls of Old England," the officers' mess was so low that when any toast was to be proposed at dinner, the men could not stand up straight to honor it. So the King's permission was given to remain seated. .

Such permission was not conferred upon the Royal Marines, who have always resented that they were not generally regarded as fighting soldiers, and even girls are not more squeamish than their brothers about seeing violence on television. .

Mr. Martin comes out strongly against the near-hysterical attitude towards society depicted in these films. Society is usually pictured as a neutral or even hostile force. "The impression created is that good men have no other outlet for their goodness than to be pallid criminals. . .For good to operate, evil has to be the initiative: it always strikes first."

Even more alarming is the attitude towards women. In Westerns, for instance, they are shown as a threat to the male, often allied to the criminal, or as a hysterical victim of history in typical gambling Westerns. In "private eye" films, the situation is even worse: women are depicted almost exclusively as "accessories to sex" and the unwilling tools of the "bad" men.

"A woman as an active, intelligent, independent agent of good has not been created."

The effect of this on adolescent girls is stressed in the report published by the Nuffield Foundation in England which Mr. Martin quotes: "Television tends . . . to state, reinforce girls' feeling of insecurity (characteristic of adolescents) by failing to provide them with reassuring models."

As Mr. Martin points out: "If society seems to take the public authority to help finance marriage guidance and at the same time to permit the flow of anti-marriage assault upon the emotional stability. . .of adolescent girls."

In his conclusion on the survey Mr. Martin advises: "Many people who are worried about violence on television firmly believe that it cannot be a question of cutting out brutal scenes . . .The breakthrough is to be looked for in more subtle ways to lift the quality and variety of films for younger children, and to educating them about camera ers and consumers in how the instrument works."

Variety In Quebec

Montreal Gazette

One of the difficulties in Canada today is that Canadians in other parts of the country tend to take seriously any French - speaking Canadian says as representing what all French - speaking Canadians think. In this tendency — the tendency to believe that any one can speak for all — much of the misunderstanding in Canada today has its origin. It is seriously undervaluing the quality of life in Quebec to suppose that there is no rich variety of mind and thought, but that all, without independence of conviction, think the same as all things.

To Your Good Health
People Avoid Truth if They Think It Will Be Unpleasant

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has pains across his chest. He fears that he has heart trouble, just like his dad.

He won't go to a doctor. I think he may be afraid to find out the truth. Yet he is very sensible and mature about other things. .

If you would print this in your column and he reads it, maybe he will take your advice.

Do you think he might have heart trouble? — Mrs. W. H.

I suppose that sometimes a day will pass without at least one letter which says just what this one does — a person is frightened, and won't go to the doctor as a result.

This problem isn't what you'd call unusual. We're all afraid of something. Some of us are afraid of being ill, some of being poor, some of looking like fools in public, some of being hurt, some of hurting somebody. Show me a person who isn't afraid of something, and I'll say that he's superhuman.

Take a mosquito and the mosquito is scared enough to buzz away. Ignite a firecracker under a horse, and the horse runs. Shout at the door and the dog slinks away. It's the vegetable kingdom that isn't "afraid." A tree doesn't lie down when a tornado comes, and if a mushroom had any backbone it had enough sense to had known better than to have mushroomed in late spring.

So, as I was about to say before I got lost in the mixed-up frame of mind, it's natural enough to want to avoid it the truth if you think it's going to be unpleasant.

But if we are that sensitive emotionally, we ought to be able to be sensitive enough to know how happy we'll be if the truth turns out to be good.

It is rather rare for a person to learn, out of a clear sky, that he has heart trouble. I've been a doctor long enough to have seen a lot of this.

The fellow who makes up his mind to be afraid of heart trouble (or cancer, or nearly anything else) just because his father had it, is usually wrong. There are many causes of chest pain other than heart disease. The same is true of any other ailments that people decide to be afraid of.

I wish I knew a solution to this attitude, but I don't. Sometimes I think that the wives of worried husbands (or husbands of worried wives) might do best by agreeing, or seeming to agree with their spouses, and say, "As long as I you have this trouble, why not get such help as is possible?"

This might help — and then the man with imaginary heart trouble would go to the doctor and discover that all he has is muscular cramps, a jittery stomach or tension.

It's an emotional problem. Most of us, when we finally face up to it, have a pretty vital issue, meet it with courage. Fear, does its worst when we are afraid of fear.

Dear Dr. Molner: I took a cold pill for 18 months. Could this have caused a extremely nervous condition and a constipation that has continued for three months? I hoped the practice? — Mrs. M. S.

Yes, diet pills are noted for causing such symptoms which should wear off quickly when you discontinue the medication. so I suspect something else in your case. Has your thyroid activity been checked?

Dear Dr. Molner: A member of our family says he cannot be the father of his three sons because he is the male in a boy-girl twin situation. Is there any scientific basis for his claim? — Mrs. G. S.

Certainly not.

Anxiety Real TV Threat

UNESCO Features

Contrary to popular belief that television films depicting violence are dangerous for children and may cause juvenile delinquency, the results of a survey carried out in Australia show that violence is not the real danger. A deeper and more serious problem lies in the anxiety these films arouse and in the attitude they create towards society.

The survey was made by Mr. David Martin for the Australian Broadcasting Control Board and published under the title "Television Tension Programmes". Mr. Martin reviewed and analyzed 163 television programmes which included Western films, "private eye" films, and institutional crime films, in which the police represent "authority" tracking down the criminal, and adventure films.

In his explanation of "tension films", Mr. Martin says that "suspense itself is the most important ingredient. They all operate on the basis of arousing anxiety in one or less intense kind, dealing by and large with threats, directly or indirectly, to the person and to survival."

Anxiety is created chiefly by uncertainty as to the final outcome of the film: the more unpredictable it is the more tense the more anxiety created. The role played by children in Western and adventure films is also a factor in producing anxiety. The child is usually seen as helpless, dominated by ruthless adults or by the learning of anxiety." Too often there is no conviction or solution: the tension is maintained up to the last minute, and the denouement is feeble compared with the anxiety built up.

In these films, Mr. Martin notes that the pattern of violence has not altered much since the late fifties, but it has become more complex, more subtle and more introverted. This applies also to the Western which more and more resembles the crime film because the old stereotyped formula appealed only to the very young. Violence in the form of killing with guns or other weapons is not particularly frightening to children, and even girls are not more squeamish than their brothers about seeing violence on television. .

Mr. Martin comes out strongly against the near-hysterical attitude towards society depicted in these films. Society is usually pictured as a neutral or even hostile force. "The impression created is that good men have no other outlet for their goodness than to be pallid criminals. . .For good to operate, evil has to be the initiative: it always strikes first."

Even more alarming is the attitude towards women. In Westerns, for instance, they are shown as a threat to the male, often allied to the criminal, or as a hysterical victim of history in typical gambling Westerns. In "private eye" films, the situation is even worse: women are depicted almost exclusively as "accessories to sex" and the unwilling tools of the "bad" men.

"A woman as an active, intelligent, independent agent of good has not been created."

The effect of this on adolescent girls is stressed in the report published by the Nuffield Foundation in England which Mr. Martin quotes: "Television tends . . . to state, reinforce girls' feeling of insecurity (characteristic of adolescents) by failing to provide them with reassuring models."

As Mr. Martin points out: "If society seems to take the public authority to help finance marriage guidance and at the same time to permit the flow of anti-marriage assault upon the emotional stability. . .of adolescent girls."

In his conclusion on the survey Mr. Martin advises: "Many people who are worried about violence on television firmly believe that it cannot be a question of cutting out brutal scenes . . .The breakthrough is to be looked for in more subtle ways to lift the quality and variety of films for younger children, and to educating them about camera ers and consumers in how the instrument works."

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials faltered and took fractional losses during moderate morning trading on the stock market today. Speculative activity was at a minimum, but produced a few significant changes.

Raglan gained 21 cents to $1.97, Canadian Homestead 15 cents to $1.10 and National Petroleum 15 cents to $4.15.

Canadian Dyne rose four cents to $1.65 and United Corp. stock six cents to 63 cents. Genex lost one cent to 45 cents and Consolidated Brewis eight cents to 77 cents.

Losses among papers and utilities set the pace for the industrial list. In papers, Abitibi, Consolidated and Dominion Tar each dropped ¼, while MacMillan Bloedel fell ¼. B.C. Forest Products and Great Lakes each lacked on ¼.

Some selected issues had small gains. Industrial Acceptance and Salada Foods each rose ¼ and Moore Corp. and Traders Finance A advanced ¼ each.

In Senior base metals, Falbridge lost ¼ and Noranda ½. Trading in golds and oils was light with few changes.

The industrial index dropped .17 to 159.88 and the TSE index .19 to 140.26. Golds fell .15 to 132.46 but base metals rose .07 to 66.84 and western oils .31 to 97.57. Volume was 1,174,000 shares compared with 1,058,003 traded at the same time Thursday.

Prices improved in Thursday's trading.

Industrials were paced by gains of 3, by Chrysler to 58½, and Supertest ordinary to 22, both 1964 highs. The latter has gained 4¾ since Friday's close on takeover rumors which surround it every year or so. Massey-Ferguson tacked on ¼ to 29¼ and CPR 1 to 47¼. Financial stocks were solidly ahead.

A late selling spree sent Raglan reeling in the speculative mining section. On turnover of more than 350,000 shares it dipped 57 cents to $1.76. Other speculative issues experienced smaller price swings. Consolidated Brewis was ahead nine cents to 45 cents while Genex eased two cents to 46 cents. Windfall was unchanged at 68 cents and traded in a range of 65-72 cents.

Falconbridge ran its gain so far this week to 4¼ with an advance of 34¢ to a 1964 high of 76¼. Other base metals also firmed. Inco tacked on 1 to 85½, Labrador ¼ to 33¼ and Cominco ¼ to 37¼. Rio Algom was up 15 cents to 39.65 and United Keno Hill 15 cents to $7.60.

Golds were the only major segment of the market to show an index loss. This was due chiefly to a decline of ¾ by Dome to 20.

On index, industrials were ahead .47 to 160.05, base metals .09 to 66.77, western oils .53 to 97.36 and the exchange index .43 to 140.33. Golds were down .18 to 132.65. Volume for the session was 3,969,000 shares compared with 3,6637,000 Wednesday.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Trading on slaughter cattle opened on the dull side on Monday with prices barely steady to last week's closing levels at the Ontario public stockyards this week.

Dry - fed lots sold well and were in short supply. Buyers continued their pressure on the grass-fed unfinished kinds. Dry-fed heifers sold at strong prices with the shelley grass types holding barely steady.

Good cows sold on a weak demand with the lower grades trading steadily. Bulls remained unchanged with a good demand for replacements continued dull.

Veal calf prices were unevenly lower with buyers applying pressure to common, medium and the low end of good grades. Hog prices were higher. Lambs gained during the middle of the week but slipped to close steady to the week's opening.

Cattle receipts were estimated at about 11,000 head, about 3,000 head more than last week and some 1,400 head more than the same week in 1963. Receipts were higher than last week due to the early trading and a build-up of replacement types for the special stocker and feeder sale. Heifers cattle receipts totalled 832 head, 600 head more than last week. Western steer calf receipts were 120 head more than last week at 176 head. There were no shipments to Eastern Canadian slaughterers nor exports off the market to the United States.

Beatles Will Be Attraction For One Night at Exhibition

BY WALTER HAYES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Seven years ago Elvis Presley stormed this city on its ear.

When the gyrating singer from Memphis, Tenn., stormed into town Aug. 31, 1957, in a white convertible, thousands of teen-agers went wild.

Shouting and screaming, they mobbed his car, taking the pick bits of his clothing before police rescued him.

After it was over, officials of the Pacific National Exhibition, which brought Presley here, swore a beard to say "never again."

But memories are short and the PNE is taking the plunge again, this time with the Beatles.

The swinging quartet from Liverpool who have played to squealing teen - age audiences from England to Australia, open the exhibition Aug. 22.

It's expected to be the biggest single performance of their careers, say PNE officials who are expressing a confident sell-out of 27,000 for the one - night stand.

Six weeks ago tickets went on sale and the box offices were flooded. Many teen agers showed up in person in advance. Thousands of tickets went within hours but at the end of the day 15,000 remained unsold.

DIDN'T ADVERTISE

"We had been led to believe there would be a sell-out so we didn't advertise," says Ed Moyer, PNE publicity man. Apparently what happened is that many who wanted tickets didn't bother to try, figuring they'd all be sold the first day anyway.

Moyer isn't worried, however. "If necessary we can sell tickets the night of the performance, but we don't expect them to last that long."

Three busloads of Beatle fans are coming from Victoria for the show, another from Nanaimo. Individual ticket requests have been received from Seattle, Portland, Ore., Calgary and Edmonton, and as far away as Alaska. Radio stations as far east as Winnipeg have asked for tickets to be given as prizes in radio contests.

PNE officials say they are taking precautions to ensure that the Beatles aren't involved in the riotous scenes that greeted Presley. About 200 regular, and special police and PNE ushers will be employed to keep crowds under control.

The entire 12th floor of Hotel Georgia has been booked for the group and all entrances to the hotel will be guarded by police. E. W. Hudson, hotel manager, says he has been in correspondence with a hotel in Australia where the Beatles stayed and has received some advice on how to handle the situation here.

The Beatles will perform at the north end of Empire Stadium on the PNE grounds. Seats will be placed on the field near the stage and only a portion of the stadium's grandstand seats will be sold. Beatle managers say the remaining seats are too far away from the stage.

First Schools In Mississippi Desegregate

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—Extensive security measures were taken today for the first attempt to integrate public grade schools in Mississippi, the only state still to boast a totally segregated school system below the college level.

The Gulf Coastt report of Biloxi is under federal court orders to desegregate. Class room work will not begin until Sept. 31.

Security measures included prohibiting newspaper men and photographers from the vicinity of the 10 grade schools during registration hours, prohibiting crowds from gathering and keeping traffic moving near the schools.

There was no estimate of how many, if any, Negro pupils might seek to register at previously all-white schools.

Biloxi is Mississippi's third-largest city, with more than 44,000 persons.

Plan to Make Kenya Republic

From Reuters-AP

NAIROBI (CP) — Kenya will introduce a constitution in December making it a republic within the British Commonwealth, Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta told Parliament today.

The constitution will be introduced Dec. 12, first anniversary of Kenya's independence from Britain.

Under Kenya's present association with the Commonwealth, Queen Elizabeth is, in effect, also Queen of Kenya. As a republic, this tie will be loosened and Kenya will acknowledge the Queen merely as head of the Commonwealth.

Kenyatta said the head of state in the proposed republic would be a president who would be leader of the majority party in Parliament. The president would appoint a cabinet from members of Parliament and the cabinet would be responsible to Parliament.

Kenyatta told Parliament that, if necessary, the government will hold a referendum of all registered voters in Kenya on the subject in November.

Kenyatta, jailed 6½ seven years as a Mau Mau anti-white Mau Mau terrorist organization, also announced plans for keeping constitutional changes shifting power from Kenya's seven regional governments to the central administration.

The 72-year-old East African leader said the constitution drawn up a year ago had proved too rigid, expensive and unworkable.

Kenyatta became Kenya's first prime minister when his Kenya African National Union won the 1963 national elections.

Satellite Will Be Used to Direct Another

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. space agency says it is ready for a first—using a satellite already in orbit to help direct another satellite into the proper orbit.

The feat will be attempted Tuesday when Syncom II, a communications satellite in near - stationary orbit 22,300 miles above the mid-Pacific, will assist Syncom C, a sister satellite, after its launching from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

The orbit chosen for Syncom C is the path Syncom II's are to hover above the international dateline at the equator.

Where Syncom II will communicate is to relay radio communications from the Pacific, thus bypassing weather conditions and ionospheric disturbances frequently interfering with surface points. These communications will be used at the space flight centre at Greenbelt, Md., to help get Syncom C in proper orbit.

POLICE SHOOT MAN

CORNWALL (CP) — A man was shot in the thigh by city police Thursday when he ran from the police station where he was being questioned. He was taken to hospital where he is reported not in serious condition. Police said they picked up the man, whose name they would not release, after recognizing him from an RCMP circular.

Italian Red Suffers Stroke

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Palmiro Togliatti, Italian Communist leader, suffered a stroke Thursday while on vacation in Yalta, reliable sources said here today.

Doctors were summoned to the 71-year-old politician's bedside and his personal physician was expected to arrive in Yalta today aboard an Italian defence ministry plane.

(In Rome, a party spokesman said he was informed by phone call from Russia this morning that "Togliatti had experienced a "certain improvement.")

The Communist leader and his wife arrived in Moscow Sunday and left for the Crimea Tuesday. Italian Communists who saw him then said he appeared in good health.

Editor Freed On Careless Driving Count

SARNIA (CP)—John T. Fullerton, editor of the weekly Sarnia Gazette, had a charge of careless driving against him dismissed in court here Thursday and was remanded on an assault charge to Aug. 21.

The charges were laid following a June 22 incident on a picket line in front of the newspaper.

Eugene Reley, a member of the International Typographical Union (CLC) Local 837, which has been on strike at the newspaper since April 10, charged that the editor struck him with his car.

The charge was dismissed by Magistrate W. S. Pearson on the grounds that the incident took place off the road on private property. He will render a decision Aug. 21 on the assault charge.

Roy Halford, a Sarnia printer who was charged with petty trespassing and obstruction in connection with the same incident, was fined $3 and costs.

Magistrate Pearson will also hear another assault charge Aug. 21 involving Halford and Harold Kaul, also of Sarnia, charged with assaulting John Cribbin of Sarnia.

The lane where the incident took place belongs to Imperial Oil, but is used by all businesses in the immediate vicinity and by the public. However, it was requested by Imperial Oil that all strikers be kept off the property because they didn't want to get involved in the strike.

One Candidate Dismissed From Union Job

MONTREAL (CP) — One of eight newly - announced candidates for office in the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) has been dismissed from his union job.

Andre Banspet said Thursday he lost his job as a dock patrolman for the union after he announced his candidacy Monday as one member of the slate.

Leonard McLaughlin, the SIU's executive vice - president, said in an interview that Banspet's dismissal resulted from "a disagreement with Raymond Doucet, our port agent at Quebec, over the way Mr. Banspet was carrying out his duties."

Mr. Banspet is the slate's candidate for Mr. Doucet's job. The union elections are to be held in the fall.

The slate's candidate for president is Stan Devine, now the SIU's port agent with the SIU of Canada's Atlantic region in Halifax. He will be running against Mr. McLaughlin for the job once held by Hal Banks.

The remnants of the executive that served under Mr. Banks now are running the union under the control of the government-appointed Board of Maritime Trustees.

MOVE CONFIRMED

Mr. McLaughlin also confirmed a report that Gilbert Johnson, the slate's candidate for vice-president in charge of organization, is being sent to Fort William on an organizing job. Mr. Johnson said he was notified of the move on Tuesday.

Mr. Johnson would still be reporting to union headquarters here and his new duties will take "not much longer than a month."

Jack Dormer, public relations man for the candidates, said the move—following Mr. Banspet and Mr. Johnson "are quite a bit more than coincidences."

But Mr. McLaughlin said neither Mr. Banspet's dismissal nor Mr. Johnson's new job are inspired by electoral considerations.

He said Mr. Johnson was picked to go to Fort William because he is French-speaking and the man to be organized there also are French-speaking.

"Anyway, what better place than the Lakehead could you want if you were interested in campaigning for seamen's votes?" the executive vice-president asked.

Mr. Banspet was laid off but "he still is a union member and will be considered for other duties," Mr. McLaughlin said.

Accuse M. P. Of Indecent Assault on Boy

HULL, Que. (CP) — Louis-Joseph Pigeon, MP for Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm, appeared with a summons Thursday accusing him of indecent assault. He was summoned to appear before the Hull magistrate's court Monday.

Police Constable Maxime Lavigne said the summons was issued following the complaint of a 16-year-old boy. He gave the boy's age as 16 or 17.

Chief Lavigne told a press conference that Mr. Pigeon, 42-year-old Progressive Conservative MP, was taken into custody about 11:15 p.m. Aug. 6 by Hull police as a result of a telephoned complaint. He said the alleged assault took place on the main street of Hull across the Ottawa River from Ottawa.

Chief Lavigne said Mr. Pigeon was lodged overnight in police cells and transferred Aug. 4 to the Hull courthouse. He came under jurisdiction of the Crown attorney's office and Chief Lavigne said he could give no information on subsequent events.

REFUSES COMMENT

Asked about the interval between the arrest and issuing of the summons, Chief Lavigne said "I am not making any comment on that." He said no preferred treatment was given Mr. Pigeon.

Mr. Pigeon is a graduate of the University of Montreal and lists himself in the Canadian Parliamentary Guide as an agriculturist. He is married and has one son.

From 1962 to 1963, he was private secretary to Hon. Antonio Barrette while Mr. Barrette, who later became premier of Quebec and now is Canadian ambassador to Greece, was Quebec labor minister.

He was elected to the Commons in 1958 and re - elected in 1962 and 1963. In 1963 during the previous Progressive Conservative administration, Mr. Pigeon was parliamentary secretary to then agriculture minister Alvin Hamilton.

Kokkina beachhead of northwest Cyprus were "starving," adding that he expected new fighting to break out between the two hostile communities. He said the Turkish-Cypriots were getting "worked up" and unless the Greek-Cypriot embargo on vital materials was lifted against them they would react.

That met at his New York headquarters Thursday delegates of the nine nations that contributed the 6,200-member Cyprus force. Canada is one of the leading contributors with 1,100 men. How many soldiers Thant requested was not known.

The contingents presumably would be deployed between Greek- and Turkish - Cypriots facing each other in villages on the critical northwest coast.

On the diplomatic front, the government of Greece rejected a Turkish appeal for direct talks. Premier George Papandreou said the problem should be taken to the UN General Assembly if peace efforts under way at the UN failed.

Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu had sent a message to Papandreou urging that negotiations begin as soon as possible so that "a quick solution could be found."

In a message to Soviet Premier Khrushchev, Inonu asked the Russian leader to use his influence to guide the Cyprus government into a course more "legal, humane and peaceful."

Cyprus appealed to the Soviet Union Thursday during last week's Turkish air attacks. Russia denounced the raids but offered no military aid to the Cyprus government.

In Ankara, meanwhile, a Turkish foreign ministry spokesman warned that unless progress in negotiations is made, Turkey would begin mass deportations next month of 12,000 Greeks living in Istanbul.

The United States drew criticism from the official Cyprus government publication "The Bulletin which blamed the U.S. for supplying incendiary bombs to the Turks.

The Bulletin published pictures of charred bodies of Greek-Cypriots and captioned them "the American taxpayer has a right to know how his dollars are spent."

Drought

from 75 to 80 per cent smaller than usual.

Lack of rain has also resulted in a poor grain crop, with the stands appearing short. Winter wheat is needed to ripen grain and help growth of pasturelands.

In the Kingston area, hay crops are reported to be down 50 per cent. George Gravelle, a North Bay area farmer, said he got only 5,000 bales of hay off his land this year instead of the usual 12,000.

Hay is about average in quality and down about five per cent in yield in Simcoe County in central Ontario. A poor yield is expected for strawberries.

W. N. T. Ashton, agricultural representative for Perth County, says the dry spell has not affected crops in his area. In neighboring Waterloo County, however, summer rains have resulted in good crop prospects.

But wet weather during the last week has delayed the harvest and could damage grain crops if it continues. Cold weather has delayed the corn crop and could result in a low yield.

In the western part of the province, recent heavy rains were welcomed by most farmers, although hail spoiled crops in some. Flooding occurred in farm areas near Strathroy and London. There was little damage at Chatham.

Party

organization of the department is expected to be announced.

Thursday's debate on the government's proposed maple leaf flag became increasingly embroiled in the bicultural les controversy. An almost continuous sequence of English-speaking Conservatives accused Mr. Pearson of seeking to appease the minority in Quebec. His introduction of the design of three red maple leaves on a white background with two blue vertical borders would set back the clock of national unity by 50 years.

Meanwhile, it was understood that next Tuesday's meeting of the party caucus will be an attempt to reach a compromise which might satisfy many Conservatives, who have declared themselves for adoption of the Canadian Red Ensign as a distinctive symbol.

WOULD ELIMINATE TWO

Informants say the compromise proposals include adoption of a maple leaf flag—but with only one instead of three maple leaves. The other suggestion is that the Red Ensign would become the symbol of Canada's Commonwealth connection, instead of the Union Jack as now proposed by the Liberal government.

In Thursday's debate, Heber Smith (Simcoe North) said getting a new flag is not like changing traffic signals.

"It has to be a symbol of unity and it must have the emotional support of a very substantial majority of our people."

He urged party leaders to "find some way to explore a new method or alternative to solve the problem and "get Canada out of the collision course on which it now seems to be."

WEDDING

Hyndman-Cassidy

Rev. Charles E. Carter was the officiating clergyman at Home Glen Eden, Port Mc. Nichol for the wedding of Mary Alberta Cassidy, new Eggleton, formerly of Belleville to John Anderson Hyndman. The bride was given in marriage by a friend, Mr. Herbert Gannon, and entered the drawing room wearing a dress of light blue mist corded silk with embroidered silk overlace. Her embroidered silk veil of shadowed lace hung from her blue silk cap of flowers. Her bouquet was of white 'mums and white carnations with streamers.

Mrs. Gertie Gannon played wedding music and the soloist was Mrs. Kathleen McPhee.

The bride was attended by her two daughters Miss Kathleen Cassidy who was maid of honor and Miss Alberta Cassidy, who was bridesmaid. Kathleen wore a frock of pink silk linen and Alberta wore light blue velvet. Both carried white and pink carnations.

Glen Eden was gaily decorated with white hydrangeas, streamers and other flowers for a buffet luncheon.

For a wedding trip sailing on the lakes, the bride wore a blue linen suit. A surprise party was held at the Legion club when Mr. and Mrs. Hyndman were presented with a blue frieze rocker and a bouquet of gladioli, for which they expressed their appreciation.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID MILTON STROME

Strome — Wright

FRANKFORD — A lovely summer wedding was solemnized at noon August 1 in Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle when Lois Marie Wright, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knowlton Wright, R.R. 2 Belleville, became the bride of David Milton Strome, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Strome of Frankford. Rev. Fred Spring officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with baskets of pink gladioli interspersed with white chrysanthemums.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Robert Donnan of Stirling, Ont., and the soloist was Miss Beverley Vannamaker, cousin of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her floor length bridal gown of white nylon organza over taffeta featuring the empire silhouette, short sleeves with cowl neck bodice and semi-bell-shaped skirt with organza edged lace train attached at centre back under organza bow.

She wore a three-tiered shoulder length tulle veil with rose cluster headpiece, and carried a sheaf of Sensation pink roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Charles Wright, sister-in-law of the bride, who wore a street length dress of soft petal pink taffeta, short sleeves with semi-bell shaped skirt, inverted pleats at front and back, with headpiece of matching bows of pink taffeta and carried a cascade of white chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Purvis and Miss Carolyn Reichert, identically attired to the matron of honor.

Groomsman was Mr. Charles Wright, brother of the bride. Ushers were Flying Officer Ted Strome of Winnipeg, and Mr. John Strome of Toronto, brothers of the bridegroom.

The reception was held in the Balmoral Room of the Glenburnie Motel where the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with miniature wedding rings and tulle. Candelabra and flowers adorned the table.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a street length gown of blue arnel boucle with matching colored hat and white accessories and a corsage of pink roses and lily-of-the-valley. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a silk brocade gold sheath with matching colored hat and matching accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses and blue cornflowers.

For their wedding trip to a Northern Ontario resort area, the bride chose as her travelling costume a blue two-piece summer brocade dress with matching colored hat and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

They will reside in Montreal, Quebec.

Out-of-town guests were present from Sault Ste. Marie, Windsor, Kitchener, Toronto, Peterborough, Frankford and Winnipeg.

Previous to the marriage the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Carolyn Reichert, Frankford, also a kitchen shower at the home of Miss Rose Ann Clare, R.R. 2 Belleville. A gift of money was presented to the couple from the Young People of the Kitchener Pentecostal Church Tabernacle. A farewell church shower was also held in Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle on Monday, Aug. 10. Pastor and Mrs. David Strome take up their pastoral duties in Montreal, Que., this weekend. He is a 1964 graduate of Eastern Pentecostal Bible College, Peterborough, Ont.

Women's Institutes

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

Mrs. C. Sprung opened her home for the August meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute. There were 20 members and one visitor in attendance.

The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. W. Motley presiding. She thanked all those who had helped in entertaining the 4-H past and present members of the Girls' Club. The correspondence was read with an invitation from Victoria W.C.W. to meet with them on Aug. 12. The delegates were appointed to attend the W.I. convention to be held in September.

The topic for the meeting was historical research under the convenership of Mrs. Lottie Green who read a paper on Upper Canada Village. She was assisted by Mrs. C. Barber who gave a history of the Potter family. Mrs. A. W. Symington gave a history of Huff's Island. Everyone enjoyed a sing-song of old-time songs. The hostess, assisted by co-hostess Mrs. C. Watering and refreshment committees served lunch and a social period was enjoyed by all.

Males Claim Fall Trends Are Sexless

NEW YORK (AP) — "Sexless," muttered the males. "Divine," murmured the females as James Galanos had the last word on what the well-dressed woman will wear this winter.

The only concessions by the California designer to the trouser trend here and abroad are quilted Chinese brocade hostess pump suits with sleeveless wing-like velvet coats over them. As far as the topless fashion-madness, Galanos prefers backless bareness on the spine side of the body only.

A 24-inches bra was a part of the otherwise-backless-to-the-waist number, with gem dandies dangling from the back band.

But from the first number—a black semi-fitted princess line with rounded button detailed sleeves—it was obvious Thursday that architecture of the costume was more important to Galanos than the frame-work of the lady under it.

Among the slim coat and suit styling details were pocket flaps, tiny lapels, welt seaming, side-wrapped and apron-pleated skirts, belts banded across the front, and some back belts slung so low you could swing on them.

For the cocktail crowd, Galanos recommended starkly simple blue cut wools or crepes with long sleeves and henflared skirts. For the distinctive enthusiasts the dresses were barer, with V-plunges, halter necks or shoestring straps.

MR. AND MRS. IAN COOPER

Cooper — Saltz

In Devine St. United Church, Sarnia, with Rev. Ralph E. King officiating, Patricia Anne Saltz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Saltz, Lillian St., became the bride of Ian Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper of Foxboro.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of alencon lace. The full hooped skirt of the gown extended into a three-tiered lace train. The back waist was accented by three large pear de sole roses. Encircling the fitted bodice was a scalloped square neck and long lilypoint sleeves. A coronet of lace and seed pearls caught her bouffant shoulder-length veil and she carried pink roses and blue stephanotis.

Carrying a corsage of pink carnations and blue stephanotis with white streamers, the bridal attendants were gowned in identical street-length dresses of pink-organdy over taffeta. The dresses, styled with controlled skirts, featured fitted bodices with V-necks and elbow sleeves. In attendance as maid of honor was Miss Carolyn McIntosh of Woodstock, while Miss Evelyn Clelland of Port Dover, Miss Donna Cooper, a sister of the groom from Foxboro; Miss Christine Daley, a cousin of the bride from Pontiac, Mich., and Miss Diane Parsons of Hamilton acted as bridesmaids.

Mr. Edward Lawlor of Sarnia was the best man and the ushers were Mr. Robert Saltz, Mr. Ted Stone, Mr. Peter Smith and Mr. Gordon Phillipson.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Christian Education Centre of the church. The mother of the bride wore a pale blue organdy ensemble with a matching duster coat and white and blue accessories. She had a corsage of feathered white carnations and red roses. The mother of the groom wore a beige linen dress with beige accessories and a corsage of white feathered carnations and yellow roses.

For her going away outfit the bride chose a pink shantung silk A-line dress and jacket with white accessories and a garden corsage. The groom has been transferred to England and the couple will fly to Rome for their honeymoon and drive through Europe to England. They will be living in Croydon, England.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E. Q.?

Riding crowded subways and buses often puts a strain on the most patient disposition. But, despite the discomfort, do you still do your best to:

1. Move to the rear when the bus driver requests it?

2. Leave by the back door, to avoid colliding with passengers entering the front?

3. Have fares ready, to keep the line moving?

4. If you're a standee, hold papers, packages and shopping securely so they don't fly in the faces of those sitting down?

5. Avoid pressing yourself and your possessions over a couple of seats, to make room for others?

6. Move toward the exit as you reach your station, to avoid elbowing your way through the crowd in a last-minute dash to get off?

7. Politely give up your seat to a person who is much older or incapacitated?

8. Avoid pushing your way into a car or bus that is filled to overflowing, thus adding to everyone's discomfort, including your own?

9. Wait patiently in line to prevent accidents — sometimes serious ones — often caused by rude pushing and shoving?

10. If you're standing, try to stay out of the middle of the aisle, so passengers entering and leaving have some room in which to navigate.

Successful Living

Brooding Over Furniture Will Get One Nowhere

DEAR DORIS — After my mother passed away my father would not let me have a bedroom suite that mother had given me until he was through with it. When he did give it to me we had to sell it as we had bought one of our own for the spare bedroom. I would like to have had that one for sentimental reasons.

I asked my father for different things, things she said I could have. His answer was: "You leave things alone. According to you, your mother gave you everything." But when my brother and his wife asked for anything, they got it.

Doris, doesn't a daughter have any rights? What have I done wrong? — ILL-USED AND HURT.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR ILL-USED — You wrote me 18 pages of ill-usage; which tells me you are brooding over these things. This is not the first time material possessions have come between family members.

One family has now carried the quarrel into the third generation!

You are not in want; you have your own loving husband and children. Insisting on your right will get you nowhere. Get on with living — in the present. And without presents from the dead!

RATVIEW HEIGHTS

Thursday afternoon the children from the Bayview Heights playground visited Belleville's Historical Museum.

The children were fascinated by the various exhibits, remarking on the different furniture of yesteryear, wishing it was their own. They became totally intrigued with the intricate implements and old barbering pots and agreed that life was certainly different in those days. On of the exhibits most favored by the children was that of children's toys.

Thanks to the staff of the Historical Museum for being so kind and offering such interesting explanations as the children thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT PATRICK MULVIHILL

Mulvihill — Williams

FRANKFORD — A pretty summer wedding took place in Frankford United Church when Margaret Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Williams of Frankford became the bride of Robert Patrick Mulvihill, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Mulvihill of Frankford and the late James Mulvihill in a double-ring ceremony.

Rev. Charles Judd performed the ceremony. The church decorations were white standards of pink gladioli and white 'mums and the guest pews were decorated with white satin bows and lily of the valley.

Soloist was Mrs. Glen Elmy of Trenton, and Mr. Martin Hareman played traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length bridal gown of pure silk organza over taffeta with sabrina neckline, fitted imported Chantilly lace bodice and long lily point lace sleeves. Empire waistline and flat front skirt with unique Chantilly lace bow and back treatment swept in petite folds into a chapel train. She wore a matching headpiece of double silk illusion butterfly veil and carried a cascade bouquet of roses and fern.

Maid of honor, Miss Marion Woods, of Tweed, wore an aqua silk organza over taffeta gown with scoop neckline, V-back cap sleeves, fitted bodice with lace cummerbund and four rows of scalloped Chantilly lace down the back in the panels, finished at the hem with dainty self rose of aqua green.

The two bridesmaids, Mrs. Marvin Van Volkenburg of Belleville, and Miss Ann Williams, sister of the bride, were identical dresses like the maid of honor, but shell pink in color.

They all wore matching lace headdresses with silk illusion veiling and carried nosegays of 'mums, tinted to match their dresses.

The little flower girl, Debby Patrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Patrick, Frankford, wore a dress of white organza over taffeta with short sleeves and shell pink headpiece and veil with white accessories. She carried a small white bouquet of baby 'mums centred with a shell pink rose.

The ring bearer was Master Timmy Bligh of Trenton, who carried a white satin and lace heart-shaped cushion.

Groomsman was Mr. Marvin Van Volkenburg, and the ushers were Mr. Tom Mulvihill, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. John Mulvihill, cousin of the bridegroom.

The wedding reception was held in Batawa Community Centre with the bride's mother receiving, wearing a beige lace dress over taffeta with matching duster, green accessories and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Mulvihill, who wore a misty rose lace dress over taffeta, with matching duster, white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Muskoka, the bride chose a white lace over white linen two-piece suit with white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Ivanhoe, Tweed, Foxboro, Belleville, Trenton, Oshawa, Whitby, Baltimore, Stirling, Warkworth and Batawa.

The happy couple are residing in Frankford for the present time.

Slightly Overweight Woman Hates Being Called Blimp

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I would like to take issue with you and others who write for newspapers and magazines. For years I have been bugged by your snide pokes at those who are a little overweight.

ANN LANDERS

We are called "Blimps," "Waddling Ducks," "Baby Hippos" — and countless other unflattering names.

Why it is that no one ever says a word about the 50-year-old dame with a face like a dried prune wearing size eight Bermuda shorts and a halter top in the supermarket? Her legs look like a canary's and invariably she is clomping around in a pair of wedgies — usually gold.

Yes, I am one of the slightly overweight ones, as you may have guessed, but my husband says he'd rather have me this way than looking like a freshly-hatched chicken.

Thank you for letting me have my say — PIECE SPOKEN.

DEAR SPOKEN — You are welcome. And now that I have let you have your say I will undoubtedly be in bad with all the dried prune, canary-legged, size eight ladies in gold wedgies.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I was jarred by your advice to the student who flunked because the male teachers drummed up to the pretty girls in the class while the female teachers showed partiality to the handsome football players.

You said, "A little banana oil is an effective lubricant for the machinery of human relations."

Granted, but what can a student do about a clash of personalities? I loathe my English professor and he knows it. He wants his spleen by giving me C's when I deserve A's.

In a math course the answers are either right or wrong, but in English a student can get killed on "interpretation, clumsy syntax, overwriting, lack of originality" — ad nauseum. If the professor decides your writing is "pedestrian and unimaginative" who can argue? Is this fair? — BITTER.

DEAR BITTER — No it isn't, but where did you get the idea that life is always fair?

You are bound to encounter personality conflicts (unless you decide to live alone on a desert island). The sooner you learn how to deal with all types of people the better. We know extremely competent individuals who are surpassed by mediocre ones, simply because they can't get along with their superiors. Are you going to be one of them? Take inventory, friend.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Our 16-year-old has me worried. She is a beautiful girl, has a flair for clothes and is popular. I get so tired of her incessant pitch for compliments that I don't know what to do anymore.

Every day she asks, "Do you think my hair is REALLY all right? Should I wear bright lipstick or should I wear none at all? Does this dress make me look too fat? Am I too thin? Who is the prettiest girl in our crowd?"

My husband has heard some of this talk. He says she is just too confounded stuck on herself and that I should take her down a few pegs instead of buttering her up by telling her what she wants to hear.

Will you give me your views? — ZANZIBAR.

DEAR ZAN — Your daughter would not be begging for compliments if she were not starved for reassurance.

Try complimenting her without being asked. Such praise is infinitely more meaningful, and is will reduce the fishing.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hennessy Family Holds Reunion

A Hennessy family reunion was held at Crystal Beach, Maple on Sunday, August 2nd. About 83 were in attendance and a bountiful dinner was enjoyed by all.

After dinner some prizes were given with one going to Mr. Stanley Harris for the oldest person present; to Bill McLean for coming the farthest, from Listowel, Ontario. Howard Hennessy's of Belleville, received the gift for the largest family and Mark Charland for the youngest baby.

Visiting was enjoyed and later in the afternoon several others joined, with the Elvin Hennessy's coming from New York.

It was decided to have the picnic at the same time and place next year with Mrs. Winfred Motley as president and Mrs. Howard Hennessy as secretary.

Boots Become More Popular Than Ever

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian woman shopping for shoes next season will find styles are becoming more and more comfortable.

A fall-winter 1964-65 fashion preview here by the Shoe Information Bureau of Canada showed that although the standard pump with illusion heel is still popular, more emphasis is on the lower heel and more rounded toe.

These styles, especially good for walking, include stacked or set - back heels and crescent-shaped toes.

Styles in pumps range from straight-sides types with choked or narrowed high-rise fronts to closed - toe pumps with open sides or sling backs.

The "barefoot" look is still popular.

Materials are smooth or textured leathers, patents, suedes and reptiles. Combinations of these will also be seen.

The main color is black, but browns, blues, reds and greens will also be popular.

Boots are more popular than ever, coming in all styles, heights and colors. The high boot is narrower this season with closer fit achieved through zipper and elasticized gore linings.

Mother's Helper

ARE YOUR children completely conditioned to eating out in restaurants? Do they know for sure which fork to use, and which is the better knife, for example? Playing restaurant at home is a good way to teach them, without embarrassment. This is especially valuable on the day before an important "dinner date."

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

PINE GROVE W.I.

MARSH HILL — The July meeting of Pine Grove W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. C. Ross with nine members present.

The president, Mrs. F. Lindenfield opened the meeting in the usual manner. A letter of thanks was read from the Institute's adopted boy. The home economics convener, Mrs. C. Ross read a letter from the provincial convener regarding a safety program.

Mrs. C. Ross, home economics convener, presided over the following program: Mrs. H. Coulter and Mrs. Grace Bartindale each gave a reading.

CREATIVE HOMEMAKING

Mrs. Ross gave a paper on "Creative Homemaking".

"The gadgets invented to save work for a woman sometimes makes her life more complicated and meaningless or did the pioneer woman have more creative work to do? Most women want to carry out their obligations not only as a woman and a homemaker but also as a citizen and perhaps as an artist in some hobby or vocation of her own.

"What is creative homemaking? It is making a good apple pie and being on hand when children come home from school to give them a welcome and a piece of pie if they are hungry.

"It is making a home a place Ross read a letter from the provincial convener regarding a safety program.

It is putting the family first, not being so worn out with catering and committees that there is no patience left to deal with hurt feelings or unsteady tempers at home, no reserve of spirit to put a bit of gaiety into family life." Mrs. Ross closed with a reading.

The members all enjoyed a "bird contest". The hostess served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Bartindale and Mrs. C. McAllister.

strips of pickled watermelon rind; or small squares of firm red jelly. The common garnish for chicken salad is wedges of hard-cooked eggs, as you know.

ACCOMPANIMENTS:

This same chef whose technique I admire invariably sends the waiters into the dining room with baskets of piping hot rolls.

To change the complexion of your meals, yet using the same basic chicken salad mixture, use it as a stuffing for big perfect ripe tomatoes.

NOTES:

1) If you make the chicken salad in advance lower the temperature of the refrigerator to lower setting (without freezing other contents) to keep it real cold for it will not keep well. 2) You could keep the chopped meat in your freezer to have ready to thaw when you need it.

U. S. Cattlemen Want Quotas On Beef

WASHINGTON (CP)—A cloud originally no bigger than a hamburger patty has arisen on the United States agriculture department's horizon. It has Canadian ramifications too.

The issue is beef and—partly—the weight it has in a U.S. election year.

On one hand, despite a big beef population, the government has been doing its best to keep prices up. The prices have done pretty well too: after a fall of nearly $4 a hundred pound, for choice steers last year. Prices have revived by about $3 a hundred since then.

But there is also a possibility still that the U.S. cattlemen's lobby will succeed, despite administration pressure, in having firm quotas imposed on beef imports.

This wouldn't affect Canada as much as it would Australia, Argentina, Mexico and some other countries. Canadian beef exports to the U.S. are mainly live—and thus exempt from the proposed bill. Sales of beef, veal, lamb and mutton from other countries have ranged from 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 pounds annually in the past.

The beef quota bill originated as a senate amendment tacked to a minor legislative item and now is before a congressional committee, where the administration hopes it will die. If it passes it would, for one thing, strike a blow at the U.S. demands for broad tariff cuts internationally.

Creditiste Leader Caouette told the Commons his party in future will attempt to block all bills originating in the Senate.

An almost unbroken line of Conservative speakers continued to dominate the flag debate, attacking the government's proposed design.

Liberal MPs refused to grant the necessary unanimous consent to individual Conservatives requesting additional speaking time.

Vincent Drouin (L — Argenteuil - Deux - Montagnes), first Liberal to enter the resumed debate, said the Red Ensign is a symbol of England's former domination of Canada.

Royal assent followed Senate passage of the new tax-sharing bill under which the provinces will receive a greater slice of personal income tax revenues.

Woman Dead For 12 Hours Court Told

TORONTO (CP) — William Bernard Morgan, 35, of Toronto appeared in court Thursday charged with manslaughter in the May 26 death of waitress Mable Crawford.

Police said the body of Miss Crawford, naked except for stockings, was found in a second-floor bedroom of a downtown rommimg house May 27. They said she had been dead for about 12 hours.

Dr. Chester McLean said death was due to a hemorrhage resulting from a fractured skull.

George Ward, a former roommate of Morgan's, said there had been a party at the rooming house May 26 where Morgan and Miss Crawford had been drinking.

Ward said Morgan told him the next morning that Miss Crawford was dead. He said Morgan then borrowed a dime to call police.

Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste—Lapointe) said they would be blocked while the B.C. bank remained in Senate hands. The Laurentide bank bill was on the Commons order paper but was passed over Thursday when it was called for second reading—approval in principle.

The Bell Telephone bill which served as the springboard for Mr. Caouette's announcement has been having a rough time in the Commons. But the Creditiste leader said his group has no objection to the BBM bill.

For several weeks the Bell bill has been debated for the full hour provided for such measures under Commons rules. This talking-out process prevents adoption.

Robarts Orders Inquiry by Road Dept.

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts said Thursday he has ordered a departmental inquiry into charges that 18 road surfacing companies in south - central Ontario engaged in a system of phoney bids to get more money on highways contracts.

He said the report of the restrictive trade practices commission in Ottawa was the first th Ontario government had heard of the trouble and that this was being studied in detail.

He told a press conference that "it doesn't appear to us to mean that any higher prices were paid by the department for work done."

"This involves a very small percentage of business done by the department—some $400,000 out of a total budget of $290,000,000."

Mr. Robarts said, however, that the department wants to find out exactly what took place as alleged in the federal report.

let's talk "cents" about entertaining!

Nearly everybody likes to entertain. And everybody wants to be considered a good host or hostess.

Problem is that a family income budgeted for mortgage, car payments, insurance and other fixed expenses won't stand big entertainment bills. It doesn't make economic sense.

So what to do —when you know that among your guests some prefer gin, others rye, vodka, rum, sherry or beer—and your budget won't stand such an assortment?

Here's the solution that will delight everyone—and keep your entertainment cost at a minimum—

Buy just one liquor: A special brand of extra light rum. Its name: TROPICANA. Made by Woods, who have been distilling fine rums for over 75 years . . . And what's special about TROPICANA?

It's so versatile, it's practically a one-brand bar! Besides being a superior light rum by itself, your guests will enjoy it in any rum drink imaginable.

It makes delightful versions of almost any drink you can name! Just try TROPICANA with three or four quite different mixes. You'll realize you're on to something good!

Tropi-cola, for instance! Lots of people have already discovered Tropi-cola. They will be delighted with your Tropicana and Ginger, Tropicana and Tonic, Tropicana and Bitter Lemon, or what will you have!

"A refreshing change" . . . "a delightful idea" . . . "mighty satisfying" . . . With TROPICANA your reputation is established . . . and your budget saved!

Sunday School Lesson

Faith Overcomes Fear

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Someone has defined an optimist as a person who sees an opportunity in every difficulty, and a pessimist as one who sees a difficulty in every opportunity. If this is true, with the exception of Caleb and Joshua, Moses had a lot of pessimists on his hands in the wilderness.

The thrill of escape from Egypt was over. The threat of recapture by Pharaoh had providentially been removed. Now came the long, hard struggle of plodding on through the wilderness to Canaan. The going was hard. The people's spirits sagged. Instead of crusaders for freedom, they became complainers about food. Instead of winners, they became whiners as they plied complaint on top of complaint. Instead of gratitude, they gave way to grumbling as they expressed displeasure at the hardships they faced in the desert.

They began by complaining about the dreariness of their life. Even though providentially provided, manna could get tiresome to the palate after awhile. So they began to think nostalgically about the variety of foods they had had in Egypt. "We remember the fish we ate in Egypt for nothing, the melons, the leeks, the onions, and the garlic." (Numbers 11:5)

But their memories were short. They forgot that back in Egypt they were slaves. The command to make bricks without straw must have made the food stick in their throats. Better to have a crust of bread and freedom than an abundance of leftovers granted by disdainful masters. At least in the desert, their manna was seasoned with freedom. Gratitude should have sweetened their meal even if it did consist of one dish. As a poet once put it, bread and cheese are better in a home where love is than a banquet in a palace where there is no love.

God's answer laid grim humor. He promised them meat till it came out their nostrils. (Numbers 11:20) God did not have to punish them, they punished themselves as they gorged on the quails that came in great flocks. They even ate the meat uncooked, and brought on a plague. They experienced what has been demonstrated so often in history, that the way to turn heaven into hell is to indulge in too much of a good thing. Food is good till it tempts one to become a glutton. Thirst is good, but it leads some people to become drunkards. Sex is good till it becomes an obsession, then it leads to the plague of lust. Entertainment is good till it turns a person into a playboy. God who provides us with meat and drink, demands temperance and self-restraint if we are to enter the promised land of health and happiness.

JADED BY JEALOUSY

Then they weren't grumbling about their diet, some of the people grumbled about too much centralized authority. Moses was monopolizing the leadership. This complaint might have been valid if it had not been motivated by jealousy. It was the members of Moses' own family who complained the loudest. Evidently, they wanted a larger share in the recognition he received. This complaint has a familiar ring. Even with representative government, it is easy to get too much centralization of authority. The ballot must always remain a restraint against monopoly of power. Too often, however, complaints are motivated by partisan considerations. To oppose leadership or legislation just because it comes from the opposing party is not good American. Members of all political groups must seek the best for the nation, and seek the leadership of those who have demonstrated they know how to lead.

In addition to complaints about internal problems, there were complaints about the strength of their enemies. Moses had wisely spied out the land ahead, choosing a person from each tribe for this task. With two exceptions, however, the advance scouts returned afraid. Only Caleb and Josua had faith to push on. Since the rest counseled with their fears more than their faith, they condemned themselves to prolonged existence in the desert until a new generation could be raised up with the faith and courage to push on.

They gave up too easily. They would have been unwise to underestimate their obstacles. But they were just as unwise to let fear numb them into inaction. There are always those who can find reasons why a thing cannot be done. Fortunately, there were Caleb and Joshua who refuse to give up till they have tried. They become the leaders who lead us forward to new goals.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 16: "Faith on Trial." Numbers 11 through 14.

It would be easy for Americans to settle down and become chronic complainers. The drama of conquering the physical frontier is over. But there are other frontiers to be won. We must continue our war against poverty, disease, crime, prejudice, and everything that tries to enslave mankind. It is not enough to complain. Moved by faith, we must try to conquer.

Sport Slices . . .

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

"The trouble with sports fans who are continually griping is they never had it so good," said the bench-warming oldtimer at the softball hassle the other night.

"They should been around thirty years ago when practically the only sport available was baseball and you had to walk a mile or so to see it."

Look at the sports pages of three decades ago, he said, and you'll find everything packed into three or four columns, and four pages like today's prints.

Today the sports fan has more variety to choose from than a lovesick sultan or a moon-eyed maharajah.

Thirty or forty years ago there were the eight-team National and American baseball leagues, the America's Cup trials, perhaps, amateur golf and local tennis and other scattered sports.

"There were no professional football, golf, tennis, automobile races, parachute jumping, dog racing or bowling," he said.

The average sports fan had to rely on the newspapers for his fare and his only steady diet was major leagues baseball. Television was in the conversational stage and if you were lucky enough to own a crystal set you might pick up results over Pittsburgh's KDKA.

Boating was not for the masses. A few isolated craft used to sail the bay, most of them punts, he recalled. Sports cars were for millionaires, skis diving for the navy and parachuting for the army. The only auto race was the Indianapolis "500". Pro golf and tennis were in swaddling clothes and the monied ranks of football and basketball had not caught on.

"Towns and cities did not resemble an asparagus patch with television antennae spiking ugly spears above new homes and architecture.

"Speaking of television," he went on, "the attendance at professional hockey, football, baseball and across the border basketball, is a direct complement to the sports. It's not playing in capacity houses and attracting millions despite the broadening interests and diversion of the present-day sports fan."

"Yes," he mused, "the world of sport has changed considerably over a period of thirty or forty years."

Perhaps in local centres amateur sport has deteriorated to a dangerous level resulting in some associations and clubs being forced to fold because of lack of fan interest.

But there is a certain magnetism to the professional type. Even with this the potential big-leagues customer finds it hard to resist the open road (Sixty-Five Hilled Over the Holiday) and the comforts of home television.

Television is a nice, cheap and easy way to relax by watching your favorite sport but this agent finds there is something alluring to the "live" type that is missing on the living room private eye.

But I wouldn't be without it. It brings in the National Hockey League, the American and American pro football games, and for diversion you can relish the old to auto races, international track meets, the Olympics; soccer, hydroplane racing the never-ending pro golf circuit, pro tennis, horse racing and, of course, major league baseball.

Zooming Orioles Up Lead To Three

Lightfoots Shade Point Anne

Lightfoots Construction shaded Point Anne 4-3 in a Commercial League semi-final thriller last night to grab a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Trailing 4-2 going into the last innings, the Pointers loaded a scare into the winners pushing scores a run and having the bases loaded before the third out was made.

In that inning Vern Whalen singled and scored on a three-base error. Mike Cook got aboard on a boobie and to second on an infield out. T. MacDonald singled him to third going to second on a bad throw. Jim Hunter was hit to load the bases but H. Powell grounded out to end the rally.

The Pointers' Jack Stewart and Harry Powers turned in good mound efforts, Stewart giving up five hits and Powers six.

Lightfoots had four errors nearly tossing the win away while Powers fielded flawlessly.

The losers took a one-run lead in the first on singles by Horwood and Mabee, Cook forced scoring on an infield out.

Don Smith smashed out a two-run homer in the second for Lightfoots scoring Powers who had singled ahead of him.

Both teams scored single runs in the fifth innings and Don Smith added two with his second homer of the game, a solo effort, to give Lightfoots a 4-2 lead in the sixth.

Then came the Pointers' just-short rally in the ninth and that was that.

Smith's two four-baggers highlighted the Lightfoot clouting with Hardy, Cook, Goodlaxson and Jim Sheridan and Harry Powers hitting singles.

T. MacDonald with two, Jim Horwood, Eric Mabee, Vern Whalen and Mike Cook hit singles for the Pointers.

The fourth game of the series is slated for Point Anne Monday night starting 6.45.

The score:

Pt. Anne	010 0101 -	3 6 0
Lightfoots	002 011 x -	4 5 4

Roben Roberts, sold by Philadelphia Phillies as over the hill and released by New York Yankees without a look, could be a key man in the future of each of those ball clubs.

The 37-year-old righthander scored his 10th victory of the year Thursday night, a four-hit effort that sent the Yankees in a 7-1 triumph over Boston Red Sox that put his Baltimore Orioles in excellent shape for the crucial series with the Yankees starting tonight.

The victory increased Baltimore's American League lead to three full games, its biggest in a month, and at this stage of the season made a Baltimore-Philadelphia World Series increasingly likely.

The Phillies, for whom Roberts won 230 games in 14 seasons, dropped a 3-1 decision to Chicago Cubs in the only National League game scheduled but the still 3½ games behind of the pack, a big lead at this stage of the season.

Minnesota Twins whipped Detroit Tigers 6-3 and the Yankees stayed within 3½ games of Baltimore's lead by defeating the second-place Chicago White Sox in the only other games on the major league schedule.

The victory concluded an unbelievably important home stand for the Yankees in which they:

1. Lost a share of the league lead when they dropped a four-game series to Baltimore.

2. Salvaged only two games out of four from Chicago, a team they had beaten badly straight this season, and

3. Got themselves sold to CBS.

GAIN CONTROL OF YANKS

The latter development, in which 90 per cent of the Yankees stock will go from co-owners Del Webb and Dan Topping to the network, has to be formally announced today.

Now they head to Baltimore for three games that will decide two of the season with the league leaders. The Orioles are anxious to get over to provide the coup de grace.

Roberts set it up Thursday night.

He was 14-13 last season and is now an important factor in the Baltimore drive for its first pennant in modern history with a 10-5 mark.

Pitching with only three days rest, he limited Boston to four hits in seven innings.

He was staked to a five-run lead in the first inning by Brooks Robinson's three-run homer, a run-producing error by Carl Yastrzemski and Norm Siebern's run-scoring single.

The Yankees closed to within half game of Chicago when Elston Howard's two-run homer in the eighth broke a 2-2 tie and powered the Yanks with a split-in the four-game set with the White Sox.

Boston scored once in five runs in the first inning against Detroit's Dave Wickersham and Hamilton, who relieved Wickersham, and added by Tony Oliva's 27th homer in the second.

Ernie Broglio limited the Phils to three hits and struck out nine as the Cubs broke Philadelphia's five-game winning string. Ernie Banks' 15th homer got the first run for the Cubs.

World Hockey For Finland

TAMPERE, Finland (AP) — The 1965 world hockey championships will be played March 5-14 in four Finnish cities, with 16 countries participating, it was announced Thursday.

All A group matches which will include Canada are scheduled for the industrial city of Tampere, northwest of Helsinki. The B group matches will be played in the three west coast cities of Turku, Rauma and Pori.

CPGA Tournament

Moe Norman Tops Pack With 65

HALIFAX (CP)—Chasing a stubby wilt of the wisp became the order of the day for a hotly-pressing contingent in today's second round of the 54-hole Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship.

The elusive phantom was Moe Norman of Toronto, who started Thursday's first round by tearing the Ashburn club's course to shreds and then just as swiftly sewing it together again in a weird display in the home stretch.

Moe nevertheless wound up with a 65, three under par, to stay in front of four pressure-minded golfers who shot 66s. Four others were bunched at 67.

Norman all but dried out a rain- and fog-dampened front nine with a blistering 29, six under par. Then, in a complete reversal of form, he took four strokes in penalties in limping back in 37.

FOUR ARE CLOSE

One stroke back were veteran Stan Leonard of Vancouver, Alvie Thompson of Toronto, Dick Mann of Victoria and George Knudson of Toronto.

At 67 were four golfers hitherto rated only a wild outside chance of taking the $2,000 top prize money in the $10,000 tournament. The four are veteran Dawlen Caulfield of Montreal, Bill Kosak of Niagara Falls, Ont., Jack Blasegear of Val Morin, Que., and Jim Walker of Moncton.

Moe's first nine was a glittering affair of four birdies and an eagle, emphasized by his fine putting.

He was still six under par through the 14th and then disaster. He took a two-stroke penalty at the par-four 15th, where his approach went over the green into water and bush, and he fired his second again. He wound up with a six.

The par-four 290-yard home hole was again his undoing. He drove boldly for the green but hooked his drive into woods. Playing off the tee again, with a two-stroke penalty, he was short of the elevated green.

He flubbed his next shot, then chipped up and sank a six-footer for a six.

Leonard put together a pair of 33s for his 66 despite weak wedge shots from near the green. Stan immediately benefited off for a practice session.

Bow To Lombanks 6-5

Juniors Rally Falls Short

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

Tweed Lombanks choked off a ninth-inning Ellis Juniors rally here last night to grab a 6-5 victory and a 2-1 lead in the B. and D. Softball league finals.

The next game of the best-of-seven series is scheduled for Madoc next Wednesday evening.

Lombanks scored a first inning run but lost the lead when Bruce Bradley plated two in the second. Tweed sent three across the plate in the third on Jimmy singleng to make the score 4-3.

The winners' pair in the fourth for a 6-3 count stood until the ninth when the Juniors rally was nipped in time.

Bradley blooped into centre field and a fielder's choice. T. Lesage tried to steal home and was thrown out, but Mercer rapped a safety to score D. Lesage.

Then Weston led off the second with a single for Belleville and got to second when the centre fielder booted the ball.

Mike Chatland struck out but got to first on a missed third strike. Both base runners advanced on an error and scored when the fielder again bobbled a routine ground ball.

In the third G. Gorr drove a long fly to centre but Yorke ran it in for the out.

The latter reached third on a fielder's choice. Merraw was safe at second on the go-ahead run for the winners.

T. Lesage was walked and scored on two consecutive errors by the Juniors.

Stu Muirhead scored a run all on his own in Belleville's half of the fifth. He beat out a bunt, reached second on a ground ball and stole third. Then he caught the Tweed hurler, Blaine Healey, off guard, and stole home.

Rich Morton scored the winning run when he smashed a home run with D. Lesage on base in the fourth inning.

Belleville came to life in the bottom of the ninth. Stu Maltby led off with a double and Bob Ethier stepped up to pound a homer far out into left field. Healey struck out the next batter for the first out. Gene Yorke then had the home town fans standing up in their seats when he bunted and stole second and third bases.

Healey settled down to strike out the next batter and with score 6 to 5, the tying run on third and two out, a groan went up from the crowd when Pete Weston struck out to end the ball game.

Belleville hitters were Gardner, Yorke, Muirhead, Weston, Boyle, Boomhour, Malloy and Ethier.

The Tweed hitters were T. Lesage, D. Lesage, G. Gorr, Merraw (2) and Cotton.

Belvedere Shades Daubers 7-6

Belvedere Hotel nipped Tye-Hall Daubers 7-6 in the first game of the Commercial League consolation series last night.

Junior Day set the Daubers down with five hits including a homer while walking seven and striking out nine.

His mates got to Don Holoway for eleven base clouts and four walks. He whiffed seven.

The Hotelmen scored two in the first and three in the second to grab a 5-0 lead on five added singles in the fourth and fifth.

Her-Hears counted a single in the third, then exploded for four runs in the sixth to whittle the margin to 7-5.

They came up with a walk, a stolen base and two long flies to count a single in the bottom of the seventh.

In the ninth a double by Jeffreys, a walk, a hit-by-pitcher, and Ruttan's home run accounted for four runs.

Clapp led the winners with three singles with Junior Day and D. Lucas each getting a pair. Hughes hit a triple and J. Lucas, Ryan and Bryant each contributed a single.

Ruttan's homer led the Daubers with Jeffreys coming through with a double and single. Westfall and D. Moore each hit singles.

Cassius KO'd By Cupid?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—World heavyweight champion Cassius Clay is reported driving to Chicago with a girl he introduced here as his wife.

Clay, 22, a member of the Black Muslims, told a reporter the 24-year-old Chicago model was Sonji Roi, also belongs to the Negro supremacist organization.

In a story in the Los Angeles Sentinel, sports editor Brad Pye said Clay, whose sect name is Muhammad Ali, "introduced a choice-colored beauty as his wife" during an interview in his hotel room.

The story continued:

"The champ said: 'Baby, tell Brad you're my wife.'

She answered: 'Yes, we are married.'

CBS Buys Yankees Franchise

10-15 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System today was set to complete the purchase of New York Yankees, the richest and most famous franchise in sports, in a manoeuvre that could place the network behind the closed doors of baseball's highest council chambers.

As owners of the Yankees CBS presumably would gain full voting rights in American and major league matters. That includes a pending Monday night television package deal during prime viewing time that could bring as much as $20,000,000. The network has not yet been selected.

American League president Joe Cronin, who announced that the sale of 80 per cent of the Yankees, emphasized, however, that:

"The American League was advised that, if approval was granted, the Yankees will be a separate entity and an autonomous organization independent of CBS, with Dan Topping as president and other members of the organization continuing to formulate policy and to manage the Yankee organization."

FINLEY COMPLAINS

The announcement brought heated, bitter retorts from Charles O. Finley, owner of Kansas City Athletics, and Chicago White Sox president Arthur C. Allyn, who raised the question of "the potential ramifications of a national radio and television network controlling a major league club."

"This is a bell of a lousy way to run the American League," Finley said. "None of us had the opportunity to sit down and discuss with Topping and (Yankee co-owner Del) Webb what they had in mind. We are completely in the dark. I can't understand the league office requesting an 'important' thing as this be settled by telegram."

Cronin said a telegraphic poll of the league owners was taken at the request of the Yankees.

The sale price wasn't announced but the Yankees are estimated to be valued between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000.

The sale would appear to give CBS network the inside track toward purchase of the World Series rights, but in Baltimore, Joseph A. W. Iglehart, chairman of the board of Baltimore Orioles and former director of CBS, said this is not true.

Lions Meet Roughies In Regina

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders meet British Columbia Lions here tonight in what could be the most exciting contest yet in the young Western Foot b a l l Conference season.

Neither Lions' coach Dave Skrien nor Roughies' Bob Shaw could be accused of overconfidence prior to the game.

"Lions will be just as big and mean as ever," said Shaw at a pre-game press conference.

"They h a n d l e d Calgary far more easily than we did and furthermore, they're still the champs."

Skrien showed equal respect for the Roughriders who have won both their games so far against a record of one win and a tie for Lions.

"If the Roughriders decide to sweep, they sweep from one sideline to the other. Our job definetely is to keep the quarterback in the pocket so we at least know where the ball is coming from."

Jim Carphin, a Canadian tight end who suffered hepatitis in 1963 and did not play, will dress for the first time since 1962. Skrien said he did not know how much Carphin would play, if at all.

FIGHT CARD CHANGED

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Alongi of Miami Beach pulled out of his Friday night televised fight with top heavyweight contender Doug Jones Thursday and Billy Daniels was quickly located to take his place. Alongi, an aching right arm and doctors found bone chip there. The substitution takes a lot of the lustre off the bout billed as an elimination for a fight with ex-champ Floyd Patterson.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Syracuse Chiefs again replaced Jacksonville Suns at the top of the International League Thursday night while Rochester Red Wings pulled back even with Toronto Maple Leafs in a fourth-place tie.

Syracuse went two percentage points ahead of Jacksonville, defeating Richmond Virginians 12-4 while third-placed Buffalo Bisons hammered the Suns 5-1.

The Red Wings scored a 2-0 victory over Columbus Jets in a game cut to six innings by rain while Atlanta Crackers blanked Leafs 5-0.

Larry Osborne set the stage for the Cracker attack with a pair of 400-foot home runs to go along with the blazing fast ball of winning pitcher Dwight Siebler.

'Good Chance To Make Hawks'

Reay Likes Dennis Hull

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Bill Reay says Chicago Black Hawks' National Hockey League team this season "will be a young one over-all, with some added strength through summer trades, particularly at defence."

Reay has high hopes for Doug Mohns, former Boston Bruins defenceman.

"He's mobile and can move the puck out of our own ice," said Reay. "There were a lot of times last season when we were defeated simply because we couldn't get out of our own zone."

Reay gives Doug Robinson a slight edge for the left side of the scoring line, replacing Ab McDonald.

"I also want a hard look at Dennis Hull — Bobby's 18-year-old brother—who also is a left winger," said Reay.

"I'm very high on him. He may be a little inexperienced but he's a big lad and very strong. I think he has a good chance to make it this year."

Dennis played last season with St. Catharines in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league and still is an amateur.

Bowling Pairs Title To Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Neil Salkeld of Toronto won the main pairs event in the Ontario lawn bowling tournament Thursday night for the third time in six years.

With Andy Anderson, he beat another Toronto twosome of Bill Swan and Dave Gillis 17-11 in the final.

Salkeld and Anderson were behind up to the 14th end when they trailed 11-8. But they evened the score at 11-11 on the 13th, pulled two ahead on the 16th and added another three shots on the 17th to win the Seagram Trophy event.

In the second-event final, Gordon MacMillan of Oshawa took an easy 24-11 win over Alex Ferguson of Toronto. MacMillan partnered with Bill Tewkesbury of Clearwater, Fla., forged to a 17-12 lead after only seven ends.

The third event was won by Barry McFadden and Russ Johnson of Toronto 19-10 over Ewart Ostrander and Elmer Kelly of Tillsonburg, Ont.

Jim Grainger and Floyd Perkins of Richmond Hill, Ont., took the fourth event 23-8 from Colin Snedden and Dave Stephen of Detroit.

Ed Neal and Duncan James of Toronto won the fifth event 15-14 after an extra end from Bill Dennis and Larry McCullough of Toronto.

In the semi-final, Salkeld won 11-10 over Herb Duke of Dentonia, Ont., while Swan downed Don Beaupit 16-12. MacMillan reached the final with a 17-12 victory over Earl Albertson, of Streetsville, Ont.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP) — Fanny Symbol will fire wins in her last six starts in capturing the Junior Invitation Trot Thursday night at Greenwood Raceway.

The nine-year old mare driven by Ozila Witt of Toronto was a length ahead of Frisco Van R., driven by co-owner Clarence Lockhart of Collingwood, Ont.

It was the second consecutive win in the junior series for Fanny Symbol who was purchased for $2,000 in the fall of 1962.

Jerry Canuck, driven by owner Renald Filion of Angers, Que., led 40-to-1 chance Dean Sultan B., owned by Mrs. Edith Kestch of Oshawa, across the finish line in the sixth race and set up a quinella of $145.60.

Keen Freight, won the second and clicked for a daily double of $31.30, following the first-race triumph of Catherine Harvester.

Black Watch Will Shoot For Canada

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP) — A team of marksmen of the 1st Battalion, Black Watch, of the Royal Highland Regiment won the right to represent the Canadian Army at next year's Bisley matches in England by winning the Letson Trophy Thursday.

The decision came after a spectacular tie of 4,301 out of a possible 5,700 points with a team of the Lord Strathcona's Horse from Calgary. The tie was broken by a scoring difference of 12 points on the 600-yard range.

Cannifton Defeated By Foxboro

Foxboro took a 2-0 lead in the South Hastings League finals as they downed Cannifton 11-5 last night.

Gord "Soup" Campbell pitched the victory with help from Gerry Mann in the eighth. Together they struck out two, walked none, and gave up four-teen hits.

For Cannifton, Don Forsythe was tagged with the loss. He was relieved by Don Dafoe in the seventh. They struck out seven, walked six, and gave up eleven hits.

Foxboro struck for two runs in the first inning as Forsythe walked lead-off man Brian Skinner, struck out Pete Young and then gave up three consecutive hits to Howard Shelley, Glynn Reynolds and Gerry Mann.

Cannifton threatened strongly in the eighth scoring three runs on a single by Clapp, a single by Empey and two doubles by Dafoe and Petrie.

Foxboro ended the inning when Petrie became the victim of a double play as Pete Young grabbed Ken Forsythe's bloop fly ball and doubled Petrie at second.

For Foxboro Glyn Reynolds had three hits while Brian Skinner and Howard Shelley each had a double and a single. Other hits went to Mann, Belanger, Thomas and Campbell.

Pat O'Connor had two doubles and a single for Cannifton while Hugh Petrie had a double and two singles. Ross Empey doubled and singled with Don Forsythe collecting two singles. Other hits went to Urch, Clapp, Harvey and Dafoe.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — A chestnut filly by First Landing from the stakes-winning mare Quill brought $90,000 and set a record high for a single thoroughbred in the annual Saratoga yearling sales Thursday night.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Benedictus, a chronic cripple at three years of age, went to the pole for the first time this year and came from well off the pace to finish second behind Esprit Gal in the featured 6½-furlong dash for three- and four-year-old maidens at Fort Erie Raceway Thursday.

But jockey Jim Parnell aboard Benedictus hollered foul against the winner and stewards upheld the claim, ruling that Esprit Gal—with George Gordon up—crossed in front of Benedictus coming out of the gate.

The Kentucky-bred filly left the starting gate at 7-to-1 and paid $16.60, 6.40 and 5.00.

Benedictus combined with Jamarullah, winner of the second race for a $46.10 daily double payoff.

Gertrude, with jockey Jim Fitzsimmons, took the fifth and with second-finisher Playampa combined for a quinella of $29.30.

Bo Belinsky To Quit Baseball

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bo Belinsky, who said earlier this season that he wanted to go back to the minor leagues, says that now he has decided to get out of baseball entirely

"I've gotta make a move," the pitcher told a reporter before Los Angeles Angels left Thursday for Washington. "This is my third year with this club and I'm going nowhere financially. I don't think I can ever count on getting the money I should. . . .

"I'm not going to go through that kind of worry for $16,000 or $17,000 a year. About the only thing I've got going for me is that I'm still single."

Belinsky has lost three in a row and now has a 9-8 record.

MR. MELTZER ON REAL ESTATE
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

An apartment unit of public housing for low income families often costs more than individual middle class homes. This fact sometimes has inspired confusion, suspicion and even charges of inefficiency or worse.

There are sound reasons for the high costs, but responsible and concerned public officials are now studying alternative programs. The nature, of the problem is pointed up by this question from Mr. C. A. A. -

Dear Mr. Meltzer: At a public meeting I attended the other night, a speaker mentioned that it costs $17,000 per apartment for those public housing projects you see everywhere these days. I couldn't believe my ears.

I have a nice home in a nice neighborhood — and believe me, I'd rather live in it than in one of those projects — and my house cost only $12,000. I know for a fact that there are many houses for as little as $8,000 that would be a lot nicer to live in than a project.

If just doesn't make sense for the government (and us taxpayers) to pay so much for so little. Is this another example of graft with the ever-suffering taxpayer being taken for a ride? Or was the speaker misinformed in his figures? — Mr. C. A. A.

ANSWER: Your speaker was not misinformed. It does cost the cost per apartment unit exceeds $17,000. However, this cost includes the entire cost of construction designed for long life and hard usage, and the cost of regulations and red tape that government construction requires.

Many people — even in government — are beginning to think that the high construction costs of existing houses for public housing families will be cheaper, will provide a better environment, and will enhance communities in which they are purchased and improve the cities already have such programs.

I might add that I am currently building and I rent out apartments in a home we purchased and fixed up ourselves, but my intention is a sound one, and how best to make it so.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We read your column regularly and so come to you for advice.

At Belleville Drive-In

Rex Harrison as Caesar in "Cleopatra" Spectacle.

"If I never acted again, I would not accept the superficial roles which I undertook with regularity in the earlier days of my career," Rex Harrison is prone to remark when discussing the opportunities for performers, particularly of British origin.

"The stereotype of the cardboard lover mouthing quips in a drawing room, or the unfinished, self-sacrificing hero fighting and dying bravely for his country, is not indigenous to English films, of course, but it is, unfortunately, an accepted caricature of the English hero."

Harrison has been a man of his word by astutely avoiding these prototypes and still continuing his successful career. His newest characterization is Julius Ceasar in 20th Century-Fox's romantic spectacle, "Cleopatra," continuing tonight to Tuesday at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre, starting at dusk. Harrison's role, in which he is co-starred with Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, won him a nomination as best actor in the Oscar race.

The enjoyment to the romantic spectacle, "Cleopatra", is enhanced with big screen Technicolor. Special popular prices prevail.

Star-Gazing Still Remains Favorite Sport in Hollywood

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Star-gazing, after all these years, remains the favorite sport in Hollywood.

Buses providing tours around the studio lots and past stars' homes are invariably filled. Except for the forthcoming Bettes appearance the hottest ticket in town unties the bearer to a two-hour, $2.50 ram ride around he busy Universal Ave. of Is booked weeks in advance.

well-known ones, perform is interesting, but even more fascinating is a look at the complicated assembly line set up to make a television series like Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea. The new ABC science-adventure series about an atomic powered submarine, set 18 years in the future, will specialize in dramatic undersea action. It requires delicate, special camera work.

There will be collisions between subs, underwater explosions, even attacks on cities built on the ocean floor. All this takes place in a cement tank the size of a small swimming pool but considerably deeper and equipped with portholes for the cameras. All the props are carefully constructed scale miniatures.

Irwin Allen, the series' producer, originally produced and directed the story as a movie. Even then he realized its potential as a TV series and tucked away the elaborate sets which he said cost more than $500,000.

CBS' Perry Mason show stopped production this week while star Raymond Burr recovers from tooth infection. His face swelled to a point where no makeup could disguise it.

Most interesting program of the last week was CBS' Thursday night visit with Mrs. Lyndon Johnson at the Little White House in Texas, the LBJ ranch. Mrs. Johnson proved a warm, gracious and interesting hostess. Walter Cronkite handled the half-hour show.

Mrs. Johnson will give ABC something that should time with a Washington interview with Howard K. Smith in the White House Oval Room Aug. 22.

'Robin Tubes Up New Anthem To Beautiful, Starring Chicago

Chicago may be a new anthem, thanks to the famous Academy Award song-writing team of Sammy Cahn and Jimmy Van Heusen.

It's "My Kind of Town," a swinging number sung by Frank Sinatra in Warner Bros. "Robin and the 7 Hoods," a motion picture that brings the Robin Hood legend into the windy city during the prohibition era. The Technicolor-Panavision film, which also stars Dean Martin, Sammy Davis, Bing Crosby, Peter Falk, Barbara Rush and Victor Bruno, is showing tonight and Friday Saturday, matinee and evening.

"My Kind of Town," a paen of praise to the Windy City, is performed in one of the jazziest, most boisterous musical sequences ever filmed. Sinatra belts out the song on the steps of the courthouse where he was just acquitted of doing away with the local sheriff. As the Chicago version of Robin Hood who robs the rich, steals and gives to the poor, he's the most popular guy in town, and there is universal rejoicing at his acquittal. A crowd of several hundred sing with him, lovely girls fling and sing, a jazz band makes its way through the crowd in accompaniment. Then he vanishes in a yellow Rolls-Royce as banners proclaim Robin Hood is good, good, good.

Bing Crosby fans are in for a generous treat which he certainly delivers, in Warner Bros. musical comedy in "Robin and the 7 Hoods," boasting no less than 7 toetapping tunes, blended with joyous fun.

RCD Armored Scout Cars Averaging 2,200 Miles Each A Month While in Cyprus

By PETER BUCKLEY

KATO DHIKOMO, Cyprus (CP)—The squat, dark armored scout cars of the Royal Canadian Dragoons fit badly into the landscape of rural Cyprus.

The sudden appearance of a pair of the four-ton hulks among the shadowy citrus orchards of the Mediterranean coast, beside the tranquil Gothic splendor of the ruins of Bellapaix Abbey or in the narrow lanes of a dusty farm village, is disconcerting.

But so are the barbed wire, the sand-bagged gun posts and the other crude accouterments of war which now mar the best-soaked countryside, and none of the others can lay much claim to the same peace-keeping role as the Canadian scout cars.

There are 23 of the vehicles with the Canadian forces in Cyprus. Known as Ferret scout cars, they carry a driver and co-driver, a .30-calibre machine-gun and two radio sets. Their powerful engines thrust them at 50 miles an hour over paved highways, and their tractor-style tires and low silhouette mean almost unlimited manoeuvrability over the pitching interiors of the country roads and fields.

The Dragoons' job is to observe and report. They provide mobile, armed reconnaissance for the Royal 22d Regiment in Cyprus, a role which marries two traditional army rivals—infantry and armored corps.

An 80-man squadron was detached from the Dragoons' base at Camp Gagetown, N.B., last March, provided with a 15-man group of cooks, maintenance workers and other support elements, and sent here to supplement and support the 1st Battalion of the Van Doos.

2,200 MILES A MONTH

Since then, the scout cars have been running up an average of 2,200 miles a month each. During the six months they will be here before returning to Canada in December, the vehicles will have seen as much use as they would get in five or six years at home.

The crews are under similar pressure.

"They're getting six years of training on the Ferret here in six months, particularly in a technical sense," said Maj. John Beament of Ottawa, 37-year-old commander of the squadron, at his headquarters in Nicosia.

"It's a demanding job in that you have to be on the alert all the time—and yet often there's nothing to do.

"You never know, when you come into a village, whether someone will shoot.

"And a patrol has to go close to the (Greek- or Turkish-Cypriot) armed positions and observe closely for any changes or bulldups. You're never sure whether the guy will just get tired of you snooping around and start sniping at you."

ROADS ARE ROUGH

Sgt. Leroy MacAdams was in charge of a recent two-car patrol around this village 10 miles north of Nicosia. A 31-year-old native of Digby, N.S., MacAdams is a short, slight man with an almost mournful expression and a reputation for hard work and common sense.

The two scout cars, moving rapidly out of their base with A Company of the Royal 22nd in a farm two miles west of here, rumbled along a roughly paved road and pulled to a stop outside one of the biggest of Kato Dhikomo's dozen coffee shops.

A glance around assured the sergeant and his cohort, Cpl. Duncan MacPherson, 36, of Oromocto, N.B., that all was quiet in the prosperous all-Greek village of 3,500.

The coffee-shop dozed in the afternoon sun. Several of the outside tables supported the demi-tasses and elbows of village elders and businessmen and a desultory card game occupied the leisure hours of some National Guard soldiers inside.

The two Canadians drew up chairs outside while their drivers — Trooper Joseph Campbell, 29, of New Waterford, N.S., (killed a few days later when his armored car overturned while on patrol) and Dollard St. Amour, 32, of Kapuskasing, Ont., and Okonocio—sipped soft drinks, standing through the open hatches of the armored cars and watching the awed clusters of dusty children making their daily examination of the vehicles.

MACHINE-GUNS AT HAND

MacAdams remarked that the village mukhtar (mayor) didn't appear to be around for his usual briefing on community problems, and finishing his soft drink he moved back to his car. By now, after standing 15 minutes in the sun, the metal sides and top of the car were searing to the touch.

The two Ferrets, their long radio antennas bending in the wind, drove at deliberate speed along the main street while MacAdam and MacPherson stood in the hatches. Their radio head sets were on and their hands lay loosely on the locked machine-guns in front of them.

Their heads turned regularly, examining the side streets and byways for possible buildups of troops or supplies and for other information their Canadian superiors and the United Nations should know about.

Beyond Kato Dhikomo, the cars left the paved road and moved in clouds of powdery dust toward the nearest Greek fortified positions two miles away. They swung into the grass to bypass a herd of fat sheep padding along the path, then they mounted a low hill and drew to a halt 100 yards behind the Greek line.

MacAdams scanned the sandbagged locations with his field glasses. There was no movement from the dugouts and no new positions had appeared.

The scout cars rumbled back and began a steady climb through the satellite village of Pano Dhikomo, a poorer sister of the village below.

FLAGS MARK CAMPS

The patrol climbed higher into the foothills, over an ever rockier road and began circling slowly among the prickly scrub to a vantage point between upper and lower ranges.

The binoculars came out again. Above, tiny flashes of color — red Turkish flag, blue Greek flag — identified the mountain-top camps of armed fighters.

On a grizzled peak between the two, a United Nations banner identified the camp of a dozen Canadians who try to keep the two sides from clashing.

"This is a good position to watch for anything big," MacAdams said. "You can see both Greek and Turkish positions from here and tell whether there's been any major moves."

LETHAL PEACEKEEPERS—The squat, dark armored scout cars of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, stationed in Cyprus, are equipped with a .30 calibre machine-gun, two radio sets and engines that can take them at speeds of up to 60 miles an hour. They carry a driver and observer whose jobs are to patrol a land that makes even walking difficult, and observe and report a ny military movement by Turks or Greeks. It was in such a vehicle that J. H. Campbell, 29, of New Waterford, N.S., was killed Aug. 1. Campbell, an observer in the car, died when it overturned after swerving to avoid a woman and a flock of sheep. (CP Photo)

Ghost of Hitler Creates Gulf Between the Younger And Older Generations

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

BAD GODESBERG (CP) — The truck driver pulled up at the Dreesen Hotel after a 200-mile haul through West Germany.

"Pleasant drive," he said, thanks to the autobahn — and thanks to Hitler."

It was perhaps a fitting locale for some sort of tribute to the late Adolf since the Dreesen was one of his long-time vacationing spots. And it was here he held his fateful pre-Munich meetings with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in 1938.

"You must admit that what the lorry-driver says is understandable," said Fritz Dreesen, proprietor of the hotel which has a fine terrace on the Rhine.

"If a man is a murderer and a kidnapper, and he also writes a good book, people should not condem the book. Hitler built good highways."

The Canadian visitor realized with a start that the subject of Hitler is once again topical in Germany, 19 years after his death. A new wave of war crime trials has caused popular newspapers, magazines and television to look again at the life of Hitler and the Nazi era.

YOUNG ASK QUESTIONS

The ghost of Hitler has created a gulf between the younger and older generations. The young asking why their fathers followed this man between 1933 and 1939.

Some writers reply that the younger generation's anti-Nazism is cheaply acquired, since the angry young critics did not live through the terror. Gestapo records show 301,000 anti-Nazi Germans were in concentration camps in 1938.

Touring Commonwealth correspondents were put at the Dreesen during a visit to nearby Bonn, the West German capital in the beautiful Rhine valley.

High on a pinnacle across the Rhine is the Petersberg Hotel, where Chamberlain stayed and where, reports say, Queen Elizabeth will stop on her visit to Bonn next year.

While the birds twittered in this idyllic place, Dreesen told an interviewer at breakfast that the vegetarian Hitler was a no-wurst, no-wine type of guest although some of his hangers-on were boozers.

But Dreesen, who inherited the hotel from his father, a First World War comrade of Hitler, learned early about Adolf's love affair with Eva Braun. He was commissioned to deliver a parcel to her in Munich.

MUNICH KNEW

Arriving at her street, he made discreet inquiries, to which an urchin replied: "Ah, you mean Hitler's Eva—third door on the right."

Dreesen chuckled: "It was a secret here, but in Munich even the kids knew all."

Hitler, who made the Dreesen a sort of headquarters for the Duesseldorf - Cologne area, set out from here June 30, 1934, to liquidate Ernst Roehm, SA chief, and hundreds of others in one of his bloodiest purges.

"We were always relieved when he went away," said Fritz Dreesen, who was "interned" for seven months after the war in a Nazi jail with knowledge of the dead dictator.

Yet Dreesen and his friends apparently see little or nothing of the demonic side of Hitler and some of them find it difficult to believe he knew about or ordered the crimes committed by his men.

In a reaction to stories about the personal qualities of Hitler, Professor Golo Mann of Stuttgart has contended:

"What a nice fellow this Adolf Hitler must have been, such a true friend, cavalier to women, lover of children, animals and flowers . . . it is an old truth the devil has many nice qualities."

Fritz Dreesen was surprised when asked whether his hotel's past attracts tourist business or curiosity seekers today.

"No indeed," he replied. "We've kept no memorials. Nobody has asked to sleep in Room 117."

Cyprus Quiet
Grivas Most Co-operative - - UN

NICOSIA (Reuters) — Cyprus was reported quiet today in the wake of an explosion Friday night that shattered the quiet of a Greek - Cypriot district in southwestern Nicosia.

Nobody was injured but the blast wrecked the front of a car parked outside the home of a Greek-Cypriot journalist.

Meanwhile, sources close to the United Nations' secretariat here said that damage to property — houses, stores, schools and churches—amounted to an estimated $2,500,000 since violence erupted on Cyprus last December between the Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot communities.

Friday the UN peace force commander, Gen. Kodandera Thimayya, said Gen. George Grivas, newly appointed commander of Cypriot national guard had been "most co-operative." Grivas, the former underground leader who led the fight against the British for Cypriot independence, succeeded Lt-Gen. George Karayannis, 37, as head of the national guard after Karayannis apparently resigned over differences with Grivas.

WAS IN TROUBLE

Grivas's command of the guard in his first official job in Cyprus since he went into self-imposed exile in Greece on the eve of Cypriot independence in 1959.

Thimayya said he had received assurances from the Greek and Turkish communities on Cyprus there would be no further fighting. The assurances came from the president downward, including Grivas, and from the persons who seemed to be in charge of the Turkish side, Thimayya said.

Asked whether there was any truth in reports that the Greek-Cypriots might relax their economic blockade on the Turkish-Cypriot areas in the next few days, Thimayya said their discussions had not got that far. The Cyprus government, he said, was not satisfied that the Turkish - Cypriots needed food and supplies as much as they claimed.

Women Swim Channel As Team, Midriff Bare

DOVER, England (Reuters) — The English Channel, which sank the Spanish armada and saw the mighty D-Day invasion, today faced a new challenge — 10 nude British women.

A team of 10 women set off early today to swim the channel in relay clad only in the "topless-bottomless."

Bathing suits were planned only for the start and finish of the crossing. Youngest of the team was 21 and the oldest a 45-year-old grandmother.

They hoped to make the journey to Cap Gris Nez, France, in 10 hours.

The Channel Swimming Association observer, 76 - year-old John Wood, and the team's pilot boat, Reg Brickell, both said they had no objection to the girls swimming without suits.

"I shall be keeping my eyes on the wheel and compass," Brickell said.

"Grandmother of the party and swimming at number one position is Mrs. Sheila Black, women's editor of The Financial Times, Britain's national business daily.

"It's the first time I have swum in the sea for years," she said.

Just before leaving, 25-year-old Harriet Hoskins-Abrahall, daughter of a Unilever executive, revealed that once away from the shore the girls would swim nude.

She said: "It's the idea of myself and my 22-year-old twin sisters Amanda and Lucinda and all the other girls have agreed.

"But it was decided that the first swimmer from Brickell, both said they had no objection to the girls swimming without suits.

Togliatti's Stroke Leaves Italian Reds in Trouble

ROME (AP)—Palmiro Togliatti's stroke leaves Italian Communists in the throes of a major leadership crisis. The search for a successor may split open the West's largest Communist party.

Togliatti, leader of the Italian Communist party for 38 years, is reported gravely ill in the Crimea, where he suffered a stroke Thursday while vacationing in the Soviet Union.

Togliatti is 71, and the question of a successor looms as clouded. The Rome newspaper Paese Sera said the stroke had apparently left him partially paralyzed.

Party leaders, many of whom had left Rome on holiday, returned hurriedly today.

Togliatti, known as "Il Migliore" (The Best), put the Italian Communist party behind the Soviet Union, quelling any followers of Communist China. The struggle for the succession may open the old cracks.

Luigi Longo, 64, deputy leader who flew to Togliatti's side Friday, appears for the moment as the most likely successor. He was a hero of the Italian Communist underground during the Second World War.

But Longo may meet strong opposition. He is reported to have supported Stalin, even after de-Stalinization, and was said to have favored the Chinese Communists.

Some observers think Togliatti's mantle may fall on Mario Alicata, 46, the director of the party organ, L'Unita.

Giorgio Amendola, 56, and Pietro Ingrao, 51, are other possibilities. Both are considered top theoreticians, but believe the Italian party should make its own national policy, even while supporting the Kremlin.

Segni in Coma

ROME (Reuters) — President Antonio Segni today was in a coma after suffering a stroke eight days ago.

Acting President Cesare Merzagora, who took over Segni's duties Monday, went to the presidential residence at Quirinal Palace. Cabinet ministers were also in attendance.

Premier Aldo Moro hurried back to Rome from Bolzano province in north Italy where he had planned to spend the three - day Ferragosto holiday weekend.

Two Miners Trapped By Rock Burst

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — Two miners were trapped near the 4,000-foot level of the Wright - Hargreaves gold mine by a rock burst which shattered a section of the mine Friday night.

The miners were the only two from a shift of 62 who were not accounted for after the burst. They were working apart from the others in a stope 60 feet above the 4,000-foot level.

Rescue operations were started immediately and then postponed until today when a series of at least seven other rock bursts rumbled through the mine.

The missing men are Donald Verovski, 45, a widower with two sons and a married daughter, and Edouard Duchesne, 55, married with no children. Both are from Kirkland Lake.

The first of the bursts, caused by changing pressures in the rock, struck the mine about 9.30 p.m., mine official said. One at midnight shook the worksite and veteran miners said it was the worst in memory.

Wright - Hargreaves, one of the deepest gold mines in North America extending more than 8,000 feet under ground, went into operation here in 1921. Its principal shaft is about 200 yards from Kirkland Lake's main street. The mine was scheduled to close down operation before the end of this year.

Budget Deficit Revealed

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal budget deficit of $819,197,480 for the 1963-64 fiscal year was reported Friday night by Finance Minister Gordon in closing the books on the year ended last March 31.

This compared with the forecast of a $685,000,000 deficit made by Mr. Gordon in his budget speech last March 16, and the deficit of $691,832,927 run up by the former Conservative government in the 1962-63 year.

The record peacetime budget deficit was $701,021,950 in 1961-62.

The new Liberal government thus was able to pare the federal deficit somewhat in what was virtually its first fiscal year in office. The year started April 1, 1963, the Liberals won the general election seven days later and took office April 22.

For the current 1964-65 fiscal year ending next March, Mr. Gordon is aiming at a one-third cut in the budgetary deficit to $455,000,000.

The final figures for the last fiscal year placed revenues at $6,253,204,039 and expenditures at $6,977,401,519.

Revenues were $46,000,000 or three-quarters of one per cent more than the preliminary figure of $6,207,000,000 given in last March's budget speech. They compared with $5,511,746,559 in revenues of $5,878,708,878 in the previous fiscal year.

Expenditures were $20,000,000 or one-third of one per cent shy of the March budget forecast of $6,892,000,000. In the previous fiscal year, expenditures totalled $6,570,341,805.

For the current fiscal year, Mr. Gordon has predicted a jump of 7.8 per cent in federal revenues to $6,700,000,000 and a more modest rise of 3.8 per cent in spending to $7,155,000,000.

Rebels Stepping Up Bid To Win Congo Control

New Evidence Reds Are Backing Insurgents

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Communist-backed rebel forces are stepping up their bid to win control of the turbulent Congo as U.S. planes begin ferrying hard-pressed government troops to trouble spots.

Renewed rebel assaults broke out Friday 700 miles apart in the fast, mineral-rich country amid new evidence the Chinese Communists are backing the insurgents. U.S. officials discussed the government's plight with Premier Moise Tshombe.

Rebel forces advanced to within 12 miles of Bukavu, the capital of central Kivu province.

In the west, Peking - trained Pierre Mulele's warriors came within 20 miles south of Kikwit in Kwilu province. His forces total more than 2,000 men, reports said.

The rebel thrusts came as four U.S. C-130 planes took off or their first missions to aid the shaky government army. More than 100 Americans, including 40 paratroopers, arrived Friday.

REBELS KILLED

A military source said one of the four U.S. cargo planes flew to Bukavu, where six rebels were reported killed and several others captured.

Scanty reports from the rebel-held northern city of Stanleyville said rebel leader Gaston Soumialot had reached Kindu, new capital of Maniema province.

The paratroopers are the first foreign soldiers officially in the former Belgian territory since the United Nations withdrew its forces last June 30. U.S. embassy officials said the men were sent to The Congo only to guard the transport planes and ride U.S. helicopters on rescue and support missions.

G. Mennen Williams, U.S. assistant secretary of state for African affairs who arrived Friday, conferred with Tshombe over the worsening revolt.

U.S. officials reported 22 Communist bloc nations in the Congo embassy in neighboring Bujumbura, Burundi, and 15 at the Communist embassy in Brazzaville, capital of the former FFench Congo. The officials also said there were increasing signs of Chinese propaganda in The Congo such as guerrilla warfare books in the Bukavu area printed in Communist China.

"Rubin, Rubin, we been thinkin, quit your spendin or we'll all be sinkin."

Rubin said, "we economized as he asked by dropping him from the payroll."

For his service as a volunteer fireman, the protestor got $2.50 a call.

Minister Attacked On Policy

By RUSSELL ELMAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Tremblay was bombarded Friday by protests from all sides of the Commons over his department's policies and administration.

Focal point of the criticisms was his announcement that the amnesty for Chinese who are in Canada illegally will end Sept. 1 after which RCMP and immigration officers would apply the law to Chinese the same way as to other residents.

Ken More (PC — Regina City) said the date should be extended to at least September, 1965. Only after four years was the Chinese community beginning to trust a government promise of no deportations if Chinese came forward, told the truth and had their status made legal.

Six hours after he made his initial statement, Mr. Tremblay told the Commons the Sept. 1 deadline still stands but the government will be prepared to prolong the amnesty period if there are some people who want to make statements to adjust their status.

But he added he thought there would be sufficient time before Sept. 1. He estimated 3,500 Chinese have come forward under the amnesty since 1960.

Friday's proceedings were delayed to the 1964-65 expenditure estimates of Mr. Tremblay's department providing a vehicle for a wide-ranging debate on all aspects of immigration, citizenship and Indian affairs.

Mr. Tremblay outlined various steps aimed at attracting substantial numbers of skilled immigrants. Provisions also were being made to speed the arrival of sponsored immigrants, especially relatives and to assist immigration of more refugees. There would be improvements in the department's administration and orientation.

The minister said he will visit European and other countries next month to inspect Canada's immigration offices and discuss Canada's immigration plans with foreign governments.

Auguste Choquette (L — Lotbiniere) and Andrew Brewin (NDP — Greenwood) suggested establishment of a Commons committee on immigration.

The 31-year-old French-speaking Liberal from Quebec proposed Canadians of Chinese origin should no longer be British subjects.

"If we wish to respect the Crown which presides over the Commonwealth association, why don't all the Commonwealth countries confer a reciprocal citizenship rather than enshrine it in the law a tie of subjection?" he asked.

William Skoreyko (PC — Edmonton East) suggested that Mr. Tremblay hold talks with Communist countries in Europe to see whether Canadians might be allowed to establish immigration facilities there.

Cypriot Foreign Minister Flies to Athens

NICOSIA — Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou flew unexpectedly to Athens today for new talks with the Greek government on the Cyprus crisis.

Before leaving, Kyprianou told reporters his Greek-Cypriot government is not interested in any halfway solutions for the crisis involving the island's Greek and Turkish factions. He said the only way out is to give Cyprus complete and unfettered independence.

"There is no room for compromise along this line," he said.

After Kyprianou's arrival in Athens, usually reliable sources said he was carrying an urgent message from President Makarios regarding Sunday's 24-hour visit by UN mediator Sakari Tuomioja.

The source said Makarios is wary of any future Greek moves without his knowledge, sent Kyprianou to Athens to tell Greek officials what they intended to tell Tuomioja.

The officials, including Premier George Papandreou, interrupted weekend holidays to meet with Kyprianou.

Meanwhile, the New York Times, in a dispatch from Ankara, Turkey, said Greece, which exerts a strong influence over the government on Cyprus has come around to the position that Turkey has never denied a "sovereign physical presence on Cyprus."

The dispatch said Turkey's minimum objective is a military base on the island which is less than 50 miles off the Turkish coast.

The Times added: "the (Turkey) also wants the outnumbered Turkish Cypriot community to become a part of Turkey or, if Cyprus remains a single independent country, part of a federal system with Turkish administration.

A check by the dispatch said that Prof. Nihat Erim, Turkish representative in talks on Cyprus, left today for Geneva for further discussions.

In Nicosia, Kyprianou denied that his visit to Athens was prompted by any urgent developments. He said it had been scheduled for some time. Observers noted, however, that he was his second trip there this week.

Kyprianou also said his trip was not connected with the visit to Athens by Tuomioja.

Meanwhile, reports from Athens say that the mediator would submit a plan based on revised proposals by U.S. assistant secretary of state George Ball.

Acheson's original proposal was that Cyprus be given the choice between independence and union with Greece, and that Turkey would get a military base on Cyprus.

Five Burned Beyond Recognition Are Believed Belleville Family

PARRY SOUND, Ont. (CP)—Two of seven persons killed in a head-on collision on Highway 69 10 miles north of here Thursday, were identified Friday while the other five have been tentatively identified.

Paul McKenna, 23, of Sarnia and Ralph Bray, 35, London, Ont., father of four, were killed when the car in which they were riding was in collision with a car from Duluth, Minn.

Occupants of the other car were tentatively identified as Ernest G. Anderson, 63, and his wife, Clara, 62, of Duluth, their daughter, Lorraine Monteith, 42, of Belleville and two of Mrs. Monteith's three sons, Arthur and Ronald.

Tentative identification was made by relatives. Police said positive identifications would be made after an autopsy or examination at the attorney-general's laboratory in Toronto.

The missing planes left Fort Chimo Tuesday with planned stopovers at Kuujjuaraapik Lake and Lake Payne, both in the northern Quebec wilderness. The RCAF said it was possible radio communications had failed after both planes landed on a lake.

Reinforcements For Van Doos Now in Cyprus

By PETER BUCKLEY

NICOSIA (CP)—A 31-man detachment of the Royal 22nd Regiment with four jeep-mounted .106-mm. recoilless rifles arrived at Nicosia airport Friday to strengthen the Canadian contingent with the United Nations peace force in Cyprus.

The mounted weapons were described as the most powerful now in possession of the UN peace-keeping force here.

The reinforcements arrived aboard the regular weekly flight of an RCAF Yukon transport. Ammunition for guns and other supplies came in Friday on an RCAF Hercules.

Canadian officers said the new weapons were brought here on a request from the UN command at the beginning of August, and not as a result of the current crisis on the island.

The recoilless rifles are designed as anti-tank weapons but have penalties for use in serious other tasks. Before their arrival, the heaviest armament in the UN force was heavy machine-guns and mortars.

The arrival of 31 new troops raises the strength of the Canadian contingent in Cyprus to 1,126.

DETROIT (AP) — The U.S. auto industry's big three notified the United Auto Workers Union Friday that they will present new contract offers Monday.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler told UAW negotiators their current company offers will be presented at Monday's bargaining talks.

Union officials said its offer would deal with economic issues only.

Mike Cummins, Ford labor relations manager, told the UAW "We will have some proposals of interest to make to you . . . Monday."

William O'Brien, Chrysler vice-president labor relations, asked for a weekend recess in bargaining talks, with the expectation that Chrysler would make its proposal also on Monday.

Negotiations now are in their seventh week. The UAW has submitted detailed contract proposals to the big three but none there had been no company counter offer as yet.

A strike vote was ordered Thursday for the 354,000 hourly workers of General Motors.

Hal C. Banks Must Turn up On Monday

MONTREAL (CP) — Hal Banks, missing since an arrest warrant in one case was issued for him last month, must appear Monday so that a date can be set for a preliminary hearing in another of the string of court actions surrounding him.

Banks, president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) has been brought for a month by court bailiff armed with the arrest warrant, a civil law document.

Banks must turn up for the Monday criminal court session so that a date can be set for the preliminary hearing of a charge that he conspired to incite seamen to abandon ship.

A court official said Banks, 56, is obliged to appear or "be held in contempt of the law." Banks is free on $1,000 bail in the case.

He entered a required by law to appear at such court hearings and, in the case of default, the prosecution normally asks that a bench warrant be issued for the arrest of the missing party.

It was learned Friday the Crown will ask for a date in October to be set for the hearing.

Banks is free on other bail of $25,000 pending the appeal of a five-year prison sentence imposed after he was convicted of conspiring to libel a rival SIU of Canada officer, Capt. Henry Walsh.

TRIAL SET SEPT. 15

He also awaits trial Sept. 15 on a charge of conspiracy to libel Walsh, a charge with intent to cause bodily harm.

Reserves, an official of the National Association of Canadian Engineers (CLC), was assaulted in Vancouver office in Jan. 1960.

The charge that gave rise to Thursday's bail hearing involves 14 other SIU of Canada officials.

It was laid against them just January and said they conspired "to persuade a large number of men belonging to the 47 ships to desert," contrary to both the Canada Shipping Act and the Criminal Code.

The case arose out of a march on Ottawa organized by the union last Oct. 21.

The civil warrant which authorities issued Friday orders Banks to serve on the buriy union witness results from a case in which Banks was found in contempt last September of contempt of court.

The contempt action was a civil case, which means that Banks will remain free of prison while he considers whether or not he manages to keep out of the clutches of the bailiff. He incurs no extra penalty for his evading of the warrant-server.

Commander In Naval Service For Two Areas

OTTAWA (CP) — The Atlantic and Pacific areas are getting new naval commanders with the retirement in mid - November of one of Canada's most distinguished sailors, Rear - Admiral Jeffry Brock, as flag officer Atlantic Coast and maritime commander Atlantic.

Defence Minister Hellyer announced Friday that he will be succeeded in that Atlantic post by Rear-Admira. William M. Landymore, 45-year-old native of Brantford.

Succeeding Rear - Admiral Landymore as flag officer Pacific and maritime commander Pacific will be Rear-Admiral Michael G. Stirling, 49, of Kelowna, B.C., now chief of naval personnel at headquarters here.

Admiral Brock, who will be 65 in April, has spent more than 30 years of naval service. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Order and a bar during German U-boats in the Second World War, and the Distinguished Service Order and U.S. Legion of Merit for Korean War service.

During the war in Europe, he was on loan for four years to the Royal Navy and was the first Canadian to fly the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve to be senior officer of an RN escort group.

GOT SIX SUBS

In 1943, his escort group destroyed six subs in a battle with a pack of more than 20 U-boats. In 1950, he commanded a United Nations force protecting the flank of the Inchon invasion area and later led a UN destroyer group into the Korean port of Hungnam during the evacuation of 7,000 personnel.

Admiral Landymore, a gunnery officer, was on the Canadian destroyer Crusader in the Margaree when they were lost in the Atlantic in 1940.

He had two tours of duty with the UN fleet in Korean waters. commanded the Canadian destroyer in the Far East and being awarded the Order of the British Empire.

Among his appointments since, he has been commander of the Canadian Pacific coast structure in 1958-59 and flag officer Pacific Coast since November, 1962.

"Naval observers in Halifax are interpreting the retirement of Rear-Admiral Brock as being based his own wishes. They believe he is a casualty of the current armed - services interservation program.

They draw this conclusion from a message Admiral Brock received the first Friday after he returned from a trip to Ottawa. The message included the information that a number of national defence has directed that I am to be retired."

Insomnia sufferers of old ate raw white onions to woo the arms of Morpheus. Pity the poor husband or wife! Today we have more reliable methods of inducing sleep . . . sleeping pills and the tranquilizers for example. But, these medications are prescription items and should be taken only upon the advice of your physician. Check the obvious reasons for sleeplessness first—it may be caused by a lumpy mattress. C'd Residents Recall Early Days of Well

The capping of a well on the property of the Ontario Intelligencer building at the corner of Bridge Street East and Pinnacle Street will bring back pleasant memories to many of the older residents of this city. It is understood that this well was used extensively by the merchants and residents in that section of the city many years before the turn of the century.

At one time Jason S. Tice, grandfather of city editor Claude Tice was manager of the horse-drawn street car company that ran from the Junction Dock to the north station. He operated a livery stable in connection with his work and this stable was located just north of the present Hotel Quinte. The well was used by him to water the horses at various times of the day and night.

Mr. Maurice Callaghan, who is an authority on early history of this city, stated this morning there were many springs and wells south of Bridge Street East and were in use in the city for many years. Asked about the bricks used in the well with the name W. A. Foster on them, Mr. Callaghan stated that Mr. Foster ran a brick yard near Wellington Avenue and supplied bricks in great quantities to many buildings in the district. A street, Foster Avenue, was named after the family.

George Ward, architect, stated the well is under the site of a column base of the new building and will have to be filled in with concrete. At the present time the workmen are down about 16 feet and depth they have another several feet to go. The well is bricked all the way down and the bricks are in excellent condition despite the years of time they have been in use.

Both Occupants Of Car Thrown To Pavement

This is what happened when a woman passenger fearing a collision with a dump truck, cried out in alarm in a car on Cannifton Road today.

The driver swerved on his brakes; the car skidded on wet bank; took to the ditch, slid 50 feet on its frame and turned both occupants out.

Roy Alvah Weddon, 36, R.R. 2, Stirling and 18-year-old Betty Mayhew, Corbyville, were treated for abrasions at Belleville General Hospital and released.

The car was wrecked.

Police say the accident happened after the girl cried out to Weddon that his car and an approaching dump truck were on a collision course.

Two Soviet Musicians Ask Asylum

TOKYO (AP) — Two Soviet musicians with the Bolshoi Variety Troupe asked the U.S. embassy for political asylum tonight.

An embassy spokesman, Nathaniel B. Thayer, issued the following statement:

"Two Soviet citizens, Igor Berechstin and Boris Midney, have informed officers of the American embassy that they do not wish to return to the Soviet Union and desire to seek refuge elsewhere. The interest of the United States in this case is a humanitarian concern for the freedom of the two individuals."

The musicians, a drummer and a bass player, were members of the 36-member troupe which had come to Japan on a cultural visit.

Forty new members of Jehovah's Witnesses were baptized in the swimming pool at the Dutch Mill Inn at Trenton yesterday, in connection with the four-day Watch Tower convention being held in that town. Above is a general view of the baptismal ceremony.

Forty Members Of Witnesses Are Baptized

TRENTON — Forty members of the Jehovah's Witness faith were baptized by total immersion, Friday morning, in a special service at the Dutch Mill Inn swimming pool, in east Trenton.

Four witness ministers performed the ceremony, completely immersing the candidates, ranging in age from eight to 70, beneath the chilly waters of the pool. The female candidates squealed as they waded into the shallow end of the pool and gasped for breath after they were immersed below the surface. An estimated 200 watched from the edge of the pool.

"August 14, 1964 is the most important day in your life," Laurier Saumur, international witness representative told the candidates in a pre-baptism service at the community gardens. "It is even more important than the day of your birth. When you were born, death was an eventuality you had to face. Now, with your dedication to God, symbolized by total immersion, everlasting life is being held out to you."

Baptized in the immersion ceremony from the Trenton - Belleville area were: Diane Post, aged 10, R. R. 5, Trenton; Kathy Richardson, 16, Bryon Palmateer, 17 and 15, of 19 St., Trenton; Donald and Wayne Queen St., Trenton, and Mr. and Mrs. Murray Martin, R. R. 2 Halloway.

Crowds at the four-day Watch Tower convention in the arena are gradually building up, with more than 2,000 expected to attend Sunday afternoon's service.

Witnesses are being met on all sides with friendliness in Trenton, according to one official spokesman at the convention, and, on the other hand, many comments have been heard from Trenton citizens about the friendliness and good manners of the witnesses. One taxi driver told me, 'We and I haven't always agreed to waste away yet," he laughed.

In 1949 the Curtys were invited to serve at the Canadian branch office and printing plant of the Watch Tower Society in Toronto and have been in permanent residence there since.

"This is the thrill of a lifetime for us, to return to Trenton and see so many hundreds of Jehovah's Witnesses here. We have met many of our old friends who were Witnesses when we left and some who have become such since," Mr. Curry said.

Mr. Curry's subject on the program was "Peace of God Our Possession." Illustrating the troubled world conditions, Mr. Curry said, "As a strong wind destroys the calm on the waters of the Bay of Quinte, so too the storm winds of war destroy the peace of the world, especially now in Cyprus and Viet Nam. The first breach in peace between God and man resulted in man's eviction from the peaceful garden of Eden. God's purpose is to restore such paradise conditions for his faithful servants to enjoy to eternity."

Mr. Curry's father, Sam, lives on North Park Street in Belleville. He has a brother living at Frankford, two sisters in Belleville, and many other relatives throughout the Quinte district.

VERNON AND MILDRED CURRY

Jehovah's Witnesses Addressed By Former Belleville Resident

TRENTON — "When I became overseer of the Trenton congregation in 1945 there were only 15 Jehovah's witnesses in Trenton," said Vernon Curry, speaker on the program of the four-day convention of Jehovah's Witnesses in the Trenton Community Gardens.

"Few people would have believed it possible in those days for Trenton to be host to a convention of over 1500 Jehovah's Witnesses from Eastern Ontario," Mr. Curry said.

A native of the Belleville area, Mr. Curry and his wife, the former Mildred Smith of Stirling, left Trenton in 1947 to take up the full-time ministry in Brockville.

"I had been manager of a cheese factory at Consecon for some time," Mr. Curry said. "You'll starve to death,' some told me when I took up the non-salaried ministry of Jehovah's Witnesses. That was 17 years ago and I haven't starved to date."

RECORD TRAVEL YEAR

This promises to be a record year for boat travel in the Trenton area, with lockage at Lock No. 1, the closest lock to the town up from last year, and so many boats tied up at the government dock overnight this season that additional electrical outlets have been installed on the Fraser Park side of the harbor for the convenience of the owners.

Mayor James MacDonald said on Friday plans were being made to hold the third annual military tattoo in Trenton this fall.

Dates for the tattoo, and other details, have yet to be arranged, but the mayor and other town officials, are working enthusiastically to make this year's mammoth band concert in the community gardens an outstanding event.

De Gaulle Tours Coast Where Allies Landed

ST. RAPHAEL, France (Reuters) — President Charles de Gaulle flew by helicopter to Frejus Naval Air base near here today to begin a strenuous tour of 600 miles of coast where Allied forces landed 20 years ago today.

Among Americans attending the ceremonies was movie actor Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., looking spick and span in the white uniform of a U.S. Navy lieutenant co-mmander.

Fairbanks led a small flotilla of motor boats known as Cos mand' Roy which created a diversion off Theoule while the main force of 1,200 vessels steamed to the landing beaches on the south of France.

The ceremonies began at Le Dramont beach-head near the French Riviera town. The beach-head was one of the main landing points from which the Allies mounted Operation Anvil — the movement against the German Army occupying France during the Second World War.

American veterans will be led at the ceremonies by Charles Bohlen, U.S. ambassador to France, in all, 1,145 Americans lost their lives in the landing operations, in southern France.

The British contingent will be led by Sir Pierson Dixon, British ambassador in Paris.

French, British and U.S. warships lay at anchor off Le Dramont Beach, where many of the 95,000 Allied troops who landed on the first day concentrated their attack.

107 Cambodians Die of Poison From Planes

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (Reuters) — At least 107 persons have been killed by toxic matter dropped by South Vietnamese planes over the Cambodian province of Ratanakiri, the Cambodian information ministry announced today.

The ministry communique protested against the rejection by the United States of a new Cambodian charges and against South Vietnamese claims that chemical insects used in the destruction of jungle growth were "absolutely harmless."

It rejected the U.S. demand for an inquiry to be carried out by international body, adding: "This demand constitutes a new affront to Cambodia whose authorities are able to count the unfortunate victims of the American - South Viet Nam chemical aggression."

White-Minority Government In S. Rhodesia in Trouble

By CAROL KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sir Roy Welensky's attempt at a political comeback in Southern Rhodesia seems to be coming not a moment too soon in view of certain sinister developments from the white-minority government of Premier Ian Smith.

News items of the last few days indicate Smith not only plans to push ahead with his program for independence from Britain without further concessions to the majority black population, but that he is getting positively paranoic about any opposition.

When Chief Justice Sir Hugh Beadle ruled Thursday the government's severe restriction order on black nationalis- leader Joshua Nkomo was illegal, because he was held in a protected area where friends and relatives could not visit him, the government instantly evoked the protection order but reiterated that Nkomo would stay under restriction.

In London, The Times described the sleight-of-hand in effect as "a wretched performance by a government which claims that it stands for the standards of behavior."

MAY RALLY BLACKS

This move could help weld the split back nationalist move ment into one bitter mass whose hatred of the Smith government, it is feared in Britain, may grow to a hatred of all white people. Nkhabanisi Sibohle, leader of a rival nationalist party to Nkomo's, is also under restriction.

In a recent broadcast speech stressing his determination to go ahead with the independence project, by negotiation or unilateral declaration, Smith blamed the country's troubles on hostile propaganda emanating from the Communists, the Afro-Asians and the pan-Africanists, as well as certain unidentified "peculiarly placed people abroad who have a positive interest in suppressing the truth."

He accused radio and television correspondents of "active enmity" in the way interviews were presented, "mutilated and distorted." He also appeared to question the legitimacy of Sir Edgar Whitehead's opposition party.

"It is most necessary . . . that we draw a clear distinction between a legitimate, loyal opposition and an opposition which is merely the external enemy in disguise. The disguise is sometimes so thin as to be almost invisible."

DISTURBING EVENT

A minor but disturbing event reported the same day as the Nkomo episode is that for the first time political censorship has cracked down on a Salisbury TV show, cutting three verses of a satirical song which mildly lampooned one of Smith's recent battles with the press and his reference to Welensky's re-emergence as a "rogue elephant coming out of the bush."

One other significant sign is Smith plans to visit Portugal on his way to London next month for talks on independence with Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas - Home. Portugal's premier Antonio Salazar would likely be the only friend Southern Rhodesia would have in Europe if she were to seize unilateral independence in defiance of the constitution to uphold minority rule by the 220,000 whites.

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Prime Minister Ian Smith is ill and has been told to rest a few days by his doctor, the Southern Rhodesian government announced Friday night.

A statement said Smith was suffering from a recurrent back complaint — the result of injuries he received in a Second World War air crash.

The statement added Smith was expected to be back in his office next week.

UN Is Scorned

North Viet Nam has rejected the invitation of the United Nations Security Council to give its version of the clash between its PT boats and U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

This is another example of the manner in which the UN handicaps itself when it denies membership to certain nations.

If North Viet Nam were a UN member, it could at least be argued that the UN had a right to call it to account for its actions.

But, since it is outside the UN, North Viet Nam can contend, with considerable reason, that it does not have to answer to the UN for its behavior.

The UN acts as if it was extending a privilege to non-members when it offers to permit them to state their side of a dispute. Thus, in the present case, Soviet Russia pressed for an invitation to North Viet Nam to testify, while the United States took the stand that it would agree if South Viet Nam was also permitted to state its views.

In one sense, it is an advantage for a nation to be able to present its views before it is judged, but surely this should be a right, rather than a privilege.

There is an additional strange twist to the present incident. Soviet Russia pressed for, and obtained, an invitation to North Viet Nam to testify, but North Viet Nam has declined the invitation. This makes the Russians appear rather foolish. One suspects the rejection was prompted by Communist China, which perhaps saw in the circumstances a chance to score off two adversaries, the UN and Russia. A simpler explanation would be that North Viet Nam did not believe it could justify its PT boat attack before the UN, but to accept this view would presuppose that the North Viet Nam Reds would feel compelled to confine their explanation to the truth.

Champion of the Moderates

The middle-of-the-road man has found a much-needed champion. He is Walter Reuther, Steiner, chancellor of the University of Detroit.

"It takes little courage to be a complete radical, but it takes a great amount of courage to adopt a sense of cautious boldness," he told a workshop at the University of Windsor recently.

Like all generalizations, this needs to be hedged about with exceptions. There are certainly cases when it requires a great deal of courage, indeed, to be completely radical, yet Father Steiner's generalization holds up, in that in today's world courage is an almost universal need of the man who refuses to accept extreme remedies. He is open to attacks, often vicious, from extremists on opposite sides of the argument. Indeed, in many instances he will find himself more bitterly assailed than a radical, for the very reason his proposals have some appeal to men on both sides of a controversy.

If Father Steiner can win general recognition for the courage of the moderate man, he will do us all a great service. All too often the moderate is unjustly despised as a man lacking the fortitude to take an uncompromising stand. The willingness to compromise is often a trustworthy measure of courage. A timid man is unwilling to yield an inch for fear of weakening his position.

Should Have Stayed Closed

The accident beat for a newspaper is not the most pleasant of tasks. It takes quite a stomach to see blood and flesh splattered over dashboard, splintered windshield or steering wheel as the case may be.

The longer one is on the beat the more calloused one becomes. The realization also comes that with today's modern automobiles hurtling forward at the speeds they do, some accidents just have to happen.

What sickens one, however, is the needless accidents, the accidents that should not have happened.

On the two-lane strip of Highway 401 between Marysville and Kingston there have been many accidents. These really should never have happened. Why? Because this stretch of road should not have been opened until it was finished, completely. The 401 traffic could very easily have been rerouted onto highways 502 and 2.

This might have been a bit inconvenient, but it certainly would have been safer.

Paul Martin in New Role Retreats to Statesmanship

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—It's impossible to appreciate just how impressive dignity can appear until you've seen the Honorable Paul Martin since, as former Conservative Health Minister Jay Waldo "Monty" Monteith has so neatly put it, the Secretary of State for External Affairs has "retreated into statesmanship."

The Paul Martin who, only yesterday, used to glory in the heavy shelling of his political enemies with his great 16-inch oratorical guns now, to quote MP Grant Deachman of Vancouver-Quadra, prefers to "softly stone them to death with marshmallows".

Dignity, indeed, is the word for the "new" Mr. Martin.

And that's not just an opinion.

But rather a see-it-in-the-living-flesh fact.

When he rises in the Commons now, ponderously, hands folded over his watch-chained middle, you would see no more think of calling him "Oom Paul," as he was so long and affectionately known, than you would of addressing the Prime Minister as "Mike."

This new and drastically different Mr. Paul Martin has his old friends in the Conservative Opposition asking there perplexed in disbelief.

They ask him a straight-forward, if difficult question, "what on he hands them a big ball of verbal fluff.

HEY MARTINI

And he does it with such stylish aplomb, too.

Slowly, even gravelly, he rises—impressively almost, as the sun—and rumbles out a great misty cloud of an answer.

After listening to these rumbles, Mr. Monteith allowed that the very dignified Secretary of State reminded him of nothing, really, quite so much as "Old Grandfather Martini," and as he handed him

Rash of Traffic Accidents Keeps Provincial Police Busy, Careless Driving Charge Laid

Ontario Provincial Police were kept busy throughout the night and early this morning investigating a rash of accidents in the district. One driver has been charged with careless driving.

First of three accidents occurred shortly after midnight—a two-car crash on Highway No. 14, about a half mile from 401 Highway overpass.

Two persons, the drivers of both vehicles involved, were taken to Belleville General Hospital by City Ambulance.

As a result of the accident a 34-year-old Iroquois, Ont. man, Kenneth Strader, received a bruised and lacerated forehead. Driver of the second car involved, 25-year-old Michael Kouri of 14 Richard Street, Napanee, was reported to be suffering from a lacerated tongue.

It is believed both vehicles were travelling south on Highway No. 14 when the accident occurred.

The vehicle being driven by Mr. Strader came to rest on its top in the west ditch following the accident while the Kouri car ended up on the east shoulder of the road.

Kouri has been charged by Ontario Provincial Police with careless driving. Damage to his car was extensive. The vehicle driven by Mr. Strader was a complete wreck.

The accident was investigated by Ontario Provincial Police Constable R. Lewis of the Belleville detachment.

COLLISION NEAR MARYSVILLE

Two persons were also taken to Belleville hospital, about 2.30 this morning, following a two-car collision on Highway 401, about one-quarter-of-a-mile east of "suicide alley."

Names of the two victims were withheld pending notification of next of kin. Both injured persons are believed suffering from crushed chests and lacerations.

Police said an eastbound vehicle became disabled on the highway and its occupants were attempting to shove it to the side of the road.

The car from which the two injured persons were taken, was also proceeding east. As a result of the collision damage amounted to $1,000.

The accident is still under investigation by OPP Constable E. G. MacDonell.

CAR HITS TREE

Charges are pending against a 20-year-old Trenton RCAF man, Harry Irwin Tegart, following a single car accident on the Trent Road about 3.00 a.m. this morning.

Police say Mr. Tegart was proceeding west on the Trent Road when his car left the highway, travelled through the south ditch, entered across Bud Boy's parking lot, re-entered the ditch and crashed into a tree.

Mr. Tegart escaped the accident with minor lacerations.

Damage to the car was estimated at $1,000.

On November 21, 1963, Mr. Tegart was involved in a similar accident on Highway No. 2 east, near the Point Anne lane at which time the car he was driving also smashed into a tree. His car was a complete wreck as a result of that accident.

This morning's accident is being investigated by OPP Constable Tom Hulme.

Manifold Leak Will Strangle Car Engine

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Leaks at the intake manifold are not rare, yet they are usually completely overlooked as a source of trouble, while the carburetor, points, plugs and even the fuel pump are suspected.

When air leaks into the manifold, it leans out the fuel mixture and a variety of engine ailments can result. Stalling, missing, overheating, loss of pep and hard starting are the usual complaints. Faulty gaskets or loose bolts seem to be the most likely causes, although there's always a possibility that a manifold crack is responsible.

A quick check of suspected joints or other spots can be made by coating them with engine oil. If the oil is pulled in by suction when the engine is running, air leakage is definitely indicated.

From S. H.: "When I reach 55 to 60 mph, my 1960 eight-cylinder sedan cuts out. . . yet the engine will restart immediately and run OK if I hold it down below this speed."

The fuel pump is probably the most logical suspect, here. Test on the list would be faulty point operation due to distributor breaker-arm trouble.

N. B. writes: "I bought a '61 sedan, the first automatic transmission car I've ever owned. I notice that there's usually a slight bump when I accelerate or when I decelerate. Does this mean anything?"

No — it's normal during upshifts and downshifts, unless it's a severe action.

T. N. asks: "You recently discussed a fuel trouble in which you mentioned the air horn. What in the world is the air horn?"

It's another name for the carburetor air inlet on which the air cleaner is mounted."

From B. N.: "Our car pulls toward the right side when the brakes are applied but only after the car has been driven for ten miles or so."

Oil, grease or fluid on the brake lining, which "cooks" after subjected to heat, will cause this.

Oshawa Man Convicted Of Assault

OSHAWA (CP)—George Kovashis, 63, of Oshawa was convicted of assault Friday and bound over to keep the peace for six months after court was told he struck his neighbor on the head with a stick in retaliation for an earlier water-throwing incident.

Mrs. Eva Kocso said Kovashis came on her property to repair his fence and when he approached her kitchen window she threw a pot of water at him.

She told the court that when she later went out into her yard, Kovashis hit her on the forehead with a three - foot length of board.

Kovashis, who denied hitting her, said the water was boiling and hit him in the face. He said his glasses were knocked off and broken.

Crown Attorney Bruce Affleck asked the woman whether the water was hot or cold.

"It was just mice," she replied.

Four Admitted After Fire at Royal York

TORONTO (CP) — Four persons were taken to hospital early today after fire broke out on the third floor of the Royal York Hotel, largest in the Commonwealth.

Firemen managed to confine the blaze to a few rooms on the third floor but there was smoke damage to rooms on the second and fourth floors. Several guests were evacuated to the hotel's main lobby.

The four persons admitted to hospital were all believed suffering from smoke inhalation. One was discharged after a brief examination.

Among those under observation was Guy Giraldeau trainer for Montreal Alouettes.

Air Marshal Closes Career Of 40 Years

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP) — Air Marshal C. Roy Slemon, 60, deputy commander-in-chief of the North American Air Defence Command, retired from the RCAF Friday, closing a career spanning more than 40 years.

More than 1,000 members of three U.S. services and the RCAF marched past the retiring air marshal here while cannon from nearby Fort Carson fired a salute and supersonic NORAD interceptors swept across the field.

Slemon, last serving member of the original RCAF, joined in 1923, one year before it took the prefix "royal" and has served throughout the history of the service.

His successor at NORAD is the last RCAF chief of the air staff, Air Marshal C. R. (Larry) Dunlap. The position of chief of the air staff was abolished by recent parliamentary action taken as the first step to integrate Canada's armed forces.

SAW BIG CHANGES

Slemon started flying in the "egg — crate and piano — wire days" of the Sopwith Camel and last year flew in two of the fastest aircraft in the world, the F-111 and the F-104.

A highlight of Friday's ceremony was the reading of letters from the Canadian and U.S. governments. Slemon had served the two-country command since its inception in 1957 and rates as the first of the original organization as well.

Among those at the ceremony were Gen. Curtis Lemay, chief of staff of the United States Air Force, and Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller, newly - appointed chief of the Canadian defence staff.

Although the ceremony was predominantly military in flavor, there were many Colorado Springs citizens in attendance. Slemon was named an honorary citizen of the city some years ago.

He and Mrs. Slemon will make their home here after retirement while he directs a project to build an aerospace education centre under the auspices of the U.S. Air Force Academy Foundation.

Belli Visited Former Client Jack Ruby

DALLAS (AP)—Melvin Belli, California lawyer, visited his former client, condemned slayer Jack Ruby, in a surprise county jail meeting Friday night.

The 30-minute talk was their first since Ruby fired his chief counsel soon after the month-long trial in which Ruby was sentenced to death for killing Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

Ruby said then he objected to Belli's bitter criticisms about Dallas and the jury.

Tips for Drivers Include Three Things to Watch in Diet

TORONTO — On motoring trips during summer vacations and throughout the rest of the year, there are three things you have to beware of in your driver's diet: Hamburgs, cantarda and unpasteurized milk.

These few hints on happier, healthier motoring, especially in summer, were passed along today by the public service branch of The British Motor Corporation of Canada Limited, after consultation with the Health League of Canada.

Motorists should beware of roadside food stands, according to the League, particularly with regard to hamburgs and custards, which rapidly go bad and cause severe food poisoning in warm weather. If the appearance of the place gives you any doubts as to its cleanliness, pass it up for the next one along the way.

Surprising as this may sound to most people, pasteurization of milk is compulsory in only two provinces: Ontario and Saskatchewan. When driving through the other provinces, make sure that the milk you are served is pasteurized, particularly where children are involved. In out-of-way areas, it is wise to bring along your own canned or powdered milk.

Ordinary milk that is suspect can be pasteurized by boiling and cooling it.

On long trips, heavy meals taken many hours apart can cause sleepiness and sluggishness behind the wheel, making the driver more accident-prone.

EAT FREQUENTLY

It is much better to eat light meals, more frequently, than you normally would.

On a long day's drive, you can begin with a light breakfast of fruit juice, cereal, toast and coffee, stop for a sandwich in mid-morning and take a light luncheon of cold meats, eggs, fish or cheese.

The same procedure should be followed through with a mid-afternoon snack, and a light dinner in evening. At least one salad should be eaten each day.

The man or woman behind the wheel does not get their normal exercise in a day's driving, and lighter foods than usual are required. As well as warding off sluggishness through overeating, five or six stops a day for light snacks gives the driver a chance to relax and get a little exercise.

CHOCOLATE BARS GOOD

A good notion is to carry a couple of chocolate bars in the glove compartment. Chocolate bars area good source of instant energy, since their sugar content converts rapidly, and helps ward off driving fatigue on long trips.

TO VISIT RUSSIA

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass reported Saturday that India's President Sarwapalli Radhakrishnan has accepted an invitation to visit the Soviet Union in September.

Man Charged For Picketing Law Society

TORONTO (CP) — Louis Cohen, who picketed Osgoode Hall, Queen's Park and the home of the secretary of the Upper Canada Law Society in his 10-year battle over a settlement awarded his wife, was bound over Friday to keep the peace for one year.

Cohen, a former Windsor, Ont., merchant now living in Toronto, picketed Osgoode Hall last year in protest against the settlement giving his wife title to three stores and 18 apartments in Windsor.

Cohen said that his wife and mother - in - law took furniture from his home in April, 1953, and left with his two daughters. He said he later was evicted.

He wore sandwich boards demanding an end to "dog-eat-dog justice in Canada" when he picketed the Legislature in January this year.

On June 29, Cohen, dressed in patched trousers and jacket, marched up and down in front of Osgoode Hall.

He said lack of action by the Law Society was the reason he was picketing Osgoode Hall.

Cohen found out where solicitor secretary Kenneth Jarvis lives and set up his picket line on the opposite side of the street. He was arrested on a warrant charging him with watching and besetting.

Magistrate George Gardhouse suspended a sentence on the charge Friday and placed him on probation.

PAIR SENTENCED

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Hamilton men Friday were each sentenced to eight years in Kingston penitentiary. Terrance McGowan, 23, and Lyle Chickloski, 28, pleaded guilty to 10 charges of breaking into homes in the city's west end.

Anglican Clergy Engaged In Row Over Vestments

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP)—The decision of the Church of England to make legal something most of its ministers have been doing illegally for years has sparked a controversy that apparently caught the church off guard.

The proposal, unanimously approved by the Church Assembly, went off like a bomb when it arrived in the usually calm, drab atmosphere of the House of Lords.

"Parliament is being asked to give approval to the greatest act of appeasement since Munich," said Viscount Brentford sagely. If this type of thinking continued it would lead to "the complete domination of our church by Rome."

At the height of the battle the Archbishop of Canterbury felt called upon to deny that it was all part of a "subtle plot" to lead the church into union with the Roman Catholics.

As for the bill, all it would do is make legal the variety of vestments ministers have in fact been using for more than 50 years.

At the time of the Reformation the chasuble, cope and alb were shed along with the papal link and in 1877 the Privy Council judicial committee ruled that the only legal vestures for Anglican parsons in church are the surplice, cassock and plain black scarf.

STOLE NOT LEGAL

But some of the others have gradually crept back. Even the stole—in a variety of colors and usually embroidered and fringed—is not legal although it is in common use.

And above these are two other sets of vestments that include the chasuble, a poncho-like garment that is the main item of contention and now is used in about 3,000 of the 14,000 Church of England parishes.

Dedicated low churchmen consider it pure popery.

The outfit favored by the Anglo-Catholic section includes the alb, stole, maniple and chasuble—although the last garment usually is of bright linen rather than the silk or satin used by Roman Catholic priests.

But the vestments of the high Anglican priest are practically indistinguishable from those used in Roman Catholic churches.

The bill provides that no pastor could adopt vestments without the approval of his congregation, the local church council retaining the right of veto.

One of the more vigorous opponents is Earl Alexander of Hillsborough who said he could not get away from the fact the vestments were all the vestments of the mass. "If we are not going to be different from the church of Rome, what's the use of having a Protestant church?"

Lord Hobson said it was one more step to undermine the Protestant faith, "brought forward to legalize high church and Anglo - Catholic practices which have been carried out illegally since 1662."

MODERATE COUNSEL

The Marquess of Salisbury, attempting to bring calm to the situation, said this was not the time "to set the Pope of Rome behind every bush — certainly not behind this one."

The preamble to the bill says the church attaches no "particular doctrinal significance to the diversities of vesture which may lawfully be worn."

Said the archbishop, Dr. Michael Ramsey: "I want to repudiate any allegation that in this practice I have been teaching or encouraging doctrines contrary to those of the Church of England. The suggestion is either scandalous or silly—perhaps the latter is the more charitable adjective."

Finally the bill was passed, by a vote of 88 to 15, but the public debate continues and a new outburst is expected when the bill reaches the Commons.

Outside Parliament, one of the most outspoken critics of the whole affair is Rev. Nicholas Stacey of the London suburb of Woolwich who says it is "nonsense" that the church still must go to Parliament for approval of any change it wishes to make "however insignificant."

The debate, he said in an article in The Daily Herald, "confirms people's suspicions that when the crunch comes the church doesn't care a damn about the things that matter."

He wears vestments because it is the tradition in his parish, "but I would celebrate the holy communion service in my pyjamas if I thought it would help someone to find faith."

Reverential Beatles' Film Assailed

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP) — A new heroine has emerged on the British scene, a lady whose bravery makes Lord Nelson look like a sissy.

Monica Furlong, television critic for The Daily Mail, says she doesn't care much for the Beatles.

Furthermore, she says it in print.

Never one to turn a blind eye to the shortcomings of TV, Miss Furlong confesses, however, that she has tried—"goodness knows, I've tried"—to see in the mop-topped Liverpool four "some some of which everyone else apparently sees in them. All to no avail.

"Trying to keep the tremble out of my voice," she wrote, "and feeling exactly like the poor child who could not help noticing that the emperor was naked, I feel obliged at last to come out with the truth as it strikes me."

"Which is that in the case of the Beatles, the British public, not to mention the American public, have gone stark, raving bonkers."

FILM WAS TOO MUCH

The last straw for Miss Furlong came with Follow the Beatles, a BBC film about the Beatles making their first movie and including comments from various journalists, actors and producers who, says Miss Furlong, spoke of the Beatles "in precisely that reverential beat-licking tone which we reserve for the knights of long ago."

Bond Plan for New Churches In Suburbia Proves Sound

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—"Thank you," wrote the minister, "for taking us out of the begging business."

The letter is a prized possession of A. B. Culbertson, whose gem of an idea a decade ago turned into a bustling investment business.

His idea also built hundreds of churches for booming suburbia.

The problem simply was this: Persons moving to the new suburbs are burdened with mortgages, car payments, the need to put up at least a decent front.

These people haven't $2,000 or $3,000 each to contribute toward the building of a church.

But Culbertson knew their credit was good.

Basically, says Culbertson, "we've given respectability to church obligations."

The system simply is that the church members, possibly meeting in someone's home or in a school, agree to a bond program to build a church structure.

Culbertson makes the arrangements and the church members sell the bonds. Mostly they sell bonds to themselves, borrowing the money from a bank.

PAY ON SUNDAY

The bonds are secured by the church property and are paid, along with the interest, from regular Sunday contributions dropped into the collection plate.

"It is a propelling proposition," says Culbertson, a spry, 70-year-old Baptist layman. "We just ride herd from the moment we sign up a church until the last bond is paid for."

Most savings and loan associations ignored churches' financial needs 10 years ago, Culbertson said in an interview. Bank standards were too rigorous to be met by new, struggling churches.

Now they're bidding for church loans," Culbertson said wryly.

Success of the A. B. Culbertson and Co. formula is reflected in hundreds of churches across 14 states.

The Culbertson concern now has about $65,000,000 in church and institutional bonds.

Culbertson does not hesitate to crack down on a church failing to meet its bond payments.

"Any time a church doesn't meet its obligations, it ought to be foreclosed," he said. "We have repossessed churches, and so far we've sold all of them but one. It's up for sale now."

Engagement Notice

Mrs. John Edward Stephens, Belleville, wishes to announce the engagement of her only daughter, Patricia Rosalie to Mr. Kenneth Gary Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Reid of Belleville. Marriage to take place in Christ Church (Anglican), September 12, 1964 at 1:00 p.m.

Ann Landers

As a Matter of Courtesy Hubby Should Join the Men

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband and I do a good bit of entertaining at home and we are frequently invited to parties in the homes of our friends. After dinner the men go off by themselves to smoke cigars and talk, and the women remain in the living room.

My husband always sticks with the girls and joins the conversation as if he were one of them. This embarrasses me so I can hardly hold my head up. If the conversation is about clothes he expresses his preference and his dislikes. He gets the girls talk about cooking he chimes in with a few recipes of his own.

The last time he did this I was tempted to join the men, but I just couldn't do it. I decided not to make a fool of myself in an effort to teach my husband a lesson he might not get. There's nothing wrong with him — so don't get the idea that he is not normal. What should I do? — MARRIED TO ONE OF THE GIRLS.

DEAR MARRIED TO — Don't try to shame your husband into joining the boys. It won't work. Instead tell him the presence of a lone male makes the girls uncomfortable, that even though he'd rather be with the ladies, as a matter of courtesy, he should go with the men.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My wife admits she hates housework. The appearance of our home is her best testimonial. She insists most modern women loathe housework because it is uncreative and that every dumb cook can clean a house.

She further insists it is easy for you to tell other women they owe it to their families to be good housekeepers because all your housework is done by hired help.

How about it? Are you honest and courageous enough to answer in print? — BILL W. OF SYRACUSE, N.Y.

DEAR BILL — Your wife is right about me. I don't do housework. I did do plenty of it, however — including washing, ironing, floor scrubbing, and the cooking — for the first ten years of my marriage.

Since we're letting our hair down, Buddy Boy, I'll tell you that our house was always in pretty good shape, the laundry looked presentable, and nobody ever died from my cooking.

I didn't hate housework, nor did I feel it was beneath my dignity. Although it didn't thrill me, I did it with pride — as part of my contribution to marriage.

At present I put in approximately 16 hours every day producing this Ann Landers column. It is my wife who is putting out half as much energy on a career, she should be excused from housework. If not, tell her to quit beefing and clean up her house.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — You were all wrong when you advised the mother of that teen - age girl not to allow her to take a cross country trailer trip with her boy friend and his parents. I know them well. They are the salt of the earth and the results were wonderful. The kids ended up hating each other. There's nothing like day and night exposure to produce personality clashes, quarrels and finally utter boredom. Our friends thought it was disgraceful when we permitted our 16-year-old daughter to invite her boy friend on a trailer trip. My husband and I talked it over and decided human nature being what it is, that the kids would get sick of each other in a hurry and it was worth the chance. So there you are. — WIZZAPPLE.

DEAR APPLE — Sorry, but I don't agree it is worth the chance. Human nature being what it is, your couple might have had a different ending. My advice still stands.

Do you lack self - confidence . . . have trouble making friends? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Well - Liked," enclosing with your request 25c in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

QUESTION: My husband gave me a surprise party for my birthday and invited a dozen couples. Everybody brought evening wear rather late, a few had a long distance to drive, so I said we had to be going. She seemed disappointed and still one table. Bridge was not mentioned when we accepted the invitation, so I felt it was not necessary for us to prolong our stay. Was this correct? — Mrs. A. N., Stamford, Conn.

ANSWER: If there's to be entertainment or games after dinner, the hostess should mention it when guests are invited. Since she didn't, and you didn't plan for it, it was permissible to bow out instead of staying longer.

QUESTION: After dinner at a friend's home, the hostess suggested we all play bridge. The suggestion was rather late, as we had a long distance to drive, so I said we had to be going. while my husband and I are no great shakes at bridge, our hostess insisted we stay and play

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League — Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We are thinking of driving to Upper Canada Village for a tour of this historic place and wondered if you could tell us something about it; cost, and how long it would take to make a start W.M., Belleville.

ANSWER: As we have had a number of requests such as yours the following is the story of Upper Canada Village and all that it entails. From Belleville along Highway No. 2 it is 120 miles to Morrisburg, the location of the village. A delightful 2¼ to 3 hour drive.

Believe in ghosts.

You very well might after visiting Upper Canada Village, a make-believe community which depicts the life and times of Canada before it became a nation almost a century ago.

By day the shadowy spectres tug at your coat-sleeve to show you all there is to see. By night they stand vigil behind darkened windows over wary of strangers.

Your imagination works overtime. But you'll find the "props" far too life-like to simply shrug everything off as make-believe. The mood is magnificently 19th century right down to hoof prints and wagon tracks in the dust of its roadways.

The mall coach, for instance, is every bit as real as the original products. Just as authentic are the bricks and mortar of Cook's Tavern, the stone and stucco of the village blacksmith shop, the axe-hewn logs of Glengarry schoolhouse, or the white-painted clapboards of Willard's hotel.

In fact, all of the 40-odd buildings created to show what Canada was like before Confederation are exactly as they were even to the hand-forged nails that hold them together.

CALLED A MIRACLE

Upper Canada Village has been termed a miracle, and in many respects it is. The Ontario Government spent at the outset upwards of $3,000,000 of the taxpayers' money to restore a wraith from the past and more has been spent since. Certainly there are far more spectacular things in the world. But what could be of more historical interest to Canadians than to see an important part of their heritage brought to life as a monument for future generations to gaze upon?

Just how Upper Canada Village came about is common knowledge to Ontario folk. But for the uninformed it is literally a composite of buildings removed from the St. Lawrence Valley to make the seaway and power project possible.

From the memorial mound near where the Battle of Crysler Farm was fought in November, 1813, you see a broad expanse of water. It is a man-made lake—a strategic headstone for eight river communities which never dreamed of being invaded by the march of progress.

Old-time residents were bitter when their home sites had to be shifted in advance of the flooding and relocated on higher ground. This was how Upper Canada Village was created. It was as it one of the eight flooded communities was lifted by magic and set down in a new but unfamiliar environment.

65-ACRE TRACT

Even in its restored state, it is the most authentic, most complete showpiece of early Canadiana. And reduced to its simplest terms, it is a 65-acre tract of partially wooded land, seven miles east of Morrisburg and about 200 miles east of Toronto on Highways 401 and 2.

Within its boundaries are some 15 houses, two churches, two taverns, several barns, a general store, a school, two water-powered mills turning out blankets and lumber, a post office, an operational printing shop, a cabinetmaker's shop, a blacksmith shop, a bake oven, a farm complex and a military installation.

It opened its 1964 season (May 16) with several new acquisitions which include a cheese factory (circa 1864), a river steamer, and another bake oven that produces 100 loaves a day, an ashery, and a log cabin of the type in which first settlers would have spent the winter. There is also a new bake-bake golf course near the site and a miniature railway is expected to be in operation by mid-summer.

Upper Canada Village remains open until Oct. 15 — 9.30 a.m. to 7 p.m. until Sept. 15 and 9.30 a.m. to 6 p.m. from Sept 14 until its close Admission is $2. for adults, but children under 16 accompanied by parents are free. The fee is reduced to $1.50 and after Sept. 7 until its close and youngsters under 16 are free.

FULL PROGRAM

The fee entitles all visitors and their families to ride on the ox-carts (there are two teams), the horse-drawn carry-alls and the bateau, a sailing vessel of the period which moves along a canal that winds through the village. To tour it properly, you need a full day. Many visitors make it a two day visit and find accommodation in a dozen or more nearby motels for $8 to $10 a double per night.

Nostalgia will make you linger longer than you planned as you visit the various houses and buildings furnished with careful attention to the personalities who once lived in them.

Grandma's knitting is on her rocker, where she left it for a moment — the pastor's wife will be right back — her dinner pots are on the stove — slate and sponge are ready in the schoolmaster's desk for a tardy pupil.

There is much to absorb your interest in this community of unforgotten ghosts from an almost forgotten past.

QUESTION: We are interested in attending important events in the different cities in Ontario. Could you please tell me where I can get this information? I am referring to the arts, theatre, music etc. — Mrs. M. T., Belleville.

ANSWER: If you will contact the Ontario Motor League office they will be glad to give you this information. They receive from the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity a monthly bulletin giving all of the important events for each current month for all of Ontario. This includes, art galleries, museums, shows, bonspiels, curling, conventions, fairs, music, skiing events, theatre, travel films, etc.

Garden Notes

Rose Repays Good Treatment

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

The rose repays us well for good treatment but refuses her best blooms to those who neglect her demands.

Failure of a rose to thrive can usually be traced back to faulty planting. A plant which you expect to live for ten years or more deserves the most careful preparation for a long life.

The time of year is not as important as the condition of the soil in planting. Potted roses can be planted any time all through the summer, but bare root stock must be planted in spring or fall.

Since spring may be late, the soil cold and wet, fall is considered, by many, the ideal time for planting and buying new roses.

Should the roses arrive when the ground is soggy and wet, don't hurry them into the ground any old way just to get the job done. Heel them in, in a sheltered spot and wait for more favorable conditions.

Dig the hole for a new rose 18 inches square and six inches deep. On the side of the prevailing wind (usually the west) dig out the soil two inches deeper. If the soil is hard clay dig out the square 3 inches deeper and fill this in with good top soil mixed with equal parts of humus such as peat, old sawdust, old straw manure or compost. Place the heaviest main roots on the sloping down grade. Spread the roots out as much as possible. Roses do not penetrate downward, they spread their roots horizontally and they must have good drainage. The extra two inches on the windward side will anchor the rose against storms and strong winds.

Do not allow roots to come in contact with manure. Fill the hole with good top soil and humus, add one cup bone meal, bone and blood meal or half a cup of vigoro firm down soil and see that the graft comes just at soil level. Water with a slow hose and when the soil has been thoroughly soaked, fill more soil up around the plant, ten to 12 inches.

For fall planting leave the soil in place until weather warms up in spring. Spring-planted roses should have the hilled up soil left in place for one month. This will conserve the root moisture and encourage new feeder roots to form. Growth goes on in the roots long after frosty temperatures stop the top growth.

Older roses, that have not grown well in spite of good after care should be dug up in spring or fall and root pruned, then planted as new roses. Roses demand some sun but will thrive well with half a day, preferably morning sun.

Newly planted roses should be severely pruned the first year. This allows the roots to build up and support good top growth later.

To produce abundant bloom the roots must be well fed and receive several feedings each season. It should contain all the necessary elements. Stop feeding by mid August to allow new growth to harden before frost. Both new systemic poisons will take care of all the sucking pest such as aphids, mites, leaf hoppers and the borers.

Black spot and mildew are caused by spores. Guard against them with a regular application of fungicide. Once the spore has penetrated the leaf surface the fungicide is useless so keep the leaves sprayed once a week and more often in wet weather.

Do not pick off the spotted leaves and drop them on the ground. They carry spores. Put them in a bag and burn them.

You can buy all - purpose sprays and dusts but heavy application of insecticides and miticides tend to build up pests that are resistant to these chemicals. Know what you are fighting and use the least possible ammunition to gain results.

Salesman Spent Night Behind An Ice House

KINGSTON (CP)—Mrs. Dorothy Mount, 42, of Westport, Ont., 40 miles north of here, was convicted Friday of causing bodily harm in a 63-year-old real estate salesman. She was fined $200 or three months.

Arthur Herbert was shot in the hand and the abdomen with a .22-calibre rifle.

He testified he shot him because he refused to spend the night at Mrs. Mount's cottage. Evidence revealed that the woman shot a hole in Herbert's car tire and also pumped a bullet into a tire on her own car so he could not leave.

Herbert spent the night behind an ice house. Mrs. Mount found him the next morning and travelled by motorboat across Devil's Lake to get help.

Herbert said they had been drinking at the time of the incident.

Robbery Attempt Within Minutes Of Succeeding

TORONTO (CP) — Ronald Hobday, 33, of Toronto, shot between the eyes by a police constable during an attempted robbery of an east end bank Friday, was reported still in critical condition in hospital today.

Hobday, whose 34 - year - old brother Russell was charged with armed robbery in the attempted holdup, underwent an emergency operation Friday night.

Ronald, father of twe girls, aged 4 and 6, was hit at the bridge of the nose by a .32 calibre bullet that split when it entered his forehead. Part of the bullet was lodged in the brain area and part was embedded in the left cheek.

The robbery attempt was within minutes of succeeding when it was foiled by a woman bank teller who had overslept and was late for work at the Toronto - Dominion Bank on Queen and Logan streets.

Mrs. Marta Rose, 27, arrived in time to see the employees of the bank lined up against a wall. One of the nine employees who had been herded at gunpoint into the manager's office was starting to open the vault when Mrs. Rose arrived.

She ran to a confectioner next door and phoned police. Const. James Tough, 28, and Sgt. Ed Lawrie, who were patrolling on motorcycles a block away, arrived a minute later.

Shortly reinforcements arrived and yelled for the men to come out. One of the bandits grabbed assistant accountant Mrs. Nancy McLaren as a hostage and pushed her ahead of him, the second bandit following with a drawn pistol.

Const. Tough yelled for the bandit to drop his gun but when the latter turned and aimed, Const. Tough fired his pistol.

"I yelled to him to drop his gun when he was eight feet away, but he spun around and looked as if he was going to fire," Const. Tough said. "I shot first and hit him in the forehead. Sgt. Lawrie grabbed the other man."

Sixteen-Year-Old Longs To Be Able to Make Music

DEAR DORIS — I am 16 years old and I always read your column. Your advice to "Guitar Crazy" was excellent.

I would like to say to "Guitar Crazy" that she is very lucky. I have for years been absolutely eating my heart out for an instrument and lessons. It doesn't matter what it is, just something to make music with. But I can't have it.

DORIS CLARK

I have three sisters and two brothers. There are more important things than a musical instrument to be bought. All I can say to "Guitar Crazy" is that she is lucky to have this chance. I think she should be very happy — CHRISTINE.

* * *

DEAR CHRISTINE — Could you earn a little by baby sitting and shop around for a second hand ukulele? This is a simple enough instrument you could pick it up yourself. Write and tell me you've done this and I'll send you a book to learn from.

Your friends can sing to your chording and drown out your mistakes.

P.S. Guitar Crazy — Hope this will make you change your tune!

CONFIDENTIAL TO FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD — If you want an answer to your question, you will have to write again, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — My son's wedding is being held at seven o'clock in the evening. What should I wear on my head? — BLONDIE.

* * *

DEAR BLONDIE — Not much, perhaps — but something. A twist of tulle, a flower or feather arrangement, a small evening hat, or a voguish mantilla. A woman enters church with her head covered.

$231,650 Cash Found in Dentist's Office

NEW YORK (AP)—A court clerk, on a routine check-up, came across $231,650 in cash Friday in the cluttered lower Fifth Avenue apartment of a deceased dentist.

The dentist, Dr. Samuel A. Klein, 71, died July 30. Married at one time, he had lived his last years alone and in semi-retirement in an eight-room duplex apartment that also served as his office.

Police sealed the apartment as Dr. Klein's death until relatives could be located. He left a sister, a niece and two nephews.

Friday, surrogates' court clerk Frank Andriani, with a search warrant, was dispatched to the apartment at Fifth Avenue and 11th Street to look for a will. The relatives and a state tax agent accompanied him.

Poking their way through dental equipment, furniture, accumulated books, documents and debris, the party came upon two metal tool chests in a spare bedroom.

Breaking them open, Andriani found inside 50 bank envelopes stuffed with bills from $10 to $500. Also discovered were some uncashed cheques and some stocks and bonds.

The money was taken for safe - keeping to a nearby bank. The experts said that if income taxes had been paid on the money, about $185,000 would be available for relatives after inheritance taxes. Otherwise, state and local governments would take a much bigger bite.

The Golden Years

Be Careful Not to Tie Hands Of Heirs When Drawing Will

By THOMAS COLLINS

The ad in the back of the paper said the farm had 180 acres, two of them good for crops, another 60 good for cattle grazing, and the rest in timber. There was a seven-room house, the usual outbuildings, a pond and a pasture.

The price had been $85,000, and was now reduced to $80,000. A firm offer of $85,000 probably would have bought it.

But this is not a farm story. It is a retirement story, directed to older parents who have property or money to leave to their children.

The farm was a fine one, up until recent times. The man who had owned it started out on the place as a tenant, did well, bought it, expanded, and built the seven-room house. He produced three sons and two daughters, sent them all to college. In his later years he settled down to a mood of satisfaction on his achievements, which were indeed fine ones.

In time he died. He left his fine farm to his widow, with the expressed wish that it stay in the family. She put the widow then pass on to the five children to give them lifetime security. The farm would do as well by them as it had done by him, he said.

But crop allotments came. Tenants went. And five children who had gotten a taste of the outside world while at college never moved back. The 70-year-old widow, isolated and alone in a house she couldn't maintain, and on a farm that didn't fit the pattern of modern agriculture, moved into town to be near a son.

NOW A LIABILITY

Thus the ad in the paper — for an abandoned farm that no longer held appeal for the family and that was now an economic liability. But a farm — and this is the key to the story — that the old gentleman who developed it was quite sure would serve his heirs well.. and would get up out of the cemetery and fight if somebody told him it had become a dud.

What the old gentleman did was less obvious than the one who left the buggy-whip factory. But it's the same sort of thing. And it is happening in varying degrees almost every time a successful older man leaves a will. What was good for him will be good for the next generation — he just knows that. Yet there is seldom a man who can outguess economics for two generations in a row.

Here are the primary areas where men are making mistakes when they prepare to leave what will be happening when they are gone.

Changing neighborhoods, slum clearance, and condemnations for superhighways are making anybody's home a tentative matter these days. Even if the widow can keep the home up, which she often can't. Even if the children love it, which they probably won't. . If a split-level is available.

Men still are leaving their business to their families with instructions that they can't be sold or with restrictions on how they must be run. The expansion of chain business and the sudden shifts in the fortunes of the neighborhood where the business is located, new products and new fashions in buying are wracking many of these legacies.

INVESTMENTS

The man doesn't live nowadays who can know for sure that his investments will be the best investments five years after he goes. To tie the hands of those he leaves his investments is to court disaster. Even trust funds, in which the father decrees how his money will be doled out after his death, are playing with fate.

The normal retired father today was doing fine if he got a diploma from high school. His children were doing fine if they got a degree from college. His grandchildren aren't doing too well unless they get a master's degree or a doctorate. Which way and in accordance with the different conditions it faces, will handle things all right.

It is better by far, in most cases, that the older father not try to set the table for tomorrow. If he leaves free what he leaves, with no strings, and if he leaves his views and good advice, he can have faith that the next generation, in its own way and in accordance with the different conditions it faces, will handle things all right.

Oddballs in baseball?

Lots of 'em. Like wisecrackers, old maids, practical jokers, cranks, and other off-beat types in shop, plant, office, farm and factory, there's one in every club.

But unlike freckles, hives, lasting horses, relatives, bills and bananas, they seldom come in bunches.

McGraw's Giants, the St. Louis Gathouse Gang, and the wackiest of them all, the Brooklyn Dodgers, were in this category, but each in its own hell-raising, morale-busting, fun-loving, pennant-winning style.

Their stories are collectors' items, so if you haven't submerged the clipping tome in the spouse's green stamps library, clear a space for another insertion on the Oddball Champions page.

Paste it under the "P's"—and color it red, blue and black.

The red is for where the cost of material put the front office. The blue is for the five-year mental status of the fans. Black is mourning for their American League world series foemen—and the 1964 financial status of all concerned.

In case you haven't guessed, they're the Philadelphia Phillies, and their Grand Vizier is one Gene Mauch, flame-throwing tobacco-chewing manager who has juggled his collection of oddballs from janitors to pennant-contenders in five short seasons.

Three years ago loyal Phillies' fans gathered to hail their returning heroes who had just set a record. They lost 23 games in a row. Frank Sullivan, a pitcher with a 3-16 record, saw the crowd from the plane.

"They're selling rocks at five bucks the pail, men," he told his fellow Phils. "Leave at five-yard intervals so they don't get us all with one burst."

From figurative garbage raiders to pennant cheese nibblers in three years, the Phils have reached the lofty heights partly because of maturity and smart deals, mainly because of Mauch's ambition, wild temper and unorthodox methods.

He caused them with language an old salt never heard and soothed their feelings with honeyed talk. He has ordered them to play positions they never played in their lives and once when the strategy failed, he smashed his office door with a fungo bat and tore the telephone off the wall.

Once after dropping an important pair of games to Houston, the Phillies trooped into the clubhouse for a dinner of spare-ribs, broiled chicken and the trimmings. While they waited Mauch yanked the tablecloth from the table, flung the spare-ribs and chicken in different directions and turned the clubhouse floor into a smorgasbord table.

Major league veterans say Mauch is a throwback to oldtime managers. Nobody since "Leo the Lip" has hackled opponents from the sidelines. Umpires who dig out bellhop who has been suspended three times by the league president for insulting umpires.

An odd fact about this oddball gang is there is not an outstanding star on the lineup. They haven't a pitcher who won 15 games last year or a batter who drove in 85 runs.

But they command respect. The pitching is good, the infield crackerjack and the hitting, not dangerous, but adequate. The bench is filled with useful oddballs.

The experts claim that as a whole the Phillies fall short of being true first-place class which means their pennant hopes fall back on the crafty brain of fiery Gene Mauch.

His tantrums act as vitalizers to his gang who, he says, were brought to a "close state of togetherness by that string of 23 straight defeats." After he sprayed the clubhouse with their dinner, they went out and won six in a row, climbing from seventh to fourth place.

At this writing they are out in front in the National League, and at their present pace the 1964 Whiff Kids of Philly could oddball their way to the flag and the world series behind managerial streams of tobacco juice and dugout invectives.

Black, Singles Champion

TORONTO (CP) — Jimmy Black, 50, of Toronto Friday night won the Ontario lawn bowling tournament singles championship.

He topped two of the biggest names in the five-day tournament — 1962 Ontario singles champion Gordon MacMillan, of Oshawa 21-10 in the semi-final and Caledonia's Neil Salkeld, a former Canadian champion, 21-14 in the final.

Salkeld had led 8-1 in the early stages. But his accuracy on a rain-soddened green was outmatched by the dogged persistence of Glasgow-born Black.

Second - event finals winner was Jim Huber of Waterloo who defeated Gord Boss of London, Ont., 21-17.

Jim Ridley defeated Toronto clubmate Dave McPherson 21-7 to take the third-event title, while Rev. Don Campbell of Barrie bowled out Dick Adams of Whitby for the fourth singles trophy.

In the fifth event, Percy Skitch of Lindsay overwhelmed Bill Holland of Toronto 22-3.

SWEDES LEAD

BAASTAD, Sweden (AP) — Sweden quickly built up a 2-0 lead over The Philippines Friday in the Interzone Davis Cup tennis matches the countries are expected to win with little difficulty. Ulf Schmidt crushed Felicisimo Ampon 6-0, 6-1, 6-2 and Jan - Erik Lundquist conquered Juan Jose 6-1, 3-6, 6-1, 6-0.

Chance, Killebrew Eye Record Books

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The brass ring appears to have passed them by but Dean Chance and Harmon Killebrew aren't letting their disappointment interfere with business.

Pennant fever is neither in the Los Angeles and Minnesota but Chance hasn't stopped relishing off victories for the fourth-place Angels and Killebrew is still hitting home runs at a near-record pace for the sixth-place Twins.

Chance hurled his eighth straight victory Friday night, blanking Washington Senators 7-0 on two hits in the second game of a doubleheader after the Senators took opener 7-3. Killebrew slammed his 41st homer and grabbed the major league lead in runs batted in while leading the Twins past Cleveland Indians 7-6.

Chance, whose victory string is the longest of any American League pitcher this season, recorded his seventh shutout, tying New York's Whitey Ford for the major league leadership in that department.

Killebrew's homer lifted him seven games ahead of Babe Ruth's pace in 1927, when the Yankee immortal hit 60 in a 154-game schedule. But the Minnesota slugger trails Roger Maris' torrid 1961 clip of 61 produced 61 homers over an expanded 162 game slate. Friday night's game was Killebrew's 113th.

TAKES RBI LEAD

Harmon also stroked a run-producing single in the first setting the RBI lead from Dick Stuart of Boston Red Sox. Killebrew has driven in 93 runs, four ahead of Stuart.

Baltimore Orioles, meanwhile, held their three game lead over Chicago White Sox and whopped New York 9-3 games back by edging the third-place Yankees 5-4. The White Sox bombed Boston 10-2, Kansas City Athletics outscored Detroit Tigers 5-4.

Chance (13-5) held the Senators hitless until the fifth, when Don Zimmer's smash off first baseman Vic Power went for a hit.

Willie Smith drove in three runs for the Angels and Joe Adcock hit his 16th home run.

The Senators matched their longest winning streak of the season, four, in the nightcap opener behind the strong relief pitching of Jim Hannan. Hannan allowed only one run and struck out seven in 8 1-3 innings. Ed Brinkman hit a two-run homer and Hannan poked a two-run double.

Killebrew hit his homer in the second inning and singled home one of three Minnesota runs in the fifth. Rich Rollfinr secrifice fly delivered the decising run in the sixth after Cleveland tied the score in the top of the inning on Joe Azcue's three-run homer.

Brooks Robinson's three-run homer and the clutch relief pitching of Harvey Haddix and Dick Hall carried Baltimore to their 10th victory in 15 meetings with the Yankees. Robinson connected off reliever Steve Hamilton in the sixth, giving the Orioles a 4-2 lead, and Earl Robinson singled home what turned out to be the winning run in the seventh.

Haddix replaced winner Steve Barber in the seventh after the Yanks had cut the margin to 5-3 on Mickey Richardson's two-run scoring double. The little lefty stranded three baserunners by fanning Mantle and Tom Tresh on six pitches.

Hall rescued Haddix in the eighth after a pair of singles again and retired Richardson, leaving runners on first and third, then fanned Mantle, Mickey Mantle and Tresh in order in the ninth.

John Buzhardt pitched a four-hitter against Boston and the White Sox gave him all the margin he needed in the fifth inning, scoring five unearned runs with the aid of two Red Sox errors. Ken Harrelson's two-run single and Don Buford collected a triple, double and two singles. Nelson Mathews drove in the Athletics' winning run in the fourth with his second of three singles. Wes Stock relieved winner Orlando Pena in the seventh, after Gated Brown's run-scoring triple cut the Kansas City lead to one run, and blanked the Tigers on one hit the rest of the way.

Hady Was 'Skulldugged'

Bear Almost Stole Show!

"Terrible Ted" popgunning 600-pound black bear almost stole the wrestling show at Memorial Arena last night.

The sleek brute in a mat hassle with trainer Jean Dubois won two falls.

He tossed the boss for the main fall and between holds took on Referee Sam Gotler and pinned him before he could reach the ropes.

"Ted" showed excellent mat knowledge except he refused to accept Gotter counts. He's like only referees who took pay swipes and cuffs at an official — and got away with it.

He stood on his hind paws and traded neck-holds with Dubois. He threw over his shoulder and stroked his face with a paw while pinning him with his left pooperscooper.

"Ted" finally got the nod and celebrated by sitting on his haunches in mid-ring and downing a bottle of pop.

Managerial skullduggery won the main bout for "The Beast" over Gentleman Jim Hady.

"The Beast" almost as hairy as "Terrible Ted" handed out some stiff punishment to the popular Hady aided and abetted by his ringside attendant.

The climax came in third fall when Hady, who had hoisted the Beast in the air three times coming off the ropes, was all set for the third fall kill and victory.

He was ready to pounce when a hand reached out, grabbed his leg and tripped him. The Beast bounded off the ropes and pinned him for the fall while infuriated pewpiers ganged around the ring to protest.

The Beast, "bear-hugged" Hady into submission with an overshoulder toss in the first fall but Hady recovered sufficiently in the second to bounce the Beast off the ropes three times before nailing him with a crab hold.

Ray Villmer and Ilio Di Paolo staged a thriller semi-final in which Villmer won after twenty minutes of fast action. It was nip-and-tuck for a body slam and victory battle with the Italian all set when Villmer suddenly reversed the procedure, hoisted Di Paolo aloft, slammed him and won.

The Mighty Uvus was disqualified after 20 minutes of assailing Ernie Froehler in the preliminary.

Knudson, Thompson In Title Duel

HALIFAX (CP) — Alvie Thompson and George Knudson were the all-star attraction today as the Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship moved into its final round with the two Toronto-ians in a showdown struggle for the title.

There appeared to be only an outside chance that either could be overhauled.

Thompson parred the 18th hole with a four Friday to Knudson's five and earned his slender one-stroke lead at the end of two rounds of the 54-hole tournament. Alvie gave the Ashburn course a three-under-par 65 spanking in his second round for a 136 total, five under par for the distance. Knudson matched his own first-round 66 for 132.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, trying for his ninth CPGA title, shot a 69 and was closest to the leaders with 135. Defending champion Al Balding of Toronto came through with a 67 but was another stroke back, at 136, with five other aspirants.

Norman Rose was grouped at 137, including Bill Kerr of Montreal who won the 36-hole seniors' title. The three-man 138 bracket included Moe Norman of Toronto, who led the first round with a 65, then blew Friday to a five-over-par 73.

Thompson and Knudson, who started their second round with 66s, were in the same threesome Friday with Norman. They drew a gallery that reached a maximum of around 1,200 under clear skies and a warm sun.

Norman fell behind early and Thompson and Knudson went into a hot seesaw struggle. Knudson was in front after the first nine with a two-under-par 35, to Thompson's 33.

The back nine proved to be Knudson's undoing, although he gave up strokes grudgingly while Alvie continued to breeze along in nothing worse than par for the full round.

The tag came to the 18th hole still tied, after Knudson' lapses at the 11th and 13th. At the 18th Knudson's second shot, a pitch for the elevated green, was short and he wound up with a five. Thompson, on in two, two-putted for his par four.

Snatch 8-7 Squeaker From Brockville

Joyces Blow Lead; Win In Extra Inning

By ROBERT SNEFFELLA

Belleville Joyces snatched an extra-innings 8-7 victory from Brockville Beavers at the Fair Grounds last night after blowing a ninth frame 7-3 lead.

The game was the first of a two-game series, Eastern Ontario playdowns of the Ontario Baseball Association senior championship. The second game is slated for Brockville tomorrow night 2:30.

Brockville took an early 3 to 0 lead in the first, but Joyces came back to score one in the sixth and six in the seventh to go ahead by a 7 to 3 score. The Beavers rallied for four runs in the ninth, and tied the game up.

Belleville came back with a run in the tenth to gain the victory.

Bev McLean, the Joyces' pitching ace, walked the first three batters to face him. Bill Latchford took over and promptly struck out the next two batters. Jack Coughlin had his own ideas and smashed a base-clearing triple.

Bill Latchford did a masterful job on the mound for the game, allowing only one more hit in nine innings of play.

Joyces were shut out until the sixth, when they put out with an infield single and reached second on a wild throw by the shortstop.

Pat Asselstine's single scored McKibbon and he reached second on a fielder's choice. Hunter singled to load the infield and another wild throw was made to advance Asselstine to third. Murray struck out and Vaughn popped up to end the inning.

In the seventh Larry Lewis singled and reached second when Latchford hit a safety. McGrimmon loaded the bases when he reached first on an error by the second baseman. Dave Lewis walked and a run scored. Asselstine reached first on a fielder's choice and both Latchford and McGrimmon scored on the wild throw.

Hunter singled to score Lewis and Asselstine, and then stole second. The throw by the catcher went over second base into centre field and Hunter scored.

Don Snider started Brockville's ninth inning rally when he got to first on an error.

Jack Coughlin walked and reached third on a long fly ball that was popped by Dave Lewis. He went home when the ball got away from the catcher.

McKibbon reached third on a fielder's choice and an error by Latchford, while Pierce went to second on the same play. Dick Glass knocked in two runs with a single and the game was tied 7-7 with pinch hitter.

Latchford retired the next three men to face him to end the singles.

With one out in the tenth Dave Lewis walked, then stole second base. Asselstine grounded out to third but Hunter saved the day when he lined a single between the shortstop and third baseman to score the winning run.

Substitute Gets Decision

Daniels Upsets Doug Jones

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Daniels, a 24 - hour substitute, blasted the title hopes of Doug Jones by scoring a stunning upset 10 - round split decision over the No. 1 heavyweight contender at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Referee Zach Calityon scored the decision 6-4 with one bout a doz by a 5-3-2 vote on rounds. Judge Johnn Dran had it 5-4-1 for Jones. Judge Al Berl had it 6-4 for Jones.

The Associated Press card had Jones in front 6-4.

Daniels, 194½, a former contender who no longer is ranked, agreed to the fight on Thursday because he was originally forced to withdraw because of bone chips of the right elbow.

Jones, 187 lbs, the winner of three straight since he lost a controversial 10-round decision to heavyweight king Cassius Clay two years ago, forced the fight all the way but could not score consistently against the backpeddaling Daniels.

There were no knockdowns, although Daniels hit a hard beanpole with long arms, shook Jones with a long right to the jaw in the third round.

Congress Eyes CBS Purchase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is casting an increasingly wary eye on the $11,200,000 deal that gives the Columbia Broadcasting System majority ownership of New York Yankees.

Congressional reaction to the surprise transaction — announced approved by the American League — included demands that baseball's antitrust law be subjected to anti-trust laws.

Emanuel Celler, New York Democrat who heads the House of Representatives judiciary committee, said Friday the sale "indicates baseball is a big business." Celler, also chairman of the judiciary committee's anti-trust subcommittee, said "the bars must be put up and the baseball clubs subjected to the anti-trust laws."

Professional baseball now operates under limited exemption from anti-trust laws. The Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee recently approved a bill to clarify the exemption and extend it to other professional sports.

Senator Philip A. Hart, Michigan Democrat and chairman of the subcommittee, hinted the group might take another look at the measure when he said "there might be anti-trust implications" in the sale.

Rough Riders Tame Tiger-Cats 13-10

Tied For Top

OTTAWA (CP) — It it weren't for Hamilton Tiger-Cats there wouldn't be a cellar in the Eastern Football Conference right now. Everybody else is in first place.

The memory of things past made it all the more pleasant for Ottawa Rough Riders Friday night when they joined Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes at the top by dealing the Grey Cup champions a 13-10 defeat.

The last time Ottawa fans got a look at the Tiger-Cats was in the first game of the Eastern Canada finals last year when Riders had their noses rubbed in the mud 45-0.

Riders earned their Friday win by twice bringing the big Hamilton machine to a sputtering halt at the Ottawa goal line. Quarterback Bernie Faloney tried the first time to pierce the Ottawa defence with passes. He failed. The second time Frank Cosentino spent his downs trying to get through on the ground.

WATKINS STARS

Offensively, the star for Riders was Tom Watkins, an end who combined on pass plays with Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson in the second and third quarters for both touchdowns. Moe Racine converted one of them.

Hamilton's touchdown came in the second quarter on a 64-yard pass-and-run play from Faloney to rookie end Wes Cowan. Don Sutherin converted that one and added a field goal in the first quarter.

Faloney went to the air 22 times, completed eight and had two intercepted. A 42-yard completion to Garney Henley in the third quarter was Faloney's 1,000 completion in Canadian football.

Jackson completed 11 of 18 and had two intercepted. Two of his strikes produced touchdowns. His total yardage in the air was 196.

On the ground Hamilton had an edge of 203 yards to 185.

Hamilton was lagged for eight penalties for a total loss of 95 yards. Angelo Mosca went out for the game near the end of the first half for unnecessary roughness. Riders had seven penalties and lost 54 yards.

Tiger-Cats opened the scoring with Faloney's pass to Cowan at 4:22 of the second quarter.

On Ottawa's next play, Jackson connected with Watkins for an 88-yard scoring effort.

Midway through the next quarter Watkins capped a 49-yard scoring march by taking in eight-yard toss.

Phillies Defeat Mets Twice

Giants' Bolin Barely Misses No-Hitter

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Down in Hickory Grove, S.C., where Bob Bolin comes from, they'll tell you the six-foot-four right-hander is a bear huntin' with a switch.

Only they don't have any bears in the National League. They've got Cardinals and Dodgers and Reds and Pirates and even Mets.

So, at the request of manager Al Dark, who desperately needs some pitching help, Bolin went huntin' Braves last night. And he shot them down with a sparkling one-hitter that kept San Francisco Giants within hailing distance of the league lead.

Only a line single by Mil Hunter catcher Ed Bailey spoiled Bolin's bid for a no-hitter. He got home run support from Willie McCovey, Orlando Cepeda and Willie Mays in the 3-0 victory that left the second-place Giants four games back of Philadelphia Phillies.

The frisky young Phils picked up a half game with a double victory over New York Mets, 6-1 and 6-4 behind the pitching of veteran Jim Bunning and rookie Rick Wise.

Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs split a doubleheader in the only National League day action, the Pirates winning the first 3-2 and the Cubs the night cap 4-2. Houston Colts fought off Cincinnati Reds 5-4 and St. Louis Cardinals edged Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 in the other games.

USED AS RELIEVER

Bolin, a hard -throwing 25-year-old who has spent four years as a relief man and spot starter for the Giants, was pressed into duty by Dark to help bolster a pitching corps depleted by injuries.

His performance may have been enough to win him a permanent starting role. He walked six, struck out the same and kept his composure when some men reached base on errors.

The losers, the only hits the Giants got, were more than enough support. It was Mays' 36th, Cepeda's 21st and McCovey's 17th.

The Phils had little trouble with the Mets. "Bunning, who had pitched a perfect game the last time he worked in Shea Stadium, was touched for five hits in the opener but won his 12th. Dallas Allen had three doubles, scored two runs and drove in another.

In the second game, the 19-year-old Wise allowed only six hits before he tired in the eighth. Two of the hits were homers by New York's Ed Kranepool.

Ex-Met Frank Thomas drove in five runs in the two games, including two on a homer in the nightcap.

Jerry Lynch's two-out homer in the ninth drove in two runs and made the difference in Pittsburgh's first-game victory over Chicago. The nightcap was settled on a tie-breaking two-run homer by the Cubs' Andre Rodgers in the sixth.

The Cards bunched all their runs in the fifth inning in the victory over the Dodgers. Julian Javier drove in two with a triple, Ray Sadecki singled in another and still another, the eventual winner, crossed on Nate Oliver's throwing error.

Walt Bond had a hand in all the Colt runs. He tripled in the first against Cincinnati, scored the second and broke a 2-2 tie with his 17th homer in the seventh.

Leafs Down Suns 3-2, Chiefs Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Syracuse Chiefs edged Richmond Virginians 3 - 4 Friday night and held on to top spot in the International League standings. But they owe a vote of thanks to a couple of underdogs.

Toronto Maple Leafs downed Jacksonville Suns 3-2 and the Floridians slipped back into fifth place behind the Chiefs. And the lowly Atlanta Crackers, in last place, hammered Buffalo 5-1 and 3-1, leaving the Bisons in third place seven games off the pace.

Rochester Red Wings blanked Columbus Jets 4-0 in the other league contest. The Wings and Suns are tied for fourth spot, 9½ games behind the Chiefs. Richmond is 12½ games back, and Columbus seventh, 26 games behind. The Crackers are 30½ games out.

Relief pitcher Dick Egan, brought in in the ninth, belted a solo homer in the 10th to win the game for the Chiefs. They had bounced back from the short end of a 3-2 score in the eighth to go ahead 4-3. But the Vees pushed one across in the ninth to send it to the extra inning.

LOUIN WINS FOR LEAFS

The Leafs combined seven singles with some sloppy field work by the Suns for their victory. Lefty Don Louin posted his first victory of the season. Ron Nischwitz pulled him out of a jam in the bottom of the seventh.

CNE Swim

Dutchman May Drop Out

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Marty Sinn of Ann Arbor, Mich., was the first big name swimmer to strike her name from the list of starters for this year's Canadian National Exhibition swim across Lake Ontario next Thursday but recent reports suggest she may not be the last.

Herman Willemse, a schoolteacher from Holland and one of the world's top marathon swimmers, agreed with Miss Sinn's feelings that the 32-mile swim is "too long, too cold and too rough."

Miss Sinn, 20, who finished first among the women in the CNE's 15-mile swims the last two years, did not enter this year because of the danger element.

Willemse, who dropped out of the Lake St. Jean swim last week with six miles to go, isn't sure he'll enter the race and he expects quite a few of the expected entries to drop out.

"I'll not enter unless I feel I will be won by the best swimmers," said Willemse. "It will be won by the swimmer with the most guts."

EGYPTIANS FAVORED

While most of the swimmers are wary of the cold water, this should prove to be an advantage to the entrants from Egypt, who are used to warm seas.

Abdul Abou Helf, star of the Egyptian team and winner of the 1963 16-mile CNE swim, gave CNE officials a scare when he almost cancelled out Thursday because of a rule against women in boats.

The Egyptian was upset when told that CNE officials wouldn't allow his wife in the boat accompanying the swimmers. She is his coach and good-luck charm.

George Duthie, CNE sports director, who said the rule had been imposed because the officials were concerned over lavatory arrangements, said:

"It's okay now — we've decided to let women go along. Now they can go to one of the power boats, which have adequate facilities."

'Beat Us Physically'

BC Lions Claw Sasky Riders

REGINA (CP) — British Columbia Lions beat Saskatchewan Roughriders physically as well as on the scoreboard Friday night as they pounced on a pair of 17-point Conference victory.

A record Taylor Field crowd of 17,397 watched as Lions vaulted into first place and sent the Roughriders off the field with injuries, one of a stretcher.

"They beat us physically," Roughriders coach Bob Shaw said.

Two first occasions the Roughies gambled on third down when they had the ball inside the Lions' 30-yard line. Each time they had to give up the ball.

Roughriders helped off the field with injuries were middle guard Ron Atchison, halfbacks Gene Wlasiuk, Larry Dumelie and Ed Buchanan, centre Ted Urness and end and punting specialist Martin Fabi. Fabi suffered a groin injury and was taken to hospital for observation.

LEAD BY ONE

Lions climbed atop the standings with five points and Riders were left in second place with four.

Roughies picked up two points in the first quarter on a safety touch but Lions led 3-2 after the first half and 16-2 after three quarters. Fullbacks Bob Swift and halfback Ken Ploen scored B.C. touchdowns and Peter Kempf added one convert and a field goal. Neil Beaumont kicked a single.

Roughriders quarterback Ron Lancaster completed seven of 23 attempts and barely missed having three interceptions.

B.C. had 19 first downs to Saskatchewan's 12. Lions went for 180 yards on the ground and 106 in the air on 13 completions of 17 attempts. Riders had 109 yards rushing and 118 passing.

Meissner Wins Metre Dive Title

By MIKE FITZGERALD

TORONTO (CP) — Ernie Meissner, among Canada's top divers from 1958 to 1961, came out of temporary retirement Friday to win the Canadian one-metre diving championship in a spectacularly upset of defending champion Tom Dinsley of Vancouver.

The 27 - year - old Meissner, bronze medal winner at the 1962 British Empire Games who retired 18 months ago to operate hi- travel agency in Kitchener, overtook Dinsley with three brilliant final dives and won with 377.60 points.

Dinsley, ahead by 10.25 points after the preliminary seven dives, failed to match Meissner in the night's final three performances and finished with 363.75 points.

Judy Stewart, 19, of Toronto successfully defended her women's one-metre championship, scoring 341.80 points. Carol Ann Morrow of Vancouver was runner-up with 328.30.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP) — Entries from the United States finished first and second as favored Kelly Mac Hal was a disappointing third in the Dixie Stakes pace for two-year-old fillies Friday night at Greenwood Raceway.

Mindy, owned by Vince Miller of Fremont, Ohio, won the $3,840 event by 6¼ lengths over Armbro Faith owned by Cyril and G. Knight of Arcade, N.Y.

Kelly Mac Hal, owned by Jack Kenney of Ancaster, Ont., broke stride and gave a valiant effort to finish third in the event which drew seven starters.

Beri Madill of Lexmington, Ont., was in the sulky behind Mindy, off at 5-to-2 odds. Mindy earned $1,924 for her fourth win of the year and pushed her seasonal earnings to $7,211.

Ardee from the White Stable of St. Marys, Ont., recorded his first win of the season in the featured Invitation Trot. Allan Walker steered Cadenza to a second place finish for owner Bruce Clements of Dobbinton, Ont.

The finish of Ardee and Cadenza provided a quinella of $18.

Philbrick Hanofee recorded his first win since 1959 in the opening race, a mile trot. The nine-year-old son of Hoot Mon had been standing at stud for Alex Parsons when the Londoner decided to race the trotter again this year.

Louie G., winless in 15 starts for owner Mrs. Lillian Connelly of Toronto, hit the winner's circle in the second race and teamed with Philbrick Hanofee for a daily-double of $25.80.

Belinsky In Hot Water Again
KO's Sports Writer - Draws Suspension

WASHINGTON (AP) — "If they're going to suspend me without pay, fine. Let them give me my release. It was something out of my control."

So said Bo Belinsky, temperamental 27-year-old pitcher of Los Angeles Angels of his one-punch kayo of 64-year-old sports writer Bruce Dyer.

Belinsky, suspended indefinitely by the Angels, was to fly back to Los Angeles today to explain to general manager Fred Haney why he socked — or K-oved, as Belinsky explains it — the Los Angeles Times reporter.

He also said he has a date with his lawyer to see "just what right Los Angeles Angels have to suspend me without pay. I haven't even had a hearing. They haven't told me why I was suspended."

Manager Bill Rigney would say only that Belinsky was "suspended indefinitely . . . for punching sports writer Bruce Dyer."

Rigney was reported to have said he didn't want Belinsky on the club team any more and he wanted to get him out of town as soon as possible.

As a result of the brief battle early Friday Dyer required five stitches under his left ear. He reported it was badly swollen, and he had a black right eye.

Dyer and Belinsky agree about the fracas—to a point.

Both agree they met in a hotel lobby late Thursday night and Dyer asked Belinsky about an Associated Press story reporting that he was ready to quit baseball if he could get a better job.

After hearing Dyer's description of the story, both agree that Belinsky said he had been misquoted and Dyer said some quotes about the AP story.

Several hours later, after Dyer got ready for bed, Belinsky telephoned him to say he had not been misquoted in the AP story. Dyer said it was too late to do anything about the story.

Both agree they got into a hot argument that concluded when Belinsky said "you come down here and I'll attack your . . . head under the shower." Dyer, once a star college football player, said: "A writer can't let a player get away with a thing like that. I dressed and went down to his room." He added: "I knocked on the door. We started talking, and that's all I remember."

Belinsky said Dyer hung his coat in the hall and came in prepared for a fight.

'Wiener Blut' Operetta To Be Staged

One of Strauss' most beloved operettas Wiener Blut (Vienna Life) will play O'Keefe Centre for seven performances commencing Tuesday, August 25. Produced by the coast-to-coast North American tour, the production has a cast of outstanding stars from the stage of Vienna's foremost operetta theatres.

A company of sixty-five, corps de ballet, orchestra, chorus and soloists will perform within sumptuous settings and in eye-filling costumes. The entire production is under the direction of Tony Niessner, one of Vienna's foremost stage directors, and has been choreographed by Fred Meister (including a "Blue Danube Ballet" that's sure to become a classic in its own time).

ROMANTIC INTRIGUE

The libretto, by Leo Stein and Victor Leon, concerns itself with the sort of romantic intrigue that can exist under the make-believe world of operetta-land and, perhaps the most wildly involved tale of mistaken personalities and romantic adventures ever set to music.

The Johann Strauss score, one of the master's most popular and memorable creations, provides the background for a story set in the period of the so-called "Dancing Congress" at Vienna, whose delegates spent most of their dancing when they did deliberating the future of Europe.

DIED BEFORE PREMIERE

Although the last work ever written by Strauss, who died shortly before the world premiere, Wiener Blut nonetheless is chock-a-block with lilting Strauss waltzes, spirited martial tunes and lovely romantic melodies.

While Wiener Blut came along late in Strauss' careers, its music represents his peak of creation, primarily because the score was made up of melodies Strauss had written over a number of years.

In the spring of 1900, the impresario of Vienna's Carl Theatre, Franz Jauner, came to Strauss with a rather unusual request. Jauner desired a new operetta for the fall season. However, he qualified this by adding that the score must already be new, but merely a pastiche of Strauss tunes the Austrian public was not too familiar with.

Strauss went along with the idea and began assembling the material. Victor Leon and Leo Stein were engaged to write the libretto for this musical-by until Strauss was stricken with pneumonia — a dreaded malady, almost always fatal in those days.

The possibility of Wiener Blut ever being produced seemed small, until Strauss, on his death bed, recommended that Jauner hire a young composer-arranger, Adolf Muller, to put the final presentation together. So well did Jauner do his work that when the operetta had its premiere, a scant five months after Strauss' death, Vienna's leading critic opined: "another hand than Strauss' is not to be detected in this piece."

This opinion would seem to be seconded by half a century of music lovers, who have made Wiener Blut one of the most enduring and popular Viennese operettas of all time.

"Cleopatra" Romantic Spectacle in Color is Holding Over

Joseph L. Mankiewicz' "Cleopatra" is the sixth known motion picture dealing with the legendary Queen of the Nile. Undoubtedly it is the most publicized and, at $40,000,000, the costliest.

In 20th Century-Fox's current epic, movie queen Elizabeth Taylor has the title role, with Rex Harrison as Julius Caesar and Richard Burton as Mark Anthony. The DeLuxe Color romantic spectacle, is continuing tonight, Monday and Tuesday evening, for the first time at popular prices, at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. The box office opens at 7.45 with the scheduled performance at 8.45 p.m.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For August 16

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Others due to confide in you — look to you for aid. Set the example. Help others to help themselves. But don't fall for "sob story." Say calls for skilled, especially subtle action.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Trying to impress member of opposite sex could prove costly. Best course sees you sharing interests, hobbies. Be creative. Don't follow the "mob." Do what comes naturally . . . Be original.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): Day is best. Your "inner feelings" could be bruised. But realize others may merely be nervous. Shrug off apparent slights. You gain respect as result. Attend church of choice.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22): Forces appear scattered. Not the best time to travel. Best to relax — to meet people and to socialize. Put off details until tomorrow. Good time to rest and enjoy yourself!

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22): Good lunar aspect highlights self-expression. Plan for writing, planning — including future journey. Check with authority. Spiritual advice could bring key to long - sought answers.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Be ready for domestic activity — surprise visits, calls. Important to maintain sense of humor, fitness. Don't be drawn into serious argument. Obtain valuable hint from today's Aries message.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Good to join family in planning recreation, vacation. Relaxation is definite requirement. Recent pressures easing off . . . now resolve to enjoy family, give pleasure to loved ones.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Friends due to become "cheerful" influence . . . but not the kind you've found being "used." Be practical where finances are concerned. Dine and talk with knowledgeable persons.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Lunar cycle high. You can get what you go after. You may find that others act in "strange" manners. Some in authority appear disgruntled. Be prepared with facts to back your position.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Important now to complete assignments, keep promises. Day when you feel good if you are active. Resist temptation to shut yourself off from activity. Fine for recreation, entertainment.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Friends can aid in obtaining your "money's worth." Keep mind open to suggestions. There may be one who enjoys controversy. Don't become involved. State your position — with a smile.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Regard differences of opinion as healthy challenge. You learn by teaching . . . you gain by sharing. But this is no time for argument. Spiritual advice has advice which is constructive.

If today is your birthday . . . you are difficult for others to categorize. You are an individual in the true sense. Some may complain that you are aloof.

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Sagittarius, Capricorn, Aquarius. Special word to Leo: You have been very busy — and you must resolve to budget time and energy.

For August 17

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Indications clear that you must "make your own way." Take the initiative. You have many who are on your side. Financial obstacles due to be removed. Make this a banner day!

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Slow pace. Time to gather added information . . . build for the future. Gather facts together which ultimately prove your point, ability. You have much for which to be grateful. Maintain confidence.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): Apt to be busy day — meeting people, sharing ideas. Try not to scatter forces. Be specific. Make no promises you cannot fulfill. Be pleasant, but hold off on definite agreements.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22): You can succeed through unorthodox methods. Wonderful for coming up with inventions, ways of obtaining short-cuts. Your past experience comes to fore. You are due chance to demonstrate your abilities.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22): Avoid those who advise you to skip basics. Make changes where necessary. Utilize marvelous creative abilities. Good to see people in authority. Your personality "shines." Be aggressive.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Share joys, problems. Communication with family members of utmost importance. Heed advice offered by loved one. Your need for affection very much in evidence. Recognize that need!

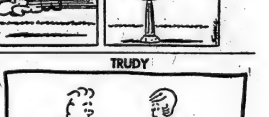
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Obtain degree of privacy. Remember that being alone is not the same as being lonely. Make your own decisions. Base them on practical considerations. Check opportunities for home improvement.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Stick to basic principles. By so doing, you gain emotionally and financially. May be difficult to accomplish — but time proves truth of statement. Listen to friend who has unusual plan.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Share knowledge. In return, you gain in material sense. Obtain valuable hint from today's Scorpio message. Those in authority are in the process of "changing." Maintain neutral position!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Your beliefs vindicated. Here will receive proof that your position is correct one. Now show that you can be a good winner! Key is to find harmony. Incorporate advice of one who opposed you.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Trying to "cover up" in order to protect friend is not wise course. Instead . . . seek entire story. Some facts still to be uncovered. Handle situation diplomatically, with understanding.



Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Be amiable — but also realistic. Don't fall for "line." You encounter persons who are charming — but their needs end at that point! Maintain sense of humor. It could keep you out of trouble!

If today is your birthday . . . you possess great determination — you are able to create, produce, follow through and turn dreams into realities.

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Capricorn, Aquarius, Pisces. Special word to Virgo: No need to fear change!

Colt Brings Record $94,000

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — A chestnut colt by Turn-To from the stakes - winning mare Legendra brought $94,000 Friday night and established a record high for a single thoroughbred in the annual Saratoga yearling sales.

David Shaer, a Milford, Mass. shoe manufacturer, acquired the colt.

Third highest price Friday was registered by a bay daughter of Native Dancer, from Sticky Case for which Toronto sportsman E. P. Taylor, owner of Northar Farms, paid $60,000.

The previous high for Saratoga sales was the $90,000 paid Thursday night for a chestnut filly by First Landing from Quill.

Tennis Club In Kingston On Sunday

Members of the Quinte Tennis Club will journey to Kingston tomorrow to continue competition for the Doug Grant trophy.

Kingston played here in Belleville last week and defeated the local club ten matches to five. Fifteen matches will be played in Kingston tomorrow and Belleville is faced with the almost impossible task of having to take 11 of the 15 matches.

The task is further complicated as Belleville's number one player, David Hurst, will not compete. David is currently playing in the junior championships in Ottawa.

LONDON (AP) — Robbie Bright b111, Britain's Olympic track and field captain, clipped Poland's Andrzej Bednarski by inches in a thrilling 400 metres finish Friday night. Brightbill and Bednarski, expected to be finalists in the Olympic 400 metres relay, each was clocked in 46.3 seconds, the fastest time recorded this year in Britain.

The Tracks

PORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Monideb, a five-year-old gelding with tender feet, put on her "running shoes" Friday at Port Erie and raced the fastest six furlongs of the day, in winning the featured sixth race.

Despite her outstanding record on muddy tracks, most of the 6,673 fans overlooked the big dark mare owned by Carson Stable and she returned $14.20, $6.00 and $3.90 in dashing Dark Fairy and Golden Turkey.

With George Gordon in the saddle, Monideb spurted in the final few yards of the three-quarter mile sprint and won by three parts of a length.

The shoes are light aluminum encased in rubber and they expand and contract with the horses hoof. Comparatively new in Canada, they are fast becoming popular in American racing.

Noel Turcotte, following in the footsteps of his brother Don, a leading rider at Saratoga and Canada's leading rider last season, won three races Friday. He completed $45.70 daily-double with Prince Guard, by winning the second race like Flippin Floyd, then took the fourth and seventh races.

FRESHMAN LEADS

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — George Archer, a rangy freshman pro, shot a 67 Friday to go with his opening 68 and a seven-under-par 135 for the halfway lead in the St. Paul Open golf tournament.

BUSY COUPLE at Fair offices are secretary Carl Thompson and his wife here checking out prize lists worth thousands.

Belleville Fair Opens Gates On Monday and Considered One of Best Ever Produced

A thunder of motors, a clicker of hooves and the pride of Eastern Ontario fall fairs gets underway Monday.

The thunder comes from the massed roars of motorcycles highlighting the events first main public production while the hooves of champion livestock patiently flutter on barn floors in the background.

The sounds will signal the fact Belleville Fair is well and truly launched in 1964.

The big event of that first day undoubtedly will be the Ontario championship motorcycle races, slated to roar into action before grandstand crowds at 8 p.m.

With 45 challengers joining battle from Ontario, Quebec and the U.S., the fair will start its first 24 hours in full throttle.

Yet, by that time, the fair will already be in full swing for 10 hours.

The barns will be filled with the champions of livestock herds and horseflesh from around the province.

At 10 a.m. Monday judging will start of prize horses entered in the fair in the grandstand show ring.

With the fair giving away thousands in prize money, all entries are up this year on the lists, secretary Carl Thompson last night reported the number of exhibitors still on the increase from poultry to ponies.

In the afternoon the scene switches back to the human side of life — with the emphasis on youngsters.

Starting at 2 p.m. — with grandstand admission free for small fry — the fair stages its children's show.

Among the diversions are pie-eating contests, pony musical chairs and potato races.

TWO CHAMPS COMING

With darkness, the speed of modern machines enters the panorama before the grandstand.

The motorcycle races are primarily significant for two personalities — Yvon DuHamel of Montreal, Canada's Mr. Number One on two wheels and Sandy Freeman, Ontario champion.

Operating under national rules, the event again is sponsored by the Belleville-district Piston-Pusher Motorcycle Club.

This year also there are added features, chief among them being the track flag marshals — all members of the Canadian Race Communications Association.

These are the people who police the events at Mosport.

"Among other things it adds to the safety factor of the event, says Gary Sherman, Piston-Pusher official.

Incidentally, officials have issued a request to spectators to feed all winnings from the marshals and stay off the course.

Other features at Monday's opener include the baby show, CJBQ live broadcasts including Floyd Lloyd, judging of market-gardening products, 4-H Homemaker and inter-club events and Holstein judging.

Candidate Will Take on All In TV Debate

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph Greene, member of Parliament for Renfrew South and a candidate for the Ontario Liberal party leadership, said Friday night he would take on all five of his leadership rivals, one at a time, in television debates.

Previously the 44 - year - old Arnprior, Ont., lawyer had challenged Charles Templeton, declaring him to be his only serious rival.

"I'll take them all on," he said in a statement, provided they can get television stations to carry them. I have lined up a station for a debate between myself and Mr. Templeton.

"But I won't do what Mr. Templeton suggests—take part in a six-sided press conference kind of thing that can only turn into a shouting match," he added.

Mr. Greene expressed doubt that the other candidates—Ontario legislature members Robert Nixon (Brant), Edward Sargent (Grey North), Joseph Gould (Toronto Bracondale) and Andrew Thompson (Toronto Dovercourt)—would have the power to draw a mass television audience.

Believe Wilson Kidnapped by Rival Gang

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard believed Friday that the spectacular jail break of train robber Charles Wilson was set up by chrypic meage in a

A just-released jailmate said, however, that fellow prisoners believed Wilson was kidnapped by a rival gang that wanted to force him to reveal where more of the $7,800,000 stolen was hidden.

The ad appeared in the London Daily Mail Tuesday only hours before a gang spirited the 32-year-old Wilson out of his maximum security cell at Birmingham's Winson prison. It said:

"W-in-W almost at breaking point. Cott 11-30 today please. 4 roses."

Police believed that "W-in-W" stood for Wilson in Winson and the rest of the message organized the jailbreaker's rendezvous.

A man released from Winson Friday said fellow convicts believe Wilson was not freed but kidnapped at gunpoint. This friend, Frank Cott, 53, who had just ended 14 weeks inside for driving offences.

300 Employees Of Westinghouse Out on Strike

BRANTFORD (CP) — About 300 employees of Canadian Westinghouse Company Limited went on strike Friday after negotiations between the company and Local 555 of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CLC) broke down.

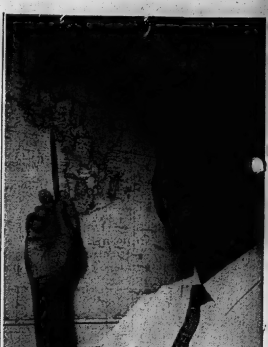
The union and company have been bargaining for a new two-year contract since Dec. 19. The old agreement expired Feb. 5.

Returns in Fall to Ghana To Face Strange Problem

Now studying biological control of insects techniques at the Research Institute in Belleville, Emmanuel Boafo of Ghana returns home to face a strange problem this fall. He is looking for a way to separate ants from mealy bugs.

An employee of the Cocoa Research Institute of the Ghana Academy of Science, Mr. Boafo came to Canada in January to study under a Commonwealth exchange arrangement. Most of his time has been spent at the research centre at Chatham, studying toxology, (the selection and use of insecticides), but he is here for ten days between his work at Chatham and further study in Ottawa. He returns to Ghana at the end of September.

The mealy bug lives only under the care of ants. Like some varieties of aphids in North America, mealy bugs produce a honey-like substance from pores in their backs. Some types of ants eat the sweet syrup oozing from their backs. Without the mealy bugs the ants would be forced to change their diets. Without the ants to eat the syrup from the backs of the mealy bugs, the pores would clog and the bugs become diseased and die. This is exactly what Mr. Boafo wants.



FEED ON TREES

Mealy worms feed on Cocoa trees, and while the amounts they eat are not serious, the results are. The bugs can carry in their mouths a virus which attacks the cocoa trees, (Mr. Boafo compares it to the Dutch Elm Disease), and a mealy bug moving from a diseased tree to healthy trees can spread the disease.

So the Cocoa Research Institute would like to see the mealy bugs die out. And since there are few predators or parasites to keep the mealy bugs down, (the ants take good care of their meal-tickets), the Institute thinks the best way might be to eliminate the ants.

In Chatham, Mr. Boafo spent his time working with anti-ant insecticides, as well as on a general study of how and why insects become immune to insecticides, and what can be done about it. In Belleville, he is studying biological control methods in a general way, but still with an added interest in the control of ants.

From Belleville he goes to Ottawa for more study, then he will return by air to Ghana, his wife and his six children. The ants and the mealy bugs don't even know he's coming.

HERE FROM GHANA to study biological control methods, Emmanuel Boafo of the Cocoa Research Institute in Ghana is working at the Research Institute in Belleville. In the picture, he indicates his homeland on a map.

Two Suspects Held After Holdup Foiled

BANCROFT (Staff) — Two suspects were halted at a provincial police roadblock near Madoc today—30 minutes after the attempted armed holdup of an elderly service station operator here.

The pair were returned here to face questioning and police would not reveal their identities until charges, if any, had been laid.

The robbery attempt was staged about 7.30 p.m. when two men drove up to Charles Maxwell's service station and store on Highway 28 at the west end of town.

Leaving their small 1949 British sedan on the lot two men entered the store and waited until some customers left. They then took down a .22-calibre rifle from a store rack and apparently threatened Mr. Maxwell, a man in his 60s.

Police say the gun was loaded but did not make clear if it was loaded on the rack or whether one of the men inserted the ammunition.

Mr. Maxwell apparently yelled for help and the men fled to their car.

Roadblocks were thrown up around the area by provincial police. At 8.05, on Highway 62, near Limerick Lake road, Corporal Harvey Adamson of the OPP Madoc detachment halted a car answering the description of the wanted vehicle and took two men in custody.

EXCHANGE REPORTERS

TOKYO (AP) — Japan and Communist China have agreed to exchange nine reporters as resident correspondents, it was disclosed Saturday. The agreement was negotiated by government party politician Uemo Matsumura, who has been active in promoting relations with Communist China. It follows the arrival here of a semi-permanent five-man Chinese trade mission.

Fifty Hurt In Chicago Race Rioting

Negroes Enraged Because Woman Thief Is Beaten

Police With Shotguns Finally Disperse Mob

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH

DIXMOOR, Ill. (AP) — One thousand angry Negroes rioted for five hours Sunday night and early today before 200 shotgun carrying police restored order to this predominately Negro suburb south of Chicago.

More than 50 persons, most of them white, were injured when Negroes stoned them in their autos. Twenty - five Negroes were arrested after the first racial outbreak this summer in the Chicago area.

A Negro and a white man were shot but not seriously injured. At least 39 persons required hospital care and four of them were in hospital in good condition. Seven of the injured were under 10 years old, including a seven-week-old infant.

At the height of the rioting, police blockaded the six - block area where about 20 autos were stoned. Tear gas bombs were used to break up the mobs.

"There was terrific violence in those streets," said Lieut. Mervin Horsmann of the sheriff's police of Cook County. "We expect it to continue."

PATROL STRENGTHENED

Sheriff Richard B. Ogilvie, in charge of the policemen at the riot scene, estimated 1,000 Negroes took part. Ogilvie ordered a heavy patrol in the neighborhood to prevent further rioting.

Police said the disturbance had been brewing since Saturday night when a Negro woman was accused of trying to steal a bottle of gin from a liquor store. Negroes said the woman was beaten by the white store owner.

Protesting Negroes demonstrated Saturday night and returned last night in greater force.

Horsmann said at one time Sunday night civil rights leaders used police microphones urging the crowds to disperse. "But they (the crowds) just wanted violence," he said. Most of the demonstrators were youths in their teens, he said.

The demonstrators smashed windows in the closed liquor store and began looting, but were driven off by police.

The Negroes retreated a few blocks east of the store, where they began stoning autos. Horsmann said a total of 33 persons were injured.

BURN HOUSE

The mob set fire to a vacant, newly constructed home in an attempt, officials said, to lure police and fire officials into the area. The home was destroyed and another next door was damaged as 10 firemen 1½ hours, escorted by 30 policemen, to reach the scene and put out the flames.

Sheriff Ogilvie used army tactics to break the back of the

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The unsettled and cool weather which has plagued the province most of this month is unlikely to change in the immediate future. A deep low pressure centre stagnating over central Quebec keeps cool air from Arctic regions circulating southward across Eastern Canada. Until this pattern shows some sign of breaking up, little warming can be expected.

A weekend of scattered racial violence in the United States was capped Sunday night by a race riot near Chicago that left at least 50 persons injured and brought 200 police to the scene carrying shotguns.

Gangs of Negroes roamed through Dixmoor, Ill., a suburb south of Chicago that is integrated though predominantly Negro. The injured were mostly whites. Before the six - block area was brought under control, an abandoned house was burned and looting was reported at a liquor store.

Scattered incidents of racial violence occurred in several southern localities.

In Albany, Ga., one person was injured and 24 arrested in a brick- and bottle - throwing spree Saturday night Albany Police Chief Laurie Pritchett described the episode as "spontaneous juvenile vandalism." Most of the damage was directed at white-owned and operated businesses in a Negro district, he said.

Pritchett estimated that 30 Negro youths participated in the melee. The outbreak occurred following the fatal shooting of a Negro man by police, who said the man appeared to be drawing a weapon when he was shot.

CROSSES BURNED

Scores of crosses, many of them on school grounds, were burned Saturday night in Louisiana, including St. Helena Parish (county) where the first rural school desegregation in that state is scheduled to begin today. Governor John J. McKeithen said the situation in St. Helena has been discussed with President Johnson.

Police have made undisclosed preparations for the entrance today of three Negroes, all seniors, into previously segregated Greensburg High School. Mississippi's two shooting incidents, one beating and six cross burnings were reported Saturday at Jackson.

Two white men were arrested for shooting a Negro, Willie Earl Guynes, 18. Guynes was not seriously injured.

Earlier, five civil rights workers from the Council of Federated Organizations reported that eight or 10 shots were fired at their car on a Jackson street.

A white civil rights worker from Corning, N.Y., Philip Hocker, 19, was beaten by a youth with a baseball bat at a busy intersection which later was the scene of a cross-burning. Five other crosses were also burned in Jackson Saturday night.

Did Not Want to Get Involved

'Good Samaritan' Leaves Boy to Die

SUDBURY (CP)—Police today sought a motorist who drove two teen-agers, one of them injured, to within a short distance of their campsite but refused to go all the way because he didn't want to get involved.

Leonard Sell, 15, of Sudbury, died shortly after he was abandoned on the road to the camp with a companion, Timo Haapamaki, 16, of Sudbury, went to get help.

The youths were returning from a dance Saturday at Nepewassi Lake, 10 miles south of here, when Sell chased a rabbit they saw on the road.

During the chase the youth fell over an embankment beside the road, landing on his head.

Haapamaki told police he flagged down the motorist who gave both boys a lift to the lane of the Sell summer cottage, about a mile down the road. The youth did not get the name of the driver.

The man refused to drive the 1,500 feet up the lane, saying he did not want to get involved, Haapamaki said. The driver also asked that police not be told about him driving them from the accident scene.

The Sell boy was dead when Haapamaki returned with the youth's father, Gilbert Sell.

Greek-Cypriots Jubilant As Mr. K Pledges Support

NICOSIA (AP) —Buoyed by pledges of Soviet support, Greek-Cypriots are urging President Makarios to go to Moscow and negotiate an arms deal with the Russians.

Greek-Cypriots of every political shade jubilantly greeted the Soviet Union's offer to help if Cyprus is invaded, and Soviet Premier Khrushchev's warning to Turkey that an attack on Cyprus might "boomerang."

The right-wing weekly Ethniki hailed the weekend developments as "a great turning point" for the Greek - Cypriot cause. It even suggested that Makarios, a Greek Orthodox archbishop, bring Communists into his cabinet to show his gratitude. Other editorials called upon Makarios to fly immediately to Moscow.

There has been no official response to the Soviets. One report said Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou would leave for Moscow Friday to begin talks on military aid.

The United Nations peace effort suffered an unexpected setback when Finnish mediator Sakari S. Tuomioja suffered a mild stroke in Geneva Sunday a few hours before his departure for another round of talks in Athens, Ankara and Nicosia. He was placed in hospital and his doctors said he would need a long rest.

There was speculation that UN Secretary-General U Thant would appoint a new mediator or take over Tuomioja's work himself. The Finnish diplomat had hoped to win acceptance of a compromise proposed by former U.S. state secretary Dean Acheson, President Johnson's special Cyprus envoy.

Acheson has been meeting separately with Greek and Turkish representatives in Geneva. His plan calls for Cyprus' union with Greece and special safeguards for the Turkish-Cypriot minority, including a Turkish military base on the island.

Tuomioja's illness comes at a particular blow because there were signs last week that Greece and Turkey might accept a solution along the Acheson lines, although there has been no approval from the Makarios government.

Now the Kremlin's stand is likely to make the Greek-Cypriots even more intractable. The Soviet statement offered to begin aid talks immediately.

In a speech in the central Asian city of Frunze Sunday, Khrushchev said that the Soviet Union could not remain indifferent to the threat of a conflict near its southern border. He added:

"We would like to warn the

Manhattan Policemen Fight Leftists Attempting Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Police here fought pitched battles across mid-Manhattan Saturday with a leftist group of young people trying to rally in Times Square against U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Several demonstrators were knocked to the ground—to the jeers and taunts of spectators trailing the group of about 250.

Police arrested 38 persons, including seven just back from a U.S. government - planning trip to Cuba.

Officers carried or dragged several demonstrators to police vans — including one young woman dragged away by the hair. Some were bleeding.

Backers of the organization include at least three young men indicted for, or who admitted being responsible for, arranging the so-called "student" tours of Cuba by young Americans defying a state department travel ban to that Communist country.

Chief Inspector Lawrence McKearney, the city's top uniformed policeman, met the demonstrators at 47th Street and Seventh Avenue with 100 of his men. Police told the group that no demonstration would be permitted at the square but that it could rally at Commarskiskl Plaza, across from the United Nations seven blocks east.

Levi Lash, one of the Americans who went to Cuba last summer, agreed to move. It was only minutes later, however, that the battle erupted, caused by an attempt of some of the marchers forcibly to turn back.

Fair Days Here Again

It's here for another year! Belleville Fair, 1964 edition, went on a four-day public display today, its pavilions, barns and exhibits drawing spectators from an early hour.

The weather, at first warm and sunny, became overcast and loosed a shower about 11.30 a.m.

Forecasts, however, were fair for the Fair. They predicted sunny weather with a few cloudy intervals.

Until the flag debate is concluded, the government plans to have the Commons spend four days a week on it and one day —Friday—on departmental appropriations.

Though some Liberals and others have begun calling the flag debate a Conservative filibuster, the debate hasn't begun to take on the proportions of the debate of 1912 when putting

Two Cars Meet Head-On On Sharp Curve

Napanee Girl, Only Survivor, in Hospital

Ontario Provincial Police here were exceptionally busy over the weekend with a rash of traffic accidents involving death, personal injuries and extensive property damage.

The most serious of the weekend accidents occurred shortly before midnight Saturday just east of Shannonville. Three persons are dead and a fourth, the sole survivor of the crash, is in serious condition in Belleville General Hospital.

The dead are 21-year-old Donald E. Spencer of Shannonville and his passenger, 22-year-old Aquila Joseph Robichaud, also of Shannonville and a 19-year-old Napanee youth, Paul Rogers.

In serious condition in hospital is 14-year-old Sarah Marie Rankin of R.R. 3, Napanee, a passenger in Rogers car.

Miss Rankin and Mr. Robichaud were rushed to Belleville Hospital by City Ambulance. Robichaud was pronounced dead on arrival. Spencer and Rogers were pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner Dr. D. McVickers of nearby Desoronto.

Miss Rankin has since been transferred to Kingston General Hospital suffering serious head injuries and severe lacerations.

Police say they believed the two vehicles met head-on, on a long, straight east of the bridge on Highway No. 2 in Shannonville. It is believed the Rogers vehicle was overcorrecting while the Spencer car was travelling west and driven by Mr. Spencer.

When the two cars collided the Rogers vehicle burst into flames and the Belleville Fire

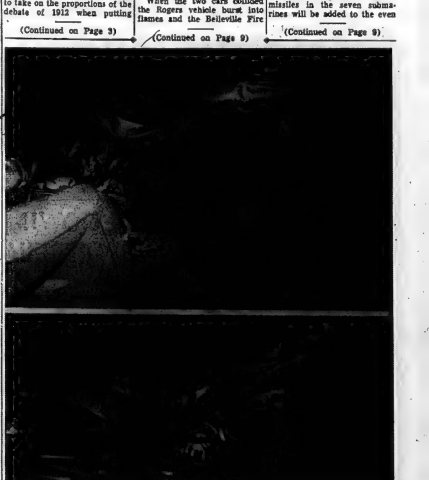
Step-Up In Nuclear Firepower

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—American nuclear power on the perimeters of Asia will begin moving toward a substantial increase in the next few weeks.

Into the launching tubes of a submarine will be placed combat-ready missiles and the first armed Polaris ship will be ready to head for station in the western Pacific.

This event, long planned, takes on new importance because of the political debate over the recent Gulf of Tonkin operation, the nature of orders issued and the general topic of nuclear weapons control.



The submarine Daniel Boone, built in the U.S. west coast Mare Island naval yard, is due to arrive back in the Pacific from firing tests and training in the Atlantic by early September. The new Polaris fleet support facility of Rangor, Wash., will then be ready.

SECOND ALMOST READY

The second of the expected seven - ship Polaris squadron for the Pacific will go into station late this fall, by which time a forward support base, with a tender and other service ships, will be at anchorage at Guam.

The nuclear power of the 112 missiles in the seven submarines will be added to the even

'Rockwound Jamboree' At Bancroft Is Success

An "unqualified success" is the way which the Bancroft Rockhound Jamboree is being described as the four-day North Hastings event concluded yesterday.

Between five and ten thousand visitors crowded into the Bancroft area for the Jamboree which featured rock displays, swap sessions, field trips and other events.

Ontario Mines Minister Hon. George Wardrope opened the Jamboree and at the same time expressed confidence that markets for uranium would be restored within the next few years.

Mr. Wardrope noted the seriousness of the closing of the Bancroft uranium mines but expressed confidence that by 1967 the price of uranium will be doubled and in great demand.

Bancroft Reeve M. J. McAlpine officially welcomed the visitors and said that "we are determined that Bancroft will not become a ghost town."

He said the Jamboree was a step to assure that this would not happen.

The Jamboree attracted tourists from all parts of Canada and the United States with display space in three huge tents taken up by more than 70 exhibitors many from as far away as Texas and Colorado.

Two Belleville girls were taken to hospital Saturday afternoon by City Ambulance of Belleville following a single car accident on Highway No. 14 at Foxboro.

Taken to hospital was Miss Judith Ireen Henn, 19 of 21 Octavia Street, driver of the car and Miss Nancy Longhurst of Murray Street.

Miss Henn was taken to hospital suffering from minor injuries but has since been released. Miss Longhurst is being kept under observation. It is believed she suffered neck injuries in the accident.

Provincial Police said the car, driven by Miss Henn, was enroute to Belleville when it went out of control on a curve pavement on a sharp curve near the old Foxboro Cheese Factory.

They said the car skidded and rolled over.

Damage was estimated at $200.

Annual Picnic Held by Legion

Branch 56 of the Royal Canadian Legion held a most enjoyable picnic at Massassaga on Sunday. A goodly number turned out to participate in a friendly get-together.

The day had its good times and also its bad times. Mrs. Laurie (Kathie) Smith had the misfortune to fall in a race, hurting her knee and having to be taken home by Claude MacDonald, who also became a casualty, sprinkling his wrist in the sack race.

An enjoyable touch was added to the day through the generosity of the band of the Hastings-Prince Edward Company, who played in the background during the races. As the races drew to a close the band marched out into the race track and played a few well chosen selections that are dear to a veteran's heart.

A variety of races and dashes included a three-legged race, wheelbarrow race, chicken race, married women's race, men's race, balloon blowing contest, and sack race, and prizes were awarded to the winners.

Miss Dandridge Says She's Sick Of Show Business

TORONTO (CP) —Dorothy Dandridge is sick of show business and unhappy with her life, she cried here Friday.

"I have to pay the rent and I don't know anything else to do," the singer and actress explains.

Miss Dandridge, a Negro, starred opposite Harry Belafonte in the film Carmen Jones and played Bess to Sidney Poitier in Porgy and Bess.

Staying at the Royal York Hotel while in Toronto for a night-club engagement, Miss Dandridge was one of 900 guests evacuated when fire broke out on the sixth floor Saturday.

"I'd like to be a housewife.

Accused Admits Tying up Bank Staff

TORONTO (CP) — Ronald Hobday, 33, shot between the eyes by a policeman during an attempted bank robbery Friday, remained in critical condition today.

Ronald and his brother, Russell, 34, were charged with attempted armed robbery after two men tied up eight members of the staff of a Toronto-Dominion Bank branch in Toronto's east end and tried to force the acting manager to open a vault containing more than $100,000.

Ronald, father of two girls, suffered extensive brain damage when he was shot by Constable James Tough. A bullet was removed from his head in an emergency operation Friday. Const. Tough shot at a masked man who was carrying a semi-automatic pistol after the man refused to drop the gun.

Russell pleaded guilty in court Saturday and was remanded until Tuesday for sentence.

"We figured we'd get $20,000 from the bank," he said, "now I will get more than I figured on now," he said in a statement to Magistrate Donald Graham.

His statement said he had tied up the bank staff when the police appeared "I grabbed a couple of the staff and walked down the back door. I became a shot and saw my brother fall."

Red Battalion Smashes Two Posts in Delta

SAIGON (AP)—A Communist battalion smashed two South Vietnamese government posts in the Mekong River delta late Sunday, ambushed a relief force and inflicted a total of 126 casualties on government troops.

A helicopter-borne operation today against the same Viet Cong unit resulted in 10 enemy soldiers killed and about 60 more carried off, U.S. officials claimed.

But from any standpoint, it was clear that government troops had suffered one of their bloodiest setbacks in weeks, with heavy weapons losses.

The action began when approximately 400 Viet Cong attacked the hamlets of Hoa My and Hiep Hung, 90 miles southwest of here Sunday. Eight defenders were killed and 19 wounded.

But the real bloodletting came when a relief force was sent to the beleaguered hamlets Sunday night and ran into a Viet Cong ambush about two miles from one of the posts.

Twenty government soldiers were killed, 53 were wounded, 15 are missing and premises were left by the Viet Cong, and 36 weapons, including two machine-guns, are missing.

The remnants of the shanghaied relief force kept going, however, and a helicopter unit was flown in today to reinforce it.

Officials said the helicopter troops caught up with the Viet Cong near one of the posts, and fought a pitched battle along a canal.

Alberta RCMP Asked to Look For Salesman

TORONTO (CP)—Police, said Sunday that RCMP in Alberta have been asked to look for a 24 - year - old advertising salesman for a suburban Toronto radio station in connection with a bank robbery and shooting death in suburban Downsview July 24.

Police did not reveal the man's name.

John Blane, 56, was shot after he chased a Beatle - masked bandit from a Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce branch. Blane shot at the robber with a revolver he took from an accountant.

The bandit then shot Blane in the face and escaped with $25,000.

He was wearing a T-shirt emblazoned with the name of a Toronto radio station. Police said that 125 of the shirts were bought. Since the robbery they have been checking persons who bought the shirts.

Republicans Said Sure to Pick up Votes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southerners probably will cast 2,000,000 more votes this year than in 1960 and Republican Senator Barry Goldwater will pick up most of them, Raymond W. Humphreys, a Republican campaign strategist, said today.

Humphreys, in an interview he thinks 75,000,000 to 77,000,000 votes will be cast in the presidential election, Nov. 3.

In 1960, 68,800,000 votes were cast, 10,260,000 in the 11 states that formed the old Confederacy.

For the first time, Humphreys said, the Republicans see in every state "a prospect for success."

He said Goldwater has vote-pulling strength in southern states that until now have been written off to the Democrats. Fo. example, he said, Goldwater would carry Georgia, a traditionally Democratic state.

Humphreys conceded the Republican nominee has "problems" in New England, but said the party is by no means writing off its chances there.

Local Merchants Display Wide Variety of Products At 1964 Belleville Fair

New designs for the blueprint of modern living are on display at the Belleville Fair this week.

If a man would (or could) take advantage of all the comforts and efficiencies displayed at the Merchants' Building, this could be a conceivable picture: Awakened at 6 a.m. by the cries of those bad days at the lathe (or desk), the exhausted citizen would climb into a plugged-in easy chair, switches on a massage pad. As its vibrations start easing his muscular aches and tensions, he watches color TV. And for good measure, the flickering screen could be depatched to play outside—with lightweight motorbikes.

All this—and much more—is on display this year, much of it by local merchants.

Throwing a high percentage of the crowd interest as it cashes in the teenage motorcycle fad it sparked a few years ago, the exhibit of Booth Radio and Television Ltd.

Also part of its most original displays in recent years, the Belleville firm displays its attraction on a long line-up of Honda motorcycles. The machines on display include both the small, popular Honda-50 to the kingsize 300.

Right in the centrepiece of the big Ireland's Furniture and Appliances display. For the benefit of the fair visitors, it likely will be the first time to glimpse the medium still slow on the launching pad—modicana.

NOVELTY FEATURES

Another novelty feature among the Ireland exhibits is a huge L-shaped chesterfield.

Appliances and furniture sales are also by Belleville Furniture Auction Barns with several sophisticated radio-radio players the key gimmick.

As for the easing-of-tension bit that's provided by Niagara Mattress Ltd. with its demonstration of furniture and chair pads with built-in vibrations that relieve fractured nerves and muscles.

Dinnerware advertised as break - and - stain resistant can be seen at the Treasure House Sales booth. Other items displayed include with the aim of the housewife are such things as automatic can openers, sewing machines and cookware.

Electricity and its natural gas rivals get attention in the same building. Ontario Hydro is promoting electric heat with a "heat and everything" in the home. Natural gas is publicized by Consumers Gas with two exhibitors in the building.

Also on the domestic front is a display of aluminum house fittings doors and windows. For the exhibit Aluminads Limited has erected a full-scale house front.

Recreation is represented by Ted's Tack Shop, riding equipment suppliers and a big bowling display sponsored by the city's Bowl-O-Rama complex and similar enterprises in Brighton and Deseronto.

WILL BE MAGNET

Finally, the exhibition that took the longest and most work to assemble—the midway will be a magnet for visitors to the building.

Belleville Radio has more of a demonstration than a display. Broadcasting daily from the Fair Board office's complete studio, with turntables, microphones and other paraphernalia, the station immediately behind the studio — and outside the building—a mike has been erected. It is from here CJBQ will broadcast a regular roster of shows daily — headlined by country music star, Floyd Lloyd.

Britain Plans Sixty Million Missile Order

LONDON (Reuters)—A £20,000,000 ($60,000,000) missile order for the Royal Navy is to be placed in the United States, the Daily Mail says.

The newspaper says the government has decided to buy the U.S. Sparrow 3 missile instead of the British Hawker Red Top to arm the navy's U.S. Phantom fighters.

The report says two other new developments have distributed leaders of the British aircraft industry.

First was a plan to place the £150,000,000 order for building Phantoms in Britain.

The other, he wrote, was the virtual certainty that the Government will launch a multi-prop plane would be ordered for Coastal Command, instead of a British aircraft.

Third Member Of SIU State Is Removed

MONTREAL (CP) — Vice-President Leonard McLaughlin of the Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) was accused Saturday of running another candidate in the union's upcoming election removed from course proceedings by the membership.

Jack Dormer, a spokesman for one of the two groups contesting the election, said Montreal-based organizer Rene Turcotte has been ordered to return to a survey in Newfoundland.

"He is the third member of this slate to be either fired from office or transferred by areas where contact with the rank and file membership is seriously curtailed," Mr. Dormer charged.

Mr. McLaughlin, who became the senior officer in the union following the dismissal of president Hal Banks, said the dismissal of one candidate and transfer of two others was a "routine" procedure and that any other interpretation is "a lot of balderdash."

Mr. Banks, who announced Monday he would run for the post of Quebec City port agent, was subsequently dismissed from his paid job as a public patrolman and Gilbert Johnson, who also revealed his candidacy Monday, was removed from the Port Williams from Montreal-on an organizing job.

They're organizers," Mr. McLaughlin said. "So they go where organizing is needed."

Both men are running on a slate headed by Stan Devine, Halifax port agent, who is contesting the presidency against Mr. McLaughlin.

Nevada Fires Burn Big Area Of Range Land

ELKO, Nev. (AP)—Firefighters appeared today to be winning a battle with four large range fires in northeastern Nevada which scorched an estimated 170,000 acres of grassland and sagebrush.

A bureau of land management official said three of the blazes were largely controlled overnight. But at last report, a 51,000-acre fire still burned out of control in northern and central Nevada Saturday and Sunday. Most were set when a series of lightning-charged thunderstorms crossed the state.

A Boise, Idaho, pilot was killed Friday when his plane crashed 20 miles north of Elko. He was returning to Boise after flying a group of firefighters to Elko, seat of a vast cattle- and sheep - ranching area. Two ranchers are in Elko hospitals in serious burns suffered as they tried to build a fire line with a bulldozer.

Roughly half the area burned was public domain, and half private ranches. Nearly all was valuable grazing land.

There were no reports of major damage to buildings or structures threatened, except for a campground destroyed by a 6,000-acre fire near the International forest, 10 miles southwest of Austin, in central Nevada. The fire started July 31 but set service said was caused by man, was contained Sunday and expected to be controlled today.

Soviet Union Asked Not to Inflame Crisis

LONDON (AP)—The British government urged the Soviet Union today to avoid inflaming the critical situation in Cyprus.

A Foreign office spokesman told reporters:

"We expect the Soviet government to confirm to the United Nations Security Council resolution of Aug. 9 which (in paragraph 4) called on all states to refrain from any action that might exacerbate the situation in Cyprus and broaden the hostilities."

The spokesman's statement was made after Premier Khrushchev had warned the United States, Britain and other nations Saturday that the crisis that their activities could lead to very grave consequences."

Khrushchev also declared that a British newspaper report that Britain already is resigning itself to loss of military bases in Cyprus, which accommodate strong British troop units and elements of the NATO command.

Humphrey Most Likely Johnson's Mate

NEW YORK (AP)—A survey conducted with White House assistance shows that Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota is preferred for the Democratic vice-presidential nomination by most ranking party officials in every region except the deep South, the New York Times says.

Southerners, the story added, were reported to favor Senator Eugene J. McCarthy, Humphrey's colleague from Minnesota, or Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate majority leader.

Gen. Khanh President Of Viet Nam

From AP-Reuters

SAIGON (CP) — Maj. - Gen. Nguyen Khanh today began his first day as president of South Viet Nam with formation of a war cabinet his initial task.

The former prime minister was elected Sunday to the presidency by members of the 13-man military junta under a new constitution approved unanimously.

The junta placed only one restraint on Khanh. It insisted on a constitutional provision requiring the president to consult with the junta, the military revolutionary council, before issuing decrees.

Government sources said Khanh probably will name cabinet members within a week.

Khanh, who received 50 of the 58 votes cast, came to power about six months ago after a bloodless coup deposing Maj.-Gen. Duong Van Minh, a key figure in the overthrow of the Ngo Dinh Diem regime last November.

RETAINS ADVISER

The election pushed Minh almost completely out of the picture. He will be installed in the token office of chief of state, although he did not have any real power. Khanh told reporters that Minh would keep the position of "adviser" to the junta "until further notice."

The president said the junta would appoint a provisional national assembly with legislative powers. The present situation made a democratically-elected legislature impossible, he said.

Khanh said the new constitution was designed to fit South Viet Nam's wartime situation, but also makes provision for the beginnings of democracy when peace eventually comes.

Only one-third of the 150 members would be elected; 50 would be representatives of the armed forces, the rest civilians.

PC Chief Says Pearson Finds Flag Too Hot

BROOKLIN, Ont. (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Saturday that Prime Minister Pearson is looking for an escape route on the flag issue.

Speaking to about 3,000 persons at a Progressive Conservative rally in suburban Oshawa, Mr. Diefenbaker said the latest attempt by the prime minister to find a way out of the flag impasse is the brave statement "Parliament is the proper forum to propose."

Mr. Diefenbaker said it was natural to expect that the legislation to Tuesday's meeting would be to discuss a concrete proposal for dealing with the debate on the flag. Yet Mr. Pearson said Friday in the Commons that he was not seeking to propose to the meeting, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the way is open to the government to refer the flag issue to a committee of Parliament to allow the fullest discussion and the hearing of representations by all interested organizations, groups and individuals.

"In this way well be the committee will not be unanimous. If it isn't unanimous they can report back these models or those designs of a committee of Parliament before the Canadian people in the form of a plebiscite or referendum."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Progressive Conservative party stands for the preservation of the Red Ensign or the adoption of a Red Ensign changed to indicate the French contribution to Canada.

The diagnosis came from Dr. Joshua Bierer at a conference of the Institute of Social Psychiatry.

Dr. Bierer said many of us came into the field of psychiatry because we had our own problems."

Dr. Bierer summed up his recommendations in two words: "Ruthless self analysis."

Youth Saved From Gallows Kills Trusty

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A youth sentenced to die for slaying his mother and crippled stepfather was saved by a landmark state supreme court decision—killed a trusty Friday night in county jail, Sheriff Joseph O'Connor said Saturday.

He said Joseph B. Morse may have been fatally stabbed by Jerry Taddei, 23, so he could again be tried and sentenced to die. Morse, 20, slight, blonde and bespectacled, was originally sentenced to die for fatally beating his widowed mother and 12-year-old sister, Sept. 2, 1962, their home in nearby Chula Vista.

He was convicted and was waiting to leave his lawyer won a high court reversal—one now known as the "Morse decision"—which held that the jury weighing his fate had been told he could be paroled if he got life instead of imprisonment.

Then, last week, the jury ruled for life imprisonment.

Museum Curator Says Skeleton 'Prehistoric'

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A human skeleton dug up by two workmen in Windsor during last week has been identified by a museum curator as "definitely prehistoric."

Alan Douglas of the Hiram Walker Museum said the skeleton from the head to the knee is human but the lower leg bones are believed the Great Lakes region.

He said the skeleton found Thursday by workmen Ed. Roger Garant, 13, may be associated with the shore of glacial Lake Rouge instead of the shore of the present River Canard.

Mr. Douglas said the excellent condition of the teeth, worn smooth from tearing food and chewing grit, signifies the skeleton was that of an Indian.

Trenton Nearly 2,500 Crowd Into Gardens to Hear Speaker

TRENTON — By actual count, 2,315 persons jammed into the community gardens at Trenton yesterday afternoon to hear a prophetic account of the Battle of Armageddon by Dagna Rose-Jr., of Toronto, superintendent of all ministers and evangelists of Jehovah's Witnesses in Canada. The special meeting was the finale of the four-day Watch Tower convention at the arena, which drew delegates and their families from Ontario points and from parts of the U.S.A. During the convention, 184 volunteer kitchen workers served 6,000 and 400 other volunteers catered to the wants and needs of the delegates. A press room set up in the auditorium upstairs in the gardens, provided typed, mimeographed for the reporters after each session and yesterday, an expert in hand signals, translated Mr. Rosam's message simultaneously for the deaf witnesses.

Mr. Rosam said that while political leaders and news commentators were talking about such phrases as "an atomic Armageddon," "a thermonuclear Armageddon," and the warning that "Chicago was only 30 minutes from Armageddon," in the literal sight of the specific description of the "battle to end all battles," as given in the Book of Revelations.

"The Battle of Armageddon," said Mr. Rosam, "will be between the rulers and political leaders of earth, and their followers, and the rulers of Hosts and his armies of angels. He said that "men of goodwill" men and women who had gained favor with God by strict adherence to His laws, would not be involved. He advised the witnesses, "God's true people," to keep seeking God's goodness and to spread the witness message throughout the world.

$800 Damage When Car Goes Out of Control

TRENTON — An accident in downtown Trenton early Sunday morning resulted in $800 damage when a car owned by Albert Koopmani of Frankford, went out of control.

Police said Koopmani turned off Dundas St. West from King Street, he lost control of his car, knocked down a No Parking sign in front of the Post office, crossed the road and struck a truck owned by J. R. Wood of Trenton. The truck, parked in front of Ostrander Avenue, was pushed onto the sidewalk and into the rear of a car owned by G. J. Perkins of Trenton.

Damage to the Koopmani car was $450, to the Wood truck $300 and to the Postma vehicle $150.

WHEELS SEIZED

Kenneth Ray Brooks of Sidney St., Trenton, escaped injury in Saturday afternoon when the front wheels of his dump truck seized as he was driving on the Front St. and corner on Front St., causing the vehicle to crash into a hydro pole, shearing off the pole. Property damage to the truck was set at $100 and to the pole at $125.

Flag

parts of Canada's small navy under British command in an emergency was debated around the clock for the best part of two weeks.

Under present rules, the Commons adjourns its debate each day at 10:30 p.m., and it does not sit Wednesday or Friday nights. So far, no member has used that time on the flag issue, though each new amendment can be used for a fresh speech by every member.

There now are 263 members and two vacancies in the 265-member House.

MANY MORE TO SPEAK

When the flag debate adjourned last night—until today—18 of the 128 Liberals had spoken, and 33 of the 96 Conservatives, including the floor. Participation by the other parties was: four of the 17 New Democrats, four of the nine Social Creditors, and three of the 08 Creditistes.

The latest amendment was proposed by Ken More (PC—Lambton City) calling for a plebiscite containing four questions:

—Are you in favor of the Canadian Red Ensign?

—Are you in favor of the Canadian Red Ensign changed in some details so as to reflect the heritage of the two founding races?

—Are you in favor of a three-maple leaf flag design?

—Are you in favor of a one-maple leaf design?

The earlier debate had been on an amendment by Opposition Leader Mr. Diefenbaker, second speaker in the debate, calling for a national plebiscite on the government's flag proposal.

The first speaker, Prime Minister Pearson, interrupted a resolution to adopt aCanadian flag showing three red maple leaves on a field of white with a blue border on either side, and continuing the Union Jack as a symbol of our membership in the Commonwealth and Canada's allegiance to the Crown.

Mr. Diefenbaker proposed in a nation-wide free-time political broadcast that Canada adopt a modified Red Ensign as its flag. He said it should have the Union Jack in its upper quarter next to the staff, and the Fleur-de-lis or some other symbol on its fly where the Canadian shield now is.

Closing the Ranks

Not surprisingly, Republicans are closing their ranks behind Senator Barry Goldwater.

No matter how much a faction of a political party may dislike a candidate selected by the majority, it is only in extreme cases this dislike is translated into open opposition. To act otherwise would be something akin to a person cutting off his nose to spite his face.

Goldwater has made it as easy as possible for those who opposed his nomination to support his candidature. His attitude has been conciliatory. If one could be sure that this attitude would prevail in all his dealings, some of the fears aroused by his earlier remarks would be removed. But, once again, he could hardly act otherwise under the circumstances.

The fact that he is going at least half way to patch up quarrels with his nominal friends is no guarantee he would exhibit a similar attitude towards real enemies after his election.

General Eisenhower, after a meeting Goldwater held with party chieftains last week, said that Goldwater has "repudiated character assassins, vigilantes, communists and any groups such as the Ku Klux Klan."

If anybody but Eisenhower had made that statement, we would have suspected he was being humorous in his mention of communists. Nobody even suspected Goldwater of being linked with the Reds. It would be going too far to say there is no danger of him getting support from communists, whether he wants it or not. As a matter of fact, Communist China has "endorsed" him, on the grounds his actions as president of the U.S. would tend to hurry the communist revolution in that land.

For the rest, the "character assassins," (a rather odd reference to the members of the John Birch Society who have called Eisenhower a communist) the Ku Klux Klan and such groups, the point which interests most people is not so much whether Goldwater seeks their support as to whether he is likely to get it. Right now, the answer seems to be that he will.

And, of course, when Goldwater says that "I seek the support of no extremists," there will be those who are unkind enough to contend that this is the first instance on record of a candidate rejecting his own support.

He Is Not Surprised

We nominate Mr. A. L. Johnson, purchasing agent for the Toronto suburb of Scarborough, as the double-talk champion of the year.

The Federal Restrictive Trade Practices Commission has charged thirteen Ontario road surfacing contractors with collusion in submitting bids allegedly fictitious to the provincial highways department and municipalities.

Mr. Johnson says that he is not surprised by the Commission's report. Municipalities, he says, encourage collusion by using the public tendering system. Contractor prices are made public, each firm knows what prices its competitors are quoting.

Will Mr. Johnson kindly explain why firms have to depend on municipalities making tender prices public if they are practising collusion? Or, to put it another way, if the firms do, in fact, depend on these reports for their knowledge of the prices charged by competitors, how can this possibly involve collusion?

Unco-operative Sheriff

At Philadelphia, Mississippi, Sheriff Lawrence Rainey has refused to answer any more questions by FBI agents unless they get a warrant for him.

The FBI recently uncovered the bodies of three civil rights workers missing after they were detained by Philadelphia police on speeding charges and then allegedly released. The bodies were found buried deep in a dam—and so certain were the FBI of precisely where the bodies would be found that they brought in a big digger and had it bite into the dam to the exact spot where the bodies of the men were hidden.

Sheriff Rainey now says that he will co-operate with the FBI "as much as it co-operates with me."

The circumstances surrounding the Philadelphia murders are such that any FBI man who meets Sheriff Rainey's requirements might conceivably be giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

Never serve small helpings on small plates —it make them look trivial. Deck them out on a large plate looking important with a little something—a sprig of watercress or a slice of lemon—to grace the open spaces.—Mary Ryan.

Now Nikita Flays Drunk

Ottawa Journal

The people's government of Russia is having trouble with the people — they're drinking too much. Pravda even hints that sales of vodka should be banned.

There's more here than you could put in seven eyes. Premier Khrushchev says drunkards are breaking up families, violating public order and "we say it not in China! — becoming poor workers. Jail 'em, he says, lay-off fines, but don't ban the booze.

Apparently before jailing so considerable a number of even as poor workers he had a notion to enlist the editor of Pravda in an anti - drunk campaign. We don't know whether the Pravda man drinks, but he's not going to the coast of all the Russians who do, that's sure.

Pravda says give drunkards a one - year term, and lest that sound like sweet reason here we might point out that a year in a Russian jail is no holiday. It could drive a man to drink.

But — freshen your glass while we tell you what else Pravda said: Under communism, there is "no justification" for drinking have been eliminated. There is no poverty or unemployment.

What a lot of trolka talk! What about those Russian diplomats we used to see at the UN bar tossing back vodkas and whatever else was in range? Were they poor or unemployed? Being poor or unemployed may be a good reason to drink, if you can afford it. But it has always seemed to us that a better reason for drinking is not being poor or unemployed.

The stern language coming from Mr. Khrushchev and his Pravda scribe offers a chink in the iron curtain we're intended. Have the Russian people come to the conclusion that being poor, living off and holding a job is not everything? Is communism, then, not the be-all and end-all state of mental or spiritual satisfaction? Is the Big-is-well-fed well - hired Communist? Is there perhaps something else, something a person may prefer, to be drunk to? Freedom of mind and spirit, perhaps?

It is disturbing. Or is this just the wily old Mr. K's way of showing that he isn't trying to insist, to the father image, the cult or personality?

Should Watch For 'Pirates'

Ottawa Le Droit

The minister of national health and welfare has announced the establishment of a permanent advisory council to help the government solve problems involving drugs, medicines, pharmaceutical specialties and patent medicines . . .

Our economic system has lent great importance to the idea of buying on the instalment plan. So it is to be hoped that the new council will be allowed to denounce the pirates who, by advertising, make it needs in order to sell at twice the normal price products indispensable to human life.

The council could itself be stimulated by private organizations and by the anti-drugs agitation against the rise of economic values.

The council's composition, including as it does the names of Canadians from a variety of provinces, is also inspiring in the variety of opinions that will be heard in its sessions. . . All told, it is made up for the most part of women and this is only proper, since it has been properly recognized that most family budgets are in the hands of the women. Good luck to the council. —Maurice Hubt.

Prime Minister King and President Roosevelt met at Ogdensburg, N.Y., in an historic conference on defence of the hemisphere 24 years ago today—in 1940. They announced a joint defence commission would be set up to plan the defence of North America in the event of an attack. Although the agreement was never signed, the clauses of the pact were implemented.

A former Canadian National Railway clerk here, Captain Arnold Brown, now a member of the editorial staff of the "War Cry" official Salvation Army organ, has composed a march that has been accepted for publication by the Salvation Army Board of London, England. TV Spoils Couchiching

Orillia Packet and Times

As sure a sign of midsummer in this area as the Rotary Club's Sportsday and barbecue is the annual session at Geneva Park of the Canadian Institute of Public Affair.

Every summer a flock of assorted professors, politicians and pundits of various shapes and sizes assemble here at Couchiching Conference, a discussion of international affairs entered, rather hoarily it is true, on some particular theme which changes each year.

Once this Couchiching Conference was one of the most fascinating events of its kind held anywhere in the world; high officials of state frequently used it as an occasion to let their hair down and speak frankly to a host of subjects normally bandied with kid gloves. Some of the most memorable dissertions on the state of world were made in the unlikely setting of the crowded little buildings, set out beside the starlit lake.

Above all, some of the keenest and most brilliant verbal exchanges ever heard in this country, spiced with sharp repartee and lightened by shafts of wit, took place at the Couchiching Conference, where some of the worlds best brains met on the common ground of an informal camp site.

All that was before television. Nowadays the Couchiching Conference is a self-conscious barrage of the event it once was. It is the platform that the nationalist, the leftist, the griper, the pleader for special interest uses to get himself before the public.

No statement is too outrageous, no charge too nonsensical to be aired to capture the interest of a jaded public. The affair is no longer a conference it is a performance.

As such, the Couchiching Conference has become simply another aspect of the Canadian summer silly season.

It can be depended upon to produce a spate of wild charges and absurd solutions from the usual host of minor prophets, together with the usual platitudes from a carload of cliche politicians seeking to enhance their public image appearing with self-consciously stereotyped intellectuals in the studied informality of open-necked sports shirts, sandals, beards and bonnirs).

Not a single memorable speech, not one enjoyable debate, not one sensible exposition of the problems facing the world have emerged from any conference of recent years; the affair has become simply a summer replacement for the CBC's television programming department.

Away, away with the lot of you, and take your berets and sandals with you. Better—Palladin with his black hat than Stanley Knowles with no tie.

Two Famous Names Joined

Peterborough Examiner

A wedding announcement which could one man agreed with could be one of the most profound intellectual revolutions of history are now joined in wedlock. It would be ridiculous to speculate on any issue of such a union at this point, but the temptation to do so is almost overwhelming.

Charles Darwin and T. H. Huxley (the epiiscophagous) great-grandfathers in the latrothed pair, were responsible (one for formulating and the other for evangelizing) the evolutionary theory of man's origin. The Huxley and the Darwin families have for some generations been eminent in scientific and intellectual pursuits.

Though Charles Darwin himself was foreshadowed by Aristotle and others in the 18th century, he was the first man to formulate an evolutionary theory which was confirmed, and subsequently by scientific inquiry, T. H. Huxley was Darwin's bulldog (his own description) in putting down nervous and dismayed critics who clamoured for the suppression of Darwin's work. This clamour has not died down to this day.

Betrothals in the royal are events for celebration; this one is especially so. Miss Huxley and Mr. Darwin are distinguished only of the association of their families — she, while a secretary, is a medical photographer and he, as a designer for International Computers and Tabulators, was a leading figure at a party in Cambridge and, as a London journalist observes, 'by most accounts a good one.'

Because of Charles Darwin, the world of men has taken on a new dimension. It is only reasonable to suppose that without evolutionary theory we would not have the same kind of understanding of a host of natural phenomena. Genetics, biology, ecology, medicine, philosophy, sociology, pathology, all these and others have received new impetus from Darwin's painstaking work. Darwin's life was an example of what a remarkable, intelligent man, armed with acumen and careful observation can do, to reverse the accepted notions of centuries.

One wonders, sometimes, if such an achievement will ever again be possible — that is to say, could one man armed only with his five senses and rudimentary equipment, deliver to the world an explanation of a principle of life? The contemplation of science today suggests that such discoveries are no longer possible. Even in the discipline — psychology. The human psyche — or spirit or soul, if you will — is the last remaining mystery that can be examined through the senses. The others all require a remote approach, whether the weight is required in brawly or equipment.

Darwin, Huxley, Einstein, Freud or not, the impending marriage of Angela Huxley and Christopher Darwin is an event, both in itself and because of its implications. No child of such a union could help be more illustrious forbears or, perhaps, could carry such an onerous responsibility to live up unborn. There is no doubt that there will be scrutiny of the outcome, however unfortunate it may be. Author of George Darwin, Sir Charles, was president of the British Eugenics Society when alive — a society which advocated the improvement of the race by selective breeding.

Lifeguards Upgraded

To Your Good Health

Only Way to Control Weight Is to Govern Eating Habits

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: It seems that I will have to take medication for underactive or low thyroid from now on.

Will this have a bearing on weight reduction? I enjoy eating. I am 47, weigh 150, and am 5 feet 3. I must be 30 pounds overweight. — Mrs. E. S.

Yes, in most, (not all) cases it is necessary to keep taking thyroid substance indefinitely, if your thyroid activity is too low. (You thereby make up for the amount not being provided by your thyroid gland.)

But I advise you to go on the assumption that your thyroid has nothing to do with your weight.

It is true that thyroid is used in some weight reduction programs, but for reasons other than being overweight.

If you were to take enough of it to lose, it would have to be such a large dose that you would be miserable from such side effects as nervousness, insomnia, pounding heart, etc.

You really put the finger on the problem yourself in three words: I enjoy eating.

Don't we all? But until you change your eating habits, you will still carry those 30-odd excess pounds around, and probably gain more besides.

I don't mean you should not enjoy eating, but that you should take smaller portions, and cut down on fats and sweets which, by and large, are the villains.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is yogurt safe and non-fattening? And is it continual use safe for elderly persons? — Mrs. J. C.

Yogurt is fermented milk. Sometimes fruit flavors are added to yogurt, which means that it will have more calories than ordinary milk. It has the important plus health-giving properties, and coats more than milk. But, like milk, it is an excellent source of calcium and a great many elderly people get too little of this element.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: What is B. H. T.? I read that it is in spotting it in breakfast foods. I read an article about it that said it was harmful. — W. W.

BHT (and BHA is another) is a chemical used in containers of food products to prevent changes from oxidization — in other words, to preserve palatability and appearance.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has approved the use of these chemicals. That's good enough for me.

• • •

Dear Sir: I recently got over mononucleosis. Please tell me: How do you get it? Why was I given a dye injection before my final blood test? Is it a form of leukemia? — E. F.

Nobody knows how people get infectious mononucleosis, but an unidentified virus is suspected. It is a common ailment during the late teens and early 20's.

It has nothing to do with leukemia whatsoever.

And the dye injection most likely was part of a liver function test because your doctor wanted to be sure that organ was not affected. Liver impairment does occur occasionally in infectious mononucleosis.

Just the Same!

Portland Oregonian

The cornerstone of the Times Tower in Times Square, New York City, was dedicated Jan. 18, 1904. Recently, with the tower under reconstruction, the cornerstone was broken and the 1904 newspapers therein removed. They told of trouble in the Far East, in Africa and in Panama. U.S. police were concerned about that sinster criminal cartel, the Mafia. Cigarettes, it was said, were harmful to the smoker's health.

Those were the headlines of 1904, as of 1964.

Our Leaders Cannot Always Stop Violence

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

There is an old story about two Frenchmen during the days of rioting in the French Revolution. One of them saw his friend chasing after a mob that was running through the city.

"What are you doing chasing after these people?" he shouted. "I am their leader," was the shouted back, "and I must follow where they are going!"

I thought of this recently when two prominent Negro leaders were booed at a rally in New York, after they had called for non-violence. And another speaker was cheered when he suggested that "the African people get respect when they took guns and started shooting."

It is not only the more primitive of mass movements that those who imagine they are "leading" the mob by merely going where it is going are forced to become blind followers when the wheels they set in motion get out of control of them. The German industrialists and generals thought they could control Hitler, and use him for their purposes, but they were disastrously wrong.

And today, the putative leaders on both sides in the civil rights struggle do not fear one another so much as they fear their own most militant supporters.

Senator Humphrey on the one side, and a Senator Russell on the other, could conceivably adjust their differences and work them out on a legal and peaceful level. But responsible leaders cannot always control violence by their own side, and if they oppose it they are often swept away in the tidal waves of ecstasies in the French Revolution, and the Mensheviks in the Russian Revolution.

In any crucial dispute, the extreme positions tend to take over from those in the centre: this is a psychological more than a political fact of life. It is difficult to negotiate, to compromise, to work within the cumbersome framework of law; it takes a degree of maturity, a measure of forbearance, many of us are not equipped for.

Injustice, unfortunately, creates its opposite injustice. An oppressive Court engenders an oppressive Stalin: a ruthless Batista engenders a ruthless Castro; denial of Negro rights engenders violent affirmation of such rights. In the current atmosphere of racial passion, two wrongs do seem to make a right.

When the fighting starts in earnest, if it does, we shall find the leaders who appeal most to each faction will be those with the simplest answers, the most direct call for physical action, regardless of the realities or the decencies of the situation.

Indonesian Terrorists In Malaya

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters) — The Malaysian government today announced the landing of 30 to 40 "Indonesian terrorists" on the west coast of south Malaya. It proclaimed the mobilization of its territorial army in response.

Deputy Premier Tun Abdul Razak said that by noon today 13 members of the landing force had been taken prisoners.

They included members of the Indonesian navy and Malaysian citizens, both Malay and Chinese. One Malaysian servicemen had been wounded, he said.

In a speech in Jakarta, Indonesia, today, President Sukarno reaffirmed his country's determination to crush the Malaysian federation of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and Sabah North Borneo.

In Singapore, a British forces spokesman said no British forces were involved in today's operation.

Suspended Member Says He'll Be Back

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Yves Gabias, Union Nationale member recently suspended for three years from the Quebec legislative assembly, says he will be back in his seat repeating the Trois-Rivieres riding at the start of the fall session.

Mr. Gabias also said in an interview Saturday night he will contest the party leadership of Daniel Johnson at the next Union Nationale convention because he feels the latter is not sufficiently firm to serve and seems to fear the Liberal government.

He said he will show the assembly committee on elections and privileges it made a mistake July 9 in suspending him for accusing Attorney-General Rene Hamel of bribe-taking, then failing to substantiate his charge.

Following his suspension, Mr. Gabias said he would resign if his electors so desired.

"I haven't met one of my voters since who hasn't told me to quit my seat and instead was given their full support in my fight to have the matter of the 'Law of the Liberal party,'" he said.

He has invited all Union Nationale members to a meeting in his riding Friday when he will announce his next moves.

"I will fight until I have won final and total victory," he said.

Bus Accident In Alps Takes Lives of 17

BOURG ST. MAURICE France (AP)—The death count rose to 17 today in an Alpine bus accident which turned a children's holiday outing into tragedy.

Doctors worked to save the lives of 16 others injured when the bus went off the road Sunday and plunged 230 feet into a ravine.

The bus was carrying vacationing youngsters from a shepherd's festival back to their camp at the summer resort of Seez near the Swiss frontier.

The driver, 51-year-old Armand Loffler, who suffered serious injuries, told police he was forced off the road by an approaching car.

The bus crashed through a guard rail at the side of the road and landed upside down at the bottom of the ravine. Mountain is helped remove the dead and injured from the wreckage.

The accident occurred in the hamlet of La Proide, about four miles from the 7,178-foot summit of Little St. Bernard, a peak in the Alpine range which includes Mount-Blanc.

All the victims were French. Many were from the northern city of Arras.

PERONISTS MEET

MADRID (AP) — Argentina's former dictator, Juan D. Peron, had company during the weekend at his Madrid house. Eight leaders of a movement to put him back in power arrived from Buenos Aires for a conference. Some Argentinians referred to the session as a "summit meeting" of the Peronist movement. Argentine political circles are skeptical of Peron's chances of ever returning.

Big Three of Auto Industry Offer Workers High Wages, Pensions, Early Retirement

DETROIT (AP) — A wide range of economic improvements, including higher wages, larger pensions and earlier retirement, were offered to the United Auto Workers today by the U.S. auto industry's Big Three — General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

For these, the companies proposed three-year contracts to replace similar ones expiring two weeks from today.

There was no comment from union sources, pending study, but UAW President Walter P. Reuther forecast beforehand the offers "will not be realistic."

Increased vacation and holiday pay also were offered by the automakers, along with a proposal to refund the tuition of any employees furthering their education through spare-time studies.

The offers, presented separately, stipulated each company, other, as first company proposals did in 1961. The union never has accepted as final a first offer.

STILL CAN BARGAIN

And Louis G. Seaton, GM vice - president - personnel, told the union there was room to "give and take within the dimensions of our economic proposal," adding:

"We are flexible. If the UAW wishes to shift emphasis from one area to another, or to propose modifications within the dimensions . . . we will examine their suggestions."

All three companies limited their offers to economic areas. No mention was made of elaborate work-ing agreements which supplement the national contracts and an area in which the union has raised some of its most strenuous demands thus far.

The counter-offers came after the UAW began polling its membership. Reuther asked the authorization if negotiators want to use it.

Ford proposed flatly to continue the so-called annual improvement factor under which workers would get a scheduled an automatic 2.5-per-cent yearly wage increase to compensate for productivity-spurring technological advances—automation.

GM said its offer would raise the base hourly rate by nine cents over a three-year period, but did not specifically mention an annual improvement factor.

Chrysler estimated its offer would add six to 12 cents hourly.

COL A FACTOR

All three proposed to continue the current cost-of-living escalator on which they base all with changes in the index of the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

And all three offered to write into the basic wage scale the nine cents added to pay cheques since current contracts were written in 1961. In other words workers could lose only five of the 14 cents they now get under this escalator, if the cost of living nose-dived.

The companies offered to increase pensions by $3.25 from $2.80 monthly for each year of service. At Chrysler, at least, the increase would apply only to workers retiring in the future. The UAW has strongly demanded that the pensions of those already retired be raised as well.

They also proposed retirement—if mutually agreeable—at age 60. Currently retirement is possible at 65; mandatory at 68.

In addition, the companies offered an incentive for early retirement, proposing, in effect, to pay workers as much between 60 and 62 as they would be entitled to from both company pension and Social Security at age 65.

Vacation maximums would be increased to three weeks after 15 years and to four weeks after 25 years.

The general rule now is two weeks, regardless of years.

LAUDS OFFER

Explaining the major provisions of the 22-point GM offer, a company spokesman said the wage increase would mean an average total increase of more than 36 cents an hour for approximately 350,000 employees covered by the current UAW contract.

Louis G. Seaton, GM vice-president - personnel, said the company's offer was a "sound, fair proposal which realistically meets the need of our employees, our own business and the U.S. economy."

Describing the proposal as "forward looking," Seaton said it not only provides substantial wage increases, but also gives GM workers and their families the greatest measure of security and opportunity they have ever enjoyed."

Major provisions of the offer included:

—A tuition refund plan for employees taking part in further labor education through spare-time studies.

—An increase in the basic retirement benefit to $3.25 from $2.80 a month for each year of service.

—A new incentive benefit for early retirement. An employee who is retired for mutually satisfactory basis of age 60 would get between 60 and 65 approximately what he would be entitled to under both company and Social Security benefits at 65.

—Good Friday to be added to the paid holidays.

—Improved life insurance and sickness and accident benefits to be fully paid by the company.

—Continuation of the cost-of-living allowance, with some modifications, and addition to wage rates of nine cents of the current cost of living allowance.

—A fund to adjust wage differentials at certain plants.

U.S. Bureau of Labor statistics figures the current hourly wage in the U.S. auto industry as a whole is $3.01. Members of the Big Three auto companies, however, insist their average is higher.

JET TURNS BACK

LONDON (Reuters) — An Air Canada DC-8 jet, carrying more than 100 passengers, made a safe landing at London Airport Saturday when engine trouble forced it to turn back soon after taking off for Toronto. Fire trucks, emergency vehicles and ambulances stood by as the airliner touched down, using only three of its four engines.

500 Teen-Age Negroes Roam Times Square

NEW YORK (AP) — A predominantly - Negro crowd of about 500 teen-agers left a dance early Sunday and roamed Broadway, smashing and looting several store windows near Times Square. Police arrested five and the rest scattered.

The boisterous teen-agers were among a crowd estimated by police at from 1,000 to 1,- 500 that attended a dance on West 52nd Street. As they spilled from the dance hall at 3 a.m., several heaved a waste basket into a clothing store and took items from the window.

Another group tossed a trash basket through five plate-glass windows and threw mannequins into the street, police said.

James Chambers, 17, of Brooklyn had his arm almost severed by broken glass. He was listed in serious condition in hospital.

Police said the youths dropped most of the items taken from the shops at police arrival on the scene.

Child Tossed, Bound, Gagged From Bridge

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—A nine-year-old girl was rescued from a footbridge over the St. Joseph River before dawn Sunday where she had been bound and gagged from a bridge by an abductor, described as a former convict.

Neighbors awakened by the child's screams found her shivering in chin-deep water crying: "Please help me."

She told of a terrifying night in which her abductor had raped her twice, forced her to lie in the trunk of his car for 12 hours, said Police Capt. Orese Harmon.

A man fitting the description provided by the child was seized by police officers a few hours after a brief chase in the downtown area. He was described as a 33-year-old self-employed tree trimmer with a record of child molestings who had served a term for larceny.

Harmon said it was a miracle the girl survived the ordeal. Apparently was saved when she tumbled onto the sand bar from atop a 21-foot bridge, several miles north of here just beyond the Indiana-Michigan state line. She had been gagged with a man's sleeveless undershirt, but managed to work it free and shout for help.

Canadian Exports Achieve Value of $3,833,600,000 22 PC Increase in 6 Months

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian exports in the first half of this year achieved a record value of $3,833,600,000, a 22-per-cent increase over the first six months of 1963, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Gains in sales to most of Canada's main trading areas, including the big wheat sales to Soviet Russia and other East-ern European countries, accounted for the big increase.

The bureau said the general advance was due almost entirely to greater volume of trade. The average level of export prices during the first six months increased just over one per cent over the same 1963 period while the general index of physical volume was 21 per cent greater.

The United States continued to be the leading market for Canadian exports, but its share of the total dropped slightly to 52.4 per cent from 56.7 in the first half of 1963.

Shipments to the U.S. in the January-June period this year were 11.1 per cent to $2,011,600,000.

NEWSPRINT LEADS

Newsprint led the list, sales rising 8.3 per cent to 2,000 exports to the U.S. rose by a similar amount, while pulp shipments were up 15 per cent and crude oil up 8.1 per cent.

Exports of iron ores and concentrates to the U.S. were more than twice the value of January-June, 1963. Exports of aircraft and parts were 24 times higher. Nickel and alloys were down 25 per cent but aluminum, including alloys, rose nearly 13 per cent.

The report did not cite commodity values by provinces.

Exports to Britain rose 22 per cent in the first six months of this year compared with the same period of 1963.

Wheat remained the largest export item to the U.S. although it fell in value by 9.1 per cent. Other main commodities showed large advances over 1963. The first half of 1963—nickel ores were up about 13 per cent, copper and alloys about 22 per cent, lumber more than 30 per cent, zinc about 15 per cent, pulp 41 per cent.

Sales to the rest of the Commonwealth were ahead 15.5 per cent. Australia took the most, followed by South Africa, India, New Zealand and Jamaica. Exports rose to all countries except South Africa, where they declined to $22,645,000 from $27,045,000 a year earlier.

For all other countries as a group, exports rose 52.7 per cent to $1,022,000,000. Western Europe was the leading market, but part of the over-all increase was due to the large increase in wheat exports to Russia and her European satellites.

WHEAT TOPS ALL

All told, wheat remained the leading export commodity, its export value rising to $420,400,000 in the first-half of 1964 compared with $403,300,000 a year earlier.

Newsprint followed with a 10.9-per-cent rise in value to $287,600,000. The other leading in order:

Wood-pulp shipments rose 17.9 per cent to $225,500,000,

Lumber sales ahead were up 13.9 per cent to $223,000,000.

Aluminum, including alloys, rose 6.7 per cent to $135,300,- 000.

Crude oil—all of it going to the U.S.—was up 8.1 per cent to $131,800,000.

Iron ores and concentrates rose 30 per cent to $130,100,000.

Aircraft and parts were 24¼ times higher at $122,800,000.

Copper and alloys was 17.1 per cent to $95,500,000.

Of the 10 leading export commodities, nickel ores and alloys showed the only drop—down 9.7 per cent to $92,900,000.

Bench Warrant Issued for Banks' Arrest

MONTREAL (CP) — Hal C. Banks did not appear today when his name was called in court where a date was to be set for a preliminary hearing on a charge of conspiring to incite seamen to abandon ship.

Judge Emile Trottier issued a bench warrant for the arrest of Banks and three other men charged in the case who did not turn up.

Ten other men involved in the charge appeared and their preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 14.

Joseph Cohen, lawyer for Banks, said he has heard nothing from the deposed leader of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada Ltd., who has been missing since a bailiff attempted to serve an arrest warrant on him at his home in suburban Pointe Claire a month ago.

A bailiff was on hand before today's hearing to serve the arrest warrant, a civil document on Banks if he had turned up. The warrant would have him serve 30 days in jail on a contempt-of-court charge.

Mr. Cohen told reporters he has "no idea" where Banks is.

Tracking Down Sweaters Sold By Radio Station

TORONTO (CP) — Inspector William McNeely, chief of the RCMP homicide squad in Toronto, said Sunday his men are trying to track down 125 sweaters sold by a Toronto radio station.

The hunt for the sweaters is part of the police investigation of a robbery and murder in suburban Downsview bank July 24.

The sweaters, a promotional stunt by the radio station, were lettered with the words "CKEY Good Guys."

The bandit, who shot and killed John Blake, 56, of Downview and then escaped with more than $25,000 from a branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, was wearing one of the sweaters.

Insp. McNeely said Alberta RCMP have been asked to look for a 24-year-old advertising salesman for a Toronto radio station, wanted by Metropolitan Toronto police for questioning in the case.

Police did not say whether the man sought purchased one of the sweaters but said they were told he left his home for a trip to Western Canada a week before the robbery and murder occurred.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

COURTESY SHOULD EXTEND TO RELATIVES

"Why are relatives so thoughtless about members of their own family? I sometimes wish a few of mine would treat me with the same courtesy they show their friends."

This is a typical lament, and, if you'll turn up the violin music in the background, I'll detail some of the reasons why.

According to mail I receive from readers, many aunts, uncles, cousins, even mothers and fathers, take their relatives for granted. At the drop of a hat, they'll drop in on a relative any hour of the day or night, regardless of whether he or she wants company or can do without it.

Some relatives think nothing of borrowing anything from a cup of sugar to a mink coat and aren't exactly speedy about returning things. About the only thing some are free with is advice, and this they hand out by the carload, especially on the subject of child rearing, housekeeping and household management (meaning budget), the state of your wardrobe and the color of your hair.

Some just can't resist petking into drawers, while others make no secret that your closets could use some straightening — and this proceed to go ahead and do it.

Then there's the instructor type who insists on showing you how walls should be washed (from the bottom up), but does not understand you'd rather do it yourself, when you have more time, instead of ten minutes before company arrives and you're expected.

And, of course, there's always the dear soul who can't resist lifting pot covers to see what's cooking, then adding a pinch of salt (she says) or deciding to make a dish of her own to give dinner a lift. This, of course, she starts concocting just as your dinner is ready, so naturally her dish tastes better. It's fresh-made, while yours has had to sit around an extra hour or two getting toughened up.

So, like the lady says, why not treat your relatives as if they were friends? They might take a hint from your good manners and stop dropping in and butting in on you and your family in return.

Leftover Ham Makes Turnovers

by Mary Moore

We had some leftover cooked ham, as I suspect every Canadian household has at one time or another. By the time I had got it through the grinder I measured almost four cups, not too firmly packed. Quite a bit. I decided to make it count for a guest meal. By the time I was finished with that ham I had 15 gold Ham Turnovers. I was so impressed by my prowess (has modesty ceased to be a virtue, Mary?) that I determined to recommend them to you for a buffet item or for a guest meal when you wanted to prepare in advance.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked stuffed veal (or beef) hearts with brown gravy, new boiled potatoes, fried crumbed eggplant, celery hearts, peach or nectarine shortcake, coffee.

HAM TURNOVERS (15 large individual turnovers):

Filling: 4 cups ground lean ham (cut too tightly packed), ½ Spanish onion (ground with the ham), 1 cup (thick part only) canned tomatoes, 2 tablespoons parsley flakes or chopped parsley, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, 2 teaspoons well-drained prepared horseradish.

Pastry: 4 cups unsifted but stirred all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 1-3 cups shortening, ½ cup butter, 1-3 cup cold water.

To make the Pastry add the salt to the flour, cut in the shortening and butter with pastry blender until size of peas, then drizzle the water over, 1 tablespoon at a time, tossing with a fork, until all flour is slightly dampened. Press into a ball, roll out on lightly floured board to ¼" thickness. You will save yourself trouble if you make this into a straight-sided rectangle for you need 15 5" squares of pastry. I used a ruler to mark these out neatly and then cut them with a sharp knife.

Mix the Filling ingredients together in order given above and drain off and press out any excess liquid which may collect from the tomatoes and horseradish. Put 3 level tablespoons of the Ham Filling on one triangular side of each square of pastry, pushing it with your fingertips into a triangular mound, roughly the shape it will be inside the dough, leaving about ¾" edge bare. Fold over other half of dough to form triangular turnover, seal edges by pressing with fingertips or fork. Make 2 short parallel gashes with sharp knife in top of each turnover. This allows pink ham filling to show through gashes prettily when turnovers are baked. Proceed with filling and shaping remaining turnovers. Place on two ungreased cookie sheets, 1" apart. Glaze by brushing with mixture of 1 egg yolk and 2 tablespoons milk, stirred together. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 25 to 30 minutes, switching pans on shelves at halftime to bake and brown both evenly.

These freeze and reheat well.

LBJ's Wife, Daughters Hot on Campaign Trail

Women's Institutes

UNIONDALE W. I.

The August meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute (Hastings West) was held at Mrs. George Striker's, R.R. 2, Belleville.

Correspondence was read, which consisted of a letter concerning the extension service, which will be "Creative Cookery," and a "Supper Club" for the 4-H Girls, with Mrs. Edith Grills and Mrs. M. Sine as leaders. Creative Cookery will be January 28th.

The C.A.C. bulletin subscription will be renewed and the money for the adopted child will be sent by Mrs. G. Sine.

August 19th will be the fair date for Uniondale to serve home cooked meals. Menus were planned at this meeting.

The convener of the meeting, Mrs. M. Sine had as her topic "Tourist Industry." She gave an interesting paper on promotion of travel, attraction to visitors, how tourists money is spent according to the dollar value, and the building of the Trans-Canada Highway. It is the longest payed highway in the world; it stretches from St. John's, Newfoundland, to Victoria, B.C. This is a great asset to tourists, many hotels, motels and places of interest are along its path. About 90 percent of the travel is by car and if you make this trip you can leave their own province to holiday. Many conventions are held in Eastern Canada, trade shows and association meetings. These are draw on our all-year round recreation facilities and help to keep good business for the produce grown on Canadian farms.

SECOND LARGEST INDUSTRY

Advertising in magazines also helps tourist trade, the provinces spent a million dollars on advertising and large transportation companies spend over four million outside Canada in advertising. The Shakespearian Festival at Stratford, the Vancouver Musical Festival and many others are attractions to Canada. The tourist business is the second largest industry of Canada. The tourist must be 100 percent satisfied to come back again. So the tourist business is everyone's business.

The Trenton Chamber of Commerce is well equipped with pamphlets to help the tourist.

Readings were given by Mrs. Alton Sine, Mrs. Maurice Bird and Mrs. Robert Burkitt.

A "Scavenger Contest" on Mrs. Sine's paper was won by Mrs. G. Burkitt.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's wife and daughters are carrying the LBJ banner across the land while he awaits the formality of nomination this month before hitting the campaign trial himself.

During the weekend, Lady Bird was travelling to Rocky Mountain west to focus attention on conservation and reclamation, and, obviously on the scenery in the White House.

Daughter Lynda Bird, 20, ate ribs at a barbecue Sunday at Henry Ford II's Long Island, N.Y., mansion and got set for more of the same today in Gracie Mansion on the east side of Manhattan. It is the official home of Mayor Robert F. Wagner, New York state's most powerful Democrat.

Daughter Luci Baines, 17, was campaigning a week ago in San Francisco and was in Wisconsin during the weekend for state fair Sunday and a $10-a-person LBJ barbecue Saturday in Milwaukee.

"I've just here to thank people who have been working for someone I'm very fond of" Luci said in Wisconsin.

The president was more to the point Saturday when asked if he was going to campaign, whether he expects his wife to be campaigning this year.

"She is and will be," he said.

Mrs. Johnson, an active campaigner for her husband through his long political career, is on the last leg of a 4,200-mile, four-day swing through territory where sentiment for Senator Barry Goldwater, Republican nominee, is strong.

NUDISTS ANTI-TOPLESS

AURORA, Ont. (CP)—Nudists attending the 10th annual Eastern Canadian Sunbathing Association weekend near this town north of Toronto were asked by a reporter what they think of topless bathing suits for women. "They're obscene," said a blonde nudist. "People like that are trying to be sexy. Total nudity is so natural."

Woman Says Car Racing Is Safe

MONTREAL (CP) — Sports car racer Wendy Keith says racing is safer than ordinary driving.

"Racing is actually very polite driving," said the intrepid 23-year-old Montrealer who says she started racing at her husband's suggestion.

Mrs. Keith was the only woman competing in the family-sedan event at the new Mont Tremblant-St. Jovite race track north of Montreal recently.

Her husband also races, and drove a Lotus Elan at the same meet.

Wendy feels women have only one disadvantage behind the wheel. They aren't as strong as men.

"Otherwise the requirements are the same: A love of driving and speed, good eyesight and good distance judgment, fast reflexes and no panics!"

She says the sport is good for people who are "bored and want a little excitement. After it's all over, you appreciate sitting down quietly."

She's frightened before a race, she admits.

"I'm so nervous I never talk to anyone before a race. But it's a wonderful feeling to know that you're in control and master of the car."

She started a year ago last May and has competed in seven races, winning two novice and one club event.

Wendy says there's no competition between her and her husband because they don't race the same cars.

"Besides, he's beat me if we did. But at least we can talk about something that interests us both."

No Need to Be a Scholar To Be Able to Say No

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a girl, 18, and I hope you will not think I am bragging when I tell you I am beautiful. If God had given me a little less beauty and a few more brains I would be a lot better off.

Since I was 15 I have been out - talked and out - maneuvered by at least a half dozen smoothies. I am truly ashamed of myself.

My first serious boy friend was captain of the debating team and I didn't stand a chance. He was so persuasive, I couldn't think of a single argument for my side.

The second fellow was a science major who kept arguing that in this age of nuclear fission I might be blown to bits before I had a chance to live. You can see, Ann, how this sort of talk could make a girl figure, oh well.

Please give me some good arguments. I am tired of being the loser. — NO MATCH FOR THEM.

* * *

DEAR NO MATCH — Where did you get the idea that you must win a debate in order to hang on to what belongs to you in the first place?

A girl needn't be a trial lawyer or an atomic scientist to say "Look, Buster, I'm not a plaything. The answer is no so save your breath to cool your soup."

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Will you please print this letter to help out all kids whose fathers work in banks?

I am 14 years old and my father is the vice - president of x bank. I'd like to make it plain that my dad doesn't own the bank — he only works there.

The kids at school have the idea that just because my dad works in a bank I am a rich kid. The way they talk you'd think my dad can go into the bank and help himself to money any time he feels like it.

Last week a bunch of us were planning a picnic to pay back the girls who took us to a theatre party in May.

We were short of money and one of the kids said, "Carlton can get it from his old man's bank."

Please, Ann Landers, tell people that bank officers are on a salary just like teachers are and sometimes the salary isn't as big as they think. — NOT RICH.

* * *

DEAR NOT RICH — For all you kids who think people who work in banks can take home samples I'd like to tell you this: If they ever tried it they'd have to answer to the bank examiners who check periodically to make sure bank employees don't get to thinking like the kids at school.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Arnie and I were married four months and we moved to this big city. The thought of a big city frightened me but it was a promotion for Arnie and I knew I had to be brave and help him.

I am terrified when we meet new people. Arnie keeps telling me to relax, but I can't. I'm so afraid of saying the wrong thing and hurting Arnie's chances that I sit like a dunce and don't talk at all.

Whenever we are in a group my heart pounds and I get indigestion. Sometimes I have to go to the ladies room and loosen my clothing. Tell me please how to get confidence in myself. I'm losing weight and not feeling well. — INADEQUATE WIFE.

* * *

DEAR WIFE — See a doctor and get a complete physical check-up. If there is nothing wrong organically with you, you must then accept that fact that you have an emotional problem. The discomfort you describe may well be symptoms of anxiety.

A professional can help you learn what you are afraid of and how to deal with your fear.

* * *

Too many starry - eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 25c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problem. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The first regular meeting of the month was held in the Moose Hall with Senior Regent Nellie Shandraw presiding. Cards of thanks were read from the sick and bereaved.

Brother George Seanes gave a brief talk on the new social evening to commence shortly for members and friends only. The friendship members for 1962-63 were next awarded their official receipts. Those attending to receive them were: Nellie Gorts, Hilda Whitaker, Ida Lake, Alice Newton, Ruby Stapley, Isabel Philips and Olive VanNorman. Following this an important letter from Mooseheart was read announcing the changes in the Grand Officers of the Lodge.
